ENGINEER TELLS OF THE ACCIDENT

J. F. WOOD, WHO WAS RUNNING ENGINE, WHICH STRUCK AUTO IN FATAL ACCIDENT EAST OF TOWN, BELIEVES THAT THE VICTIMS WERE NOT AWARE OF THE APPROACHING TRAIN.

THE INQUEST HELD TODAY

J. F. Wood, of Terre Haute, engineer, and Ray Wilson, of Terre Haute, fireman, on the train which hit the automobile in which Claude Hixon and Jesse Bowen were killed at the crossing just east of town a few days ago, were here this morning, with other members of the train crew, to give their evidence at the coroner's inquest.

Mr. Wood, who formerly attended school here, stated this morning, that he had two versions of the accident. One was that the boys, with the side curtains up, and with the rain and wind beating on their machine, did not hear the warning whistle of the approaching train.

Or perhaps, Mr. Woods says, the boys were attempting to beat the train to the crossing and underestimated the speed of their machine and the train.

Mr. Wood, as engineer, occupied the cab on the right side of the engine and so did not see the automobile, which was running down the road almost parallel with the train. His fireman, Ray Wilson, who the engineer classes as one of the most observing and cautious firemen on the road, noticed the car, and stated that it was running with great speed toward the crossing. When he realized that the occupants of the auto were either in ignorance of the approaching train or that they were going to attempt to beat the train to the crossing, the fireman called to the engineer to throw in his emergency brake.

"I know that when Wilson orders me to apply the emergency, that something is about to happen," said Mr. Wood. "Not knowing what was about to happen, I threw on the emergency but because of the rain which had made the tracks slick, the brakes did not take hold immediately when I applied them. Just as the brakes took a good hold, we struck something. I felt the jar and Mr. Wilson told me we had struck an auto."

Mr. Wood stated that the auto was not squarely on the track when the train hit it as the left side and point of the pilot of the engine struck the machine.

The engineer believes that his fireman, who witnessed the approaching auto, is of the opinion that the men in the auto did not hear the approaching train and drove upon the track directly in front of the train.

GREENCASTLE LADIES ENTERTAIN KERICAMIC CLUB

Eighteen Indianapolis members of the Indiana Kericamic club, an organization of ladies interested in china painting, came to Greencastle this morning for an all-day meeting with members of the club who live here. The club ladies arrived in Greencastle at 10:30 and returned to their homes at 5:25 this evening.

Mrs. E. B. Evans and Miss Lizzie Goulding were the hostesses of the day while other local members were on the program of the meeting. Immediately after their arrival here the club members went to the home of Mrs. Evans where the program was rendered. The subject of the morning, "China, Japan and the Orient," was led by Mrs. John O'Neill with discussions by Miss Pearl O'Hair and Miss Lizzie Goulding, of Greencastle, and Mrs. H. M. Cochran and Miss Clara Williams of Indianapolis.

Following the program Mrs. Evans served lunch for the members of the club. The hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. E. B. Doll, Mrs. W. P. Ledbetter and Miss Goulding, all of Greencastle. Those assisting in the dining room were Miss Gladys Rogers, Miss Lelia Worrell, Miss Florence, Hughes, Miss Frances Neff, Miss Irene Miller and Miss Eugenia Marshall.

In the afternoon the ladies were taken on an automobile trip around Greencastle after which they went to the home of Miss Goulding where refreshments were served before the members left for their homes.

DePAUW PLAYS FRANKLIN HERE THIS AFTERNOON

The DePauw football team, champion of the secondary schools of the state, opened its home schedule of the season this afternoon on McKee field with Coach Thurber's Baptists of Franklin as the attraction. Both machines were in fine condition for the fray and ideal football weather made it sure that the struggle would be a bitter one.

While it is known that Franklin has the best gridiron machine in recent history of the school, the Methodist warriors expected to get away from their visitors with a good score. But even though this was the case there was little overconfidence in the ranks of the Old Gold such as caused the local aggregation to be tied by Franklin last year.

A spirited yell practice in chapel this morning put the Old Gold rooters on edge for the game.

FOR A NIGHT OF FUN AND FROLIC

MEETING OF BUSINESS MEN AND CITIZENS TO BE HELD THIS EVENING IN OFFICE OF MAYOR J. WALTER COOPER, TO DISCUSS HALLOWE'EEN CELEBRATION.

