FIGHTING has begun at Buenos Ayres, South America.

PORTER will drown that mule Landers in November.

BULLION in the Bank of England increased $654,000 last week.

THE Greenbackers have nominated a State ticket in Arkansas.

—Don't forget the Woman's Suffrage Convention at Dowling Hall to-night.

How will "Mule Landers" look alongside of the elegant and patriotic gentleman, Albert G. Porter.

A SIAMSE Foreign Minister arrived in England day before yesterday to conclude commercial relations between Siam and other countries.

UNCLE SAM has tackled the Don about firing upon the fruit steamer, a few days ago. Nothing is yet known in regard to the meeting.

MCKEEN had twelve hours work before the convention; suppose he had had a hundred hours, what havoc he would have made among the old politicians.

RUSSIA is still hammering at the Montenegrin question at Berlin, whilst the other powers are trying to freeze out everything except the Greek question.

FRENCH gun manufacturers are filling orders for the Chinese government. They are getting the best rifles possible, and as fast as they can be manufactured.

THE Chambers of Deputies will be asked for a further grant of 60,000 francs to send engineers at once to Africa in the interest of the Trans-Sahara railroad.

THE nominations yesterday at Indianapolis were in good keeping with the usual sound judgment, and great discussion that for which the Republican leaders are noted.

THE specials from Washington, say that the Republicans are elated over the news of the nomination of Albert J. Porter, and that Indiana will hereafter be a banner Republican state.

REMEMBER the County Convention to-morrow, and stand ready to nominate the best and strongest men. Take the same view in the selection of county officers, that the State convention did, in nominating State officers yesterday. Let all individual preferences be swept away, and stand firm for the success of the ticket. We don't want any skirmishing to-morrow, but we want a fair and square ticket put in the field to win.

THE nomination of Albert G. Porter, yesterday, at Indianapolis, proves beyond a doubt that "bureau" and machine politics have about had their day, and that the country has determined upon a higher, and purer scales of politics, and that no man can, or shall be allowed to run his individual interest antagonistic to the interests of the people at large. The ticket is one of the best ever nominated by a Republican convention in the State.

Mr. Porter is widely known throughout the State, and his moral and business character, is a shining star in the firmament of his private and public life. He is a scholar, orator, statesman, jurist, and a leader among men. His character is spotless, clean, and as "pure as the icicle in Diana's temple hanging."

His only vice, is what the Democracy would call his Republicanism.

He is a native born; an Indian. He knows the wants of our people, is capable of, and will administer them should he be elected in November next, impartially and justly. He knows the people; is one of them, and loves them. He is a Christian and a God-fearing man; therefore reliable and trusty. There is no comparison between Porter and Landers. Porter is the superior in everything, and will receive the support of all good citizens irrespective of party.

THE Republican ticket nominated yesterday, is justly said to be the best ticket that has been placed in the field by any party for years.

The next Governor of Indiana, Albert G. Porter, was born in Kentucky, opposite Lawrenceburg, Indiana, in the year 1826. He was educated at Hannover College, but finished his course at Asbury. He is a lawyer and has been very successful in his profession.

He was elected reporter of the Supreme Court in 1852, which position he held six years. He was elected to Congress in 1858, and re-elected in 1860. In 1877 President Hayes appointed him first comptroller of the treasury, which position he has admirably filled. He is a gentleman of unsullied character, courteous in manner, kind and affectionate, and is a prominent member of the Methodist church. He will at once resign and begin his canvass of the state. We will doubtless get to hear him in a short time.

The nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, Thomas Hanna, of Greencastle, a young man only about thirty-six years old, born and raised on a farm near Greencastle. He was a private during the late war, and after being discharged he went through Asbury University. He is a lawyer, and in 1876 and 1877 was chairman of the county central committee.

He is a gentleman well known for his sterling qualities and genial disposition, and will run far ahead of his ticket.

WOMAN SUFFRAGES.

