

INDIANAPOLIS DAILY SENTINEL.

VOLUME XVII.

INDIANAPOLIS, SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 7, 1869.

NUMBER 6150

TELEGRAPHIC REPORTS

NEW YORK.

President's Party-Spanish Minister and Spanish Ambassadors.

CINCINNATI.

To-Title Manuscript Exposition - Premium Award - Etc.

CINCINNATI, August 6.

At the Toxile Fabric Exposition there have been one hundred and sixty-five exhibitors personally present, distributed over the Union grounds, at the Red Stockings over the Forest City of Cleveand, by a score of forty-three to twenty-seven.

The store of Samuel C. Anderson, at Reed's Ferry, New Hampshire, was entered, last night, the safe moved three feet, shot into a cellar, and the safe and its contents were lost.

Richard Stevens & B. Barker, two seamen on the steamship City of Limerick, at New York, had a terrible fight on that vessel Thursday evening, ending by Barker shooting Brown overboard. He was drowned. Barker has been arrested.

John H. Pratt, the ring leader of the Jefferson Tontine, was arrested yesterday by a detective from the headquarters of General Reynolds, who has been on his track since April last. He was committed to the Louistown jail.

The Newark, New Jersey, Courier says, Moses Mayhew, a Jewish dry goods dealer, has sold his business for $100,000 to Chicago. His store was seized by the sheriff, because his creditors had previously taken the larger portion of his stock.

The professors of Hanover College, at Madison, in connection with Oliver Moliney, an amateur astronomer of that city, have made an extensive examination for a scientific view of the eclipses to-day. A little later it will be placed on one of the high bluffs near the college building, from which a fine view can be had.

George B. and James Addison surrendered themselves to the authorities, yesterday, for the shooting of Charles and J. D. Cresswell, in Edgewood, South Carolina. Thursday, Charles Cresswell is dead, and J. D. Cresswell, who is charged with killing Charles, is still at large.

Returns are still massed from Alabama, but enough is known to render it certain that Beckley and Hays, Republicans, are elected in the Second and Fourth districts, and Dox and Sherman, Democrats, in the fifth and Sixth Districts. Returns from the First District are too indecisive to pronounce certainly as to the result, but it is safe to say that it will be elected. The Third District is very close, and 100 votes will probably decide the contest.

The anti-coal monopoly organization of Buffalo, New York held another meeting yesterday, and a committee was appointed to arrange for an immediate supply of coal, and to procure a charter of incorporation. Coal and timber elections were passed recommending the abolition of the tax on coal, and instructing their Representative in Congress to use his utmost endeavor to procure such abolishment, and to demand the coal monopoly.

William K. Lamphier, stencil cutter, residing at No. 67 Seneca street, Cleveland, suspecting untruths in the stories of his wife's removal, and George Stevens & Co., who resided in the same house, went to work early yesterday morning, and, on returning home, found Stanny in his wife. He struck both with a knife, and left a severe wound in his wife's abdomen, which will probably prove fatal, and severely wounding Stanny in the shoulder. Lamphier was arrested.

The Eclipse.

Wednesday, within the line of choice necessarily, of the sun next Saturday afternoon, will witness a phenomenon not to be seen again during the current century. The sun will be moving northwardly till it crosses a line to the south of Bering's Straights, and turning southerly, after traversing the Atlantic Ocean, will be in the vicinity of North America, is dissipated in the Atlantic Ocean beyond the North Carolina coast. It is the passing of the moon in her approach to the sun that causes this occasion, the necessity for the following of this particular track across the continent; while it is the time commanded by her to pass through the sun that causes the course, which limits the career of the eclipse to a length of a little more than sixty-six hundred miles. The width of the track is about forty miles, and the phenomenon is to be witnessed in its perfection only in the line of total phase. On the north side of the sun it will be seen but a partial eclipse of the sun's upper limb, while on the southern side will be seen a similar obscuration of its northern limb.

It is to see, therefore, to speak of "going to the eclipse," for our astronomers are now accustomed to take their instruments to some desirable point of observation, and to make their observations with scientific accuracy and minuteness. Within seven miles of the center of the eclipse's track, the solar disc will be completely hidden from our observation, in particular, the peculiarities of the light itself. A variety of instruments are now employed for the purpose of observation, and the most accurate one of universal interest when presented. There have likewise been noted certain rather remarkable phases of the moon as they appear across the face of the sun, which men of science are eager to verify and explain.

