BIG PARADE TO FEATURE

A big day and night for Greencastle, one that will furnish attraction for both the old and the young people and one that will mean much to the business men of the city, was planned for Saturday, October 31st, by a number of business men at a meeting in the office of Mayor Walter Cooper Monday evening.

A big automobile parade, a grotesque parade, and a good lengthy band concert will be the features of the big day. A liberal offer of cash prizes will be made for the best adorned automobile and for the most uniquely costumed persons.

The promoters of the project are inclined to believe that the celebration will be one of the most entertaining events that has been given in Greencastle for many years and that the attendance will surpass any that has gathered for attractions in the city. The date for the night of fun and frolic comes at a time when farmers will attend, for it is the last Saturday in which the county taxes may be paid.

All the merchants of the city will be asked to decorate their stores and places of business in Halloween style and make the attraction harmonize with the true spirit of the annual celebration. Merchants who wish will offer prizes for the best quality of fall products, as pumpkins, corn squashes, apples and various other articles.

The tentative arrangements for the attractions were completed at the meeting Monday evening. A parade which would assemble in some of the residence districts and circle the public square will be the main feature. The line of march will be led by a parade of masked contestants for the cash prizes for the best costumed persons and followed by the automobile parade. After circling the square the prizes will be awarded and the band concert will follow.

The spirit which prompts the business men of the city to make entertainments for the people of Greencastle and vicinity is very commendable and it is the duty of all the merchants to aid in making the coming event a very successful one.

Mayor Cooper appointed a number of committees to look after the various plans for the entertainment. The members of the committee are asked to be present at a meeting of the boosters which will be held in the council chamber at the fire department Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The committees were appointed as follows:

Machines—Dr. J. R. King, Charles J. Arnold, Arthur L. Reat, Harry M. Smith—Cleave Thomas, Charles P. Broadstreet.
Masquerade—Roy M. Abrams, John Keightley, Prof. H. A. Henderson, Earl C. Lane.
Finance—Charles F. Zeis, John F. Cannon, Conrad C. Gautier, S. C. Sayers.
Music—Henry S. Werneke, Jesse Hughes, Andrew B. Hanna.
Decorations—Sam R. Rariden, Richard Hazelett, Wallace M. Welch.

Mrs. Josie Comstock, of Wabash, Ind., who has been attending the W. C. T. U. meeting in Brazil, spent the day here with Mrs. R. F. Gerrard.

Percy N. Collins, an expert billiard player representing the Brunswick-Balke-Callender Manufacturing Co., of Chicago, has been in the city for the past few days and has given exhibitions of his playing at the Star Pool room. A match game with Ernest Cook, reputed to be the best billiard artist in the city, attracted the attention of a large crowd Monday evening. He won the game easily running 200 points, handicapped by the balk style of play, while Mr. Cook was running 100 points at the straight game.

Mrs. Thomas Hamrick, of Clayton, spent the day with her son, A. J. Hamrick, and wife on east Washington street.

THINK FOREIGNERS ARE HIDING IN TERRE HAUTE

Deputy Sheriff Howard Harris and two men from Fern were in Terre Haute Monday night in quest of Charles Ally and Jim "Peanut," laborers who are believed to be guilty of the shooting of Russet Memmet, a laborer at the American Sand & Glass quarry at Fern Sunday night. Their search for the two foreigners was futile and as yet the two men are still at large.

The men from the quarry were acquainted with "Peanut" and Alley and thought they could locate the foreigners in Terre Haute. Although no trace was found of the men, the officers are satisfied that they are in hiding at that city and that they are being sheltered by someone in that town.

The foreigner who was arrested in Terre Haute and brought to this city, still denies that he is guilty of the shooting and refuses to identify the hat found on the scene of the shooting as his. When arrested in Terre Haute the man was bareheaded but he claims he lost his hat off a freight train. The injured man is improving and his wounds are not expected to prove serious.

GREAT PACE BY TAKING FOURTH STRAIGHT GAME
FROM PHILADELPHIA AMER-ICAN LEAGUE CHAMPIONS—
FORMER CHAMPIONS FAIL TO WIN SINGLE GAME.

