

GETS PRISON SENTENCE

McDonald Trial Ends in Finding of Guilty and Murderer Goes to Cell For From 2 to 21 Years.

EXPECTED TO BE SET FREE

Manslaughter, carrying with it an indeterminate sentence of from 2 to 21 years in the Indiana prison, was the verdict of the 12 men who sat as jurors in the trial of Henry F. McDonald, the man who shot and killed Chief of Detectives William Dwyer in the Vigo Circuit Court room tragedy of last April.

The verdict was returned exactly at 8:05 o'clock Saturday night. Sentence was pronounced immediately by Judge James E. Piety and an hour later McDonald, in charge of Sheriff William Horsley and Deputy Sheriff Ira Wellman, was speeding away on a Vandalla train en route to Michigan City.

It was on the advice of Judge Piety, who was apprehensive of mob violence when the comparatively light sentence became known, that led to the quick spiriting of McDonald out of Terre Haute.

Judge Knight, during the scant hour he held the floor, said much in defense of his colleague in answer to the charges made by the defense. It was evident throughout Judge Knight's argument that he was unwell. His voice was not strong and spectators in the middle of the court room were unable to catch his words. He spoke in an impassioned conversational tone, making only an occasional jesture.

"They would have been derelict of duty if they had not prosecuted that case," said Judge Knight, referring to McDonald's previous trials. "It was their duty to see that the law was enforced. Cooper did his duty and Billy Dwyer did his. The argument that they were in a conspiracy is far-fetched, it is like a drowning man grasping at a straw. I ask you to look for the facts and when you determine the facts be governed by the law as his honor on the bench will give to you."—Brazil Times.

HUGHES TO BE HERE SOON

It was learned yesterday afternoon from authentic sources that Bishop Hughes will be in Greencastle about the first of November. At present he is occupied at his home in San Francisco and in preaching throughout his district. He has completed his list of fall conferences and is making preparations for his trip east the latter part of this month. Upon October 31, he will attend the meeting of Bishops at Indianapolis and will make several speeches at that time. At South Bend he will be present at the dedication of the new Y. M. C. A. building which has but recently been completed. The Bishop is very much in demand all over the country but especially in Indiana where his numerous lectures and addresses have endeared him to the hearts of all.

According to the plans which are now being formulated by Dr. Gobin, Bishop Hughes together with all the bishops of the Methodist church will be present at the dedication of the splendid new library which graces the DePauw campus. The date for this event has not been definitely decided upon by those who have the matter in charge but it is thought that it will be about November 1. The dedication will be an elaborate one worthy of the splendid addition to the university, marking, as it does, another milestone passed in the progress of the school.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Huffman of Indianapolis is a daughter, Alice Frances. Mrs. Huffman will be remembered as Miss Flossie Ruark of this city.

RUNS FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Daniel Clay Brackney Files Affidavit Showing That he is the Candidate Of the Independence Party.

PETITION IS SIGNED IN CLAY CO.

Daniel Clay Brackney, of Warren Township, Putnam County, is to make the race for Representative from the Fifth District on the Independence ticket. This fact has been hinted at for several days but was made clear this morning when a petition was filed with the county clerk praying that his name be placed upon the ticket as the nominee of that party. The petition was signed by some two hundred and thirty voters from Clay and Vigo Counties, the majority of the names being those of men from Terre Haute, Brazil and Seelyville. The petition is accompanied by an affidavit that the signatures are genuine.

It has been rumored for several days that Mr. Brackney was out on a hunt for signers for the petition, as this was necessary since no convention was held by his party in this district. Mr. Brackney made the race for County Representative in the Democratic primary last winter and was defeated by Mr. Hostetter. He then came out for the Democratic nomination for joint senator from this district, but withdrew on the eve of the convention. He is now a full-fledged candidate for congress, and active in his support of the Hearst ticket.

