THE HOOSIER KITCHEN CABINET The Hoosier is First Choice the Country Over

In choosing the Hoosier as permanent equipment in our Domestic Science Department, our School Board is simply following the decision of hundreds of other schools, colleges and universities all over the country.

The Hoosier is now used in all the leading universities. It has become the standard equipment for Domestic Science Departments because it is planned throughout from top to bottom by Domestic Science experts.

For years these experts in the science of cooking and house-keeping have been working on the perfection of design and arrangement of the Hoosier.

They have gotten it to a point where it will save the maximum number of steps for the woman who uses it—and this perfection has enabled us to give this broad guarantee to every owner—"Your money back if you are not delighted."

These six vitally important features cannot be duplicated—many of them are patented:

- 1—All-metal flour bin with glass front.
- 2—Gear-driven shaker flour sifter.
- 3—Revolving spice rack.
- 4—Ingenious, big capacity sugar bin.
- 5—Big, broad cupboard space with plenty of room to work—not hampered with partitions.
- 6—Doors with handy trays that hold small utensils or the new roll doors without extra cost.

Come to our store tomorrow and sit in front of the Hoosier. You may use each one of these features and see how they will save miles of steps for you in your own home. We'll be glad to tell you of our easy terms that will enable you to buy the Hoosier now if you wish. But remember! Call at once—you'll not be obligated if you do not wish to buy now.

LINCOLN

(THE GETTYSBURG ADDRESS OF THE GREAT EMANCIPATOR WHOSE BIRTHDAY WE CELEBRATE TODAY)

Delivered November 19, 1863.

"... With an unconscious air, the President came forward at the call, put his spectacles on his nose, and read, in a quiet voice which gradually warmed with feeling, while his care-worn face became radiant with light of genuine emotion, the following brief address:" (Francis F. Browne's Every Day Life of Lincoln.)

"Four score and seven years ago our Fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether this nation, or any other nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of the war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place of those who have given their lives that the nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, and from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and the government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from this earth."

—ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

WOMEN ENJOY NOTED VISITOR

RENSSELAER WOMEN ENJOY
HOME COMING OF MRS.
Mc CARTER.

Rensselaer has been enriched by the recent "Home Coming" of Mrs. Margaret Hill McCarter, who, from the time she first entered into its life as principal of the high school, has endeared herself to the hearts of her old pupils and friends, who, through all the intervening years have watched, with pride, her rise in the world of letters.

A native of Indiana, she has been endowed with that gift of Authority which has been the heritage of many other of the state's children. Her pen-pictures have revealed new realms of thought and action into which she has lead all these devoted followers, ever giving them that of herself which has lifted them up and beyond the petty things of life, into those far broader and better.

Mrs. McCarter has become recognized as one of the leading women of the country, and because of her wonderful personality, high standards, splendid convictions, and gift of impart to others through talented speech, she was chosen by Mr. Hays, national chairman of the Republican party, as one of the three vice-chairmen of the women's department of his national committee, being the first woman chosen to act on the executive committee.

From coast to coast she has traveled, taking every state a vital message for the uplift and betterment of our nation. Everywhere she has been greeted with honor and appreciation, and coming here, as she did, in the full glory of her achievements, the people of Rensselaer again threw open their hearts and homes and bid her welcome.

She brought splendid messages to the Woman's Clubs on Monday evening at the west court room, the High School on Tuesday afternoon at the auditorium, and to the women of the Republican party on Tuesday evening at the stately home of Mrs. Ora Ross.

On Monday evening her address was of a non-partisan nature, being an appeal to the women, by their vote, to help in solving the five great problems which confronted our nation today.

These are the Physical, or Health conditions, the Economic or Industrial questions, the problem of better education, and that of Patriotism.

She pointed out the reason why the Government functioned through parties, and urged the necessity of women choosing and affiliating with that party which, through its ideals, platform, and organization, would come the nearer solving these great problems.

After this address, Mrs. A. H. Hopkins, as representative of the Woman's Literary club, made a beautiful and appropriate speech presenting Mrs. McCarter with an exquisite bouquet of roses.

To the pupils of the high school she appealed for a higher and broader education and urged them to attend college and thus better fit themselves to become finer and nobler citizens.

She said, as she stood and looked at those beautiful young people, so full of hope and life—the coming citizens of our country—she thought of the destruction which would come to them should Bolshevism sweep our land, as is threatened she breathed a silent prayer of "God forbid."

To the Republican women she gave a purely partisan address. She told them why she was a Republican. Because that party stood for Prosperity, Progress and Patriotism, and gave as an illustration in each case the contrasting conditions which have existed and now exist under Democratic rule. She appealed to the women to use judgment in voting and to realize the two great needs: those of Intelligence and Sense of Responsibility.

