DOUGHNUT GIRL NOW LEADING CIVIL WORK

INDIANA GIRL WHO FRIED FIRST
SWEETS IN FRANCE LEADS
SALVATION ARMY WORK
IN NEW YORK STATE.

OSWEGO CITIZENS BACK HER

Indianapolis. — (Special) — From the envied position of the girl who fried the first American Salvation Army doughnut in France Adjutant Helen Purviance, an Indiana miss, has advanced to the place of "leading citizen" of Oswego, N. Y.

Miss Purviance, who is widely known in Indiana for her work with the Salvation corps in this state, was born in Huntington, Ind., and her parents now reside in Warren. She joined the Army as a soldier, May 17, 1906, in Washington, Ind., and became an officer in 1908. She was in charge of a local corps at Oswego, N. Y., when this country stepped into the war and the applied for work overseas, winning fame as the "first doughnut maker."

Adjutant Purviance is now back in Oswego doing civilian relief work and every one in Oswego is happy. During the war her absence was so strongly felt that at the time of the Salvation Army Home Service Appeal last year the citizens of Oswego promised they would give their utmost to support the work if Adjutant Purviance could be returned to her work among them. This was done and Oswego expects to make its response to Home Service one that will place it among the leaders.

The Salvation Army in Indiana will hold its Home Service Appeal from May 10 to 20. Major Arthur R. Robinson, chairman of the executive committee making the appeal, declares the outlook is most favorable for successfully raising Indiana's share of $452,000.

PLAN NEW BUILDINGS.

IMPROVEMENTS IN SIXTEEN INDIANA CITIES CONSIDERED BY SALVATION ARMY

Indianapolis. — (Special) — Building quotas apportioned for each city where improvements are needed in the establishment of the local Salvation Army corps were made public today at the headquarters of the Home Service Appeal, which is being conducted in Indiana to raise funds for the Army. The appeal was launched in most counties of the state May 10 and will continue until May 20.

A total of $452,000 is sought and the friends of the Salvation Army interested in the work for humanity being done by this organization are asked to support it by enrolling as contributors in the appeal canvass.

The total amount which the budget allows for new buildings and to pay off mortgages on Army property is $189,000. Mortgages were incurred on various properties during the lean years when the tambourine failed to produce sufficient income to keep up the work. Money was borrowed because the Army officials were unwilling to deny help to hundreds of worthy applicants whose plight made outside aid imperative.

The allotment for new buildings and the cities where they are planned are shown in the following list: Anderson, $20,000; Bedford, $5,000; Evansville, $20,000; Frankfort, $5,000; Gary, $20,000; Hammond, $20,000; Kokomo, $20,000; Lafayette, $5,000; Laporte, $5,000; Linton, $2,000; Logansport, $5,000; Mishawaka, $5,000; Muncie, $6,000; New Albany, $5,000; Newcastle, $20,000; Princeton, $5,000. Mortgages will have to be paid in Bloomington and Indianapolis.