TO APPOINT COMMITTEE

Will Greencastle celebrate Halloween night will be the question to be determined at a meeting of Greencastle's citizens and business men to be held this evening in the office of Mayor J. Walter Cooper, in the Donner building, over the American Express office.

It has been suggested that the event be celebrated with a night of "Fun and Frolic," at which the old as well as Young America could give vent to their pent up enthusiasm. Halloween night, coming on Saturday night, would be a most fitting time for a night's celebration.

Suggestions for a grotesque parade, band concert, masked dance on the street, and other events have been made. And the suggestions have been received with such enthusiasm that it is believed that the business men will agree to carry out the suggestions.

Mayor Walter Cooper has called the meeting for this evening so that the plans may be discussed and committees appointed to arrange for the event. Every business man and citizen interested in promoting the celebration should attend the meeting this evening.

COURT GRANTS A DIVORCE TO MRS. ALICE M. HALTOM

Mrs. Alice M. Haltom was granted a divorce from her husband, Thomas J. Haltom, in the Putnam Circuit Court this morning, when the defense failed to appear to fight the case. Judge Hughes granted the divorce on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment and with failure to provide.

Mrs. Haltom was also granted the custody of the three children. In the complaint the wife charged Haltom with being a habitual drunkard and with uselessly squandering her money and personal property. She also alleges that he was guilty of mistreating her and the children. Allee, James & Allee were the attorneys for Mrs. Haltom.

SHOOTS THE TURK WHO SLAPPED HIM

LABORER IS WAYLAIED BY THREE MEN, WEST OF TOWN, SUNDAY EVENING—RESULTED FROM TROUBLE IN THE AMERICAN SAND & GLASS QUARRIES AT FERN TWO WEEKS AGO—VICTIM RETURNS FIRE.

ONE MAN UNDER ARREST

Angered because Rushut Memmet, a Turkish laborer at the American Sand & Glass quarries, at Fern, west of Greencastle had slapped him in the face, about two weeks ago, when the two men had some trouble in the quarry, Memmet Mustofa, better known as "Jim Peanut," with two companions, waylaid Memmet, as he was returning home from a hunting trip late Sunday afternoon, and shot him three times.

Three bullets struck the victim. One went through his left foot, one through the fleshy part of his left leg, and one entered the calf of his right leg and lodged in the bone of the leg. None of the wounds are believed to be serious.

The attack of "Peanut" and his companions was well planned. The three men built up a barricade of railroad ties, and lay behind them until the victim passed along. Then they opened fire, several shots being fired. Memmet returned the fire with his shotgun, firing three times in the direction from which the shots had been fired at him. Because of the darkness he could not see his assailants or whether any of his shots struck the assailants or not is not known.

Memmet was able to reach home to tell of the attack. Immediately Sheriff Boes was notified and he telephoned to Terre Haute for the police there to arrest the Turks as it was known that "Peanut" had gone to that city following the fight at the quarry in which he was slapped by Memmet.

Sheriff Boes received a telegram from that town later stating that one Turk had been arrested there as he had alighted from a traction car. Sheriff Boes went to Terre Haute this morning and brought the man here.

Sheriff Boes learned in Terre Haute that when the westbound traction car reached Terre Haute, several Turks were aboard. When the policemen, who had been sent from headquarters to arrest the Turks, attempted to place the bunch under arrest, one of the Turks drew a revolver and pointed it at one of the officers. In the scuffle which followed the Turk was overpowered by the officers and his revolver and a razor taken away from him. During this time, however, all of the other men escaped.

The one Turk arrested was without his hat. This morning employees at the quarry found a hat and two 38-calibre revolver shells near the barricade. The hat found fits the man arrested but the man denies that it is his hat or that he was at the scene of the shooting. It is known, however, that he boarded the traction car at a station near the sand quarry not long after the shooting had occurred. The man wore overalls over a blue suit and wore old shoes. His clothing was covered with dirt and burrs, which would indicate that he had been in the woods.

It is believed that "Peanut" and other Turks, who are believed to have been connected with the affair will be arrested in Terre Haute today. Turks employed at the quarry went to Terre Haute to assist the police there by identifying the men they want.

Frank Cagle has filed suit in the Putnam Circuit Court against Thomas Martin and others, asking that a quiet title be established on land in Cloverdale township. Both Mr. Cagle and the defendants in the case are former residents of Cloverdale township. Lyon & Peck are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

The condition of Miss Myrtle Cahill, who has been confined to the home of Ben P. King on account of illness for several days, is reported to be slightly improved. Miss Cahill is employed in the dry goods department of the Model.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Circuit Court of Putnam County, State of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of James L. Christy, late of Putnam County, Indiana, deceased.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

Dated this 7th day of September, 1914.

