

The Torrington Electric Suction Cleaner

JUDGE A CLEANER BY PROVEN PERFORMANCE

Every Cleaner looks good on the sales floor, but stop and ask yourself, how will it stand up under the constant hammering of week to week service? What about its promised low upkeep cost after 1 or 2 years actual service. The best way perhaps to judge an Electric Cleaner would be to go to one or all electric service stations in Rensselaer and find out for yourself which electric cleaner needs the most attention.

We have sold dozens of Torringtons and never has there been one to an electrician for repairs to our knowledge.

The two things that wears out your rugs is the motor driven brush and embedded dirt.

REMEMBER—The Torrington's rushing blast of harmless air and gentle slow speed brush (not motor driven) cannot injure your rugs or get out of order.

Try any and all makes of cleaners on your rugs and then let us deliver a Torrington and show you how much extra dirt the Torrington will get. Not only ashes, lint, thread and other surface litter, but the trodden-in, deeply embedded dirt is all removed by its powerful suction and large brush.

Since Calumet came, we've quit switching brands of baking powder—stopped looking for anything better. They don't make it. It has come to stay—because it always stays the same—and the "same" with

HIGHEST QUALITY AWARDS

PERSONALLY.

The newspaper business, like everything else, has its Ups and Downs. Sometimes the Ups predominate, sometimes the Downs. Once upon a time an enthusiastic young man started out to figure how many mistakes an eight page paper could make in one issue, but he died of old age before he completed his task.

We make mistakes every day, and we aren't ashamed to confess it, either. In the rush to get the Journal out to you so your daily routine won't be upset, mechanical mistakes are bound to occur. We ask your indulgence.

A Milwaukee paper in reporting a house party enlivened with the now lamented Pabst once made the typographical error of spelling house with an "s" instead of an "h" and made it "souse" party. So far as we know that is the only example where truth justified an error.

If we make a misstatement or create a false impression either through ignorance or lack of clarity we shall appreciate your calling our attention to the matter so that we can make the necessary correction.

The days when newspapers felt that a retraction injured their reputation or destroyed their confidence with their readers has passed. The Chicago Tribune, the world's greatest newspaper by its own admission, runs a "Beg Your Pardon" column every day.

The sole aim of the Journal is to present to you every evening in as readable form as possible the news of this community, together with such comment as we consider pertinent and fair.

Unlike the larger papers there is no chance for us to practice deception. A Chicago paper tells you the Poles are licking the Bolsheviks. Maybe so, likely not. You can't verify it on your life.

An Indianapolis paper posed for years as an Independent when a political boss controlled seventy-five per cent of its stock. During all that time intelligent people were formulating their opinions after its made-to-order editorial propaganda.

A smaller newspaper cannot mislead the people without a resultant exposure and loss of confidence.

It is our intention, therefore, with this fact in mind, to print as nearly facts as is humanly possible. If in so doing somebody's toes get in the way we offer an Open Forum Column as an antidote.

We believe in promoting every good cause, and of course in so going we are bound to come in direct conflict with the gentlemen who spend their time with a hammer destroying so far as their power permits whatever constructive forces are seeking to build up. Monticello Evening Journal.

Primary elections are to be held in three states Tuesday—Massachusetts, New Jersey and Ohio. It is predicted that Coolidge will be successful in Massachusetts, Harding in Ohio and Wood or Johnson in New Jersey.

60 Ton Miles of Motor Truck Freight Per Person

DURING 1917 (latest authentic figures available) motor trucks hauled 60 tons of freight a mile for every person in the United States.

Then the country was at war and the capacity of the railroads was overtaxed.

It is doubtful if even a small percentage of this enormous tonnage could have been moved except by motor trucks.

The management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), recognizing the necessity of furnishing facilities for supplying gasoline to automobiles and trucks as they traveled through the country, established Service Stations at convenient points throughout the territory served.

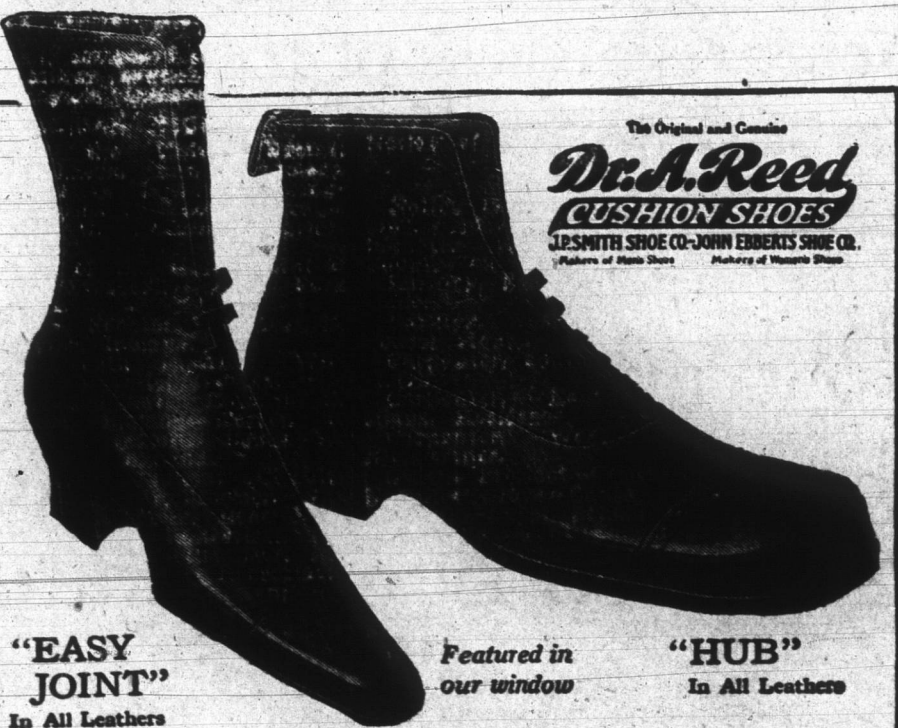

These Service Stations perfected the system of distribution maintained by the Company.

The drivers of this caravan of motor trucks which carried the 6 billion ton miles of freight in 1917 would have found their task more difficult of accomplishment had it not been for the network of Service Stations along the way.

While the Standard Oil Company was supplying a substantial share of the fuel consumed by these motor trucks, it also was supplying its regular patrons, and meeting the demands of the United States Government with great quantities of gasoline for war purposes.

Its preparedness and its ability to meet an emergency, however unheralded the emergency may be, serves to emphasize one of the salient phases of the bigness of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).
