W. C. T. U. CONFERENCE IN INDIANAPOLIS

What next?

This question, so far as the W. C. T. U. is concerned, is answered in the regional conference which is to be held in Indianapolis, Feb. 25 and 26, when the program for the next five years will be discussed with those who are in charge of the several departments of work on hand to outline plans and tell of achievements. Mrs. Elizabeth P. Anderson, National Recording Secretary of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will preside over the conference. She will be assisted by Mrs. Culla J. Vaghey, president of the Indiana W. C. T. U., who will also serve as hostess president of the conference.

Mrs. Mary Harris Armour of Crawfordsville, Indiana, known everywhere as a forceful speaker, will speak at the afternoon meeting on Wednesday, February 25, as well as at the evening meeting on Thursday, when she will give an address on World Prohibition. The first evening there will be a mass meeting, at which Mr. Charles J. Orison, Federal Prohibition Director for the Indiana District, will discuss the Eighteenth Amendment, and relation of state machinery with federal machinery for enforcement. Preceding Mrs. Armour's address Thursday evening, there will be a grand temperance rally and the presentation of a "Life" play, depicting the Americanization work undertaken by that department of the W. C. T. U.

The national directors of the Child Welfare, Americanization, Social Morality and Scientific Temperance Instruction departments of W. C. T. U. work will present their subjects at the several day sessions. They have very ambitious plans for the extension of the welfare work of this organization now that the passage of the prohibition amendment has removed the necessity for such close application to that part of the program.

Women from Indiana, Illinois, North Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, and North and South Dakota are represented in this conference.

MADE BRAVE FIGHT FOR LIFE

Half-Breed Sailor, Wrecked Off Philippines, Simply Determined He Would Not Die.

Among the crew of the Polgar, a ship that foundered off Malabon, in the Philippines, was a half-breed sailor named Alejandro Lorenzo. In the moment of the ship's sinking he was agile enough, and lucky enough, to leap clear of the wreck and escape the deadly suction of the disappearing vessel. He was alive, and uninjured, but he was many miles from shore, and there was no help in sight.

After swimming for an hour he found a hatch cover on which he rested. Then pushing the hatch cover ahead, he started for San Nicolas. He was just reaching shallow water when the tide carried him out to sea again.

As night came on the wind increased and the waves tossed him and his hatch cover back and forth till he was almost exhausted, being washed toward the Cavite shore. For several hours he drifted in, but just as his hope grew strong the tide and wind swept him in spite of his struggles once more out to sea.

Something brushed against his leg. He thought that it was a shark and screamed in fear. "It did not touch me, or I should have gone mad," he said. The water was cold, the night was dark and the rain beat down on him. He heard a cry in the darkness, and pushed his hatch cover in the direction whence the sound came. He found a Filipino boy, another survivor of the wreck, clinging to an oil box. They drifted together.

When daylight came they could see boats, but could not make themselves heard or seen. They were tortured by thirst, salt water got into their mouths, they drifted all day.

Night came again. Soon after dark they saw the lights of a breakwater, and with new hopes noticed that the lights grew larger and more distinct. They were being washed toward the shore. But the boy could not hold out. Taken with cramps, he lost his hold on the oil box and went down. The man was washed into the middle of the bay and drifted all night.

At dawn he was almost ready to give up, but the wind and waves headed him for the shore and he took heart. Then he saw boats and used his last strength in trying to reach them. The boatmen saw him, were able to get to him in time and picked him out of the water. There was not much of the man left, and shrieking for water, he collapsed in the bottom of the boat.

As he lay on a pallet, after he found himself able to talk again, his rescuers spoke of his wonderful endurance. Alejandro in reply said that, of course, he had done the best he could. He wanted to live, he said.—New York Herald.

Double Performers.

The other night Mrs. Carrie B. Adams, leader of Terre Haute's community singing, and Maj. Birch Bayh, of the Indiana State Normal school, were on the same program. Now, Mrs. Adams did not know that Major Bayh was the speaker of the evening, but she did know that he could sing. So when the audience seemed rather tired she turned to Mr. Bayh and said: "You sing the next verse as a solo."

Major Bayh seemed embarrassed, but complied with her request. Hardly had he taken his seat when his speech was announced. He arose, greeted his audience and then turned to Mrs. Adams: "Now, before I get through I'm going to call on you to play 'ring-around-the-rosy,' or do some stunt out here on the floor," he threatened.

The audience laughed, but Mrs. Adams was evidently bluffed; for she immediately found it necessary to go in search of her coat.—Indianapolis News.

Mixed Relationship.

Here is a double marriage at Salem, Ore., in which one bridegroom is both father-in-law and stepfather to the other, while the other becomes both son-in-law and stepson. The doors of the county clerk's office were just closing when two men appeared and asked if it were possible to obtain marriage licenses at so late an hour.