HIRAM C. CHRISTY, Administrator.
B. F. Corwin, Atty. 3d W Oct 16,

Fall Arbor and Bird Day.

My friend, are you going to plant a tree on Arbor and Bird Day, October 23, 1914? Or, were you one of the many that planted a tree on last Arbor Day, April 17th, when we strove to have a million trees planted by the people of Indiana? If you were and the drouth killed the tree, or the storm blew it down, or some person broke it off, are you going to give it up? We think not, for you have learned by sad experience that if at first you do not succeed, you must try again.

The State Board of Forestry is anxious to assist in every way, those who are interested in Forestry, no matter whether you are going to plant one tree for shade to beautify your home, or you are going to plant several thousand for profit that you or your children will receive in the future.

Every person conversant with the facts knows that there are few farms that contain more than eighty acres of land that do not have some part on it that should be devoted to trees of some kind. The kind that should be planted depends largely on the drainage, location, soil and many other local conditions. These should be well considered by the owner before planting, and if not familiar with the conditions, should seek the advice of the Board of Forestry, or some other competent authority before planting, and thus save himself from the disappointment that usually follows when trees are planted in soil not adapted to them.

The thing to do is to select the right kind of a tree, plant it according to the instructions sent out, and then take the proper care of it. Then you will not fail to realize on your time and labor.

If you cannot plant one this fall decide now to do so next spring, by selecting the kind of tree or trees that you are going to plant and select the place, make thorough preparations for all the details in every way by studying the trees and soil of your community, find out what kind of trees were native, those that have best withstood the ravages of insects and drouths, then plant a tree that will grow.

The board is prepared to furnish publications on the various phases of Forestry and suggestive Arbor Day program for schools, civic organizations and individuals, free to any one. Write the secretary.

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD.

AMUSEMENTS.

English Opera House, Indianapolis.
Inc., Jos. P. Bickerton, Jr., Managing Director, will offer for an engagement at the English Opera House, Indianapolis, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 22-23-24th. "Adele," the biggest musical success of the past season. "Adele" stayed one whole year in the metropolis and was received in New York City by every dramatic critic as an unqualified success. It presentation here will be an event in the season's local musical activity.

The cast engaged is one of the best ever sent out of New York, and includes Peggy Wood, who will be seen as Adele; Wilmoth Merkel as the Baron; Georgia Caine as Myriam; Jas.
W. Redmond as Robert; Fred Waelder
as Parmaceau; Edna Broderick as Babiole; Fred Frear as Friebur, and Harry C. Bradley as Jacques. Others in the cast are H. Barlah, Julian Winters, Charles Frye, Edward Wooster,
Grace Walton, Edna Alling, Alyce
Humphries, Marguerite Cunard, Kath-
lyn Beach, Anna Gartin, Leonora D'Arcy, Rue Brown and the renowned
"chorus of prima donnas."

"Adele" was written by Paul Herve
and Jean Briquet, authors of "Alma and adapted to the English stage by Adolph Phillip and Edward A. Paulton, author of "Erminie." The story of "Adele" briefly concerns a young French girl, Adele, who is in love with Robert Friebur, the son of her father's business rival, but cannot get her parent's consent to the marriage. She then persuades her father to arrange for her to be married to a member of the French nobility, Baron Charles de Chantilly, who is bankrupt and upon whom her father is willing to settle a large sum of money. She plans immediately after marriage ceremony to separate, secure a divorce and then marry the man she really loves. By a provision in the French law, once having been married, she is then free to marry without the consent of her parents. The Baron at first refuses but finally consents. It is then that Fate takes a hand and Adele finds that her heart is not with her first love and so complications pile up which at last are cleared away and the husband and wife live happily ever after.

The music, consisting of twenty-two numbers, have been played, sung and whistled all over the world. A waltz song, bearing the title of the operetta, has that listless catchiness that made the "Merry Widow" a huge success.

DID MAN MAKE GOD, OR DID GOD MAKE MAN?

The above is to be the subject of the lecture by Dr. John P. D. John at the Methodist church tonight. This is one of the really great lectures on the American platform. It has been delivered nearly a thousand times before American audiences. Tonight, the lecture will begin shortly after 7 o'clock, owing to the men's banquet which will immediately follow
the lecture.

