THE NEWS HAS THE LARGEST
DAILY CIRCULATION IN THE CITY.

VOTE for Garfield.

VOTE the Republican ticket.

HANCOCK and starvation.

FREE trade and brown bread.

HANCOCK and the Solid South.

LET the "boys" be on the quiet.

GARFIELD and good government.

THE Democratic party is a free trade party.

THIS time "Truth" crushed to earth will not rise again.

HANCOCK and English are not a good pair to draw to.

WHAT is the condition of the laboring men in Ireland.

DO you want another war, if so, vote with the solid south.

WAR is poudous murder, don't vote
with the solid south.

THE Republican party has always stood by the laboring men.

THE Republican party has preserved the credit of the nation.

THE Democratic party has clamored for office for twenty years.

IF Hancock is elected the rolling mills will have to shut down.

IRON workers cannot afford to vote for Hancock and free trade.

PROSPERITY can only be maintained by protection to American labor.

HANCOCK is a big man, he weighs 250 pounds.—New York Sun.

WILL you vote for Bill English the rob ber of widows and orphans.

THE worst Bill the Democratic party have to meet, is Bill English.

WHEN you go to the polls to-morrow, see that your tickets are correct.

PROSPERITY is the result of legislation protecting American workmen.

VOTE with a party that is in favor of an advantage to American labor.

IT is not time to burn the blue and gray on the altar erected by the solid south.

WHAT benefits would occur to working men by a change to Democratic power.

IT is soon enough to destroy the lines when the solid south admits she was wrong.

HANCOCK thinks the tariff question is a local issue. What do laboring men think about it.

THE Democratic office-seekers wish to rob the laboringmen by getting control of the offices.

COULD there be any legislation that would bring better times than workingmen now enjoy.

THE Democratic party cares nothing for the prosperity of the workingmen. It is hungry for office.

THERE is but one way to continue the present prosperity, and that is by voting the republican ticket.

LET all good citizens come out in full force to-morrow and see that a free ballot and a fair count is had.

THE Southerners, maddened by the October defeat, have only refused by force, to allow a single Republican to speak in that section. That's all.

A PURE BALLOT.

To-morrow the people of the United States will go to the polls and cast their ballots signifying their choice of a citizen to serve them as President of the United States. In order that this man may be elected by the people it is necessary that every avenue of fraud leading towards the polls should be guarded. The Democratic party for years has shown its position towards a pure ballot box by ever loudly clamoring for the purity of the ballot box, and corrupting the same whenever the opportunity presented itself.
The people of this country have not forgotten the days of Tweed and Tilden in New York, nor the action of their party throughout the solid South.

In 1872 Mississippi cast 80,000 Republican and 40,000 Democratic votes, a Republican majority of 40,000. In 1878 there were 2,000 Republicans and 35,000 Democratic votes cast. Now, what has become of the 18,000 Republicans who were at the polls in 1872? The only explanation that is given is that by fraud, murder and a wholesale system of bulldozing these men did not go to the polls.

And precisely what happened in Mississippi was repeated by every one of the Southern States under Democratic domination. More than 400,000 ballots that ought to be free have been excluded from the ballot boxes of the eleven Confederate States by the Democratic party in those States.
And yet this is the party which solemnly professes to be in favor of the "right of a free ballot."

But the methods which have corrupted the elections at the South are not discarded by the same party at the North. Tomorrow will be last and final day of the contest for four years, and it is the duty of every citizen to see that purity of the ballot box is maintained.