BEST SERIES EVER PLAYED

The Boston National League team is now the World's champion baseball team, having today won its right to this title by defeating the Philadelphia American League team, former world's champions, and winners of the American League championship this year, in the fourth straight game of the World's Championship series. The score was 3 to 1.

The series just ended will go down in baseball history, as perhaps the greatest series ever played. The Boston team, which started from the bottom of the National League race early in July and set such a dizzy pace that it had all other teams distanced by the finish, was believed by many baseball critics not to have a chance to defeat the Philadelphia World's Champion team, in the World's Series.

But Boston not only turned over the dope bucket, but it did it so completely that the critics now stamp the Braves as the greatest baseball team in the history of America's great national game.

The Braves not only won the series but it did not allow the former champions a single game of the series. Manager Stallings of the Braves selected Rudolph, one of his stars, as the pitcher for Boston, while Gowdy, the star catcher, was put at the receiving end of the battery. Schawky, who started to pitch for Philadelphia, was relieved by Pennock in the fifth inning. Boston scored one run in the fourth inning, and when Philadelphia evened up matters by scoring one in the first half of the fifth inning, Boston retaliated by scoring two runs in its half of the inning. The score:

Boston	0 0 0 1 2 0 0 0 0—3 6 0

Batteries—Philadelphia, Schawky Pennock and Schang. Boston, Rudolph and Gowdy.

DEPAUW WINS BY ONE TOUCHDOWN

LISTLESS PLAYING BY LOCAL COLLEGIANS DURING FIRST HALF PREVENTS BIG SCORE IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON—
TEAMS PRESENT DIFFERENT STYLES OF ATTACK.

GAME MARRED BY STOPS

Playing listlessly during the entire first half but bracing in the last two quarters, DePauw finished ahead of Franklin in a 12 to 7 game on McKean field yesterday afternoon. A sensational thirty-yard run by Hays during the last two minutes of play was all that prevented the visitors from being blanked, this being the only time that they threatened the DePauw goal.

Seldom has a poorer exhibition of football been witnessed on the local gridiron than that displayed by both teams during the first half. The visitors with their lighter lineup displayed a series of open formations that were designed to sweep their heavier opponents off their feet but they were unable to gain consistently. DePauw tried nothing but straight football with a forward pass now and then but this attack was anticipated and the ball saw-sawed up and down the field although it seldom was in Methodist territory.

Visions of a repetition of the 0 to 0 tie of last year caused the Old Gold to look to its laurels during the last half. A forward march toward the goal of their opponents was begun by the DePauw backs and in less than three minutes Anderson had been shoved across for the first counter. The attack was continued but no more scoring was done in the third quarter although the argument was all in favor of the Methodists. After the last rest between quarters another march was started and Captain Thomas scored in a short time following a series of line plunges in which he, Ade and Anderson were prominent. Both trials at goal were unsuccessful and DePauw's scoring was finished.

Franklin threatened but little during the last half until towards the close of the game. Several open and tandem formations were successful and the oval was placed on the DePauw thirty-yard line. Hays, the stock half back, was sent on an end run and succeeded in evading all tacklers, finally planting the ball behind the DePauw goal. Nelp, the Franklin captain, was successful in kicking goal.

The game was marred by frequent penalties, and injuries although no one was kept out of the game for any length of time by the latter. The forward pass was tried seven times by DePauw and all but three attempts were incomplete. Franklin relied little on this play. In the kicking department the honors were about even between Pruitt and Captain Thomas. Nelp and Hays were the individual stars of the visitors while Sefton and Captain Thomas showed up well for DePauw.

MRS. FLORENCE SINGLETON ANSWERS CALL OF DEATH

Mrs. Florence Singleton, age 61, a well-known and highly respected Greencastle lady, died at her home on south Locust street shortly after one o'clock this afternoon. Death was due to congestion of the lungs although Mrs. Singleton had suffered for some time with a complication of diseases. The funeral will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of the deceased.

