It happened in Muncie. One of the city's socially prominent and beautiful young women was tripping along an uptown street when she met the wife of the pastor of her church.
"Oh, my dear, what a perfectly beautiful vanity case you are carrying!" exclaimed the minister's wife. At the same time the latter grasped the supposed vanity case, pressed the spring in order to see the interior, and out popped a dozen cigarettes.—Indianapolis News.

Criminal's Tracks as Good as His Calling Card.

Interesting Story of How Hun Agent Who Attempted to Blow Up Munition Plant Was Speedily Brought to Justice.

During the late war, while labor troubles, strikes and rioting were brought about by enemy agents, which interfered with the production of war material, a daring attempt was made to destroy a large munition plant. But the bomb planted under a pile of boxes in the factory failed to explode, says the Boston Globe.

The criminal forced entrance through a window by the use of a jimmy; his fingerprints were found smeared all over doorknobs and window sills; but he had worn gloves and the prints were useless as evidence.

Deep foot impressions pointing toward the factory were found on the grounds surrounding the plant. These were traced to the window where the entrance had been forced.

The deep footprints indicated that the one who made them had been carrying a heavy object, and as he had taken long steps, it showed he was a tall man. A chiropodist stationed at a nearby army camp was called into the case and he made several casts of the footprints leading to the factory.

The results of the casts showed that the criminal had worn a pointed-toed, English last shoe, with a broad heel; the shoe had been recently half-soled, and that there were heel plates of a foreign make on the heels. There was a marked pronation of the internal lateral border and also a marked abduction of the right foot, which proved a flat right foot.

Who was this "John Doe" with a marked right foot, wearing pointed-toed, English last shoes, recently half soled, with foreign make plates on the heels? What cobbler carried imported heel plates and had lately attached a pair to a newly half-soled, pointed-toed, English last shoe?

The rest was easy. John Doe was apprehended within 48 hours and is now behind prison bars.

In footprints the same ridge formation will be found as in fingerprints, but footprints taken from the bare foot are only found occasionally, because most people wear shoes. Shoe and boot prints may at times play an important part in the detection of crime, because they reproduce the characteristics of the wearer.

Pediatricists claim that determination is indicated by the feet kept in a parallel position; a calculative and curious person toes out considerably; shiftlessness and hesitancy is indicated in a swaying walk; while good health is shown by a brisk gait. Sick people drag their feet along the ground.

In the examination of shoe or bootprints will be able to determine the exact type of the shoe worn. It will also show heel plates, patches, pegs, stitches, extra nails, and where the shoe is worn more or less.

All these marks present very strong evidence that may lead to the apprehension of a criminal; as each individual by the reason of his own peculiar gait, manner of walking, etc., wears out every pair of shoes in the very same areas.

Old Dwelling Now a Theater.

The Sip manor, built in 1686, has been sold and will be razed to make way for a moving picture theater. The manor stands at Bergen avenue and Newkirk street, Jersey City, and is said to be the oldest structure in this part of the world, a New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch writes. The site for the manor was granted on January 2, 1682, by Potrus Stuyvesant to Nicholas Varlet and Balthazar Bayard. In 1776, Lord Cornwallis and a troop of British infantry passed through what was then Bergen and the English commander slept in the Sip manor that night. When Lafayette visited Colvarick, in Bergen, he planted two elm trees near the Sip manor.

The old dwelling was erected of stones gathered in the neighborhood and filled in with yellow clay and rubble. The place has been improved from time to time, but the original walls stand today as they were when built.

Simplifies Launchings.

A big steel cargo boat was launched successfully some weeks ago by the throw of a single electric switch, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Side-wise launchings have been precipitated hitherto by skilled axmen, who chopped through the launching cables at a given signal. Inattention on the part of one man, with this old method, sometimes resulted in an uneven progress down the ways, or even in disaster. With the new system, heavy wooden gullotines take the places of the axmen. The weighted blades are held at the tops of the frames by the attraction of electromagnets; when the current is broken, all the blades descend simultaneously and the vessel strikes the water on an even keel.

