METHODIST MEETINGS.

The Rev. Robert O. Kimberlin closed his work here last night. His sermons have been strong and helpful and were greatly enjoyed by our people. Prof. L. W. Braw will be with us on Sunday night and then will assist in a series of meetings at Delhi. The congregation singing under his leadership has been splendid. The meetings have done great and abiding good. We expect next Sunday to be a great day. The Sunday school will begin promptly at 9:30. At 10:45 there will be reception of members and communion service. The Epworth League will meet at 6:00 o'clock, and the pastor will preach on "Isaiah's Parable of the Vineyard" at 7 o'clock. The public is most cordially invited to attend these meetings.

The Republican has received a postal from H. J. Gowland, who has just moved to Michigan, which reads as follows:
Galen, Mich., R.F.D. 1
March 16, 1920.

Editor Republican—
We arrived at Dayton in fine shape and have moved into our new home. We are well pleased and like it here. Ernest was down from Chicago to see us Saturday and Sunday. One thing we have missed, we have not had the Republican.
Yours truly,
H. J. GOWLAND.

STATE AUDITOR DEMANDS AN EXTRA SESSION

Indianapolis, March 19.—There will be a special session of the General Assembly within the next ninety days to appropriate additional funds for the state institutions or the institutions will have to close, Otto L. Klaus, auditor of state, declared in a statement issued yesterday.

By the last of next month at least three of the institution will have exhausted their appropriations, Mr. Klaus said, and by the end of June a majority of the institutions will be out of funds.

"When the present appropriations are exhausted I will not draw warrants on the general fund to pay the institutional bills," Mr. Klaus said.

"I see no reason," he continued, "why the assembly can not convene and pass on the institutional appropriations, the proposal to erect a war memorial building and correction of election laws and then adjourn."

It is pointed out in the statement that the institutions will incur a deficit of at least $300,000 during the present fiscal year and that the auditor will not continue to shoulder the responsibility of caring for deficits out of the general fund. Mr. Klaus explains that in 1918 under the stress of war he consented to the use of the general fund to meet appropriations and that this action was legalized by the 1919 General Assembly. When prices continued abnormally high in 1919, Mr. Klaus said, and the appropriations again failed to cover the maintenance costs, he followed the precedent of the year before in the expectation that a special session of the Assembly would be called early this year to approve the action.

The statement issued by Mr. Klaus follows in part:

"As it is now certain that the appropriations for the state institutions will fall short of their needs during the present fiscal year, a special session of the General Assembly must be called within the next ninety days to appropriate additional revenue. Within the next month at least three of the institutions will exhaust their appropriations for the fiscal year of 1919-1920 and by July a majority of the institutions will be out of funds. I have determined that when the present appropriations are depleted I will not draw warrants on the general fund to meet the bills. Unless the legislature is called in special session I see no alternative but to close the institutions.
