NEW POLITICAL LINES.

When Colonel Roosevelt walked out of the Chicago convention hall he sounded the death knell of the stand-patter. He said that day that the progressive spirit of the country could no longer be thwarted by the Cannon, Watson, Hanna element, and served notice on the republican party that its affairs would have to be placed in new hands if it was ever to regain the confidence of the people. The fight is still on. The political lines drawn in the Vermont senatorial campaign give the bull moose for the first time an opportunity to combat directly and with single purpose against the republicans.

The duly nominated democratic candidate has withdrawn, and the fight is between republican Senator Dillingham and Charles A. Prouty, the bull moose nominee.

Mr. Prouty, as was to be expected, has dwelt at length on the reactionary record and tendencies of Mr. Dillingham. He has assumed the role of champion of progress. Mr. Prouty is a man of high character and large ability, one of the best selections yet made by the Roosevelt party.

The interest in the Vermont contest is intensified by the memory that Vermont was one of the two states which declared for the republican nominee at the last presidential election. A similar spirit manifested today would surely result in Mr. Dillingham's re-election. If there has been a change there may be enough added independent votes to make Prouty's campaign formidable. Moreover, it is expected that the democrats who have been left without a candidate will, as a rule, go to the progressive candidate.

Dillingham has publicly allied himself with stand-pat interests. He has driven even the progressive republicans to the Prouty standard.

WAR AND ITS HEROES.

Dispatches today indicate that the allies are having little success in routing the Germans in the north of France. So amazing has been the advance of the Germans in that section that the world wonders at the military genius behind the operation. The one name that stands out conspicuously in the German plans is Von Kluck. This general, unknown beyond his own nation, was chosen to bear the heaviest responsibility in the great German invasion of France. As the commander of the right wing he was the leader in all the important fighting, and on his skill depended the success or failure

ON THE FIRING LINEWhat It Means to Most Men.

There are many true heroes that have perished in the European war who "never smelled powder," but who succumbed to sickness after hard campaigning—coupled with bad water and lack of food. The sick and debilitated man is as much out of place in his struggle for life and existence as he would be on the firing line. On the other hand, the strong, vigorous man, his veins filled with rich, red blood, has an enormous advantage in whatever position he may be fated to occupy in war or business.

The prompt and certain action of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in driving all harmful germs and impurities from the blood, sets in motion the repair process which works actively on the diseased membrane. Ozone Catarrh flourishes unchecked or where the skin gives warning of the bad blood beneath by showing pimples and boils, also the skin clears up and becomes wholesome and ruddy. Thus by building up a new and perfect covering and carrying out of the system the Catarrh infested matter by the blood, liver and kidneys, tarry is overcome and permanently conquered.

There is not a drop of alcohol or any narcotic in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, but in this safe vegetable remedy there is a mighty alterative power which by replacing the blood impurities with pure, rich blood, not only ends Catarrh conditions wherever located, but vitalizes the kidneys, stomach, liver, bowels and every organ of the body. People who suffer humiliation and mental misery because of Pimples, Skin Rash, Blotches, Eruptions, boils, Carbuncles, are especially benefited. It is not a secret remedy, for its ingredients are printed on the wrapper.

of the immense campaign. He advanced to the Marne without even checking his speed. There he encountered forces too numerous and positions too strong to yield to the hammering tactics he had hitherto employed. His retirement to the Aisne was hailed by the allies as a disastrous German defeat.

But it is this retirement which, more than his advance, has proved the military skill of the German commander. Mapping out a new plan of battle, he has withstood, for nearly thirty days, the incessant attacks of the allies. His forces have been bent backward toward the Belgian border, but in no place has his army weakened, nowhere has he suffered a serious reverse. He is, in fact, nearly as often on the offensive as on the defensive.

Von Kluck's constant care is to prevent the flanking movements of the French and British from attaining success. As the allied armies, in their endeavor to turn his right, have steadily progressed northward, Von Kluck has extended his own line to the north, always opposing a barrier which the allies have been unable to pass. French and British may indefinitely continue to advance to the north, but toward the east they have been able to make no progress.

BOYS AND GIRLS AND APPLES.

The Tribune the other day contained an interesting story of how the Chicago & Southeastern railroad officials are encouraging the farmers along their line in this section of the state to cultivate apples. The story also recounted some of the wonderful achievements in this, the third, year of the experiment. Apples are now making farmers in this section thousands and thousands of dollars more as a result of better knowledge of their cultivation.