Lens Coal Mines in Bad Shape.

All of the year 1920 will be required to complete the removal of the debris in the pits of the coal mines around Lens, France. The majority of the mines are flooded, due to the destruction of the machinery. Electric pumps are being installed and new cement shafts will be constructed. Two or three years will be needed to pump out all the water.

MUSIC OF ANCIENT GREECE TEACHER SHORT OF SUPPLIES NOTHING TO DO BUT WORK!

Bands That Marched to War With the Soldiers Played on Flutes, Pipes and Harps.

Poetry in ancient Greece was accompanied by the cithara and the lyre, while the flute was played by both men and women in furnishing martial music to the soldiers in time of war. Musical bands marched to war with the soldiers and played on flutes, pipes and harps.

The lyre and the harp were preferred by the Greeks for private use, for it was thought they did not prevent one from remaining master of himself, while the flute, pipe or clarinet put the man beside himself and obscured reason. There were extensive choirs whose music was distinctly connected with the religious life of the people. These choirs were composed of both men and women and were employed for public and private religious festivals.

The choirs celebrated victories in war, deaths, holy days, births and marriages. Alkman, who lived as early as 650 B. C., wrote a choir song for girls which was a dramatic part song.

Practical Persons.

"You never hear of anybody addressing a poem to his caddy."

"No."

"Still there must be bonds of sympathy and gratitude between many golf players and their faithful caddies."

"No doubt; but the average golf player has neither the time nor the ability to write poetry, and the average caddy would rather be presented with a dollar than a bound volume of eulogies."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Even a girl with dreamy eyes is apt to be wide awake to her matrimonial chances.

Tommy's Excuse Rather a Poor One, but He Was in a Mighty Tight Corner.

The village schoolmaster had done very well with his war saving association. The scholars brought in their pennies regularly every week; some even had as much as a shilling to subscribe.

One Monday morning Mrs. Oates gave her son Tommy the sum of three-pence to pay in. On his return for dinner the good lady asked to see his card.

"Look here, Tommy," she said sternly, "there's only twopence entered here! How is that?"

Tommy grew pale as he saw that his sin had found him out. But the taffee in the village shop had been so tempting. However, he did his best.

"Yes, mother," he stammered, "that's all the ink the teacher had."—London Answers.

The Largest Animal.

Most boys have seen pictures of the huge lizard which roamed the earth millions of years ago, and is supposed to be the largest animal which ever lived. Searchers in Utah have discovered some bones of an animal which was twice the size of this great prehistoric animal. A hole 600 feet long and 80 feet deep had been dug when some one claimed the land. The government thereupon created a National Dinosaur Monument, comprising the locality, which will be protected until the investigations are finished. The work is being directed by the Carnegie Institute, which discovered and assembled the skeleton of the familiar dinosaur.—Boys' Life for March.

When One Thinks of It, It Is Rather a Foolish Way to Spend One's Lifetime.

The most common complaint we hear from everybody we know is that they can't keep up with all there is to be done. We make the same complaint. Like you all, we undertake to do seventeen thousand things more than the hours of the day will permit us to do.

It is an awful mistake. To be driven like a galley slave is the rule we have made for our lives. And, oh, to quit it all, or to quit all but the things we would like to do and are worth while!

To never catch up, to never know what it is not to be tired—it is a foolish way to spend a lifetime. This one and only little lifetime that is ours.

And what are we to do about it? Cut loose and run away; we guess it is the only thing to do.—Los Angeles Times.

Reckless Experiment.

"Friend," said Cactus Joe to the man who had just alighted from the bus, "could you tell us what a soviet is?"

"What do you want to know for?" "Crimson Gulch has been getting so orderly and subdued that some of our most prominent citizens are talking about leaving. We need some excitement and we wouldn't mind a little trouble if it didn't last too long. From what I can hear a soviet, if it was managed right, would about fill the bill."