Upon being assured that a license could be issued, August Kluge, aged fifty-four, and a carpenter by trade, produced the necessary physical certificate and received a license to marry Mrs. C. K. Kayser, forty-five of this city.

Mr. Kayser's mother is the prospective bride of Mr. Kluge, so the couples probably will have no little trouble in trying to decide their relationship to each other.—St. Louis Republic.

Untidy Streets.

The New York Merchants' association has an antislitter bureau, that is now engaged in a campaign against dirty streets. The cost of cleaning up the refuse that should have been dropped into the very convenient containers, but is just dropped in the street instead, is enormous. School children are reported as serious offenders, for they bring paper from the schoolroom and tear and scatter it upon the streets. That isn't patriotic—not a bit.

Trademark, as It Were.

Walford wanted to go to his Aunt Addie, but had a dirty face. His mother said: "If Aunt Addie has company she would be ashamed of you with such a dirty face." "Oh, no, she wouldn't," she would just say "This is one of Margaret's boys."

TEFFT.

Frank Slight and wife, who went to California last fall, returned. Frank was hunting and fishing ever since and has gained 35 lbs., in weight and looks exceedingly young and Mrs. Slight is looking fine. It surely pays to have a few months' vacation in the sunny south. Welcome home, old top.

Mr. Hohner, the president of the Community Club, has announced there will be a fine program of home talent Friday evening, Feb. 27. We want everybody to do something. Speakers and singers will be announced next week, so come across and be a volunteer. Have your name on the program.

Ed Schrader's family are recovering nicely from an attack of the flu and we are glad of it.

Conrad Myers' family are also recovering after 10 days of this flu business. No more flu in Kankakee township as we know of.

Luther Albin has moved to Tefft into his new home, which he has been remodeling. Albin expects to drive his new car to Montana this summer to see his boys, who are extensive farmers there.

Verna Baker, of Davenport, Ia., has made application for a position at the school next fall. We just wonder if Walter knows it. Ah, Walter, Ah, Ah.

Tom Maloney's family have all been sick, but are improving at this writing.

Mr. Able stayed at Peregrine's Saturday night and took Don to church Sunday. The crowd seems to keep coming despite the cold weather.

M. Anderson bought a fine brood sow at C. K. Brown's sale Saturday. Anderson didn't know how to feed a hog properly so gave her scrambled eggs for Sunday breakfast. The first hog Anderson ever owned so lets wish him luck. Surely some one will give him some pointer on the feed.

The boiler went wrong at the school Sunday, so Bill Jeffries got steam up in his lizzie, and took a hike for Valpo to get repairs. He made excellent time and avoided the pipes from freezing up.

A lot of serge goods were sold at Brown's sale Saturday. Wm. Jeffries bought a bunch of 50 yds. but to our surprise a few bachelors went in on it pretty strong as follows: John Shirer, Buss Marble, Nic Rasmussen, were the chief buyers, these three buying over 300 yards. Of course some people didn't tumble but they are now fixed before some woman pops the question.

THAYER.

Mr. Henry Cobb, who works in Hammond, visited here with his family from Saturday evening until Monday.

Mrs. Vernon Cyphers of Hammond was here last week looking after property.

Ben Darrough of Morocco is here this week on business and is making his headquarters at Frank Fullers.

It is rumored that we are to have a first class butcher shop in Thayer. Let's hope so, anyway.

Mrs. H. Cobb and daughter, Beulah, and Mrs. Gene Rice and son, Platt, were at Shelby last Thursday taking in some of the white sale at George Dickey's store.

Milton Cobb and Bob Boswinkle were Hammond visitors last Wednesday.

Dr. Rice of Roselawn made a professional call here last Saturday.

Harry Ryles and Ock Cyphers went hunting last Sunday. Ock said he did not sweat any as there was a nice cool wind blowing all day.

Ben Fogli, Jr., of Chicago, visited with home folks Sunday, to Mr. Born, Feb. 14, twin boys, to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Curdin.

Dr. W. W. Tate was the attending physician. Mrs. Ritter, of Hammond, and Mrs. Seydel, of Chicago, visited with their father Saturday and Sunday.

Wm. Keppering went to Kentland Sunday to see his wife, who is in St. Margaret's hospital.

SHELBY.

Madeline Slocumb and Harriet Miller, of Lowell, were Shelby visitors Tuesday.

J. M. Dickey has transferred his place of residence from Shelby to Water Valley.

J. M. Dickey transacted business in Hammond Tuesday.

Mrs. E. P. Williams and Mrs. I. N. Hathaway went to Hammond Wednesday to see Mrs. Geo. Hathaway, who is in St. Margaret's hospital.

Mrs. J. H. Marquis and son, of Schneider, were shopping in Shelby Thursday.

Geo. Hathaway went to Hammond Sunday to see his wife, who is in St. Margaret's hospital.