PRAISE FOR HELEN BIRCH

The following criticisms taken from Galesburg, Ill., paper will be of interest to the many friends here of Miss Helen Hanna Birch:

The opening concert of Knox Conservatory of Music for the season of 1908-09 was given Thursday evening in Beecher chapel by the Conservatory faculty. The concert, which was planned primarily to introduce to the public the new members of the faculty, drew a crowd of college and city people which filled every available seat, both on the main floor and in the gallery. The splendid program given was enthusiastically received by the audience which appreciated the high merit of the work of both the familiar and the new performers. The latter made good in no uncertain manner, and the consensus of opinion expressed, was that the Conservatory is to be congratulated upon securing the services of the new members of the faculty. * * * * One of the surprises of the evening came in the Schergo in B flat minor, Chopin, played by Helen Hanna Birch, one of the new faculty members. Miss Birch displayed the characteristics of a piano virtuoso, her playing approaching in brilliancy that of some of the great performers of the day. An abundance of technique, together with a sense of artistic taste and discriminations, makes her playing remarkably effective. —The Knox Student, Galesburg, Ills.

The concert given by the faculty was primarily to introduce these two artists, Miss Birch played the Schergo in B flat minor by Chopin, and displayed a splendid technique, fine musicianship and control. Her interpretation was most brilliant, and she might well be classed with some of the professional artists of national reputation.—Galesburg Ills. News.

Monday Fred Cummings, of Cloverdale, was taken to the Epileptic Village at New Castle. This is the first patient to go to the newly established institution from this county. There was, at that time, no applicant for admission to the hospital, but later application was made for Cummings and he has been admitted.

John Martin and Dani Jall, a couple of Bulgarian workmen, who are employed at Linton were here yesterday taking treatment from Dr. Bence.

There's Everything in Your Favor

WHEN YOU BUY TAILORED SUITS READY-TO-WEAR

In the first place, They have more style, fit you better and cost you decidedly less than suits of equal merit would cost you to have them made.

In the second place, you know from experience how extremely difficult it is to find competent people to make up your materials, when you want them made.

These are a few reasons why it's so much easier for you to buy Tailored Suits ready-to-wear, than it would be to buy the materials and try to have them made to your measure.

We ordered the past week from three different suit makers some suits in colorings that had proven very good and in each instance they were unable to promise the suits wanted under three weeks.

At the same time we have now—more than double the number of new style suits we ordinarily carry in in stock.

And whether you desire a Tailored Suit light enough to wear with a Heavy Coat—or a Suit made of heavy materials—we believe that you will be able to find here just the Suit you want.

AS TO JOHN LAMB.

The Indianapolis Star yesterday contained an attack upon John Lamb, of Terre Haute, declaring that he had been an attorney for a trust, and therefore was not a fit man to conduct a campaign for the Democrats who oppose trusts. We think that no Democrat has ever opposed a man because he has been employed by a corporation, while he was in private life and gave value received in professional services. No one will, we think, go so far as to hold that a corporation is not entitled to an attorney to plead its cause before the courts. It would, we suppose, be impossible to find a lawyer of any standing that had not been employed by the corporations. There would be no justice in urging against Mr. T. T. Moore that he was unfit for office because he had represented the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Company. Unless it can be shown that a man was employed by these companies to knowingly do dirty work for them, we doubt if they are to blame. What the country does object to is for men to act as the agents or attorneys of corporations or trusts while acting as the servants of the public. What we do object to is a man elected by the people receiving from these corporations sums of money which will tend to cause him to forget the people and to act in the interests of the corporation solely. It is not legitimate for an attorney to represent a trust upon the floor of the house or senate when he is there to represent the people. That Mr. Foraker has done. That Mr. Aldrich has done, and Mr. Penrose and DePew and Platt and Hopkins. Nor do we think it wise to send to the senate or the house a man directly connected with the great trusts or railroads as is Mr. DuPont, candidate Sherman, Gageheim and one-half the senators now in seats in Washington. We consider it something against a man's fitness to take part in a campaign that he has been proved against him that he has passed legislation for hire, or has consistently stood against all that was good in legislation that was desired by the people as have Cannon and Watson. We do not know what Mr. Lamb's ambitions are, but we know that the fact that he has served in a legitimate way, as an attorney for a corporation, and this is all that is claimed against him, does not make him unfit to serve the Democratic party honestly in its present campaign for the people. Mr. Haskell and Mr. Bailey, Democrats, and the long list of Republicans have not served honestly, and for that reason are now opposed by the people as are Cannon, Aldrich, Hopkins. Some are so closely associated with great corporations that the corporate interests, by the nature of operation of human nature, must be closer to them than the interests of the people. Such are DuPont, Sheldon, Aldrich, Lodge, and even Sherman. And finally there are those whose election to office is considered so valuable to the few great corporations that they are willing to pay for such elections, and under this head comes Taft himself. These are legitimate reasons, appealing not to blind prejudice but to the thinking man. And when it is remembered that Taft is the friend of Roosevelt, lately considered the enemy of corporate wealth, its support of him, in spite of his position, is doubly suggestive.

