Why Not Publish It?
When you want a fact to become generally known, the right way is to publish it. Mrs. Joseph Kallans, Peru, Ind., was troubled with belching, sour stomach and frequent headaches. She writes, "I feel it my duty to tell others what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me. They have helped my digestion and regulated my bowels. Since using them I have been entirely well." For sale by all dealers.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Yeoman, formerly of Newton township, where he was the trustee for some time, have just returned from Whitley county, where they have resided for several years. They will spend the winter with Mrs. Yeoman's mother, Mrs. Mary Powell, on north West Washington street. Mrs. Powell has been in poor health for some time. Mr. Yeoman has been very successful in Whitley county and last year purchased a farm of 25 acres for $86 per acre and this year sold it for $131 per acre. He also raised $34 worth of corn per acre on it. His son, Alva, is married and is living on Mr. Yeoman's other farm near Columbia City.

Col. S. C. Spoor, 84 years of age, and for many years a resident of Goodland, died Tuesday morning. He was the father of Mrs. A. J. Kitt, of that place.

Toned Up Whole System.

Chamberlain's Tablets have done more for me than I ever dared hope for," writes Mrs. Esther Mae Baker, Spencerport, N. Y. "I used several bottles of these tablets a few months ago. They not only cured me of bilious attacks, sick headaches and that tired-out feeling, but toned up my whole system." For sale by all dealers.

Mrs. Harry Thomas, of Parr, has been quite sick with an attack of appendicitis, but is now somewhat improved and a surgical operation will probably be avoided.

Miss Edith Sawin entertained "the bunch" Thursday evening at a most delightful "little girl's party." All the guests dressed as little girls and a splendid time was enjoyed.

What Would You Do.

There are many times when one man questions another's actions and motives. Men act differently under different circumstances. The question is, what would you do right now if you had a severe cold? Could you do better than to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended by people who have used it for years and know its value. Mrs. O. E. Sargent, Peru, Ind., says, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is worth its weight in gold and I take pleasure in recommending it." For sale by all dealers.

Dr. Hemphill has been home from the Methodist hospital at Indianapolis since Wednesday. He is still very weak and it was the instruction of the hospital surgeons that he should not undertake to practice any for ten days or two weeks after his return home.

PUBLIC SALE.

Of livery stock, at Remington, Indiana. As I am going to move away I will sell at public auction on SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1914, commencing at 1 o'clock p. m., all my livery stock, consisting of horses, carriages, buggies, dray, hacks, harness, robes, blankets, stable tools, clippers, office furniture and fixtures, hay and feed.

17 sets good single harness; 8 sets good double harness; a number of good leather nets, some never used; 50 good leather halters; a number of blankets and robes.

Terms—A credit of 10 months with interest at 6 per cent; under $10 cash; 2 per cent off for cash.

ED SUTHERLAND.

Col. W. H. Kenyon, Auct.

Geo. A. Chappell, Clerk.

Useful Dairy Notes.

If you haul your milk to the creamery invest $5 in a cover for your wagon. It will save its cost in a week.

Don't forget to salt the cows. They need it now as much as in the winter time.

The big, raw-boned crib-like dairy cow is going out of style and the smaller, well-formed animal is asserting her superiority.

Oliver Gridley, an Iowa dairyman, uses a gasoline engine, a milking machine and lights the barn with electricity. He began with a few cows.

A Wisconsin man fed one of his cows 600 worth of feed last year, and her pasture, feeding, milking and stabling cost $11.50 more, making her total cost $71.50, but she produced $90 worth of butter, $17.70 worth of manure, $1 worth of skim milk and a calf worth $5, making her total income $114.

Salting cows regularly has much to do with the ease or difficulty with which the butter will come. Let them have access to salt at all times.

A Classified ad. will sell it.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bedwetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Crop Improvement

Standardize Your Wheat. Grow a Single Pure Variety Best Adapted to Your Locality.

GROW ONE VARIETY

Community Action in Wheat Production in Past Would Have Prevented Enormous Loss.

Carlton R. Ball, Cerealist, U. S. Department of Agriculture, has issued a bulletin on "Community Growing of Crop Varieties." After describing the obvious advantages of community action, he says:

"Still another form of cooperation has been induced by direct economic problems connected with crop and stock production. Such, for instance, are community campaigns against noxious weeds, insect pests, fungus diseases, animal diseases, cattle thieves, and the like."

Advantages of Community Action.

"The chief advantage of community action, and the usual incentive for it, is that it brings to the individual some desirable thing which he could not obtain by his own unaided efforts. The benefit which may accrue from the cooperative regulation of crop varieties or cropping methods in any given community will vary with the crop and the uses to which it is to be put. The direct result may be to handicap the operations of some insect pest, as the cotton boll-weevil; to control some troublesome weed pest, as the Russian thistle; to avoid injury by some fungus disease, as smut or rust in wheat and oats; to gain access to profitable markets at a specified time, as in the case of perishable fruits and truck crops; to enable the profitable sale of new or improved crop varieties, as durum wheat or long staple cotton; to prevent the results of undesirable cross pollination, as in cotton and corn, or to avoid mechanical mixture and consequent lowering of grade and value, as in most cereal crops."

In the United States and Canada wheat is grown annually to the extent of about 55 million acres, yielding an average of about 840 million bushels. One of the most evident facts in the wheat-growing areas is the mixture of varieties.

A mixture of hard and soft common wheat or a mixture of common and durum wheat would be really serious in its financial effects. A mixture of two varieties with similar kernel characters would result in no appreciable commercial disadvantage, no matter how different the varieties might be in outward appearance.

Some striking examples of the need for communal action in wheat production may be cited. When the durum wheat was first grown in the United States the farmers could find no market for it as wheat, but were compelled to accept feed prices for it, 20 to 25 cents a bushel less than for other wheat. The millers did not want it because it required special tempering to prepare it for grinding. They also asserted that its flour was of little value for bread-making when ground. Doubtless it was in demand for export to be used abroad in making macaroni and semolina but the growers often were isolated and the quantity tributary to many elevators was small. During succeeding years the spread in price between durum and common wheat has been closed gradually until the crop of 1912 sold at a premium over common wheat. If, in the early days of durum wheat production, communities where this wheat was especially adapted had combined to produce it in quantity and to obtain a fair price for it, the long period of discrimination against it would have resulted from such action. These arguments still hold good in localities where durum wheat is being newly introduced since there is bound to be discrimination where the grain is presented in less than ear lots.

Conditions similar to those described existed when the hard red winter wheats were first brought to the Central Plains area and community cooperation would have done much to relieve the onerous situation.

QUALITY IN WHEAT

Food Value Depends Upon Amount and Quality of Flour It Will Produce—Care After Harvesting.

The responsibility of the farmer does not cease when he has matured a good quality of grain in the field. Exposure, while standing in the shock causes bleaching, sprouting, increase in moisture-content and consequent decrease in test weight per bushel. This means a lower commercial grade and, hence, a lower price.

Sprouted wheat cannot produce good, sound flour that will make good bread. Also, taking up moisture while in the shock or in poorly built stacks may cause heating to take place, and the result will be "bin burn" or "stack burn" wheat, which is unfit for flour making.

The presence of smut balls from "bunt" or stinking smut, imparts a disagreeable odor and a dark color to the flour as well as to the wheat. All these facts serve only to emphasize the importance of thoroughly good farming to produce quality as well as quantity.