During her sojourn in Rensselaer, Mrs. McCarter was the guest of Madam Norman Warner and her three sons, Grant, Hale and Charles and their families, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Murray, all of whom are old and much beloved friends.—Contributed.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO GIVE PLAY

The members of the First Christian church will combine business and entertainment in their annual meeting, which will be held on Thursday evening, February 19th. At that time a group of the young people will give a play entitled "Dr. Cure-All." Reports of all the organizations of the church will be given and officers will be elected.

The play to be given represents a Doctor who advertises to cure all ills and who is altogether too successful in his practice because the patients have too much faith in his remedies. The fat lady becomes too slender and the short lady becomes too tall. A widow in search of a husband succeeds in capturing the doctor and they leave together in time to save the Doctor from his infuriated patients. The cast of characters are as follows:

Dr. Cure All.....Billie Grow
Maria, the maid.....Elizabeth Hemphill
Mrs. Brown.....Zella Hershman
Miss Jane Scrimps.....Gladys Lambert
Mrs. Rotchkins.....Elizabeth Hebbard
Miss Kate Hotchkins.....Dolly Arnot
Alphonso de Jones.....Ewart Merica
Miss Seraphine Paddington.....Vera Wood
Mrs. Scrawny.....Lillian Dahmcke
Mrs. Blooming, a widow.....Lucile Mackey

PRESSING MACHINE ARRIVES; DRY CLEANER HAPPY

No more long hours of tedious work over the ironing board for the dandy little dry cleaner—his pressing machine has arrived!

For you who are far behind the times we might state that the dandy little dry cleaner is none other than Herman B. Tuteur, Washington street merchant.

For many months the dandy little dry cleaner had promised his patrons that he would install a pressing machine that he might be able to do their work more promptly. But time wore on and still no pressing outfit, and still dry cleaner promised, and still his patrons fumed as they wore trousers that bagged at the knees.

Eventually the suffering public grew skeptical and were not backward in making their thoughts known. "It's in Cleveland now," was all the frantic little iron wielder could shout, and the echo answered, "we don't believe it."

But dry cleaner is happy now for his Hoffman back saver reclines peacefully on the floor of his establishment, impatient to be off on its trail of sorrow—for little does it know of the woes that come to the d. l. d. c. Perhaps in six months, perhaps in six weeks, perhaps in less time than that the familiar figure of the auburn haired youth will be seen coaxing along the little machine that has come to take the place in his heart so long held by the ill-fated Nancy Chevrolet.

Taxes!!

DO YOU like to pay taxes? Probably not, even when you know they are buying police and fire protection, educational advantages and the like.

Certainly you don't enjoy paying a tax to a merchant on every thing you buy of him—especially when that tax be an "EXTRAORDINARY LARGE PROFIT."

We hold no general "reduction sale," either "public or private." We just give you honest-to-goodness values the whole year round.

We manage to make enough money with which to purchase daily bread but do not claim the distinction of having made at any time "EXTRAORDINARY LARGE PROFITS."

FRANCESVILLE EASY PREY; SCORE IS 47 TO 12

Francesville high school, boasting of a win over the strong Medaryville five, came to Rensselaer Wednesday evening intent on scalping the Red and Black. For their attempt they were terribly mangled by the men of Schaupp in a one-sided affair, curtains finding Rensselaer in the lead 47 to 12. At no time during the evening did the game resemble a contest and the first period closed with the home five on the long end of a 21 to 8 count.

Francesville's passing was poor and their team work was exceptionally so and they had difficulty in working the ball toward Rensselaer's goal. Their attempts at goal shooting were pitiful with the exception of one of their forwards.

For Rensselaer the work of Grow at back guard stood out like a beacon light. In the opening period Coach Schaupp used some of his second string men who were replaced by regulars in the second stanza. Captain Collins and his brother rung up many points and Tilton and Larsh added greatly to the total in the final chapter.

Arnot, one of the regular guards, was forced to leave the game the second half and was replaced by Jay who did well.

Medaryville will be the next opponent to be met here, coming here Friday evening of this week.

ATTENDING VICTORY CONVENTION

This is called the victory convention as the women hope soon to have the national suffrage amendment ratified by the required thirty-six states. Idaho fell in line Wednesday and thirty states have ratified, but six more are needed.

KING OF GINSENG BRINGS CROP TO MARKET

E. M. Thomas brought some valuable produce to market this Thursday morning in the way of forty-five pounds of ginseng, an herb root with which the majority of the people of this country are unfamiliar. Ginseng is a medicinal herb used chiefly in China, and it is to that country that Mr. Thomas' ginseng is bound. Mr. Thomas has raised the herb for the past several years and has found it to be unusually profitable. The root is planted early in the summer and dug in the fall, after which it is permitted to dry for several months before being placed on the market. Ginseng at the present time is quoted at $18.25 a pound, and Mr. Thomas' supply will net him upwards of $800. The valuable herbs are being sent to a St. Louis concern.

The reason that such a profitable venture is not more generally followed in this country is that very few people know how to raise the herb, and Mr. Thomas is one of the few who has studied ginseng cultivation.