THE SEWAGE SITUATION.
 The sewage situation is daily becoming worse. Since the city refused to compromise with Mr. Lynch, after having asked him so to do, the city has sent out notices attempting to make many persons parties to the suit. The fact is the city is at its wits end on the sewage question. They may, perhaps, grant an injunction to Mr. Lynch which will help the situation in the west side, but this will result in much hardship to many parties and to the city library. There still remains the north end to be heard from, and perhaps the south end, where conditions something similar to those in the west side are found. As a matter of fact the city officials, and especially the sewer committee has been asleep for many months. Now any way the matter is arranged there will be serious hardship to many people. It is not so much a matter of money as it is a matter of necessity on the part of Mr. Lynch and others affected on the one side, and the city and the business houses and residences that are the cause of Mr. Lynch's trouble on the other. An injunction will not better the situation, only shift it from one party to another. Let us make haste with the full system of sewers for health's sake.

TRUSTS FAVOR TAFT

"Interests" Are Strongly Represented on the Republican Committee.

SHELDON OFFICIAL FAT FRIER

List of Those from Whom He Got Contributions.

Republican Treasurer Is Director in 21 Corporations—Raised Big Fund in 1906—Recommended by Standard Oil Attorney.

Chicago, October 1.—(Special).—In connection with the controversy which the President has raised as to whether the trusts and financial concerns are most interested in the election of Mr. Taft or Mr. Bryan, the Democratic National Committee calls attention to a few of the controlling spirits in the Republican Committee who are actively interested in trusts and monopolies.

At the head of the list stands George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Sheldon's selection for this important post of official "fat frier" was made upon recommendation of Wm. Nelson Cromwell, the great corporation lawyer of Wall Street, attorney for the Panama Canal Company, E. H. Harriman, the Standard Oil Company, the Sugar Trust, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., bankers and brokers, and other favored interests. Almost immediately after his appointment, Mr. Sheldon is reported to have received a contribution from Mr. Cromwell, amounting to $50,000.

Mr. Sheldon is a multi-millionaire, the active head of the banking firm of W. C. Sheldon & Co., 2 Wall Street. According to the "Directory of Directors" for the present year, Mr. Sheldon's name appears as a director in the following 21 corporations:

American Locomotive Company.
 American Locomotive Automobile Company.
 Bethlehem Steel Corporation.
 Cincinnati Northern Railroad Company.
 Detroit Edison Company.
 Electrical Securities Corporation.
 Laclede Gaslight Company.
 Locomotive and Machine Company of Montreal (Limited).
 Locomotive Security Company.
 Metropolitan Trust Company.
 Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co.
 Milwaukee, Light, Heat and Traction Co.
 National Copper Bank.
 New Jersey Terminal Dock and Improvement Co.
 North American Co.
 Republic Steel & Iron Co., of New Jersey.
 Rogers Locomotive Works.
 St. Louis Transit Co.
 Union Bag & Paper Co. of New Jersey.
 Union Electric Light & Power Co.
 Union Electric Light & Power Co., of St. Louis.

Mr. Sheldon's connection with the Locomotive Trust places him in close connection with the railroads of the country, where he is able to procure their campaign contributions. He is also a confidential agent of J. Pierpont Morgan in his Wall Street deals and assisted in the formation of the Shipbuilding trust. His North American company controls the traction interests of St. Paul and Minneapolis. He is president of the Union League club, of which Rockefeller, Morgan, Carnegie and other powers in Wall Street are also members. He is also said to be a member of 25 other clubs whose membership includes practically all of the operators in Wall Street.

In 1906 Mr. Sheldon was treasurer of the New York State Republican committee, and succeeded so well in frying the fat from the interests that Mr. Cromwell recommended him for a similar job with the National committee. According to the sworn statement of Mr. Sheldon, published after the campaign, he raised $333,923.60 chiefly from these interests.