In witnessing modern eclipses, and this one in particular, the barometer, thermometer, and hygrometer are used to ascertain the spheromorphous effects of the phenomenon. The Pierce party, which have gone to the Northwest to note the changes in the barometric pressure, are likely to bring back with them photographs of the scene as its brief duration will enable Mr. Pierce to take with his instruments. Stray pieces of glass are to be looked out for during the same course of observation, in particular that of the orbit of Mercury. On the whole, the world is heavily burdened to the most dexterous astronomers to hurry up their observations, and even for that they are all sincerely grateful, as the world should be to them in turn.—Boston Post.

Mr. J. J. Noah, a prominent Tennessee man now in Washington, says that the course of Senator Boutwell's political career, from his first bordering Stokes to the detriment of party interest is universally denounced by a majority of the Radical element of the State, who consider him as having been advised to withdraw in the early part of the campaign and sweep the United States, and this in particular, the barometer, thermometer, and hygrometer are used to ascertain the spheromorphous effects of the phenomenon. The Pierce party, which have gone to the Northwest to note the changes in the barometric pressure, are likely to bring back with them photographs of the scene as its brief duration will enable Mr. Pierce to take with his instruments. Stray pieces of glass are to be looked out for during the same course of observation, in particular that of the orbit of Mercury. On the whole, the world is heavily burdened to the most dexterous astronomers to hurry up their observations, and even for that they are all sincerely grateful, as the world should be to them in turn.—Boston Post.

Mr. J. J. Noah, a prominent Tennessee man now in Washington, says that the course of Senator Boutwell's political career, from his first bordering Stokes to the detriment of party interest is universally denounced by a majority of the Radical element of the State, who consider him as having been advised to withdraw in the early part of the campaign and sweep the United States, and this in particular, the barometer, thermometer, and hygrometer are used to ascertain the spheromorphous effects of the phenomenon. The Pierce party, which have gone to the Northwest to note the changes in the barometric pressure, are likely to bring back with them photographs of the scene as its brief duration will enable Mr. Pierce to take with his instruments. Stray pieces of glass are to be looked out for during the same course of observation, in particular that of the orbit of Mercury. On the whole, the world is heavily burdened to the most dexterous astronomers to hurry up their observations, and even for that they are all sincerely grateful, as the world should be to them in turn.—Boston Post.

Futile Attempts to Serve Wines of Eminent on Negro Abolitionists.

RICHMOND, August 6.

Sheriff Mayhew and his deputy Stevens, of Norfolk, paid a recent visit to Taylor's farm, in that county, for the purpose of serving writs of execution on the negro abolitionists, who had been confined in prison walls, where he was incarcerated by the rebels for his Union sentiments at a time when the State was strenuously trying to drive out of the State. These men comprise the ruling element of the liberal Radical wing, and nearly all ex-Confederates. Mr. Mayhew explained the proportion of Senator Brown's influence on the franchise question as being one of recent date, and one which is in perfect accord with the various enactments of Congress, and which was directed against Brown, successfully against Brown for his position as Governor and Senator, it is quite natural the Parsons have no great interest in the negro abolitionists. General Senter proved his support on the franchise question as being one of recent date, and one which is in perfect accord with the various enactments of Congress, and which was directed against Brown, successfully against Brown for his position as Governor and Senator, it is quite natural the Parsons have no great interest in the negro abolitionists. General Senter proved his support on the franchise question as being one of recent date, and one which is in perfect accord with the various enactments of Congress, and which was directed against Brown, successfully against Brown for his position as Governor and Senator, it is quite natural the Parsons have no great interest in the negro abolitionists.

The Committee on Dental Ethics reported a case of two members for the examination of Negro Abolitionists.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Judd, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The Committee on Dental Ethics reported a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

Dr. Tait, the new President, was then introduced into office.

Dr. Tait, the retiring President, read a paper on the subject.

The report was favorable, and a resolution expelling one of the members laid on the table, to come up next year.

A standing committee was appointed to draw up a report.

DAILY SENTINEL.

Yesterday Morning, August 7.

INDIANAPOLIS RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railway, (C. C. and J. C. Division.)

Train Leaves ARRIVE.

Fast Line 4:30 a. m. 1:20 a. m.

Southern Express 5:15 p. m. 7:00 a. m.

Accommodation 7:00 a. m. 9:00 a. m.

Local 9:00 a. m. 11:00 a. m.

