Corn Worth More in Silo Than In the Crib.

Aside from the fact that thousands of farmers have been able, through the silo, to convert soft, immature corn into valuable feed, the following figures illustrate why corn in the silo is worth more than in the crib:

If corn sells for 56c per bushel, silage is worth $7.12 per ton.

If corn sells for 90c per bushel, silage is worth $8.64 per ton.

If corn sells for $1.00 per bushel, silage is worth $9.22 per ton.

If corn sells for $1.25 per bushel, silage is worth $10.21 per ton.

If corn sells for $1.50 per bushel, silage is worth $11.30 per ton.

The above figures are taken from an 8-year average determined by the Indiana Experiment Station, based on the value of silage used as a substitute for grain in feeding steers.

Milroy Federation Meeting.

The Milroy farmers' meeting Tuesday evening was well attended. Their regular form of business was carried out very well. The program committee is planning on having a social meeting some time in January which will be held at Center school house. Their next business meeting night will be on February 1, at the same school house.

Barium Poisonous To Rats Makes Satisfactory Bait.

A study of barium carbonate as a rat poison, made by the United States Department of Agriculture, indicates that a 20 per cent mixture with food makes a satisfactory bait. With this percentage a rat ordinarily needs to eat only one-third or three-eighths of a meal of average size to get a fatal dose. It was found that with this dose many of the rats poisoned died within 24 hours, though an occasional rat was found which survived an even larger amount, thus indicating that 100 per cent mortality is not to be expected in any case.

A summary of results of experiments conducted by various persons with a view to determining the deadliness of barium to different animals shows the fallacy of the assumption that barium is poisonous only to rats. It is pointed out that the fatal dose of barium per pound tends to decrease relatively as the size of the animal increases, and that a bait calculated to be fatal to rats may be assumed to be more or less dangerous to small domestic animals also.

Time To Look For Mites.

This is the time of the year to be on the constant lookout for the presence of mites on the fowls, and particularly in the poultry house. These insect pests not only lower the vitality of the birds, and thus render them liable to disease, but their presence has a decided bad effect on egg production. Frequent spraying of all cracks and crevices of the house and the undersides of the roosts with kerosene or 5 per cent carbolic acid will greatly help to eradicate mites, and thus add to the comfort and general health of the birds.

"COMMUNITY NIGHT" INTRO- DUCED AT BARKLEY CHURCH

The meeting held at Barkley church last Friday night was well attended and full of interest and enthusiasm. A volunteer program furnished good entertainment for about thirty minutes after which Rev. Dean presented the idea of an evening each week to be known as "Community Night." Interesting and helpful discussion followed and a plan was formulated, whereby one Friday evening of each month will be literary evening, one evening of each month to be the young people's evening, one evening to be Community social evening and the other Friday evening of the month will be open for entertainments, suppers or Agricultural education along different lines.

A committee of five persons was elected to supervise and plan the programs and in general to have charge of the three evenings leaving the fourth evening given to the young people in the hands of the young people themselves.

The committee consists of the following: Wm. Folger, John Maxwell, Miss Jennie Eib, Mrs. John Newcome and Mrs. S. L. Jordan.

This committee to serve for a period of three months at which time a new committee will be appointed.

It was decided that it was best to wait till after the holidays before commencing the carrying out of these plans, regularly, so the next meeting will be held the first Friday of the New Year. Get out your pencil now and mark this date and make it a point to get to the Barkley church that night and get something good. These meetings are not for members of the church, only, but are for the entire community.
