

Period Bedroom Suites Are Plentiful

We are certainly proud to be able to say: "PERIOD BEDROOM FURNITURE IS PLENTIFUL HERE." Other stores have complained of the acute shortage, but fortunately we were watching the market closely—we saw the shortage long ago and prepared accordingly. Our foresight not only gives us complete stocks, but it enables us to quote surprisingly low prices—a visit to our store will convince you of this fact.

ATTRACTED BY "GOLDEN BED"

Marquesas Islanders Fascinated by Sight of Article of Furniture New to Them.

An amusing tale is told of the coming of the first brass bed to Atuona. Atuona is one of the Marquesas islands, a place of coconut palms, and people who are still ornamentally tattooed and who used to be cannibals before the missionaries arrived and taught them better. But no missionary had ever disembarked a brass bed on the beach of Atuona; it came with the luggage of a curious traveler who had seen the island from the deck of a steamer, and felt an impulse to live there a while and see what it was like. He could not depart, he says, "without penetrating into those abrupt and melancholy depths of forest, without endeavoring, though ever so feebly, to stir the cold brew of legend and tale, fast disappearing under stupor and forgetfulness." And so one day the boat brought him ashore, and the populace welcomed him, marveling at the sight of the "golden bed" and nearly overcome with delight at the elasticity of the springs under the mattress. They took turns bouncing on it, while he drove an easy bargain with the possessor of a house for the use of that domicile in return for leaving the "golden bed" with the owner when he departed. Then, the bargain concluded, the wife of the chief who owned the house had the unique privilege of sitting on the bed, happily bouncing up and down, till it was lifted on the tattooed shoulders of four Marquesans and marched with honor to its destination.

DRINK ONLY WHEN THIRSTY

Physician Declines Having Any Set Time for the Taking of Liquid Into the System.

No rules for water drinking can be laid down, but the best guide is the thirst of the individual, according to Dr. John C. Hemmeter of Baltimore. In an address at a meeting of the American Therapeutic association.

Our bodies have a reservoir in which much water is stored; this is in the tissues underlying the skin and in the muscles. The blood and lymph contain about three and a half quarts of water. In the course of a day about two quarts of gastric juice, from one and a half to two quarts of saliva, one and a half quarts of pancreatic juice, and intestinal juices in quantities that have been estimated variously at between two and eight quarts, are secreted. Thus a man secretes altogether about eight quarts of digestive juices every day; yet he has only from three to four quarts of blood and lymph.

The mystery of whence the water comes and whither it goes is solved when we learn that the reservoirs under the skin supply it and reabsorb it. When we are thirsty it means that the supply in the reservoirs is running low. Perspiration disposes of much of this water, and by evaporation keeps the body cool. Physical work or exercise produces much heat and if a man who performs it cannot perspire his temperature goes up rapidly.
