To All Users of Binder Twine.

As binder twine has been high for the past two years it has worked a hardship on the farmers as well as the merchants. For this reason we have concluded to conduct our twine business on a different plan this year.

To all our customers in Jasper County who place their orders for the amount of twine they will want for the coming harvest and will take the twine from the car the day it arrives and pay cash we agree to handle it for 50c per hundred over wholesale cost F. O. B. RENSSELAER.

If you should order twine direct in 1,000 pound lots you would pay more than the 50c we charge you for handling. There is more than 50c difference in a 30,000 pound car and small shipments. There is also one-half less freight in carload shipments than in local shipments, therefore if you co-operate with us you reap the most benefit.

We have two reasons for selling twine this way:
 First—We want to serve our customers who have stood by us for years.

Second—As we sell the machines that use the twine we are interested in selling first class twine in order that the machines may work in a satisfactory manner.

You have your choice of Deering or McCormick twine. Deering is put up in 8 1-3 pound balls.

Deering and McCormick twines are considered the highest grade twines on the market.

We are taking orders every day and you should get your order in at once if you want to get your order in this car.

In case you fail to take advantage of this offer we will have twine in stock in our ware room but not at this price as it costs money to unload and carry in stock, so will have to charge 1c more per pound than we get at the car.

JESSE NICHOLS,
 Clerk of the Jasper Circuit Court.

WOOD AND POINDEXTER.

One incident in the South Dakota debate between General Wood and Senator Poindexter was deeply illuminative of the character of General Wood. Senator Poindexter, an uncompromising enemy of the peace treaty, in justifying his opposition expressed disapproval of a gift by congress of $100,000,000 to Europe. He contrasted this generosity with the congressional attitude in respect to widows' pensions and soldier benefits. With the true instinct of the politician he showed how this money might have been spent to the advantage of his South Dakota audience in building roads, in irrigation, in school improvements, in providing farms for soldiers. At the end of his period there was the prolonged applause that the senator had bid for.

General Wood here interrupted, addressing the audience. This is what he said, as reported by Mark Sullivan in the Philadelphia North American: "I refuse to believe that you are expressing disapproval of a Christian act. If you are, you are not fit to be Americans. Are you people going to deny food and clothing to starving Europe? If you are, you are unfit to live under the American flag."

Imagine Senator Harding or Governor Lowden saying that! No politician could have said it. It required courage, honesty, a point of view utterly opposed to the narrowly political. It was a spontaneous reaction that showed depth of feeling, broadness of view, an integrity and a candor that are not often found in a candidate for political preferment. Senator Poindexter was obviously aiming at pleasing the prejudices of his hearers. General Wood had the courage to risk losing the sympathy of his audience and, incidentally, sacrificing votes, by taking the world point of view against the selfish sectional point of view, the humane and the Christian stand against the cruel and provincial. Perhaps no incident of the campaign to date reflects greater credit on the man, or goes further toward establishing his character for moral courage. It is likewise eternally to the credit of the South Dakota audience that it recognized the bravery and honesty of the speaker by following his interruption with the most spontaneous and prolonged applause of the evening. It is also of interest to note that altogether the honors of the debate, in the view of Mr. Sullivan, who is not a special pleader for any candidate, went to General Wood.—Indianapolis News.