Mrs. Singleton moved to Greencastle about four years ago. She was known to her many friends here and in other places where she resided as a kind and loving mother, a true neighbor and a woman of high ideals in every particular. During her long suffering she never complained of her lot, bearing all in a true Christian-like manner and always expressing faith in a higher power that would care for those who trusted in Him.

The deceased is survived by five daughters, Jessie, Edith, Sylvia, Gladys and Mrs. Earl O'Hair, and one son, Willard, a sophomore in DePauw university.

John Shannon, of north Putnam, Democratic nominee for county recorder, was in the city today on his way to Indianapolis, where his wife underwent an operation this afternoon. Mrs. Shannon has been ill for several months, and the operation is of a serious nature.

The Physician's Prescription

"It's enough to make a cat laugh," said the man who was putting in the coal. But one would have found it necessary to take his word for it. His face showed no inclination to laughter, only savage bitterness.

"It's all very well," continued the man who was putting in the coal, "for a doctor to come around and say she's got to have eggs and milk. You know what eggs are worth at this time of year, and milk's eight cents a quart. We're behind, as it is."

"It's easy to get behind when there is sickness in the house," the other man agreed.

"Yes, and we've had our share this winter. First the twins, and then her. But it's hard lines when a man's got to look on and see his wife and the mother of his children die for the need of milk and eggs." He drew his hand across his grimy forehead.

"Give her eggs and milk, that's what the doctor says, and he don't say how it's to be done. It's enough to make a cat laugh."

Una sat listening, her eyes very wide open. Somehow the harsh tones of the man's voice brought the truth home with tremendous force. How would it seem if it were her mother who was ill, and needed milk and eggs to save her—just milk and eggs?

How simple it sounded, and yet to the man who was putting in the coal, it was as far out of reach as if the doctor had prescribed antichokes.

Una suddenly made her appearance at the door. The grimy man stopped his work to stare at her. He stared more than ever as she explained.

"I've got a few chickens, and I know other people who keep hens, too. Perhaps among us we could get eggs for your wife. Won't you tell me where you live, and then I'll let you know if I succeed."

In the suburban neighborhood nearly everybody kept hens. It was not a difficult matter for Una to find a number of people who were willing to give an egg a day to help the recovery of the coal man's sick wife. Old Mr. Porter kept a cow, and when he found that his little granddaughter had promised to donate all the eggs laid by her one speckled hen, he looked thoughtful.

"Guess I'll have to get in on this," said Mr. Porter. "You've got eggs enough promised, you say? Well, maybe a quart of Daisy's milk would help the good work along."

The coal man's oldest boy came to Una's every morning, and found a small basket of eggs and a quart of milk awaiting him. And the hollow-cheeked, hollow-eyed, frail little woman who had been just ready to slip out of life and leave her flock of children motherless, grew plump and rosy and bright-eyed, able to take up her duties again. The coal man's face is as grimy as ever, but when he sees Una it lights up in such a way that one forgets the black streaks the coal dust has left and sees only the beautiful radiance of gratitude.

KITE DAY IN JAPAN.

Novel Form of Entertainment of the Nipponese.

An American who recently visited Japan gives an interesting account of the national kite-flying day. "Whole families," he says, "hurried by various routes to the seashore to fly their enormous humming kites, from which the parents appeared to derive as much pleasure as the children. A loud hum emitted by the roaring kite is caused by a piece of thin bamboo, which is stretched tightly across from each shoulder of the kite. This taut filament not only acts as an Aeolian harp but bends the whole kite, so that its surface is concave, instead of being, as in most kites, a plane. The noise, when fifty or sixty kites are in the air, is almost deafening."

"The Japanese kite has no tail, but is furnished with numerous streamers. Great competitions are held by the owners of the kites, and occasionally a mimic battle will be fought in the air, the rival factions endeavoring by means of powdered glass, which has been worked into a definite length of the kite string, to saw the rivals' strings and to bring the vanquished kite tumbling ignominiously to the ground."

NONE TO HIS NEIGHBOR.

Dead to All Instincts of Decency and Brotherhood, Says Pathfinder.