And now the United States is to have an "apple day." In all sections emphasis is to be given on the 20th to the apple as a food product of low price and high health value. Eat apples to be vigorous and to cut down the cost of living, is the message. It is a good movement, and one to be encouraged.

But how much will it profit an urbanite to be told that apples are cheap food if the prices he is obliged to pay the retailer belie the statement? What good will it do city family to know that apples would improve its health unless some influence can intervene to cause the growers to pick the fruit and bring it to market?

Evidently an "apple day" should be devoted in part at least to a study of transportation and distribution. Many will believe that it is not so much lack of knowledge of the value of apples as it is lack of opportunity to secure apples fresh and cheap that cuts down their consumption to the point of suggesting a special day to boost the fruit.

Under the auspices of the United States department of agriculture, apple clubs are being organized among the boys of several northwestern and mid-western states, for the purpose of cultivating skill in that branch of production. Its object is similar to that of "apple day," though it looks further into the future for results. All these activities deserve encouragement, but they miss an important part of the real apple question.

ALL HANDS ON DECK.

Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, in his address Thursday night, reminded the nation at large what a debt of gratitude it owed President Wilson. He said that other men might have risen to the occasion as Mr. Wilson has, but he did, and consequently he is entitled to the unwavering support of every citizen by voting to place men in public office in sympathy with the president even from county offices up.

Nearly everybody is agreed that Woodrow Wilson is making one of the greatest presidents that this country has ever had. If he had not been wise and levelheaded we would have been in a bloody war with Mexico. He is determined that the United States shall not become involved in the European war.

The democratic party naturally expected the president to make political speeches during the coming campaign, as has been the custom of former presidents. President Wilson, while a democrat, says that America is greater than any party, and he issued a statement in which he says that he will not enter the campaign. On account of the European war he will stay on the job in Washington and take care of the interests of America. He is a great and wise president, and is not only looking after the best interests of the nation, but is looking out for the best interests of the average man.

Every man should be profoundly thankful that we have such a patriotic and peace-loving citizen as Woodrow Wilson in this crisis of the world. It is the solemn duty of every man, regardless of his politics, to uphold the administration. We are glad to see that the patriotic citizens of the nation are standing by Woodrow Wilson as they have probably never stood by a president before in the history of our country.

In Brooklyn recently a bomb wrecked a macaroni factory. Think how it would have been tangled up if the stuff had been spaghetti!

It is doubtful if 30,000 people could be gathered into one crowd to cheer the European rulers in their minor championship contest.

Incidentally, New York is being asked for a war fund of $50,000 to support made-in-America grand opera.

If Uncle Joe Cannon thinks Roosevelt is a "four-flusher," what does he think of Gifford Pinchot?

That idea of having an apple day will strike many as a pippin.

What cheerful melancholy days these have been!

ODON, Ind., Oct. 17.—One of the most serious epidemics of hog cholera is now raging in this community, particularly west of town, and several herds of valuable hogs have been completely wiped out. Several hundred head have died recently and vaccination with hog cholera serum is being urged and practiced by almost all the breeders in this section.

"We have at the present moment exactly double that number, namely 1,200,000 men and the number grows almost faster than we can cope with. This is only the beginning.

"It is our way, as well as that of America, to begin to raise our arms after war breaks out and to go on raising them until our ultimate ends are achieved. With 1,200,000 men at home, the army in the field and the hundreds of thousands forming in India, Canada, Australia and elsewhere are merely the nucleus upon which other armies will eventually be built.

"It stands to reason that an empire of 400,000,000 can never lack men. This war for us has hardly begun. We have sent merely an advance guard into France. In the spring the remainder of the advance guard will follow and somewhere toward the end of 1915 the main body will begin to come within view.

"We are sorry for the allies that we are even slower than Russia in making our weight felt but a year or so hence, when the allies need a rest we shall be in a position to make good war. "Nothing can arrest the steadily ascending figures of our army. Their cost is of little account since Germany will ultimately have to pay—in territory as well as money.

"Imagine things at their worst. Imagine the last Cossack on the Urals and the last French doorkeeper evicted from Bordeaux. Then we would begin a marathone war against Germany and still be no worse off than when we began war against Napoleon."