We are sorry, that a greater number of persons were not present at the Woman's Suffrage Convention last night, and to day, to listen to the addresses of the foremost lady thinkers of the United States.

Miss Susan B. Anthony, and Mrs. Elizabeth Saxon, and there sister co workers surely deserve great credit for their untiring zeal in the cause of universal liberty. We noticed several of our oldest and most prominent citizens in the audience last night, who seemed to be taking great interest in the addresses, but we would like to see many more there to-night. The dawn of civilization is spreading rapidly, and in few years our mothers, wives, and sisters, will be permitted to enjoy the same privilege that we enjoy.

What difference can there be, between the rights of man, and the rights of woman. We are in favor of universal equality, with equal rights before the law, equal protection under the law without any regard to sex, race, creed or previous condition of servitude.

It is pitiful to see a bald head man hunting for the parting on his head while he sings, "There's no place like comb."
—Hawkeye.

Household Hints.

Hiccough in Children.—According to the Lyons Medicine, Dr. Grellery has observed that this complaint in children was immediately stopped by giving them a lump of sugar saturated with table-vinegar. The same remedy was tried on adults, with similar instantaneous success.

To Cure a Cough.—Roast a lemon very carefully without burning it; when it is thoroughly hot, cut and squeeze into a cup upon three ounces of sugar, finely powdered. Take a spoonful whenever your cough troubles you. It is as good as it is agreeable to the taste.

A Good Cure for Colds.—Boil two ounces of flaxseed in one quart of water; strain, and add two ounces of rock candy, one-half pint of honey, juice of three lemons; mix, and let all boil well; let cool, and bottle. Dose, one cupful before bed, one-half cupful before meals. The hotter you drink it, the better.

To Soften Sponges.—A sponge when first purchased is frequently hard, stiff and gritty. To soften it, and dislodge the particles of sea-sand from its crevices, having first soaked and squeezed it through several cold water, put the sponge into a clean tin saucepan, set it over the fire, and boil it a quarter of an hour. Then take it out into a bowl of cold water, and squeeze it well. Wash out the saucepan, and return the sponge to it, filling up with clean, cold water, and boil it another quarter of an hour. Repeat the process, giving it three boils in fresh water, or more than three if you find it still gritty. Take care not to let it boil too long, or it will become tender and drop to pieces.

THE following is the platform adopted by the Republicans:

The Republicans of Indiana in convention assembled reaffirm the truth of the declaration made, and fully endorse the resolution adopted by the National Convention assembled at Chicago, on the 2d of June 1880.

In the nominee of the Chicago Convention we recognize a representative man of the Republican party and a statesman who may well be intrusted with the administration of our National Government, and we heartily commend him to the support of the people.

Resolved, That as an inflexible principle of personal liberty we maintain the right of locomotion, including the right of foreigners to emigrate hither and become American citizens, and the right of native born citizens to immigrate from one State to another without vexatious investigations as to their motive for so doing.

Resolved, That we favor such state legislation as will protect the people from imposition by the procurement of promissory notes payable in bank, without, however, impairing the validity of commercial credits.

Resolved, That we congratulate the people of Indiana upon the adoption of the Constitutional amendments recently submitted, under which by wise legislation, the purity of the ballot box may be secured, economy in the government attained, the speedy administration of justice provided for, and extravagant municipal taxation prevented, and we point to the open hostility of the leaders of the Democratic party to these salutary provisions as evidence of insincerity of their professions, and their unfitness to administer the state government, recognizing at the same time the patriotism and independence of the large mass of the Democratic party, who gave those amendments their support.

Resolved, That we reaffirm our devotion to the system of free common, unsectarian schools, as the source of popular intelligence, and indispensable to the perpetuity of free government.

Resolved, That the gratitude of the country to the brave men who perished their lives in the service of the Union, is a perpetual debt which must never be forgotten, and the duty of Congress to embody this sentiment in the form of laws for their substantial benefit is imperative.