It annoys me dreadfully to have someone come and plank himself down beside me and pull out a bag of peanuts and begin chomping on them. What is there more vulgar than this? It offends all the most delicate sensibilities. Yet how common it is. Wherever you go you hear the crunch, crunch of the omnipresent peanut. And the crunchers invariably throw the shucks on the floor until the place resembles a hog wallow. You feel like rising up and smiting the person who can be so lacking in all sense of decency and duty to civilization. Dead to all instincts of brotherhood and consideration for others must be the selfish brute who thus sits there obliviously gorging himself—and he does not even once pass the bag to you—Pathfinder.

A telegraph wire strung through the country will last about four times as long as one passing through the city.

SILAGE RETURNS GREATER PROFIT THAN THE STOVER

Twenty Weeks' Test Shows Marked Advantage for the Damp Use of Corn Stalks.

The writer found in 10 years of work at the Nebraska Experiment Station, prior to coming to Minnesota, that a ration of alfalfa hay with corn silage or stover gave larger and more profitable gains than any of the many other rations tested. Later tests have failed to show conclusively which is the better way of handling the corn, but it may be regarded as proved that the whole plant should be used instead of only the ear.

For the purpose of comparing silage and stover for cattle feeding, two groups, each containing eight steer calves, were fed from March 25 to Aug. 15, 1911. Each animal of one group received daily 7.5 pounds of corn, 4.1 pounds of alfalfa and 3.6 pounds of shredded corn stover. The animals of the other group were of the same age and received 6.1 pounds of corn, 3.4 pounds of alfalfa, and 15 pounds of corn silage.

These two rations were practically identical, except that the cornstalk was fed as silage in one case and as shredded stover in the other. The difference in amount of grain was made because of the presence of about that amount in the silage.

The silage-fed calves made average daily gains of 1.8 pounds each, or about one-third of a pound more than the stover-fed animals, and required only 3.4 pounds of grain instead of five pounds for each pound of gain made. They required less total dry matter, the figures being 7.8 and 8.9 pounds, respectively.

Club Work for Boys and Girls.

A fascinating branch of the Farm Management work of the U. S. Department of Agriculture is the club work for girls and boys. This department has, under the state agricultural agents, many county agents in each state who endeavor to interest the boys in growing corn and pigs, and the girls in raising and canning the ordinary kitchen garden products. It is a regrettable fact that so much of the farmer's time and acreage is consumed in large crops that, unless his overworked wife tries growing green vegetables, the family actually have none to eat. There is also great difficulty in getting the older generation to change its dietary habits. So Farm Management has begun work with the boys and girls, trying to get them to grow not only for exhibits and selling, but for the family consumption. The work has splendid educational possibilities, because these young and enthusiastic members of the family learn how to till their acre or tenth of an acre (the boys need more space for their corn), how to plant and tend their crops in the most approved fashion, and in the case of the girls, how to can their vegetables for winter use. Many of the girls grow so much that they are able to market, at a considerable profit, all that the family does not use.

Any public spirited woman in a suburban district who wants to start something a little different, to hold the juniors together, should consult the clubwork experts in this bureau on gardening and canning. At Takoma Park, one of the suburbs of Washington, the idea has taken hold splendidly, and in almost any space the ground permits, the boys and girls are learning to plant and grow a few common vegetables, and then to can them, as well as to supply the household where they are green. In the cities, where the gardening part is out of the question, the children are taught to market economically, and then the canning lessons are given. The work needs a leader who will keep the club in touch with the main office, who will undertake to direct and stimulate the children. But any mother who has encountered the dreariness of "What shall I do next?" with her growing boys and girls should find a satisfactory and practical solution in getting up a garden and canning club.

The country boys and girls who have been reached by this work are encouraged by prizes for their reports and exhibits, the most coveted prize being a trip to Washington. Any volunteer leader who started a club should find no difficulty in inducing other adults to offer prizes; in many communities the local boards of trade have been glad to stimulate buying and selling by this means, and in others banks and railroads come forward. The department itself does not offer prizes, but it does everything possible to help the club workers obtain them. One noteworthy feature of its advice about prize awards is the instruction on the business side of gardeners and marketing. The young gardeners are made to charge themselves with land, time, labor, and materials before they can count profits.