Suburban 1:00 p. m. 3:00 p. m.

Montgomery via Cambridge and Conoverville.

Express 3:15 p. m. 5:00 p. m.

Clew and Col. C. and I. C. and Indiana Ry. Railroad.

(See Lines.)

Fast Express 4:30 a. m. 1:20 a. m.

Accommodation 7:00 a. m. 9:00 a. m.

Local 9:00 a. m. 11:00 a. m.

Suburban 1:00 p. m. 3:00 p. m.

Morning Express 3:15 p. m. 5:00 p. m.

Montgomery via Cambridge and Conoverville.

Express 3:15 p. m. 5:00 p. m.

Montgomery 4:15 a. m. 6:00 a. m.

Montgomery 7:00 a. m. 9:00 a. m.

Local 9:00 a. m. 11:00 a. m.

Suburban 1:00 p. m. 3:00 p. m.

Montgomery, Penn. and Chicago Railway.

Chicago Mail 6:00 a. m. 11:00 a. m.

Montgomery 7:00 a. m. 9:00 a. m.

Montgomery 1:00 p. m. 3:00 p. m.

Local 3:15 p. m. 5:00 p. m.

Cincinnati Railroad.

Local 4:15 a. m. 6:00 a. m.

Cincinnati and Indianapolis Railroad.

C. & St. Louis Express 4:30 a. m. 6:00 a. m.

St. Louis Day Express 5:00 p. m. 7:00 p. m.

St. Louis Night Express 6:00 p. m. 7:00 p. m.

Vincennes Railroad.

Vincennes to Spencer.

Morning Express 5:00 p. m. 6:00 p. m.

Cincinnati and Indianapolis Junction, Railroad.

Morning Express 5:00 p. m. 6:00 p. m.

Cincinnati and New Castle Branch.

Cincinnati 5:00 p. m. 6:00 p. m.

New Castle 5:00 p. m. 6:00 p. m.

New Castle 5:00 p. m. 6:00 p. m.

New Castle 5:00 p. m. 6:00 p. m.

RAILROAD MATTERS.

A BRUTAL CONDUCTOR.—On Tuesdays, a German who came to us, we have not learned, who has been in this country but a few months, and understands very little English, got on one of the service to Fort Wayne, about a half a mile from town, the conductor and a brakeman began beating him, and after robust traffic. The affair was witnessed by persons living along the road. The fall from the train resulted in a transverse fracture of one of the man's legs, and was sent to a poor house early morning, and we learn that it will be found necessary to amputate the limb.—Indiana Democrat.

A BRANCH OF THE LOUISVILLE, NEW ALBANY AND CHICAGO RAILROAD.—Crawfordsville, Ind.—We are informed from a source that we deem perfectly reliable, that a branch of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago will certainly be built from Crawfordsville to Rockville, Parke county. The people of Crawfordsville, and along the route of the proposed line, have no objection to grade the road, and lay down the superstructure, if the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago company will bear the cost. This will be a great value as a feeder of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago road, and of great advantage to New Albany. We trust our information in regard to this important enterprise will be well received, and we have no reason to doubt that it will.—New Albany Commercial.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

INDIANAPOLIS, FRIDAY EVENING, August 6, 1857.

The following are the quotations of Government bonds, gold, etc.:

Buying. Selling.

United States 5% 1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

1:25 1:25

DAILY SENTINEL

Saturday Morning, August 7.

Two copies of the DAILY SENTINEL are of every county in the State for the public. They are sold by the county offices.

CITY NEWS.

Notified.—Rev. Dr. H. A. Davis, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of this city, will be installed as Oliver Prokes, former pastor of Union Methodist Church, successor, October 1st, and will, at the usual hours of service, "teach the word of God" to his flock. All are invited.

What holds firm at 10.—
"Ten feet high, 1,000 water mains yesterday."—
"City bonds of four new cities in price."—
"The chickens will go to roost early this evening."—
"The County Commissioners will meet in special session on Monday."—
"One of our reporters will 'go one eye' on the eclipse at Terra Haute."—
"Mr. H. M. Kelley, of the Standard Home, was in the city yesterday."—
"Look out for pickpockets and confidence men. The city is infested with them."—
"A marriage license was yesterday issued to Henry H. Tyler and Emma McGuire."

There were four weddings in the city yesterday. The brides are all doing well.

We would advise excursionists to beware of pickpockets at the depot and on the trains to-day.