The people are becoming awakened
to the real greatness of these addresses if one were to judge by the remarks of leading men and women
last night at the close of the lecture.
It would be little short of a calamity
for anyone to miss this great lecture tonight. This is one of the things that one could well afford to go through rain or storm to hear.—Fredonia, (Kan.) Herald.

Special Notice To Taxpayers.

Many will question the amount of their taxes and ask concerning their personal property assessment and land appraisement.
Mistakes will occur where the assessment of property and the extending and collecting of taxes are done by as many different officers.

The Treasurer and Auditor will cheerfully correct all mistakes for which they are responsible and the county assessor will explain the assessment of personal property and where possible adjust if in error.

Time is at hand for the paying of Fall taxes. Monday, November 2, is the last day on which taxes can be paid, without the penalty being attached. You soon will find yourself in the Treasurer's office in a great crowd, waiting to get to pay windows. Some will be in a hurry to make certain trains to get home. Why delay and cause yourself as well as the treasurer so much inconvenience?

If the second installment of taxes is not paid within the limit set by law, the taxes become due and delinquent and with penalty is extended by the Auditor and charged to the Treasurer. The state is interested in this extension and the Auditor and Treasurer are both personally liable for any penalties that might be refunded.

Under no circumstances can the Treasurer alter the duplicate. He can make no reduction in taxes and he can not refund money once paid in. Errors must be corrected through the Auditor's office.

As the Treasurer can not know the location of each person's property, tax payers should designate the property on which they wish to pay,
and see that all property is included in their receipt. If they have land in more than one township or corporation, or desire to pay taxes on lands or lots not in their name, call the Treasurer's attention to the matter, carefully examine receipts, see if they describe all property (personal and real) and are otherwise correct before leaving the office, and if any errors are evident have them corrected at once.

The Tax Duplicate is not a transfer book and when, for any year, the Tax Duplicate is made with reference to the property on the first day of March said year the duplicate remains forever unchanged as to showing of property in whose books or prompt recording of deeds to the contrary notwithstanding.

Property will appear in same name of the payment of the second instalment as for first. Assignees, Guardians, Administrators and others who pay taxes on property in trust and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as undivided estates, etc., are earnestly requested to settle such taxes before the last few days, as it requires considerable time to make divisions and separate receipts. Thus avoid mistakes which might happen
during the rush of the last few days of taxpaying.

"All property, both Real and Personal, shall be liable for the payment of all taxes, penalties, interest and cost charged to the owner thereof in such county, and no partial payment of any such taxes penalties, interest or costs shall discharge or release any part or portion of such property until the whole is paid,
which lien shall in no wise be erected or destroyed by any sale or transfer of any such personal property, and shall attach on the first day of April annually for the taxes of such year."
—From Section 173, Acts 1881.

Special Notice.

All Ditch Taxes and Street Improvements must be called for separately.

The taxpayer often has personal property and poll assessed to him separately from his real estate especially when the land is in joint title, and accordingly must have a receipt therefor.

Delinquent taxes must be paid
before the current tax.

The Treasurer will not be responsible for penalties and charges on delinquent taxes, resulting from omission of the person, paying such tax to state definitely on what property, in whose name and in what township or corporation it was assessed.

Very Respectfully,

H. H. RUNYAN,
Treasurer Putnam County.

Post. Two Irishmen were discussing the death of a friend.

Said Pat:
"Sure, Casey was a good fellow."
"He was that," replied Mike. "A good fellow, Casey."
"And a cheerful man was Casey,"
said Pat.

"A cheerful man was Casey, the cheerfullest I ever knew," echoed Mike.
"Casey was a generous man, too,"
said Pat.

"Generous, you say? Well, I don't know so much about that. Did Casey ever buy you anything?"

"Well, nearly," replied Mike, scratching his head. One day he came into Flaherty's barroom, where me and my friends were drinking, and he said to us: "Well, men, what are we going to have—rain or snow?"

SAME OLD WAY.

Teacher—Now, if I should give a smart boy this sentence to punctuate: "Mary Jane a beautiful girl ran down the street," what would he do?
John—Make a dash after the girl,
of course.

A New Use for Cheese.

An English farmer recently went into a restaurant in Liverpool and called for some bread and cheese.

"What kind would you like, sir?"
inquired the waiter. "Cheshire, Yorkshire or Gorgonzola?"

"Fancy name, that last," said the farmer: "I'll try a bit of that."