As a result of this work with canning and preserving, there is an unusual amount of printed matter dealing with the subject, available to any woman. Recipes and reliable directions are supplied. The office of Nutrition Investigations will also provide information on almost any subject which has to do with the preparation and care of food; how to arrange a proper diet, how to use meat economically, how to cook and utilize any unusual food; bread making, eggs and their uses, fish, flour of various kinds, corn, poultry rabbits, and so on through a long category of the ordinary elements of diet.—Suburban Life

Leg weakness among young chicks may be caused by being confined too long on board floors. Sometimes it is caused by feeding too heavily on rich feeds, and a lack of green feed.

Special Notice To Taxpayers.

Many will question the amount of their taxes and ask concerning their personal property assessments and land appraisement. Mistakes will occur where the assessment of property and the extending and collecting of taxes are done by as many different officers.

The Treasurer and Auditor will cheerfully correct all mistakes for which they are responsible and the county assessor will explain the assessment of personal property and where possible adjust if in error.

Time is at hand for the paying of Fall taxes. Monday, November 2, is the last day on which taxes can be paid, without the penalty being attached. You soon will find yourself in the Treasurer's office in a great crowd, awaiting to get to pay windows. Some will be in a hurry to make certain trains to get home. Why delay and cause yourself as well as the treasurer so much inconvenience?

If the second installment of taxes is not paid within the limit set by law, the taxes become due and delinquent and with penalty is extended by the Auditor and charged to the Treasurer. The state is interested in this extension and the Auditor and Treasurer are both personally liable for any penalties that might be refunded.

Under no circumstances can the Treasurer alter the duplicate. He can make no reduction in taxes and he can not refund money once paid in. Errors must be corrected through the Auditor's office.

As the Treasurer can not know the location of each person's property, tax payers should designate the property on which they wish to pay, and see that all property is included in their receipt. If they have land in more than one township or corporation, or desire to pay taxes on lands or lots not in their name, call the Treasurer's attention to the matter, carefully examine receipts, see if they describe all property (personal and real) and are otherwise correct before leaving the office, and if any errors are evident have them corrected at once.

The Tax Duplicate is not a transfer book and when, for any year, the Tax Duplicate is made with reference to the property on the first day of March said year the duplicate remains forever unchanged as to showing of property in whose books or prompt recording of deeds to the contrary notwithstanding.

Property will appear in same name of the payment of the second installment as for first. Assignees, Guardians, Administrators and others who pay taxes on property in trust and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as undivided estates, etc., are earnestly requested to settle such taxes before the last few days, as it requires considerable time to make divisions and separate receipts. Thus avoid mistakes which might happen during the rush of the last few days of taxpaying.

"All property, both Real and Personal, shall be liable for the payment of all taxes, penalties, interest and cost charged to the owner thereof in such county, and no partial payment of any such taxes penalties, interest or costs shall discharge or release any part or portion of such property until the whole is paid, which lien shall in no wise be erected or destroyed by any sale or transfer of any such personal property, and shall attach on the first day of April annually for the taxes of such year."

—From Section 173, Acts 1881.

Special Notice.

All Ditch Taxes and Street Improvements must be called for separately.

The taxpayer often has personal property and poll assessed to him separately from his real estate especially when the land is in joint title, and accordingly must have a receipt therefor.

Delinquent taxes must be paid before the current tax.

The Treasurer will not be responsible for penalties and charges on delinquent taxes, resulting from omission of the person, paying such tax to state definitely on what property, in whose name and in what township or corporation it was assessed.

Very Respectfully,
H. H. RUNYAN,
Treasurer Putnam County.

Helpful Beauty Hints

Massage For The Amateur—Sensitive Skin Cures—Proper Care of White Hair To Avoid Its Constant Troubles—Care For Cracked Lips—Shampoo For Falling Hair.

To be massaged is one of the most healthful, freshening experiences a tired woman can have, but unfortunately it is beyond the means of the average person.

