The Saturday Circle will meet to-morrow afternoon with Mrs. Chas. Brokaw, northwest corner of Center and Oak streets. The present work of the circle is the study of Macaulay, his biography, histories, critical and miscellaneous essays, and poems. The committee has so arranged the work that the participation in each meeting is general. This insures preparation by all. A sort of after-piece to the regular subject is added. Usually this is one of general or current interest. The one for to-morrow is Alaska, its purchase, location, resources, etc.

Miss Ball, recently of the revenue office, is not enamored of domestic life. One day spent in dusting and sewing for self, without pay, she finds less fascinating than occupying an equal space of time writing and figuring for Uncle Sam, with $2.86 and a fraction for remuneration. It is ever thus. The candle was a satisfactory illuminant until we turned on the gas. It is reported that already Miss Ball has cast her eye in the direction of the State Normal and would willingly accept the librarianship there should the present incumbent embark in the good ship Matrimony, of which occurrence there is some likelihood.

The progressive euchre clubs of last season have been reorganized. Many of the more elderly ladies discontinued their membership. The two most prominent clubs are designated as those of the north and south end. We might suggest to the ladies that this arrangement is most misleading and without significance as the appended list of their respective membership will show.

North End Club: Mrs. Farrington, Mrs. Ed Gilbert, Miss Wood, Miss Jams, Mrs. C. R. Peddie, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. A. G. Blake, Mrs. Will Arnold, Mrs. Bindley, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Boudinot, Mrs. Penbridge, Mrs. Gould, Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Ames, Mrs. Waldo.

South End Club: Mrs. Ames, Mrs. Horace Smith, Mrs. McGregor, Mrs. Jencks, Mrs. Deming, Mrs. Jams, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. Tull, Miss Tull, Mrs. Farrington, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Somes, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. McKee.

The South End Club will meet next Tuesday with Mrs. Horace Smith, on south Sixth.

About 200 people for an admittance fee of 20 cents enjoyed the "chocolate" at the Congregational Church parlors last evening, despite the moist atmosphere and rain. Young folks were in the majority. They contributed delightfully to the entertainment of guests by music and recitation. Little Miss Clemens showed especial training and was very happy in her selections. Miss Fannie Carleton sang with Mr. Katzenbach and was highly praised. Her enunciation of words is clear and distinct, with no apparent sacrifice of sound. Many listeners would have been gratified to have heard her in solo. Miss Graham, a young lady guest of Mrs. Allyn Adams, sang with a piquant and pleasing manner. But to all were impatient to solve the mystery continually hinted at. They had come to a "chocolate" and soon discovered that the spelling was purposely deceiving; it was to be a "tear" (and in a church too, just think of it). A peep at the table disclosed the fact that they were daintily set; white and chocolate being exclusively the color tone of decoration. Each guest was requested to reserve his seat by standing behind it, and at an announcement from Dr. Elder to turn their plates and "tear" what they found underneath them. Quite a joyous, merry laugh followed, as the bits of cambric chocolate colored, already snipped by the scissors, were torn in shreds, and the company sat down to refreshments of vanilla and chocolate ice creams, snowy cakes laid in chocolate, and cups steaming and creamy with chocolate for drinking.

Hunters Returned.

Sheriff Weeks, Den and Dr. Stunkard and Jim Bell have returned from their quail hunt on Den Stunkard's farm near Clay City. Mr. Bell killed forty-three quails, the sheriff thirty-three and the other gentlemen quite a number. His friends say that Mr. Bell killed the largest number of birds, owing to the fact that he had the best dog.

"We are the people," quoth Brazil. Brazil goes the cry from group to group. Imperial Pedro stepped down and out. And slinked in the soup. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

A prominent court house employee has a pocket knife with a history. He has carried it since the campaign which resulted in Grover Cleveland's election to the presidency of the United States, and it came into his possession in the following manner: He served on the board during the election of 1884 and at that time owned a small pen-knife of greater or less value. While working he kept his knife lying on the desk near at hand, and some person managed to carry it away. The court house man never learned who took his knife, but one day some time later he was passing along Main street when a hand was merchant called him into the store.

"I have a knife here for you," said the merchant.

"A knife?"

"Yes."

"I don't understand—"

"Neither do I. Allow simply came in, picked out this pearl-handled pen-knife, paid me for it, said I should give it to you and departed without explanation."

The Court House gentleman, very much mystified, put the knife in his jeans and went on his way. That is the one he possesses to this day, yet he has never discovered who to thank for it. He has a lingering notion, however, that the gift came from the man who pocketed the knife which he used while serving on the election board.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

The College Journal, a paper issued monthly by the Commercial College, is out. It is quite a neat and pretty sheet.

John Watson has purchased the plating plant of Max. Blumberg, and will remove it to D. W. Watson & Son's establishment on Main street.

There will be a musical entertainment at Central Presbyterian Church this evening, concluding with a beautiful sleigh ride symphony. After the musical program refreshments will be served. Admission 10 cents.

Numerous requests have been made of Prof. Bukowitz to repeat his opera, Pauline, the Belle of Saratoga, for some benevolent institution. He is considering several of these, among them one from the Society of Organized Charity.

Bank Closes Its Doors.

PITTSBURG, Pa., November 22.—The Lawrence Bank, which closed yesterday, was organized in 1896 with a capital stock of $80,000, and was supposed to be one of the most solid in this city. All of its officials and directors are men of large wealth. Carnegie & Co. were the largest depositors. The principal business of this bank was, however, with small depositors. The failure caused much surprise in financial circles. The opinion prevails that the embarrassment is but temporary.

Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Harrison, of North Fourth street, was calling on Mrs. Harrison the other day. They discussed the kitchen and the inconveniences which exist, agreeing that some systematic arrangement should be made to lessen the annoyances.

"By the way," said Mrs. Mitchell, have you seen the new kitchen cabinet?"

"I have not," replied Mrs. Harrison.

"Well, it is arranged with several large shelves on top, with a door which opens easily. Beneath is a catch, which when you unfasten permits a leaf to fall forward and is supported by legs, this making a table. The table is provided with a floor chest, spice boxes, boxes for knives and forks, a bread board which pulls out and other conveniences. The bottom of the cabinet is provided with several drawers which can be used for any purpose desired. I tell you, Mrs. Harrison, it is the finest and best article of kitchen furniture I ever saw. It occupies very little space and you have everything handy."

"Where can the cabinet be procured?"

"Why, at Wood & Wright's, 23 and 25 South Fourth street. They have everything in the house furnishing line. It is a treat to go through their mammoth store."
