ROUMANIA NEAR WAR WITH RUSS

Danubian Kingdom Prepares for Hostilities to Hold Bessarabia.

LEAGUE WOULD RULE DRUGS

Assembly at Geneva Takes Up Proposal to Assume Duties Formerly Carried on by Holland—Will Regulate Opium Traffic.

Vienna, Dec. 16.—Trouble between Roumania and soviet Russia is forecast in reports from Ukraina received here. These advices declare that Roumania is adopting measures "indicative of imminence of war" with Russia over the possession of Bessarabia.

League May Control Drugs.

Geneva, Dec. 16.—Proposal that the League of Nations assume the duties which heretofore have devolved upon Holland under the international opium convention, regulating traffic in the drug, was taken up by the assembly.

The committee which had been investigating this subject recommended that the secretariat of the league collect information from the interested countries and that the subject be further investigated by an advisory committee, including representatives from the countries especially concerned—Holland, Great Britain, France, India, Japan, China, Siam and Portugal.

Duties Devolved on Dutch.

Under the international opium convention, signed in 1912, the United States being among the signatories, various duties devolved upon the Dutch government. Among the provisos was one that the contracting powers should communicate with one another regarding various facts connected with the subject through the Dutch minister of foreign affairs. The ratification machinery also was placed in the hands of the Netherlands foreign office.

The committee report mentioned the difficulty resulting from the absence of the United States and Germany from the league and suggested that if these governments could not forward their information to the league they might continue to communicate with Holland on the subject.

Owes Gratitude to U. S.

During the discussion Dr. Wellington Koo, of the Chinese delegation, reviewed the efforts made by China during more than a century to suppress the opium habit. He recognized, he said, the great debt of gratitude China owed the United States for America's aid in this work. He was particularly pleased, he said, that the committee had decided the United States should be especially invited to send a representative to meet with the advisory committee.

PREMIER IN PEACE MOVE

Lloyd George Opens New Road to End Fighting in Ireland—Gives Permission for Parley.

London, Dec. 16.—Premier Lloyd George sent a reply to the recent request by the Rev. Michael O'Flanagan, acting president of the Sinn Fein, that time be accorded in which to consult with Eamonn De Valera and Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein, and now under arrest, respecting the endeavors being made to bring about a truce in Ireland. The premier in his reply informed Father O'Flanagan that facilities would be afforded him for seeing Arthur Griffith. Regarding De Valera, the premier wrote: "The ordinary methods of communication with America are fully open to you." The house of lords passed the third reading of the Irish home rule bill after a short debate, in the course of which Lord Dunraven reproached the government with having apparently created a sort of axiom in political science that minorities must rule.

Big Passenger Ship Hits Tree on Start to England From Paris.

London, Dec. 16.—A large passenger airplane which was leaving Paris for Crickwood, near London, with six passengers, fouled a tree, burst into flames and crashed to the ground. The pilot, a mechanic and two passengers are reported to have been killed and others of the passengers injured.

The four who lost their lives were pinned beneath the wreckage and burned to death, calling frantically for help, which it was impossible to give in time to save them. Of the four passengers who escaped two were slightly hurt, but the others were not injured. There were no Americans aboard the machine.

FRANK P. MEYER DEFENDS HIGH HEeled SHOES

Frank P. "Dutch" Meyer, president of the Illinois Shoe Retailers' Association, and son of Mrs. Wm. Meyer, of this city, in a letter to the Danville Press, his home paper, defends the high heeled shoe for women. Mr. Meyer says in part:

Editor Morning Press: "I do not wish to take issue with a learned physician as to what wearing apparel is most essential to the healthful welfare of our women, for I am not a scientist.

But the article by one of our physicians appearing in your paper regarding high heels is not sustained by facts. The theory may be perfect, but figures refute the supposition that the "Louis" or so-called opera heel is injurious.

At least 75 per cent of the dress shoes sold during the last ten years have carried Louis heels, or from two to two and one-half inches. Any observer in the foyer of a hotel lobby or on the street corner where the well dressed women and girls pass, will tell you that 90 per cent of the well dressed feet are clothed in Louis heels. Nor are these shoes on the feet of sickly looking or anaemic women.

The chic, peppy, clear-cheeked and bright-eyed girls, are invariably the wearers of the high heeled shoes. The low or military heel of course, has its place. If not too low it is proper for the tailored suit used in shopping, is not out of place in the usual half negligence of street apparel, and is probably essential in the pursuance of athletic sports, but as a dress affair, it is as foreign to the eternal scheme of style as the stocking cap would be in the stylish headgear.

If the Louis heel is inimical to health as its decriers would have one believe, the appearance of the 75 per cent of the girls who wear them it believes the facts, for no generation of women has been more beautiful, graceful, or healthful than those we are proud to boast of today.

Through evolutions of civilization, women have acquired the habit of walking upright, instead of on all fours, and it would be just as remarkable to ask all mankind to go back to the state of the flat pated and flat footed quadruped, as to ask our women, who have acquired through the process of civilization as we have followed to acquire an upright position, to go back to the arch destroying, grace degrading, flat instep shoe.

F. P. MEYER,
President of the Illinois
Shoe Retailers Ass'n.