The Republican business men of New York City held a meeting on Wall street, Friday afternoon which is said to have been the largest of the kind ever held in the city. A dispatch says:

"Hundreds of prominent firms closed their stores in order to be represented in the parade. Large delegations from the Produce Exchange, dry goods and other trades marched to Wall street with bands of music. These sights are unprecedented in New York. The meeting was remarkable, also, for the character of the men who composed it. Long before the hour fixed for opening the exercises men began to gather in the streets, intent upon securing good positions. When the hour came the streets were packed full.
Wall street was one mass of struggling men from New street nearly to William street and Broad street was filled to below the Stock Exchange building.
Every point of vantage had been seized; steps of the nearest buildings were filled, and even the roofs bore numbers of eager listeners, while a pile of building material on Board street, designed for the new front of the stock Exchange, was covered completely. The board steps of the Sub-Treasury building were black with the dense throng which occupied them, and even in the middle of the street men were unable to raise their hands to applaud, and were forced to vent their enthusiasm by cheers."

The great concourse of people was addressed by Col. R. G. Ingersoll, whose eloquence fairly carried the audience away with enthusiasm.

THE FUN AT SULLIVAN.

After Col. Nelson had concluded his very able address at Sullivan on last Saturday, the Democratic part of his audience thought to honor him with a strawberry festival in the nature of about twenty real old Kentucky fights of that class which afforded our gallant Colonel so much diversion years ago.

Jim Patton seemed to be the leading spirit and as an eye witness says "he was a splendid striker; as cool as an icicle on the rocks of Greenland." John Briggs indicated in a few promiscuous strikes but couldn't get in his work so artistically as Jim Patton. Our informer says that it seemed that every man was looking for a smaller man to knock down, and everything was in a state of the utmost tumult until a beautiful young lady with sunny curls lapping the aroma of the pure Democratic atmosphere, rushed forward as the Joan of Arc and screamed madly for Garfield.

To-morrow being all-souls-day, "we would admonish our good catholics to hallow the day, and memorize and solemn-ize it by supplicating for the souls of the faithful dead. A vote for the cause for which the faithful dead gave up their lives, will do it.

EVERY voter should look well to his ticket and be careful that the names of the electors correspond with those as the Republican electors, given in this paper in another place, and that the names are spelled correctly.

The Gazette is vile and low enough to act as the counterfeiter's "shover," in the forged letter matter, and it may not be that it is punishable under the law, but the dirty sheet should be made to feel the weight of public opinion.

DO Union Soldiers want the graves of their dead comrades on southern battle fields robbed by the Jackals of the solid south.

SKILLED mechanics are the hope and salvation of our country. Hancock and free will bring them to starvation.

If Hancock is elected the workingmen of this country will soon be in the condition of the laboring men of Ireland.

HEREAFTER newspapers will go to Great Britain by mail for one cent each, instead of two cents as formerly.

GARFIELD and Arthur are the candidates of a party in favor of a legislation protecting American labor.

what ought not to be done, do not even think of doing.

A man who don't know anything will lose it the first chance he gets.

While learning adorns a man, let us remember that truth ennobles him.

A man's own good breeding is the best security against other people's ill manners.

Blessings on the head of him or her who laughs the blues out of a weary heart.

Virtue requires no other recompense than the tribute of self-approbation and respect.

He that does a base thing in zeal for his friend burns the golden thread that ties their hearts together.

The wealthy miser lives as a poor man here; but he must give account as a rich man in the day of judgment.

Style is only the frame to hold our thoughts. It is like the sash of a window —a heavy sash will obscure the light.

The reputation of a man is like his shadow—gigantic when it precedes, and pigm in its proportions when it follows.

Heaven's gates are wide enough to admit every sinner in the universe who is penitent, but too narrow to admit a single sinner.

No man, for any considerable period, can wear one face to himself and another to the multitude without finally getting bewildered as to which may be true.

It is true in matter of estate, as of our garments, not that which is largest, but that which fits us best, is best for us. Be content with such things as ye have.

The happiness of your life depends upon the quality of your thoughts; therefore guard accordingly, and take care that you entertain no notions unsuited to virtue and unreasonable to nature.

The art of putting things was well illustrated by Dr. Ganse, of St. Louis, when he said to the workmen, in speaking of the value of Sunday to them as a rest-day, "Don't girdle the tree that shades you."