The following is a partial list of the contributors as shown in Mr. Sheldon's statement:

J. Pierpont Morgan, Wall street banker and promoter $20,000
 Levi P. Morgan, banker, Wall street 20,000
 John D. Rockefeller, of Standard Oil 5,000
 Andrew Carnegie 5,000
 Chauncey M. Depew, railroad and Standard Oil senator .. 5,000
 H. R. Hoollins, financier 5,000
 Jacob H. Schiff, favored banker 2,500
 Harvey F. & Sons, bankers and brokers 2,500
 Kuhn, Loeb & Co., bankers and fiscal agents 2,500
 J. & W. Seligman & Co., bankers and fiscal agents 2,500
 Chas. W. Schwab, steel trust and other trust corps 2,000
 C. R. Mackay, Postal Telegraph Co. 2,000
 John W. Gates, stock gambler and trust operator 2,000
 W. E. Corey, Pres. U. S. Steel Corp. 2,000
 W. C. Sheldon & Co., bankers and fiscal agents 2,000
 John Jacob Astor, tenement house owner 1,000
 Wm. Nelson Cromwell, trust lawyer 1,000

Cornelius Vanderbilt, railroad interests 1,000
 W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., railroad interests 1,000
 Edwin Gould, railroad interests 1,000
 W. P. Havemeyer, sugar trust 800
 B. N. Duke, tobacco trust 500
 D. O. Mills 500
 H. M. Plasker, Standard Oil 500
 Arbuckle Bros. Coffee Trust 500
 Henry Clegg, Wall street banker 250
 This is only a partial list of the trust magnates and financiers who contributed to Mr. Sheldon's fund. An index as to how much more Mr. Sheldon may be able to raise from these interests for the national campaign, the fact may be cited that Mr. Cromwell gave $1,000 to the state fund, and increased the amount to $50,000 for the national campaign.

Fred W. Upham of Chicago is assistant treasurer of the Republican National committee. He is a millionaire several times over, and a member of the County Board of Review of Illinois, which passes upon the amount of taxes which corporations and large estates shall pay in that state. He is a director in several corporations and is in charge of the collection of campaign funds in the west.

On August 21, 1908, after his appointment as Assistant Treasurer of the Republican committee, Mr. Upham sent out thousands of letters to corporation officials whose taxes he passes upon as a member of the Board of Review, urging them to contribute to the Republican fund as "individuals" and requesting them "to bring this matter to the attention of your business associates." The suggestion implied is repeated as significant.

Five of the vice members of the Republican committee are: Charles F. Brucker, Connecticut millionaire, treasurer of N. Y. Chamber of Commerce and vice-president New York, New Haven Railroad Co., against which a government suit is now pending and one of the leading spirits in the trust.
 Frank O. Lowden, multi-millionaire, vice-president Pullman Palace Car Co., which is a monopoly.
 E. C. Duncan, director Atlantic & North Carolina railway, and other corporations, receiver Seaboard Air Line, and official dispenser of patronage in North Carolina.

T. Coleman DuPont, controlling factor in Powder Trust, against which the government has a suit now pending for dissolution.
 Belle Fourche, political boss of Pennsylvania, head of the corrupt Republican organization in Philadelphia, and conspicuous in many corporations.
 Roy O. West, chairman of the Republican State Committee of Ill., is also chairman of the County Board of Equalization, which passes upon corporation taxes.

Fred A. Sling, acting chairman of the Republican State committee of Indiana, is the chairman of the State Tax board, which passes upon the taxes levied against corporations.
 Mr. DuPont has been forced to resign from the executive committee because of his trust connections, but Mr. Brucker, against whose company the government has a suit, is still a member of the committee.

Coming Our Way.
 When the political trend gets going in one direction it would appear that "everything is grassed for the occasion" and the slide downward is rapid from all points.
 The Republican break started with the Foraker explosion, was emphasized by the President's retreat from Mr. Bryan, Friday the irresistible son-in-law, Nicholas Longworth, got in his Jonah by announcing that the arrangements had been made for the kindly decent. The son-in-law heirship was left out, but as suggested, Nick will be arranged for after the older member of the imperial family descends from the throne.