Resolved, That we favor all proper measures tending to devour the great agricultural and mineral resources of our State, and especially such wise and wholesome laws as will insure the comfort and safety of those engaged in the dangerous work of mining; and recognizing existing defects in our laws, we favor such further legislation as will secure to all laborers a speedy and effectual enforcement of their rights as against all corporations and individuals.

The Clandestine Trade in Dynamite in Switzerland.

Three years ago there existed a clandestine dynamite factory at Satigny, close to the French frontier. The business was carried on in some large, old-fashioned, strongly built farm buildings, and the dynamite was smuggled into France. There being an excise duty in that country of 3f. 5c. per kilogramme on all the dynamite produced, the trade, as long as it lasted, was an extremely profitable one, and as the people in the neighborhood were all allowed to participate in the benefit derived from it the secret was well kept. Even the officers of the Commune said nothing. One day, however, a frightful explosion occurred; hardly one stone of the farm buildings was left standing on another; three men, one hundred cows, many sheep and several horses were killed, and the proprietor of the establishment disappeared. At this juncture the police requested the help of Colonel Pictet, who is both an engineer and an acknowledged authority on all matters relating to dynamite. He recommended great caution in approaching the scene of the disaster, as it was by no means certain that all the dynamite had exploded. Some of it might be buried beneath the debris. At his suggestion the Government undertook the work of searching the ruins, intrusting to him the dangerous duty of superintendence. In fact five large cases of dynamite were found intact and carefully removed. Then arose a question as to how they were to be disposed of, and on the advice of Colonel Pictet, they were carried into the open fields and blown up, advantage being taken of the opportunity to try several interesting experiments. For instance, one case was surrounded by a huge fire, and, though it did not explode, was quite consumed. Among the absconding proprietor's papers was found a document from which it appeared that some time previously he had sent ten cases, each containing 1000 kilograms of dynamite, to the Geneva railway station as artificial manure. The risk of storing such an enormous quantity of so dangerous a material in the midst of a large population was frightful and Colonel Pictet went immediately to see whether it was still there. It had been sent to Morges, in Canton Vaud. Morges was at once surprised by telegraph of the nature of the consignment. It had been Pontarlier, after remaining six weeks in the station at Morges, and a telegram was sent to Pontarlier. Pontarlier replied that the ten cases had gone on to Verrieres. Verrieres was forthwith communicated with. The dynamite was then in the hands of the Custom House officers, who, even before the arrival of the despatch from Geneva had begun to suspect the presence of something other than artificial manure. It was of course, immediately confiscated, and the circumstances being so entirely unprecedented instructions were asked from headquarters. The Government sent experts down from Paris to look into the matter and to decide how the dynamite should be dealt with. Instead of adopting the course followed by Colonel Pictet and destroying it, they ordered it to be taken to Lormont, a small fort in the Jure and placed in the magazine there. A short time afterwards the fort of Lormont was blown into the air, and none of twelve men who constituted its garrison has ever been seen since. —Geneva Correspondence Mondan Times.

Styx, in the Greek mythology, was a river of Hades which flowed nine times around the lower world. Lost souls passed over this river to emerge in the kingdom of darkness, and the nymph of the Styx, by whom the most solemn oaths of the gods were sworn, dwelt at the gate of Hades. The highest waterfall in Greece, whose waters are still believed to be poisonous, was called the Styx, and the ancients associated this fall with the mysterious river which encircled the lower world.

DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC

W. P. HILL, Crockett Station, Tenn., writes: "DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC has done wonders here. A lady who had been doctored nearly to death for several years, has been cured of Debility and General Prostration by the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, which raised her from her bed."
Dr. Harter:—Our country has requested us to tender you his grateful acknowledgments for the great benefit his wife received from the use of your IRON TONIC. He tells us that, after having paid three or four hundred dollars doctors' bills, two bottles of your IRON TONIC did her more good than all other medicines she ever used. She was troubled with Derangement of the Liver, &c., from which she is much relieved.