Judge McDonald, of the United States Court, is still living dangerously in his residence in this city.

It has been suggested that a premium be offered for the best band at the State Fair. A very good idea.

A great dearth prevails in local news, and the press reporters are all affiliated with the excursion fever.

The citizens of Georgetown persist in claiming that the soldiers will be a menace in that burg. "We can't see it."

No one should look at the eclipse to-day without a view of smoked glass, as it is dangerous to the eye to do so.

The potato crop is a great success this season. They are selling as forty cents per bushel from the wagons.

The city has been quite lively for several days past, and business in all branches of trade is improving.

The last total eclipse of the sun was on the 16th of June, 1869, but was not seen in any part of Indiana as total.

Our farmers and manufacturers should be preparing for the State Fair. All should labor to make it a grand success.

During the month of July sixty-four thousand ten dollars and ten cents of internal revenue was collected in this district.

A great many persons will visit Martinsville to-day to view the eclipse. It is certainly one of the best points in the State.

The great Anton camp meeting begins on the 11th instant. Excursion tickets will be sold and extra trains run during the meeting.

The proposed press excursion is being warmly agitated—some are for doing Salt Lake and others Niagara Falls. Let us "excuse" it all now.

Charter Academy, on New York street, has been rented by the School Board, and will be occupied by the A. grade of the intermediate department.

C. F. Coffin, President of the Board of Commissioners of the House of Refuge, and Colonel J. W. Foster, of the Evansville Journal, were in the city yesterday.

The suspended train to Martinsville will leave at half past eight o'clock this morning, and twenty minutes past two in the afternoon, returning at six to the evening.

The match game of cricket between the Louisville and Indianapolis Clubs comes off at this place on next Tuesday. It will very likely be a close game, as the clubs are about equally matched.

Governor Baker has received a small medallion portrait of Governor Jennings, which was taken in early manhood. He will appear in the gallery of Indiana Governors as the most youthful.

The German Turners marched through the city last evening with flying banners and bands, to Union depot, where they met the Louisville delegation and took the train for Chicago to attend the grand Turnverein Festival.

Ensign Hickman, of Aston, was yesterday brought before the United States Commissioner on a charge of selling liquor without license. He will be held in bond of three hundred dollars to answer.

The portrait of Governors Hendricks and Baggs is wanted for the State House group. Any person having a picture of either of these dignitaries will confer a favor by loaning it to Governor Baker for a short time.

The eclipse will commence at this place at twenty-one minutes past one o'clock this afternoon. The greatest obscuration will be at eighteen minutes past five, ending at fourteen minutes and six o'clock. Have your smoked glass ready.

The little girl who was so injuriously beaten by the brute, Matt Connel, Thursday morning, was resting easy yesterday, and strong hopes are now entertained of her recovery. Our report reads: "giving her a rest from six to seven years, she being but three years old on the 22d of last May."

We have a regular board at one of our first class boarding houses. It is, however, yesterday, for dinner, and such delicious food was not provided on the table unless they were provided by the boarders, and that the proprietor even then grumbled at having to furnish enough viands to make them palatable.

Wednesday, Aug. 1.—Mr. William B. Williams, the gentleman agent of the Great Western Dispatch, leaves the city this morning, with his family, for the great Pacific road and its connections. We extend their hearty congratulations. Their first average $5000 a day, and it is expected that their entire business will be up, from $150,000 to $170,000 per annum.

In October, 1877, the firm established a branch office and warehouse at Quincy, Illinois, under the supervision of Mr. H. Tracy, to which they ship a large quantity of knocked down and finished furniture. They made new contracts throughout the whole Northwest, and to some sections of Ohio, and portions of Kentucky and the South.

Contested Election Case.

Judge Miller of the Marion County Court of Common Pleas is presiding in the Circuit Court of Marion County, Indiana, in March, 1866, and in connection with Henry Frank and Christian Miller, formed a partnership for the manufacture of common furniture under the firm of Spiegel, Thomas & Co., being the first furniture manufacturer established in this city. Their start in business was made in a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel—was in charge of the entire manufacture. Spiegel's firm had increased so greatly that he was compelled to add another building, and he erected a two story, and beams, frame building, thirty by fifty feet, on the corner of Washington and Liberty streets, which they afterwards occupied as a chair factory for some two years after the completion of their present large factory. On January 1, 1867, Mr. Schrock sold his interest to the remaining partners, who soon after named him Mr. Augustus Spiegel