COL. L. C. R. SUMAN DEAD; COMMANDER NINTH REGIMENT.

his worldly possessions. He stayed for a year at Wooster, Ohio, where he worked at the carpenter trade, and then came to Valparaiso. As he liked the town he decided to make it his home. He followed his trade until the civil war broke out. The news of the fall of Fort Sumter was told him as he was building a fence on the farm of T. B. Cole. The patriotic fighting blood of his revolutionary sire coursing in his veins would not let him tarry in the pursuits of peace when his country was in danger, and he immediately put away his tools and came to town to enlist in the Union army. He entered as a private in Co. H, Ninth Indiana Volunteer Infantry, the second man to volunteer from Porter county. He was chosen first lieutenant.

The day before going to war, Col. Suman was united in marriage to Miss Kate M. Goss. He went in the three months' service and participated in the battles of Philippi, Laurel Hill and Carrick's Ford. When the regiment was mustered out it came home and reorganized for three years' fighting, Mr. Suman being chosen captain of Co. H. He served as captain until Aug. 20, 1862, when he was promoted to lieutenant colonel. He was made colonel of the Ninth, April 17, 1863. On March 13, 1865, President Lincoln appointed Col. Suman a brigadier general for gallant and meritorious service, but he declined the position on the ground that the war was virtually over and he did not seek honors, but only wished to serve his country.

Col. Suman participated in the following battles: Greenbrier, Buffalo Mountain, Shiloh, Perryville, Stone River (in this battle he was twice wounded, and a minie ball passed through his body), Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge (here he was again wounded), Ringgold, Dalton, Resaca, Culp's farm, Pine Top Mountain, Rough's Station, Peach Tree Creek, the siege of Atlanta, Lovejoy's Station, Franklin and Nashville. He was also in many minor engagements and skirmishes.

At the close of the war in 1865, Col. Suman returned to Valparaiso and joined his wife. He purchased a farm in Jackson township, where they lived until 1881, when he moved to Valparaiso to become postmaster, which position he held for four years. In 1894 Col. Suman was elected mayor of Valparaiso and served in that capacity for four years.

Two children—Miss Bessie Suman, of this city, and Mrs. J. E. Ellmore, of Seattle, Wash., are left to mourn his departure to the great beyond. Two other children, Frank and Mrs. Asa Swartout, are dead. Three grandchildren—Mrs. Kate M. Wilson and Miss Alice Swartout, of this city, and Miss Gertrude Lawry, Seattle, Wash., and one great-grandchild, Whitney Wilson, of this city, cherish the memory and grieve over the death of a brave and loving ancestor. A sister of the deceased lives at Front Royal, W. Va. Mrs. Suman died about three years ago.

Col. Suman was a member of the Masonic lodge, of the G. A. R., a republican in politics, a patriot, a brave soldier, a faithful and conscientious office-holder, a true friend, a public spirited citizen, a good husband and affectionate father, and a man in every sense of the word. The news of his death was a great shock to the community which he loved and served so well.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Another Jasper County Couple Went to St. Joe to Be Married.

They expect to begin house-keeping at once at Parr, the groom being employed at the Thompson ranch near that place.

More Remonstrances Overruled In the Marble Ditch Case.

Judge Marvin resumed court Monday morning and what is expected to be a long grind in sifting the Marble ditch remonstrances was begun. His first action was to overrule several more remonstrators that had filed objections after their time limit had expired. There are now only a very few remonstrators left on this side of the river and it is doubtful if they will make a fight. The list is almost narrowed down to the Lake and Porter county objectors and these will be taken up in order and disposed of as rapidly as possible. The only thing that could result in defeating the ditch would be a reduction of assessments sufficient to cut down the total below the cost of construction. This is very improbable. In fact, the need of the improvement is so apparent to all who have investigated it, and the work of the viewers seems to have been so equitable as far as tested, that it is not expected material changes will be made from the report filed several months ago with the clerk of the court.

Mrs. Ransom Elijah Died At Home Near Mt. Airy.

The funeral of Mrs. Ransom Elijah was conducted Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the North Star church near Mt. Airy, by Mrs. Noble, a United Brethren preacher of Brook, and a very eloquent woman. The funeral was largely attended. Burial was made in North Star cemetery.

The maiden name of deceased was Mary Jane Williams and she was born in Indiana March 4, 1841, her age being at the time of death, Aug. 5th, 70 years, 5 months and 1 day. She leaves a husband and eight children to mourn their loss. All the children are married and all but two of them were at the funeral of their mother. Her husband is probably the oldest living resident of Newton county, having come there with his parents when only 6 months of age and now being in his 77th year. The Elijah home is a mile and a half west and two miles and a half north of Mt. Airy.

Has Really Passed Up Rensselaer —Inter-Ocean Says So.