He thought it so tasty that he bought a pound, took it home for his wife late at night, and left it for her on the sideboard in the kitchen. Next morning he came in from his before-breakfast round and asked her if she had found the parcel.

"Oh, yes," she replied. "I saw it
there all right, and very good mottled soap it is, no doubt, when you know how to use it. But I couldn't make it lather very well when I washed the children, and after I'd done they smelled so strong that I've turned 'em out for a breath of fresh air, just to sweeten 'em a bit before they go to school."

He Would Return.

Marlow was three years old. One day his mother said to him: "Now, Marlow, you may go outdoors to play
for a while, but if I see you crossing the street to play with that naughty little boy, Willie Burr, again, I'll give you a hard, hard spanking."

Half an hour later the mother looked out after her boy and saw him playing with Willie Burr. She raised the window and called, with forced gentleness:

"Marlow, come here to me."
Marlow came, but as he did so, he turned to his companion and said:

"You stay right here, Willie. I'm don't in to get spanked. I'll be right back."

Back to the Farm.
"Well, Silas, what did you find new down to the city?"

"Why, somethin' wuth seein'." The bull place is full of cabs with cash registers on 'em, an' red flags to show folks it's dangerous to dispute the fare. They call 'em taxidermy cabs,
'cause ef you don't mind, the drivers
'll jest take the skin off ye."

The Saddest Words.

Said a poet to an unfortunate speculator: "Don't you think that the opening lines of Tennyson's little poem,
'Break, break, break,' are plaintive
and sad?"

"Yes," was the melancholy reply.
"But I think that 'Broke, broke,' is a good deal sadder."

Advice.

"You've got to put a certain amount of dependence on yourself," said Uncle Eben. "De man dat goes aroun' lookin' foh too much advice is liable to find himself in de position of de gemman dat gits so interested readin' de time-table dat he misses his train."

Holding Back the News.
"I suppose your wife was tickled to death at your raise in salary?"

"She will be."
"Haven't you told her yet?"

"No, I thought I would enjoy myself for a couple of weeks first."

The Way of the World.

Uncle Biff says: "Some hev patches
on their knees from kneelin' in prayer, also in th' seat o' their trousers
from backslidin'."

Sensible Advice.

Look the world square in the eye. If it's friendly, smile and hold out your hand. If it tries to trip you, duck, dodge and bluff it in the neck.

WHISKY - GREATEST MENACE TO INDIAN

Warning Letter by Commissioner Redman

RACE IS AN EASY PREY

Unscrupulous Persons Profit by Liquor Weakness, Cato Asserts

Muskogee, Ok.—A letter written by Cato Sells, United States Commissioner of Indian Affairs, on the evils of the liquor traffic among Indians was read to every student body of Indians in the United States, and was addressed to 6,000 Government employees in the Indian service.

"I believe," says Commissioner Sells in his letter, "that the greatest menace to the American Indian is whisky. It does more to destroy his constitution and invite the ravages of disease than anything else. It does more to demoralize him as a man and frequently as a woman. It does more to make him an easy prey to the unscrupulous than anything else combined. Let us save the American Indian from the curse of whisky. There is nothing that could induce me, since I have taken the oath of office as Commissioner of Indian Affairs, to touch a single drop of any sort of intoxicating liquor, and this regardless of my attitude on the prohibition question."

The bulk of the Indian population of the United States is in Oklahoma. Many years ago, under a mistaken view of the meaning of old Federal laws, saloons were open for a short time in Indian territory, now the eastern part of Oklahoma. The drinking conduct of the Indian was incredible. Those who patronized the bar at Muskogee astonished even the barkeepers. They drank their beer or whisky—usually whisky—one glass after another, with scarcely a moment's intermission, until they sank to the floor in a stupor, themselves against the bar with one hand, while with the other they lifted their glass.

After an annuity payment, the Osages used to assemble two or three hundred at a time at Ralston and Cleveland, Oklahoma, on the south side of the Arkansas river, across from the Osage country, where under the laws of Oklahoma Territory, open saloons were permitted. It was a violation of Federal law to sell whisky to Indians, but there were saloon keepers and bootleggers willing to take the risk. The sole purpose of each Indian was to get drunk, and as quickly as possible.

His idea of a good time was to drink until he could no longer walk and lie asleep until he was sober.

