

The Assassin's Apologist.

The Sullivan Democrat of last week contains this allusion to the recent horrible attempt at murder in that county: "Jack Caloway, the negro who was shot by Jim Dooley at the horse race, a few weeks ago, is now about well. He was in town last Tuesday."

The Terre Haute Journal of Saturday copies the above and comments thereon in this disgraceful manner: "This is the case wherein the EXPRESS wrote up a startling article on the Sullivan county horror a few weeks ago. That paper seems to ignore the fact that the colored individual was not hurt to any extent and is now about well. At the time it was a good radical lick at Sullivan county, but as the story was all a base fabrication our contemporary ought in all decency and honor make proper amends."

The EXPRESS did not "write up" the startling article to which the Journal alludes. It was written by our regular Sullivan Correspondent—a well-known gentleman of the highest respectability—and published in this paper as a Communication over his usual signature, "G."

The "startling article" was, however, true in every particular and proved Jim Dooley guilty of one of the cruelest, most unprovoked and altogether diabolical attempts at murder ever perpetrated by any human being. It proved him to be a wretch, unfit for any other society than that of murderers, but does not seem to have placed him beyond the pale of the Journal's sympathy, nor beyond the reach of its apologetic efforts.

To show the public what sort of a creature is this Dooley towards whom the Journal's howls of compassion yearn so tenderly, we reproduce a portion of our correspondent's account of the assault, assuring Dooley, and all his friends and apologists, that the statements of "G." are strictly truthful, and that we are responsible therefor in any sense in which he or they may see fit to accept the term.

"A horse race had been arranged to take place across the Wabash in Illinois by parties living in this county, and to the high water, the place of running was changed to Gill's prairie in Gill township, Sullivan county, and took place on Saturday. Some time during the day Jack Caloway, who was five or six years of age, was shot by Jim Dooley, a colored man, and was badly wounded. The race was being made, and had been out hunting his stock and getting it out of the way of the back water, came to where the race was run and engaged in conversation with the persons of his acquaintance there. James K. Dooley came up and asked him what he was doing there, and said if white men would not take their part against negroes, he, Dooley, would do it for them, and ordered Caloway to leave; to which Caloway quietly replied that he would go, and started and went off some considerable distance to another part of the grounds where he met other parties who were acquainted with and stopped and engaged in conversation.

In about one-half hour Dooley again came upon him. Caloway, at the time, was standing at the wheel of a wagon resting his elbow on the wheel and his hand on his head; when within about fifteen feet of Caloway, Dooley commenced shooting at him with a rifle, and Caloway, having a revolver, fired back at him four shots, each time taking deliberate aim. Not a word was passed between them from the time Dooley came up till after the firing of the second shot, when he never moving on in the least changing his position or offering to defend himself, after the firing of the second shot, said: "Quit shooting, Jim, we are all right—we are all right."

The two first shots entirely missed, the third shot struck Caloway in the upper part of the abdomen, the ball passing backward and lodging in the liver, the fourth shot struck the wheel of the wagon. At this juncture some person present interfered and took the pistol from Dooley. Caloway was able to ride home. "Some four or five hours later, on Saturday night and attended him that night and on yesterday. His condition is said to be quite critical, and but little hopes of his recovery are entertained. Dooley remained at the race grounds for several hours after the shooting, and until the race was over, and then returned to Sullivan in company with those with whom he had gone to the race. He remained here till a late hour Saturday night and then left, and has not been seen since. It is reported that his friends gave him means to go away on. No effort was made to arrest him, although it was well known here as early as six o'clock on Saturday evening that he had committed the crime for which he was being sought. Caloway has lived in this county many years, and owns a farm and has a family. He is a quiet, peaceable and unobtrusive man, and is highly respected by all who know him as an honest, industrious and good citizen. There never had been any difficulty between him and Dooley prior to that day, and none of that day other than stated."

A Contrast.

The taxes are not heavier now than during the reign of ANDREW JOHNSON, and yet the debt is being reduced at the rate of one hundred and twenty millions a year. This is the difference between an honest President and a concealed and ambitious politician, who sold his official position to promote his personal ambition. Mr. DAVID A. WELLS estimated a year ago that vigorous and economical collection of the revenue would save eighty millions a year. The copperhead orators all over the land "hoo-hoo-ed" at the statement, called him an incompetent old ass, and procured a fellow named DEXTER to manufacture a counter statement for the use of Democratic orators in the pending campaign. He figured out all sorts of calamities to the country, and a deficit of hundreds of millions a year in the revenue, in case GRANT was elected President, but all his statements proved untrue, and GRANT exceeds WELLS' statement forty millions. GRANT went to work at the "Whiskey Ring" just as he did at the rebel horde at Fort Donelson, Vicksburg and in the Wilderness. He moved on their works immediately, and in both cases came out the victor, as he will always do when in the right.

