Homer Kessler, a well known insurance man, is doing some business in Rensselaer. He represents the Union Central Life Co., and at present lives in Waukegan, Ill.

In sending a renewal from Jacksonville, Fla., for the Semi-Weekly Republican, Louis R. Fendig writes: "I enjoy very much reading the home paper every week and I am able in this manner to keep in touch with my old friends and the happenings in Rensselaer."

Henry Dahncke, now of Monon, was in Rensselaer a short time this morning. He is very busy as the manager of the pickle stations at Monon, Monticello, Parr and other points. New stations are being built at the two towns first named and Mr. Dahncke is kept very busy.

Yesterday and today John Daugherty has delivered and collected mail on rural route No. 1 in an automobile. The car belongs to Babcock & Hopkins, being their Flanders 20. "Billy" Babcock, Jr., has been acting chauffeur for Mr. Daugherty. It is probable that he will decide to buy a car and hereafter deliver his mail with it.

John Daugherty went to Chicago this morning to see if he could secure rates to the west. He will leave soon, probably about the first of August, for Spokane, Wash., where he has employment as a street car conductor. He was called home during the sickness which terminated in the death of his father, Thomas Daugherty.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Macey, of Indianapolis, who has been here for the past week visiting his mother, Mrs. John Makeever, who has been quite poorly since receiving a fall about two weeks ago, left this morning for Muskegon, where they will enjoy a week's outing. Mr. Macey is engaged in the wholesale millinery business in Indianapolis.

The No. 2 car of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus arrived on the milk train this morning and twenty bill posters have been busy since that time. Some of the old stands were pasted over and some new ones put on. Telephone poles were adorned and no matter where you stand you can see a great big thirty from some direction. Some very attractive paper has been spread this trip. The show takes place next Saturday.

Mrs. Ernest Morlan, of Newton township, brought a sample of oats to the Republican office today that is certainly an indication of a large yield. The sample was not selected but just a handful of stems taken all at once. The oats were not cultivated as was the sample from Michael Ringelissen's farm, but special attention was given to the preparation of the ground, which was plowed and harrowed instead of simply disced before planting. The seed also was examined before sowing, and all bad grains removed, which they have found is a paying thing to do. These heads are long, well filled and apparently good for 60 bushels or more to the acre.

INDIANA NORTHWESTERN TRACTION IS GRADING.

Letter From Roy Peacock Says Work Was Begun Monday Between Dyer And Chicago Heights.

The Indiana Northwestern Traction Company is not all a bluff, as some have thought. The promoters are doing some grading up near Dyer and of the company, Roy Peacock, a former Rensselaer boy, now the Monon agent at Dyer, writes:

"The Indiana Northwestern Traction Co. started work between Dyer and Chicago Heights, having a camp between these towns. Contractors from Harvey, Ill., have a contract for grading this piece of the roadbed. They state that their contract calls for them having the grading done within 60 days but say they will have it done in 30 if they can get the necessary teams. Already 30 teams have been put to work and they want all they can get. They began work Monday and have been adding from 3 to 8 teams each day, besides picking up all the men they can get.

"It looks like this company means business and the present indications have greatly enthused the people hereabouts and all favor the building of the line. In my opinion it looks like the best paying proposition in the interurban line ever put up to the people in this section of the state, but it is also one of the largest undertakings, for so many of the interurbans are built a little at a time, while this road contemplates one big movement. If it is possible for Rensselaer to get this line it should do so by all means. Their proposed line into Chicago Heights connects with the Chicago Southern Traction Co., giving a good outlet into Chicago at 79th and Halstead streets, and it will also connect with the interurban from Chicago Heights to Joliet. Their Hammond connections are fine and should insure good traffic from Chicago, Chicago Heights, Hammond, Gary, East Chicago, Indiana Harbor, Whiting and Cedar Lake and the south, and also do a good interchange business. I hope when the time comes that Rensselaer will go right out and land this railroad. The question of a subsidy has different sides, I know, but if it is a question of voting a subsidy or losing a railroad, the community that votes the subsidy wins. It has been my observation that roads built with a subsidy are from 5 to 7 years ahead of those that get along without outside or local help, in the manner of giving first-class service.