The speech of son-in-law Longworth was denied by many Republican papers in which he had arranged for the order of decent, but Sunday the zealous kinsman reiterated his remarks. The Indianapolis Star (Rep.) prints the following:

"Evansville, Ind., Oct. 4.—Congressman 'Nick' Longworth, who, with James S. Sherman, spent a great deal of his time today reading from the various newspapers of the country references to his speech at Rock Island, Ill., Friday, in which he declared Taft ought to be elected President for four years and at the end of that time give way to Roosevelt for two more terms.
 Congressman Longworth said he made the statement in all seriousness and he was delighted that most of the papers 'played up' the story on their first page.
 Congressman Longworth cut out all dispatches on the Rock Island address he could find and especially those that had been run on the first page of the various papers and said he would send them to Mr. Roosevelt.

The Congressman smiled, and as he tucked the clippings into his vest pocket replied:
 "There is another one for Teddy. I will have a raft of them to send him and I feel certain he will be delighted."

Saturday, the fatal week closed with an editorial from the leading Republican paper of the west, edited by a National Committeeman and one in charge of the Republican National Publicity Campaign, denouncing

THE OKLAHOMA WAY.
 Guthrie, Okla., May 21.—Within an hour from the time H. H. Smock, Oklahoma banking commission, had taken charge of the International Bank of Cologne he had authority to pay the depositors in full, though the bank's cash and available funds in other banks fell $22,000 short of the total amount of deposits. The commission was able to do this under the operation of the new banking law, and this is the first time it has been called into use.

DEMOCRATIC NEWS

Too Many Trust Managers.

It is to be regretted that President Roosevelt descended to the mire of ward politics to save the Republican party from the disgrace and disaster of Foraker. In the whirlwind of denunciatory words through which the reading public has just passed, a few bald and undisguisable facts stand out clearly.

To begin with, the President lost his head and either forgot or recklessly cast aside the dignity and the proper restrictions which have for generations been associated with the great office which he holds. His answer to Bryan's dignified and manly letter with reference to Treasurer Haskell of the Democratic National Committee evidently was intended solely to cloud the issue and divert attention to the painful and glaring fact that vested interests were back of the Republican candidate and that the predatory rich control the legislative branch of the government through their Republican representatives.

As a bit of clever political dodging, intended to put the Democratic candidate on the defensive, it was a masterpiece. But it was in shocking bad taste from the President of the United States.

In addition, the controversy drew attention sharply to another indisputable fact, which is that there are altogether too many trust representatives interested in Mr. Taft's campaign. This was made apparent when DuPont, the head of the Powder Trust, hurriedly resigned as the chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Republican National Committee. Since then the question has been generally asked why, if Haskell should resign as Democratic National Treasurer because of his alleged corporate connections, George R. Sheldon, director and stock holder in seventy corporations and trusts, should not resign his post as Treasurer of the Republican National Committee.

People also are asking why the President remains in his cabinet Elihu Root, the attorney for Thomas F. Ryan, head of the New York Traction Trust, and why he also retains in his cabinet George B. Corbelyon, who, as chairman of the Republican National Committee four years ago, bled the corporations for campaign contributions.—Buffalo Republic.

PROTECTING DEPOSITS IN BANKS.
 An Ohio Example of Taft's Position and Oklahoma's Proof of Bryan's Position.

One of the planks of the Denver platform favors guaranteed bank deposits. Mr. Bryan addressed the Ohio legislature in February favoring guaranteed deposits. Former Governor Herrick subsequently addressed the legislature in reply to Mr. Bryan, opposing any such protection for banks and bank depositors.

Mr. Taft, in his speech of acceptance, denounced the plank of the Denver platform, which declares for a national law for banks similar to the Oklahoma law for state banks, thereby coinciding in the views of Mr. Herrick and opposing the views of Mr. Bryan.

Below are two dispatches showing what Mr. Bryan stands for and what Mr. Taft stands for:

THE OHIO WAY.
 Cleveland, O., Aug. 17.—The creditors' committee, charged with an investigation of the affairs of the defunct Farmers and Merchants' bank the cashier of which, Henry W. Gatzell, is under arrest charged with embezzlement, tonight reported that the depositors will be forced to shoulder a loss of $415,000.
 The report, made in a meeting of 2,800 depositors, charged the deficit to Gatzell, alleging his speculations proved disastrous to the institution.

Pensioned For Life.

By JENNIE LEE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"If you pull my hair again, Louise, I'll discharge you without a moment's notice!" snapped the lovely Sibyl Stevenson to her French maid, who was dressing her mistress' head.