If one cannot afford professional treatment, or at best, that of one who has no real knowledge of her work, it is well to fall back on self-rubbing. This is not the luxury of massage, but it will do much to stir up sluggish circulation and to keep the skin in condition.

Rubbings are of two kind, dry or wet, and can be given quickly and easily after the daily bath. The former can be given with a piece of flannel or with rubber or bristle brush or a crash mitten. The rubbing should be always in the one direction and if possible in a circular motion. For the back and loins, a long strip of flannel, held taut with two hands, not only is a good rub, but is as good as a course in gymnastics.

Wet rubbings can be done with salt water, aromatic vinegar or alcohol. The plain alcohol is too strong and should be diluted to at least seventy degrees. Do not use enough liquid to be sloppy and rub until the surface is dry. The wet rubbings are particularly refreshing after a hard day and act as a quick and lasting bracer.

For Sensitive Skins.

The man or woman with sensitive skin does not love summer; the hot sun not only plays havoc with looks, but often causes positive discomfort. The unlucky person who burns or blisters cannot run chances with the sun's rays, it is too painful. When exposed to the sun a woman should go veiled and a man wear a broad-brimmed hat.

For longer exposure, such as yachting or automobile trips, shelve vanity and rub cold cream over the face, thickly powdered with talcum powder. If you cannot stand a thick mask-like paste, at least use a little cream and a dash of powder; it will prevent blistering.

If you have achieved a bad case of sunburn, bathe the face with hot witch hazel and keep applications on the face all night.

Never wash the face in cold water after being out in the sun. If possible do not use water for several hours after coming in; if you do, it should be as hot as can be endured. Later rub in a healing lotion of some sort or carbolized vaseline.

For Our White-Haired Friends.

While white hair is beautiful, it is also very troublesome, as it shows at once the slightest neglect. I am one of the early birds of the changing color or process, so I know. To be attractive white hair must be kept absolutely clean, but in frequent washings there is great danger of losing the silvery shade so much admired. The hair is apt to become yellow in tone and streaky in color. To obviate these irregularities in shade, wash the hair in soapsuds made from pure white soap, and after the soap has been thoroughly rinsed off, wash the hair once again in warm water containing about twenty drops of bluing to a quart of water. The bluing will do for the hair just what it does for the laundry clothes, keep it from losing the pure white tone and from turning yellow. This is a good hint for professional shampooers.—G. B. H., New York.

The Lips in Winter.

My lips crack and are very dry in winter. What can I do to help this condition?—A. B.

The lips need special care in cold weather, as the cold dry air and the wind take the oil out of them and make them dry. The moisture from the breath evaporates quickly and lowers the temperature, and the alternate wet and dry make them rough. To prevent this the lips should have some form of ointment applied to them night and morning. White vaseline is as good as anything. Camphor, applied at the same time as the vaseline, is excellent to toughen the mucous membrane. First wet the lips thoroughly with a good strong tincture of camphor, and then rub in the vaseline with the finger tips.

BRYAN ADVISES SUSTAIN WILSON

By Electing Entire Democratic State Ticket in Indiana.

CONGRESSMEN COMMENDED

Legislation Favorable to the Common People Already Enacted Justifies
Endorsement by the Voters of the Country.

Indianapolis, Oct. 12.—The "Great Commoner," Wm. J. Bryan, closed a triumphal tour of Indiana in this city Saturday night. Tomlinson Hall was crowded to its capacity, both seating and standing, and thousands were turned away. Bryan is still the idol of Hoosier democracy, and as the years go by that popularity increases as the people understand him better—the purity of his motives and his lofty ideals of a government conducted by and for the people as a whole and not for special interests.

Mr. Bryan, though tired and worn because of the many speaking engagements, was in good voice and the great audience was with him from start to finish. His plea was for a vote of confidence to President Wilson by electing the democratic state and congressional tickets in Indiana. It had been possible through the assistance of Senators Kern and Shively and Congressman Korbly and the other democratic congressmen from Indiana to effect the great reforms already accomplished. To defeat the state ticket and the congressmen would mean the national administration would be discredited at home and abroad and paralyze it from making further reforms.

