

MEN'S SUITS AND OVERCOATS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 11.—Indications for Indiana Rain, preceded by fair and followed by snow in northern Illinois. No decided change in temperature, followed Tuesday by much colder, easterly winds, becoming variable.

PIXLEY & CO.

A SURE TIP!

Not on election, for we leave that delectable mission in the hands of the political "I tell you so" man. Our object is to give you a valuable pointer on how to Make 25 per cent in cash, by buying clothing direct from the manufacturers. PIXLEY & CO.'S the people's place to buy Clothing, Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods, at prices that can not be matched by the ordinary retail clothiers.

WHY BE PERSUADED

into paying your merchant tailor $10 to $25 more for a suit, or overcoat than is necessary. We don't blow our horn, but place at the head of the procession our unalterable, earnest, truth-telling motto: "Best Clothing at lowest prices." Goods and Prices talk for themselves. Call early in the day, as we will be able to wait on you with more promptness before the crowds are in.

PIXLEY & CO.

CLOTHING, ETC.

A Spell of Trade.

Flighty and sprightly as the weather was Saturday we had a busy day. We have a money saving plan. That's at the back of your confidence and our steady growing business.

THE RUSH WILL CONTINUE

This week at the lowest priced clothing house in the city. Our terrific slaughter of men's suits and overcoats has demoralized the clothing trade.

A Three Days' Sale.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday we will offer the greatest bargains ever named in Terre Haute. Those who can be advised to come in to-day—and during the forenoon where it is possible—for first choice of our elegant

SUITS AND OVERCOATS

At our big slaughter price is a rare opportunity that all should embrace. This sale will be a regular screamer, for we've split the price wide open.

COME! EVERYBODY COME!

Who wants a fine suit or overcoat at a big money saving price. There never was and never will be finer suits and overcoats sold for the money.

This sale will extend through our boys' and children's departments. A few moments' visit to our store will convince you. Come and see. Some rare bargains in workmen's clothing. Bargains for everybody. All goods marked in plain figures and sold only at one price.

This is strictly a cash sale. Not a garment will be charged to any one.

Frank Ellensworth, of the Adams Express Co., Sundayed in Worthington yesterday at his home.

W. T. Leggett has been confined to his home for the past week with fever but hopes to be out to-day.

John Cook and wife, of north Eighth street will attend the wedding of Miss Mayne Seybold, of Greencastle, tomorrow.

M. Shockey, of Mt. Ore, O., is in the city visiting his relative, Mr. T. M. Vance, of north Center street. Mr. Shockey will leave Wednesday for home.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

The Oratorio Society holds its first meeting of 1890 in the Normal school building this evening. The study of the Messiah will be taken up first.

County Treasurer Conzman has paid the interest on Series C of the county bonds. The principal of these bonds was $120,000, and the interest $3,007.50.

C. R. Peddle read a paper on labor-saving machines. Professor J. K. Bukowicz played an instrumental solo and Miss Bukowicz sang a solo at the regular monthly meeting of city teachers held Saturday.

Agricultural Society.

The Vigo Agricultural Society held its annual meeting at the Court House Saturday afternoon. G. A. Schaaf, U. R. Jeffers, H. D. Roquet, F. McKeen, John Clift and W. R. Hunter were elected to serve as directors for two years. W. T. Beauchamp was elected to fill the unexpired term of the late James Bailey. One hundred and two shares of stock were voted. The board of directors will meet the first Friday in December for organization. Secretary Oakey's report showed the total amount paid for premiums at the last fair to be $4,550.15. Treasurer Schaaf's report showed the total disbursements for the year ending November 9, 1889, to be $10,516.79.

The Oil Wells.

The Rose Oil and Gas Company has decided to lease more land at Staunton for the purpose of sinking another oil well and has appointed Geo. W. Davis and Squire C. W. Bailey, of Staunton, to secure the leases. The capital stock of the company will be increased and the derricks over the present well will be purchased. The work of drilling will begin next week. The 350 feet of pipe which was put into Guaranty well No. 2 one day last week failed to cut out the cave in. The hole will now be cased down to lime stone to prevent further trouble of this nature.

Obituary.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mrs. Daniel Slusser, of south Second street, died of typhoid fever. Her husband has been very ill with the same disease for some time and was yesterday carried to his wife's bedside to be with her when she died. Mrs. Slusser leaves two children, one 2 years of age and the other only 8 months old. Mr. Slusser will probably recover. Mrs. Slusser's sister, Miss McConaha, was made seriously ill by the former's death and her condition is considered critical.

A New Dynamo.

The Kester Electric Company has constructed a thirty-light dynamo for the Terre Haute Electric Light and Power Company which has been placed in position at the central station and which will be tested on one of the city circuits this week. The machine is labeled 110 volts, amper. 200, speed 1,000. The dynamo is the invention of Mr. Kester and he is sanguine of accomplishing the very best results.

Died From Exposure.

Wm. Cline, aged 29 years, a Mississippi and worthless man, was found dead in the loft of a stable in the rear of Ben Volker's place at the corner of First and Wilson streets, yesterday morning. He had been accustomed to sleep in the loft where his body was discovered and to exposure subsequent to a long spree was due his death.