"Miss Sibyl is very cross," suggested the maid in meek reply as she went on with her thankless task.

"Well, you'd be cross, too, if—"

"Shall I dress the hair high or low this morning, miss?" interrupted Louise.

"The ugliest way possible," said Sibyl sharply. "Make me the ugliest woman on the beach. Make me so ugly that no man will ever look at me. Do you understand?" she continued. "I hate men."

Louise went on making puffs and curls regardless of her mistress' directions. For a time nothing was said. Sibyl was decidedly moody, and it was the maid who again started the conversation.

"Miss Sibyl, what is a good looking glass?"

"Why, Louise, you are stupid not to know that. A good looking glass is a mirror which tells no lies. Now, with the men—they are not so responsible—they do not always tell the truth, but you can depend on a good looking glass to be brutally frank. But why do you ask?" inquired Sibyl.

"Well, I have here a letter from a mysterious stranger, who asks me to

"Is that you, Louise?" he whispered, meet him at the Pine grove. He says that I am a good looking glass. What does he mean, Miss Sibyl?"

"He doubtless says you are a good looking lass—that is, a girl," Sibyl explained. "But let me see the letter."

From the pocket of her dainty apron Louise drew forth the note. Sibyl read it through, hesitated a moment and then turned to her maid.

"Louise, I'll meet this man in your place. I don't want you to be deceived, as I have been. Mr. Judson has proved false, and—"

A tiny tear found its way on Sibyl's cheek.

So it was arranged, and the season's belle, Sibyl Stevenson, strolled down toward the clump of tall pine trees near the edge of the lake in the early evening to meet the man who had paid court to her maid.

The trees, shaken by the breezes, cast freakish shadows on the ground, and Sibyl was not altogether comfortable.

She was eager to meet this youth who was trifling with the affections of her maid and give him a piece of her mind. She had not long to wait, however, before the tall figure of a man came down the winding path.

With long, swinging strides he approached, stopped a moment as if to make quite sure of something, she knew not what. Then, to her great surprise, he turned quickly and disappeared.

Sibyl waited until she felt it was no longer safe for her to be out alone and returned to the hotel to tell her maid of the strange occurrence. They discussed the problem, and both decided that the gorgeous gown worn by Miss Stevenson did not look like the simple grooming of her maid. This fact had probably frightened the man away.

The next evening Sibyl, dressed in a plain black frock, with white collar and cuffs and a drooping hat, awaited the mysterious Romeo whom Louise had notified by note to be there at a certain hour.

Again the tall figure swung down the road, a sash hat pulled down well over his eyes.

"Is that you, Louise?" he whispered. Sibyl started to scream; then she leaned against a friendly pine tree and in a weak voice claimed the identity.

"Is she wise?" asked the man.

"Is who wise?" reiterated Sibyl, her voice still trembling.

"Why, Miss Stevenson, your mistress," stammered her companion. "Don't stand there like a mummy, you stupid bit of French humanity! Speak up and tell me has she forgiven me and have you arranged a—"

He got no further in his inquiries. Sibyl picked up her little black skirt and ran for home. Once she was safely closeted with Louise she felt vaguely that the echo of a man's hearty laughter had followed her flight.

"Louise," began Sibyl in a most un-iron-like tone, "what do you mean by flirting with Mr. Judson? Now, do not interrupt me, for it was Mr. Judson who met me."

"Mr. Judson! Impossible!" cried the astonished Louise.

"No other," emphatically assured Sibyl. "Those things may be all right in France, Louise, but no nice American girl will!"

A knock at the door interrupted the end of this sentence. A gentleman was waiting to see Miss Stevenson. The hallway did not know his name. Sibyl had changed her somber black frock to one of her Paris creations and went to meet her caller.

She glanced into the public parlor, but he was not in sight. Upon inquiry she learned that her guest was waiting on the corner of the piazza for her. She went to meet him, and Harry Judson put forth his hand as she came toward him in the dim light.

"Sibyl, you must hear me," Judson began.

"My dear Mr. Judson," said Sibyl, with stinging sarcasm, "that is just the trouble. I've heard too much from you already."

"Now, please listen. The train was late night before last, we were derailed just the other side of the draw, and I couldn't very well swim all the way here, could I?"