After being introduced by Gov. Ralston, Mr. Bryan said, in part:

Feels at Home in Indiana.
"I have been in Indiana for so many years during campaigns. I have begun to feel there would not be a campaign unless I came to talk to you," he said in beginning his speech. "In fact, I have come to Indiana so often that I could almost greet many of you by your given names. I have come once again to talk to you and urge you this time to show your confidence in your state ticket, in your splendid governor, your state administration and in President Wilson."

"I am not the young man you first learned to know, and I do not know how much longer I can keep up these campaigns, but I figure on about twenty years more. You are a great lot of people here in Indiana. You have been fighting for twenty years, and I have been fighting for twenty years; in fact, the only peace I had was when I was in the army."

"In the other days I came here to tell you what you could expect if the government were given over to the Democratic party, and I am free to admit now that half of the good things were not told."

"I want to plead with you for a vote of confidence in the national administration because that is what your vote is going to mean. I am near enough to the president to know him, to know his sincerity of purpose, his devotion to the people of this country and his unflinching courage in their interests to take more interest in this campaign than I ever did in one in which I was interested."

Deception of Republican Press.

"I want to warn you against the efforts which are now being made to mislead you. The Republicans are now going up and down this state, afraid to attack the president and the national administration, but trying to persuade you there is no connection between the state and the national ticket. I want to tell you that when the Republicans were in power at Washington they could always see the connection, and I want to warn you now they will preach the same story for about four weeks. Then if they are successful there will be another story told immediately after the election, and that is the word they will send broadcast throughout the country that Indiana has repudiated President Wilson; Indiana has repudiated democracy and has been reclaimed by the Republicans. I want to call your attention to an editorial appearing in The Indianapolis Star, undated, dated September 30."

"The writer says in this editorial that it is not President Wilson that is in this campaign. He says it is not what President Wilson has done, but what Kern, Shively and the democratic congressmen of Indiana have done that is the issue. The man that wrote that knew he was trying to deceive you. He knew better, but he hoped that you would not, and now if he wants to know what they have done I am here to tell you.

Not a One-Man Government.

"This is not a one-man government. No executive action can be taken by the president of this country unless it is ratified by the house and the senate. Now, what have Shively and the congressmen of Indiana done? They have remained firm in their support of the President; they have upheld his hands and when the President asked for anything there were the votes of Kern and Shively in the senate and the other Indiana congressmen in the house supporting him. That is what they have done and I want to ask you if there is any reason why the splendid state ticket you now have before you should be defeated because the candidates are going up and down this state making the fight and using all the influence there is possible to continue democracy, to return to the support of the President, the men who have been supporting him. No, the Republicans know better than that of which they are speaking now."

Wilson Set a Nation Free.

"We now have a low tariff. It is a good tariff law, better than I believed we could put through. I have been taking part in campaigns for thirty-four years. That is seventeen congressional campaigns and during all that time I can never remember the time that the people of this country have not been the victims of an endeavor to frighten them with the thoughts of a panic every time the democrats mentioned the tariff. But the Republicans say they could have given this country a low tariff. And if you ask the Roosevelt Republicans why Taft did not give this country a low tariff, they will say he was not progressive, and yet Roosevelt had about twice as long to do nothing and he did just about as well."

"But we now have a low tariff law, the best tariff law we have had since the war. We had a good tariff law in '93, but conditions have changed and we now have a better one. When President Wilson signed that tariff law he did one thing for this country that will live for a decade at least, and that is he set a nation free and tomorrow you can go to the polls to cast your vote as you desire."

"He declared that President Wilson is the first chief executive who has had the courage to 'strike the ax at the root of the tree,' and that the Republicans did not strike at the root 'because they were leaning against the tree and could not have it fall on them.'"

"But when President Wilson signed the low tariff bill and the next morning the sun arose as usual, the fertility of the soil was not decreased and the panic did not come, the people began to realize there never had been a combination between the Almighty and the Republican party."

Banks Freed From Wall Street.