The river Jordan is no the only pleasant water that empties itself into a Dead Sea. Some of the "sweetest currents" of our lives are fated to end there. Let us look to it that we are not borne thither on their limpid bosom!

How many men, in talking to those they wish to please, sweeten their voices as if it were brown sugar. A man's voice, like a man, should be gentle, but still manly.
Nothing is pleasanter than a thoroughly unaffected yet well-modulated tone.

There are a great many men born in the world who imagine that they were born with genius, and lie down on the sofa and wait for an inspiration until some other fellow, who thought himself a dunce, rises by hard labor to a competency, buys the sofa, and leads the waiting genius out by the ear. This is not a killa nothing.

The true grace of silence springs from a renewed heart and a disciplined mind.
To cultivate it effectually we must forget ourselves; forget our pride and sensitiveness; forget as soon as spoken the sounding or the cruel words we cannot always escape, and remember only the example our Lord has left us, of patient, uncomplaining silence in the very presence of fiercest calumny and rage.

An intelligent man in Bruce, Ontario, went to shoot crows and placed his left hand over the muzzle of his gun so as to keep the crows from smelling the powder till the last moment. He has more sense now, but less hands.

Doctor X. is a man of superior ability and a poor shot. But every year he takes his vacation, and tramps over hill and dale with his gun on his shoulder.
One of his professional friends says it is the only season of the year when he kills nothing.

"What is this?" said a fond mother in Kentucky to her four-year-old son, with whose wisdom she was desirous of charming the company assembled at dinner, as she pointed to a nicely browned sucking pig. "A bow-wow-wow, ma," replied the dear child.

The champion nose lives at Sacramento.
Its owner was at breakfast when a friend seated on the opposite side of the table, knowing him to be a little near-sighted, remarked, "There's a fly on the end of your nose." "Is there?" responded the owner of the horn of plenty. "I didn't know it. Just please scare him off; you're nearer to him than I am."

The five year old son of a family the other day stood watching his baby brother, who was making a great noise over having his face washed. The little fellow at length lost his patience, and stamping his tiny foot, said, "You think you have lots of trouble, but you don't know anything about it. Wait till you're big enough to get a lickin', and then you'll see—won't he, mamma?"

"What's the woman charged with?" said the court. "She's a dead-beat and vagrant, your honor," said the officer who arrested her. Then the woman spoke up and said: "If I can prove that I'm all right, will you honor let me go?"

"Then," said the prisoner, "here's the family bible, by which you'll see that I'm Moll Wright." "Saw my leg off," shouted the officer, who saw the point.
"If she hasn't beat the court, too." And the court rubbed its nose with its forefinger, and gently murmured: "Discharge the prisoner."

A SIMPLE INSECTICIDE.—Hot alum water is the best insect destroyer known. Put the alum into hot water and let it boil till it is all dissolved; then apply the solution hot with a brush to all cracks, closets, bedsteads, and other places, where any insects are found. Ants, bedbugs, cockroaches and creeping things are killed by it; while it has no danger of poisoning the family or injuring the property.

Pleasure is to man what the sun is to the flower; if moderately enjoyed it beautifies, it refreshes and it improves; if immoderately, it withers, desolates and destroys.

Habitual Goutiness.—is the bane of nearly every American woman. From this usually arises those disorders that so surely undermine their health and strength. Every woman owes it to herself and to her family to use that celebrated medicine, Kidney-Wort. It is the sure remedy for constipation, and for all disorders of the kidneys and liver.

TRY it now!
Buy it at the druggist. Price, $1.00.

Liquid.

In response to the urgent requests of great numbers of people who prefer to purchase a Kidney-Wort already prepared, the proprietors of this celebrated remedy now prepare it in liquid form as well as dry. It is very convenient, to get up in large bottles, and is equally efficient as that put up dry in its cans. It comes ready to use, always in always ready, and is more easily taken by most people. Price, $1 per bottle.