"We all know that Rensselaer needs another railroad and should hate to see one miss it. This road should be landed for Rensselaer if the proper spirit of hustle is demonstrated. Here's hoping that I can some day ride back to old Rensselaer on this interurban.

Respectfully,
ROY PEACOCK."

An effort is now being made by relatives of Ira G. Rawn to establish that he was killed by a former colored chauffeur, who is alleged to have made a threat against him. Rawn carried $145,000 insurance, part of which can not be collected if it is proven that he took his own life. It looks decidedly improbable that this negro would have gone to his house in the night to have committed this crime and it is further improbable that Rawn would have personally answered the negro's visit. The claim is quite foolish.

Rev. S. V. McKee, of South Bend, returned to his home this morning after a short visit here with his brother-in-law, John R. Vanatta and family. Rev. McKee was the Presbyterian minister at Remington for five years prior to thirteen years ago. One of his daughters and her husband, Rev. C. C. Fuller, have been missionaries in South Africa for several years past, being stationed at Mt. Silinda, in Rhodesia. Their work is with the African natives, whom they find very anxious to receive an education. The educated natives are sent further inland as missionaries and a great work is being accomplished. Rev. and Mrs. Fuller are now visiting relatives in the United States and will start again shortly for Africa. They have three children, all born in the missionary colony of South Africa.

Another Civil War Veteran Answers Last Bugle Call.

Alexander Leach died Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at his residence on West Vine street in Rensselaer. He had been in failing health for three years and for the past five weeks had been confined to his bed. The exact nature of his sickness seemed a puzzle to his physicians and a specialist who examined him was also unable to decide what his ailment was. Nothing could be done, however, to stay the progress of the disease and it had been realized for some months that he could not long survive.

Deceased moved to Rensselaer about seven years ago from Union township where he had lived for several years. He served during the civil war with an Ohio regiment. He would have been 69 years of age on Sept. 30th. He leaves a widow and seven children—five sons and two daughters. The sons are Asa, of North Dakota; Everett, of Hammond, and Earl, Oscar and Basil, of Rensselaer. The daughters are, Mrs. Carl Hamacher, of near Brook, and Mrs. A. O. Garriott, of Hammond.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Baptist church, being conducted by Rev. J. P. Green, the pastor. Burial will be made in Weston cemetery.

Chase Day writes from New Castle that work there is dull, building having taken a big slump, so after next week he will go to Gary, stopping off in Rensselaer for a visit. The Hagenbeck-Wallace circus exhibited in New Castle on July 20th and Chase went to see it and pronounces it a very fine show with a large number of new acts, things that were never seen before beneath canvas. The new acts are especially good. At Connorsville 50 hands struck and the show was a little short of employees and Chase thinks if any Rensselaer boys want to get a job with the circus they can do so. Ira Osborn, formerly of Rensselaer, is also in New Castle, being engaged in the barber business.

President Taft to Make Speech At Winona on August 30th.

President William H. Taft will speak at Winona on August 30th, and it is quite certain will freely express himself on the present tariff measure. While there has been an effort to incite trouble between the president and Senator Beveridge, because the latter voted against the bill, there is no doubt but that the president will show that there is no occasion for a breach. Both are intently interested in the welfare of the country and both are desirous of fulfilling the republican platform, but they differed as men might in the means of bringing it about. Senator Beveridge opposed some of the schedules and voted against the bill. The president opposed some of the schedules but recognized that the bill in the main was all right and the best that could be procured and favored its passage and signed it. The former criticizes the bill from some points of view and the president defends it in the main.

Indiana people should be pleased to have President Taft return to Winona, where he made his first speech defending the tariff bill, following its passage. We believe the experience will show that he was right in that defense, and we believe that there is little difference between the ideas held by the president and the senior senator from Indiana. Theodore Roosevelt will speak in Senator Beveridge's behalf.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Todd, who was with Mr. Sawers for many years, is president of the company, Mr. McCray vice-president, and Mr. Simons secretary and treasurer. Don't fail to call at both of our great bargain houses the last week of the month, for our Removal Sale is in full blast, and goods are going at cost. Remember the places, The 99-Cent Racket Store, Makeever Bank Building, and Ransford's Department Store, in the Odd Fellow Block, both opposite courthouse.