No Danger.

St. Louis has just had an earthquake and New York is about to have another. At any rate a paper of this city advises the millionaires "to put their names down for a subscription for the world's fair with a force that will startle the community."—Chicago Herald.

The proposal to erect a memorial to Wilkie Collins in Westminster or St. Paul's meets with opposition from the friends of the late novelist. Wilkie Collins had a great prejudice against the prevalent fashion of raising such memorials to public men.

Building Permits.

The Citizens Fuel Gas Co. have been granted a permit to build a one-story brick machinery room on out-lot 19, the same to cost $1,500.

Bound to Resign.

PARIS, November 11.—[Special.]—Admiral Krantz insists on his resignation as minister of marine and Admiral Barbey will be his successor.

AS MYSTERIOUS AS EVER.

taining a long account of Crews' death and I saw that I was suspected of killing him. I went down to the depot to look for Hardwick to give myself up and get a trial as soon as possible. There was another policeman there but I could not see Hardwick. I asked the policeman where Hardwick was and after telling me he asked me if my name wasn't Sugrue. I told him it was and he placed me under arrest.

Such is substantially Sugrue's statement. When questioned a second time he said that the man minor points he stated them differently and involved himself in a number of contradictions, yet his story in the main was the same all the way through. He explained the fact of having Crews' watch on his person by saying that before he left the caboose Friday night Crews, having handed him the watch, told him to put it in his pocket, get out of town and wait two months for word as to what he should do with the time-piece. If Sugrue did not hear from Crews at the expiration of that time, it was the latter's instructions for the former to turn the watch over to a younger brother of his own. Sugrue accounts for having avoided his boarding house after Friday evening at supper by the assertion that he feared to go near the place lest he be nipped by the authorities for suspected implication in the stealing of Crews' watch. When the coroner's investigation was over Sugrue was returned to the jail to await further developments in the case.

W. C. Vawter and Jerry Connors, both Vandalia brakemen who were well acquainted with Frank Crews, were also examined by the coroner Friday night. They testified to having seen the deceased last at Eckerman's saloon and said that he left that place at 8:30 o'clock Friday night with the statement that he was going to his caboose to go to bed. Both these men stated that they detected nothing unusual in the manner of Crews' last night, that he seemed in first-class spirits; and that all his actions indicated that he was far from brooding over any such desperate work as the commission of suicide.

Mrs. Almy, the lady who keeps the boarding house where Crews and Sugrue lived, said that both the men always conducted themselves in a genteel manner and were considered by her perfect gentlemen. She said that Crews was by no means a man with a tendency toward melancholy reflection; that he was talkative in any other than a jocular and self-attending manner. She said that Crews last time at 7 o'clock Friday evening, when he conversed with her in a happy strain, and alluded to what he expected to do in the near future. She spoke of Sugrue as a reticent individual, very quiet and distant. She corroborated Sugrue's testimony that he, the officer, to her boarding house last Friday night when he called up one of the inmates and stated that he had received intelligence of the illness of his folks and intended to depart for home immediately.

Kate Collinbaugh and Jessie Wildermood, the women who reside at 1138 Wabash avenue, testify that Crews and Sugrue were in their house the last time on Thursday night prior to Crews' death. They say that Crews and Sugrue were in the room from which the watch was stolen, alone, and that Sugrue left the room several minutes before Crews did. Jessie Wildermood testified that Crews had access to all drawers and all parts of the house as much as if it had been his home, and therefore had a good chance to steal the watch; yet she did not believe he was guilty. She was of the opinion that Sugrue took the watch. The Collinbaugh woman adhered to her first expression as to Crews being in her judgment the man who committed the theft.

The coroner has not as yet taken the deposition of McClure the brakeman, whom Night Caller Turner summoned into the caboose when he discovered that Crews was dead. As soon as this man comes in off of the road his testimony will be secured.

This morning Mr. Dwyer, upon the direction of Coroner Hyde, was sent to Indianapolis to investigate as to where Crews procured his silver watch and under what conditions. Dwyer will also ascertain if possible whether Crews or anybody else disposed of a watch in Indianapolis answering the description given of the gold-filled time-piece stolen from Kate Collinbaugh. A detective was also detailed to visit Brazil and find out whether or not Sugrue had been there at the time stated he was there; and, if so, what he did while in that city.

Upon the reports of these two men, according to the status of things, seems to rest the destiny of Mr. Michael Sugrue.

KING'S DAUGHTERS DISGRUNTLED.

A Published Card Stirrs up the Princesses.

CHARLESTON, S. C., November 11.—[Special.]—There is trouble in the order of King's Daughters here. The Royal Chapter, which is composed of delegates from various circles in the State, met here yesterday and was slimly attended. The small attendance was attributed to the publication in a newspaper of a card supposed to have been written by a prominent member, in which the writer urged the King's Daughters to get up a petition to Queen Victoria for the pardon of Mrs. Maybrick. They said the publication of this letter kept many delegates from the meeting. The matter was not formally discussed, but the ladies who were present were enraged at the publication.