"Is that all you have to say?" inquired Sibyl, but the tone of her voice was a bit softer.

"Except that I love you and—"

"And my maid as well, I suppose," finished Sibyl.

"Don't be a foolish girl, dear. You have a prize in Louise. If you'll promise not to discharge her, I'll tell you a secret. It was Louise who arranged this campaign; it was she who suggested my writing her a letter that would reach you. She's a brick, all right, is Louise."

Sibyl opened her eyes wide and stared at Judson for a moment.

"You mean to tell me that stupid French girl planned all this to give you a chance to explain," mused Sibyl.

"But why?"

"I hunted her up and told her you were angry with her because I kept you waiting nearly two hours. She understood it was not my fault, if you would not."

"But how can you explain about being with Miss Laverton?" suggested Sibyl.

"Easily," assured Judson. "She was on the same train with me, and it was late and dark, and she was afraid, and I offered to see that she landed safely under her parental roof. Surely no decent American could do less, could he?"

"Well, but," said Sibyl, "that she was caught in a closely woven net and was trying though not very hard, to find an escape. Harry looked very penitent," said Sibyl, "know that she loved him as much as he loved her."

"Well, I'll give you—"

"Anything, dear—anything," cried Harry without waiting to know what it might be.

"Will you promise to give Louise a pension for life?" asked Sibyl.

And as he took her in his arms he promised that and many other more important things.

Real Bottomless Pits.

Bottomless pits are facts, not fancies, according to Professor E. A. Martel, the French geologist. He declares that this term may be applied to cliff caves whose lower part has been cut off by the erosion of the valley below, thus turning them into tunnels, through which the valley may be seen.

The most remarkable abyss of this kind which the savant has seen is the so-called hole of Platary, on the summit of the eastern ridge of Vercors, above Celles. At about 5,100 feet a horizontal orifice opens suddenly like the mouth of an ordinary cave, which it probably once was. The bottom has been cut off, denuded by the immense erosion of the vast basin of tress to the east, 2,300 to 3,300 feet deep, on which the present lower orifice of the present cave opens out in a superb arch twenty-six feet high.

From the railway between the stations of Celles and Percy, on the line from Grenoble to Veynes, it is seen 2,300 feet in the air like a pinhole near the summit of a limestone cliff. It was from the car window that the extraordinary aperture was discovered.

In Belgium in the Grand Duke's hole one may descend and contemplate the windings of the Lesse, holding to the shrubbery to avoid being precipitated into the river 250 feet below. In the chalk cliffs of Eretat there is another evidence of an incompletely destroyed cave whose remaining upper entrance doubtless soon will disappear.

Strange Capture of a Salmon.

Fishing a well known river in Norway one June, one of the tenants of the fishing lodge opposite ours caught a fish of twenty-nine pounds in the morning and lost another, his spinning line being broken by the rush of a heavy fish. Fishing with prawn the afternoon of the same day, the same angler in the same pool got into a good fish at his first cast. After a long fight the fish was gaffed and landed. Then was revealed a strange state of things. The prawn tackle had never touched the fish; in fact, the hooks were a foot or more from it. They had caught in the cast which had been lost that morning and was now twisted into knots and tangles no doubt by the salmon endeavoring to get rid of the treble Norsk cast and hooks. The line had been got rid of. As the prawn swung down the pool it had grappled the lost cast still attached to the salmon, and fish (thirty-three pounds), cast and tackle were recovered. We watched the incident from the road and, crossing the river, handled the recovered cast. Many maintain that salmon once hooked and played for any length of time leave the pool.—W. H. in London Field.

The Sunflower.

In some countries, notably in the Russian provinces north of the Caucasus, the sunflower serves other purposes besides ornamenting gardens with its huge golden blossoms. The seeds are used to make oil, which is employed both in the manufacture of soap and in cooking. The stems and leaves are burned and the ashes used to make potash.

The Lily of France.

There is a pretty tradition about the Lily of France. Three black beads formed the curious device on the shield of King Clovis, but one night as an aged hermit sat musing in his lonely cell there appeared an angel before him bearing a shield of wondrous beauty. On its azure front three golden lilies shone like radiant stars. This shield the angel bade the hermit deliver to Queen Clothilde. Receiving the celestial shield Clothilde gave it to the king, whose arms thenceforth were always victorious.—St. James' Gazette.