The Osages proceeded upon their debauches in a methodical manner. To one man of influence—and much physical strength—was assigned the task of remaining sober and keeping order, as the Osages frequently were inclined to fight among themselves in the first stages of intoxication. This man was armed with only a stout club, which he used with telling effect when he found it necessary to control an obstreperous brave. A hundred drunken Indians caused less fear among the white women of these towns than would two rampant members of their own race. The guard with his hickory club was largely responsible, however, for this feeling of security.

When everybody else had had his fling, the guard was free to relax from duties and indulge in what literally was a "high lonesome." He got drunk by himself just as he might go swimming or as he might eat alone. He often incurred the penalty of being too conspicuous, with the result that he was arrested and locked in jail. A further stroke of bad luck was that his companions usually left town without trying to release him.

TREES COSTLY, FARMERS SAY

Campaign to Alter British Scenery Stirs Ire of Soil Tillers.

London.—A campaign to alter the scenery of the whole face of England has been much discussed and, in fact, begun by farmers.

Quite a violent protest against hedges and hedge timber was made by an annual meeting of the Hertfordshire farmers. One man estimated that every tree cost him £1 a year. Nothing grew at all within range of its roots. The tree simply stood there "eating its head off" and benefiting neither landlord nor tenant. A well known Hampshire farmer regards the hedge as a waste of ground, a nursery of weeds and a harbor of grain-eating sparrows and rats.

A farmer of about three hundred acres estimated a direct loss of fifteen acres, say £20 a year, from hedges and trees, and an indirect loss of £12 by reason of the poor produce in their neighborhood. If the effect of the hedge as a base for the operation of sparrows and vermin be considered, at least another £12 would be added, making a total of £44, or about one-fifth of the rent.

A definite suggestion for the taxation of every tree over a certain age has been suggested. The credit side of the balance of the hedge and tree as a screen and a shade and a thing of beauty was barely maintained; and yet in some parts of Britain the Government is now planting trees for the sake of a screen at the request of the farmer! Who is right?

What Would You Do?

There are many times when one man questions another's actions and motives. Men act differently under different circumstances. The question is, what would you do right now if you had a severe cold? Could you do better than to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended by people who have used it for years and know its value. Mrs. O. E. Sargent, Peru, Ind., says, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is worth its weight in gold and I take pleasure in recommending it." For sale by all dealers.

Of Interest to Women

Many Prominent Women Give their Views on Professor Armstrong's Statements—Mrs. Belmont Asserts that it is Not Right to Create a Situation One Cannot Meet.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont gave her views as follows on the decrease in marriages as asserted by Prof. Edward Henry Armstrong in a recent address:

"If our universal education is the cause of fewer marriages it proves that men are now influenced by judgment, that the self-supporting woman is self-reliant, that the union of the two is founded on the intelligent consideration of the question.

"I believe this need in nowise alarm the thinking part of our community. 'No educated woman or man of the twentieth century can agree that it is for the advancement of civilization or the welfare of the community for the family to be larger than both or either parent may provide for.

"If motherhood is the highest duty imposed upon woman she must raise herself to its standard.

"I cannot believe it right to create a situation one cannot meet.

"We read that men like Prof. Armstrong are still clamoring for large families and are proclaiming the verdict of the Middle Ages, but, mark you, only so far as it relates to woman.

"We wonder if women alone are to profit by this higher education. It would seem as if men like the professor have failed to have grasped the great significance of it."

Mrs. Helen B. Waterman, of Cleveland, candidate for the Republican nomination for member of the Board of Education, discussing Prof. Armstrong's declarations said: "We must all admit that women are not marrying so readily as a few years ago. As they become more educated, better able to analyze conditions as they see them, they hesitate to take the chance of virtually throwing their lives away. It is not infrequent that women who have made their own way and are earning substantial salaries, marry men who later prove to be unable to support them in the manner they were able to live by their own efforts. Their friends observe this and it has a discouraging effect upon the other women. In no event would I concede that marriages are fewer because wives protest against the clinging arms of children.

Miss Jane Addams, head of Hull House, Chicago, said: "Prof. Armstrong is right in his statements about women to a certain extent. There are vain and frivolous girls who on the bettering of their circumstances demand so much from their prospective husbands and are so dissatisfied with the young men of their own class that they make poor wives. Their idea of married life is not of motherhood, but of luxury and ease."

Dr. W. B. Riley, a Baptist minister, of Minneapolis, also said that there was a strong disposition on the part of women not to bear children because it interfered with their social and commercial affairs in life.

