Mr. and Mrs. Duncan and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Westphal and family Sunday.

The 5 o'clock train Monday morning stopped for passengers for Kentland to the Hubbard and Day trial, and the 6 o'clock train in the evening stopped to let them off.

Mrs. Harriette Jacks died of pneumonia at the home of her son, Alf. Jacks, Tuesday morning about 3:10 o'clock, after about five weeks of sickness and suffering, which was patiently borne. Her condition became serious last Friday, since when she had been gradually sinking until Tuesday morning, when she passed peacefully to the home that awaits the faithful. "The Golden Gates were opened wide, a gentle voice said come, and angels from the other shore, welcomed our loved one home." She had a kind and gentle disposition, which won for her many friends who were very much grieved when the sad news of her death came. The funeral was held Wednesday at 2 o'clock and interment made in Osborne cemetery, by the side of her husband, who predeceased her last August.

Do you know that of all the minor ailments colds are by far the most dangerous? It is not the cold itself that you need to fear, but the serious diseases that it often leads to. Most of these are known as germ diseases. Pneumonia and consumption are among them. Why not take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and cure your cold while you can? For sale by all dealers.

For Sale—Bees and beekeepers' supplies. Call or write for free catalogue. Leslie Clark, Rensselaer, Indiana.

When first I met Eudora Green She was a tiny maid With tossing curls of corn silk sheen And glances unafraid. Frilled frock and sash bound at the knee, She was a picture when I led her out to walk with me. She scarce could toddle then.

Time works great changes, so they say, But I at least must claim, Though many years have rolled away, Eudora's much the same. Still bright as corn silk in the breeze, Her curls toss o'er her brow, And with a sash around her knees She scarce can toddle now. —Browning's Magazine.

"Dad, what sort of a bureau is a matrimonial bureau?"

"Oh, any bureau that has five drawers full of women's fixings and one man's tie in it." —Houston Post.

North winds rude and south winds bleak— Strange is nature's law; Blizzards from the stormy west— Then a horrid thaw! —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"And what is your father's business, my little man?" asked the Rev. Mr. Fourthly as he made his morning call on the infant class.

"He's a dam-at-it kick-it," said the little chap, whose father wrote dramatic criticism for a newspaper. —Harper's Weekly.

And when the week has rolled around And hubby comes home with a bound, Disdaining rides in cars or stages, But walking just to save his wages, He kisses me and calls me honey. It seems a shame to take the money! —Yonkers Statesman.

"Did you discover the north pole?" "Not exactly," replied the explorer. "But I found a place that was sufficiently cold and lonely to be its practical equivalent." —Washington Star.

"Him wuzza tootest ittle-bitstle p'ecious lovlie lamb, And him dea sweetest pittle-ittie single-yes, him am— Wis him tunnin' ittle footstle an' him sayin' 'Goo-goo-goo!' Him wuz him muzzer's ownest lamble boystle-cootstle-coo!"

To this the baby listens by the hour and day and week And yez his mother wonders why he doesn't learn to speak! —Ladies' Home Journal.

Banker (dumfounded)—What's that? Say that again.

Applicant—I said I would like to mortgage my automobile in order to buy a home!—Puck.

To what the cynics say or do Why should we list or care? We know the charm of being true, The joy of playing fair. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"She married a window dresser."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, honest."

"Gee, he ought to be dandy when it comes to hooking up a dress!" —Detroit Free Press.

If time hangs heavy on your hands And you don't need the same Just take it to your uncle kind Who plays the three ball game. He'll keep it for you snug and safe, Will share your bitter cup, But he'll expect a call from you Whenever your time is up. —Boston Herald.

"I knew you were married as soon as I met you, Mr. Wed."

"How so?"

"You wear that apprehensive look."

—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Tell me not in mournful mumbles Hobble skirts are here to stay, For the maid each time she stumbles Vows she'll throw the thing away. —Judge.

Muggins—Women are gradually usurping the place of men. I heard the other day of a woman bill collector.

Buggins—Well, if a woman is as successful in running down a bill as she is in running one up she should be a wonder. —Philadelphia Record.

Dyspeptic friends, do not despair, But daily watch the bill of fare. Success in life is but a fake When founded on the stomach ache. —St. Paul Pioneer Press.

"Show me one of these old robber castles of the Rhine," commanded the tourist.

"Robber castles?" echoed the puzzled guide. "Does the gentleman mean a garage?" —Washington Herald.

"I am an optimist," he said.

"I love the crowded cars, And when I fall and bump my head I like to see the stars." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Is that man wide awake in his business methods?"

"Good heavens, no! He's just patented an insomnia cure." —Atlanta Constitution.

Alas, next year insurance men Will answer thus: "I fear I cannot take the risk. You know, You cannot live long here. You do not run a motorcar Or sail an airship fleet. Instead you still court death, dear sir, By walking on your feet!" —Judge.

"Blinks has dyed his hair black. But don't say I told you."

"Why?"

"He wants to keep it dark." —Cassell's Saturday Journal.