Heard an Angel Whisper.

At one of our Methodist churches a night or two since, after a season of prayer, the pastor delivered the exercises, he of the Atlantic charts and isothermal lines, has come to the aid of KOOPMANSCHAEFF. He writes from Lexington, Va., to say that "Chinese labor is much more intelligent, skillful, and effective than negro labor; that the Chinese are 'the most faithful creatures in the world,' that their importation would be 'highly beneficial to the South,' and—here is the nub of the letter—the Professor gives an order for a coolie and two house servants to be selected from the first lot. If "Cage-on-Up" does not respond to that suffering cry, he will hear from the Professor again, but probably in a very different strain."

Stokes for Governor of Tennessee.

The EXPRESS denies that it favored Stokes for Governor of Tennessee. It only stated that all respectable Republicans would vote the Stokes ticket.—Journal.

The EXPRESS does not "deny that it favored Stokes for Governor of Tennessee."

Those people who rejoiced in the Anti-Carpet-bag literature and illustrations of the Tusculum Monitor, last fall, will be delighted to learn, says a contemporary, that its mild and philanthropic editor, RYLAND RANDOLPH, is elected to the Legislature of Alabama by an overwhelming majority. So popular was this Democratic journalist and moral instructor, that his majority is several hundred larger than his party obtained last year.

A new illustration of the proverb that a "disfranchisement of the truth" is putting on her boots, is furnished by the fact that the statement that General GRANT received a present of fifty acres of land, on the occasion of his late visit to Brookings, near Long Branch, has been telegraphed, republished all over the country, and made the basis of a host of Democratic comments, while nobody notices the quiet but authentic statement of a correspondent present, that this gift was "respectfully and delicately declined."

The New York Tribune relates a pleasant "little story" showing how the art of nose-pulling was nicely exhibited on a railway train out of Boston the other day.

Mr. CURTIS, banker and lawyer, was vastly amused by Mr. CURRICHILL, who was going to see his family in the country, and who seated himself beside Mr. CURTIS with a large carpet-bag and a small toy wagon. Mr. CURTIS expressed his wrath at this baggage; Mr. CURRICHILL said, "You are no gentleman!" whereupon, said Mr. CURTIS in his testimony, "I took hold of his nose and turned it in a moderate and quiet manner." It should have been a satisfaction to M. CURRICHILL to have had his nose not disgracefully pulled, but moderately and quietly "turned," but it wasn't, for he called Mr. CURTIS "a scoundrel," whereupon Mr. CURTIS entirely destroyed Mr. CURRICHILL's spectacles by a well-delivered blow aimed at the nose of the unhappy proprietor. His turn has come now, for the "moderate" nose-winger and annihilator of spectacles has been sentenced to jail for two months, besides receiving a particular and personal wiggling from the judge. Such, says the Tribune, are the hardships which await the "quiet nose-turner!"

We congratulate the Hon. Wm. G. Brownlow upon his grand success as a political manager as shown in the Tennessee election, one result of which will probably be the election of ANDREW JOHNSON to the Senate of the United States.

The person seems to have splendid tact in playing into the hands of his enemies, of which fact, we would not complain were it not that, in this instance, his enemy is alike the enemy of the Republican party and the Republic. It will not require many displays of this sort of strategy to dim the remembrance of the person's glorious devotion to the imperiled Union, and to recall to the Northern mind the fact that he gave the best years of his life to systematic and unlimited abuse of all friends of freedom throughout the North.

With two superannuated LANTIERES in trousers, in the Senate, hurrying Tennessee cross-roads baldheaded at each other's heads, that State will put a sublime figure before an admiring world!

Once more, Parsons, our congratulations, and come North again when we want funds to buy a press and type for another paper. We will try not to forget that you were true to steel when thousands of your old friends and associates plunged into treachery. We will let the pure light of patriotism that gleams from that portion of your life, irradiate the present, and we will charitably cast the veil of oblivion over the more distant past.

Vermont in the Van.

Vermont has an anomalous body of fourteen men, chosen once in seven years to consider whether the Constitution has been duly observed during the last septennial period, to call a convention to amend the Constitution when deemed necessary, and to propose such amendments as in their judgment come within this condition. Benjamin Franklin invented this method, and it was introduced in the original Constitution of Pennsylvania, but afterward amended out. This council has just been in session at Montpelier, and has decided to call a Constitutional Convention, and to recommend an amendment in favor of woman's suffrage. Thus it happens that the advocates of this reform are to have a fair chance to be heard before the people of one of the most truly democratic States in the Union. The convention—comprising one delegate from each town—will be held next winter, and now is a good time for the friends of the cause to begin laboring in earnest, and to concentrate their efforts on the cause of the liberal people of that State. Soberly should to look it.—Chronicle.