Today's Chicago Inter-Ocean says that Gene Purcell has passed up Rensselaer, because it refused to take any interest in his shoeing road, and that Mr. Purcell will now build his road from Chicago to Lafayette and Danville through Kentland. The article also says that Gene says that Lawler Bros. have promised to give a lot of money in addition to the right-of-way to have the road built. If talk was money Gene would build railroads all over the country, but talking is his worst habit, next to writing checks when his bank account is exhausted.

The refusal of the city council to permit dancing on the floors of the new city building at Oakland City promises to become a disturbing factor in the coming election this fall. The new city building has a nice floor for dancing and the younger set has been looking with longing eyes on its polished surface. Their request to be permitted to dance on it was firmly refused by the council when Marshal Wester presented the question, and now the dancers are forming an organization to enter the coming campaign.

FOR THE GOLDEN HAired GIRL

BLONDE hair may be aided in retaining its natural color by the judicious selection of shampoos specially adapted to it. Certain chemicals—soda, for example—which prevent darkening, have the unfortunate quality of drying the scalp to such an extent that the hair invariably is injured, becoming dull and crisp. If that state is allowed to continue the hair will eventually fall. A certain amount of natural oil must be retained in the scalp for nourishment.

White of egg has the merit of cleansing the scalp without in any way darkening the hair. A pinch of bi-carbonate of soda to each raw white will increase the effect and the chemical used in such small quantities will not be injurious. To each raw white not be injurious. To each raw white not be injurious. To each raw white not be injurious.

Any of the inexpensive California white wines are liked by some persons for cleansing blonde hair. A pint is enough for a shampoo, no soap being used. The hair and scalp are wet thoroughly and rubbed, after which they are rinsed in clear water. The wine has a small percentage of acid, so that it is a cleansing agent.

Rhubarb and honey shampoo is suited to blonde hair. It is made by steeping an ounce of strained rhubarb and an ounce of honey in three ounces of white wine. This stands over a night and day, when it is gently warmed and strained.

To use, the hair is wet evenly, the mixture drying on in the sun.

It is then rinsed off, again drying in the sun. No soap is used.

Hints on Gardening For the Amateur

Having soil worked as fine as it can be is one of the most important details of a successful garden or window box. Amateurs, unaware of this fact, not infrequently ignore the soil condition entirely after removing stones, or they pulverize it unevenly, leaving great lumps.

Unless the soil is very fine, small roots and shoots that first come from seeds cannot make any growth, for they lack strength to push through or around obstructing lumps. Success in raising flowers from seeds is assured under normal conditions, if they are started in well screened or sifted soil.

It is not enough to have it so at the beginning, however. At no time may the dirt harden and settle, if best results are to be obtained. At all times after the seeds have put forth shoots the soil must be kept fine. Not only then are the roots aided in making growth, but more moisture reaches them. It is practically impossible to "work" or cultivate a garden too much, taking care always not to disturb the roots.

The amateur gardener who wishes success must take great care in watering seeds or plants. The soil should be kept moist, but not wet. There is a great difference between the two conditions, and if wet, rather than damp, rot is apt to set in.

Watering seeds and young plants should always be done with a fine sprinkler such as is on the end of a watering pot. A heavy stream will pack the soil as well as distribute water unevenly.

Covering seeds to their depth with soil is a general rule, rather safe to observe. If very fine ones, such as mignonette, are to be put in, they may be dropped through a sieve or from the thumb and forefinger, using a smooth, thin board to "firm" the soil over. If done with the flat of the hands it may not be as even.

A CAUTIOUS GIRL.

"Do you believe in long engagements?" he asked after she had consented to be his.

"Yes, dearest," she replied. "I have always thought it was such a mistake for two people to rush into matrimony before they learn to really know each other."

"Well, about how long would you wish the engagement to be?"

"Let me see. Would you think it was too long if we didn't get married until a week from next Thursday?"

BREATH WAS TOO MUCH.

Manager—I am greatly disappointed in your acting, sir. You have completely ruined my new play by your cold and wooden performance in the love scene.

Leading Man (angrily)—Then why in thunder do you have a leading lady who eats onions?

CHEAP AT THAT.

"Well, thank heaven," said the clerk in a downtown office the other day, "our engagement is broken, and I'm not out much."

"How much?" inquired the book keeper.

"Well, I spent $1.00 for candy and paid four instalments on the ring."

KINDNESS.

Mr. Prosperous—A great, big, able-bodied man like you ought to be ashamed to ask a stranger for money.

Meandering Mike—I know I ought, but mister, I'm too kind-hearted to tag you on the head and take it away from you.

ASPARAGUS FRICASSEE—One bunch of asparagus, one large or two small heads of lettuce, half a dozen sprays of watercress, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste and one lump of sugar. Scrape and wash the asparagus and boil it slightly salted water until tender. In a saucepan melt one tablespoonful of butter, add one tablespoonful of flour and one scant pint of water in which the asparagus was boiled. Cut the asparagus in small bits and add it to the sauce with the lettuce torn into small pieces, the cream, parsley and sugar. Simmer for 15 minutes, add one teaspoonful of lemon juice, season to taste and serve.