"Women," he said, "are becoming more independent owing to the number of lucrative positions open for them, consequently they do not want to saddle themselves with home burdens or family ties that will interfere with their commercial or social ambitions. The indisposition to maternity is growing among women and it is hard to say what will be the outcome of it all. It certainly is a serious matter. Marriage, in proportion to the population, is on the decline, and while many women are willing to be married they do not wish to become mothers. The situation is appalling."

SHE DIDN'T GET IT

Copyright, Puck

By MAX MERRYMAN.

THERE was a look of irritation on the face of the angular and middle-aged lady who had been waiting more than an hour by a letter-box waiting for the arrival of the postman who was to collect the mail. When he at last appeared from around the corner she greeted him with the pointedly ironical remark:

"You postmen don't collect the mail oftener than once a week, do you? I been standing here until I am nearly frozen. I want to get my letter back."

"What letter, ma'am?"

"A letter I dropped into the box that I don't want to go. I been thinking over a certain matter the letter refers to, and I have concluded that I don't want the letter to go, so you open the box and give it to me quick as you can."

"I can't do that, lady."

"You can't? You mean that you can't open the box?"

"I can open the box all right, but I can't give you back the letter."

"Well, I like that! You can't give me back my own letter? It's mine, isn't it?"

"It belongs to Uncle Sam after it gets into that box and until it is in the hands of the person you addressed it to, lady."

"Bosh! You reckon I'm going to stand for any such nonsense as that? A great idea that I can't have my own letter back! I can show you which letter it is if you doubt my word. It is in a lavender-tinted envelope with my monogram on the flap, and—"

"I ain't denying that you put the letter into the box. I'm simply telling you that I have no authority to give it back to you. You'll have to go to the postoffice and see the postmaster if you want the letter."

"Of all the nonsensical nonsense ever spoken that is the limit! Why, it's a good two miles from here to the postoffice, and I haven't any money with me for car-fare, for I live only a block or two away and have just come down here to get my letter, and I want it right away."

"Sorry, lady, but I have no discretion in the matter, and I can't give you the letter."

"You needn't be afraid of me telling on you. I guess I know when to talk or when to keep still."

"Then you'd better keep still now, or you might get arrested for trying to get a postman to break the law."

"Break nothing! I don't believe that it is the law, and if it is the law it is such a fool law that it ought to be broken. The idea that I can't have back my own letter! I can prove to you that it is mine. I'll go into this apothecary shop with you and write the same address that's on the letter, and you will see that the handwriting is the same as that on the letter. I can prove that—"

"That isn't the point, lady. I don't doubt that there is a letter in the box that you wrote, but I couldn't give them to you if all the letters in that box were yours. It's against the law to—"

"The law go hang! That letter is mine, and— See here, young man, I am the wife of a prominent lawyer, and you may find yourself in trouble if you don't give me that letter! More than that, I have an own brother in a government position in Washington! He is a man 'way up in his position, and I guess if he went to see President Wilson about this something would happen. I guess I know my rights, and if you—there it is! It's that letter in the lavender-tinted envelope just as I said it was, and there isn't another letter in a lavender-tinted envelope in the box and—"

"Hands off, lady! Don't you touch that letter!"

"Sir! Do you know who you are speaking to? You will find out to your sorrow, sir! The idea of a lady who can prove—and you flatter me to give me my own letter? Very well, sir, you shall suffer for this! I will take this matter up with the President myself, sir! Take my letter away if you will, but you wouldn't hear the last of this, sir! I'll let you know that—the impudent thing to go off grinning like that! He'll grin on the other side of his face before I'm done with him, see if he doesn't!"

CHARITABLE
St Simmonds—Was it really the biggest show on earth, as they advertise in the country papers?

TO TALK OVER SEA BY 'PHONE

Only Question of Time Before Science Will Overcome Present Difficulties.

London.—In a lecture just delivered at the Royal Institution, Dr. J. A. Fleming, F. R. S., described the inventions which of late years have rendered possible a great increase in the distance of telephonic communication and have permitted the use of submarine telephone cables over distances previously impracticable.

The lecturer explained that in the case of a telephone wire the shorter the wave length the greater the velocity with which the waves travel, while the amplitude of the shorter waves attenuates to a greater extent than that of the longer ones.

Hence, when, as a result of speaking to a telephone transmitter, a complex electromotive force is applied to the end of a cable the various simple harmonic waves into which the impulse may be resolved travel along the cable with unequal speed and attenuation. The short waves travel fastest, but are worn out soonest; hence the wave form is distorted.

A remedy for the distortion of articulate sounds was first suggested by Mr. Oliver Heaviside, who showed mathematically twenty-five years ago how waves of all lengths could be made to travel at the same speed and attenuate at the same rate.

An important advance was made by Prof. Pupin of Columbia College, New York, in 1899 and 1900, when he proved that Heaviside's suggestion can be put into practical form by loading the cable with coils of wire wound on iron wire cores, inserted at equal intervals, but so close that at least eight or nine coils are included in the distance of one wave length of the average wave frequency, which is always taken at 800.

If the coils are placed farther apart relatively to the wave length they do more harm than good. Aerial lines, underground cables, and submarine cables, can all be treated in this way. The longest aerial loaded line is that from New York to Denver, 2,000 miles, which permits good speech between those places, and it is the ambition of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to complete a loaded line that will render speech possible between New York and San Francisco, over 3,000 miles.

A line has just been completed between Berlin and Rome. It runs overhead, except through the Simplon tunnel with loading coils at every eight miles, and good speech is possible over the whole distance.

In this country the longest loaded lines are two trunk lines from London to Leeds, 200 miles. The general Post Office has now in operation 30,000 miles of aerial and underground loaded circuits, and 45,545 miles are in the course of being loaded.

As regards loaded submarine cables the general Post Office has three—one to France, twenty-one nautical miles long, one to Belgium, forty-eight miles, and one to Ireland, sixty-four miles. A fourth, which is now being manufactured, is to be laid from Suffolk to the nearest point in Holland, 125 miles. Broadly, loading has rendered it possible to double or more than double the distance of effective telephonic intercourse.

In regard to wireless telephony, Dr. Fleming said the arrangements are closely similar to those employed in wireless telegraphy, but in the base of the antenna, or coupled to it, must be placed a microphone, by means of which the speaker's voice makes changes in the resistance of the antenna circuit, the result being to vary the amplitude of the waves emitted without altering their wave length. The difficulty is to obtain a microphone that will carry large high frequency currents. By the aid of an ingenious liquid microphone Prof. Vanni of Rome has transmitted speech for 625 miles. Feasenden in the United States has telephoned a few hundred miles, and Poulsen in Denmark, Colin and Jeance in France, Goldschmidt in Germany and Ditcham in England have covered greater or less distances.

The lecturer concluded by remarking that we are yet a long way from telephony across the Atlantic, whether by cables or by wireless, but progress will continue to be made, and it is possible that some day speech transmission from England to San Francisco, with one repetition at New York, may be an accomplished fact.

Fort Worth, Tex.—A chicken thief with a cunning that would win the admiration of Sherlock Holmes is robbing roosts on the North Side.

The cackling and noise that usually awakens the owner was suppressed.

IMPORTANT TO ALL WOMEN

READERS OF THIS PAPER

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

A good kidney medicine, possessing real healing and curative value, should be a blessing to thousands of nervous, over-worked women.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. The Braves won their third straight game in the twelfth inning, when they scored the run needed to win the game, the final score being 5 to 4.

INDIANA WOMEN AND

THE CENTENNIAL

The women's clubs of Indiana have begun their fall and winter meetings. On their programs, in practically every town and city in the State, they have days set aside for a discussion of how Indiana shall celebrate her hundredth birthday in 1916. All advocate the proposed State Memorial Library and Museum as a permanent monument marking one hundred years of Hoosier progress in science, art, literature and the ways of life. In November the voters of Indiana will vote on the question of appropriating $2,000,000 for the building of a centennial memorial and the celebration of the great event.

Indiana's clubwomen have a keen appreciation of library values. In their delving for facts bearing on subjects to be discussed at club meetings they like to have books—books—books! They want books with wide range of information and varied viewpoints. Hundreds of them use the State Library in their research work and appreciate its service, but all note the need of more room, more shelves, more books. The state library, in its present crowded condition, can not be fully effective as a disseminator of knowledge. Persons seeking to use the books in the library have to be jammed into some corner at some little table. Even then they have to undergo being jostled in order to make aisle room for other searchers. It is while working under such conditions that the Indianians realize the need of his state for a new library building.

A new library building, such as is proposed for the centennial, would put Indiana in line with such states as New York, Wisconsin, Missouri, Virginia, Kansas and other commonwealths that have an appreciation of an extensive library service. With better accommodations the Indiana State Library would be able to lend books to every resident of the state, the only requirement being that the borrower pay the parcel postage, a trifling sum.