Leaving the tariff question, Mr. Bryan took up the income tax passed by the present Democratic Congress. He explained the operation of the law, saying that not one man in ten will be affected by it for the reason that it applies only to those having splendid incomes.

After praising the passage and the provisions of the income tax law, Mr. Bryan took up the currency act. Since its enactment the center of finances in this country has been in Washington, and not in Wall Street, where it had been while the Republicans were in office, he asserted. He declared the Wilson administration, through the President and Secretary McAdoo, has forced Wall Street out of the control of the money market.

"Under the currency law the financial center has been moved from Wall Street to Washington," Secretary Bryan said. "Washington is only 20 miles from New York—so close that a lobbyist can get on a train at midnight in New York and reach Washington in time to talk to the senators before the opening of the senate. And yet, while Washington is so close to New York, it has taken forty years to drag the financial center from there to Washington."

Republicans Against Income Tax.

"Along with the tariff we have an income tax law. I suppose that I have been called more hard names through my agitation for an income tax law than for any other reason. They have ranged all the way from distributor of the peace to anarchist and demagogue was a way station. But now as I look back over the days when I fought for a 2 per cent. income tax law and now look at the law making assessments of from 1 to 7 per cent. I wonder at the modesty of my youth."

"The Republicans were not in favor of an income tax law. The income tax law takes from the back of the poor much of the burden of unequal taxation which they have had to carry and asks tribute from the pockets of those whose income is more than $3,000 a year. Less than nine-tenths of the people of this country are affected by the income tax and the proportion of democrats is far less than that. But the Republicans have had control of this government for so many years they have been enabled to amass fortunes, pile up money and now they are complaining because we are reaching out with the hand of the government and saying you must give part of it back."

"Well, if they ask you now what Kern and Shively and the Indiana democratic congressmen have done, go back and tell them they have helped the President pass a low tariff law and an income tax law."

"And if it had not been for senators like Shively and representatives like Korbly, President Wilson would never have been able to accomplish these things."

The Vote Unanimous.

Mr. Bryan asked those in the audience who believed the new plan to be an improvement on the old one to raise their hands. Every hand in the audience was raised. He then asked to see the hands of those who believed the old plan to be the best, but there was no response.

"And yet the republican newspapers will tell you to defeat me like Shively and men like Korbly knowing full well, when they tell you that, that if they are defeated progress in congress will stop."

WHICH IS THE HEAVIER?

Does a Pound of Lead or a Pound of Feathers Weigh More?

The favorite question with the school committee men of olden time was, we are told—"Which is the heavier, a pound of feathers or a pound of lead?" The first rash answer used almost always to be, "A pound of lead." Then, of course, from the older pupils would come the reply, "Both alike."

If this question were asked to-day, the old-time querist might receive a decided surprise; for the pound of feathers could easily be proved to be the heavier. A simple experiment is all the evidence needed.

With any accurate scales weigh out a pound of lead, using ordinary shot for convenience. Pour the shot into one of the pans of a balance. For the feathers a light muslin bag will be needed, and care must be taken that feathers and bag together do not weigh more than a pound. When the bag of feathers is put into the other pan of the balance, the beam will, after a few oscillations, come to rest exactly level.

So far the verdict "Both alike" seems to be proved. But place the balance on the receiver of an air pump, with lead and feathers undisturbed. Cover the whole with the glass bell jar, and exhaust the air. Slowly the feathers sink, and the lead kicks the beam. The pound of feathers is heavier than the pound of lead.

The truth is that what we called a pound was not such in fact; for the atmosphere buoys up everything within it in proportion to the bulk of the object, and the feathers being of a greater bulk than the lead are supported by the air to a considerably greater extent than the lead. Removed from the supporting medium, their true weight is made evident.

Charles Reade propounded a similar question in one of his novels. A Jewish trader is made to ask, "Which is the heavier, a pound of feathers or a pound of gold?" After awhile he explains to the satisfaction of his audience of miners that the feathers are the heavier.

Gold, he explains, is weighed by troy weight, while feathers are weighed by avoirdupois; and as the twelve ounces in a pound troy contain only five thousand seven hundred and sixty grains, while the avoirdupois pound contains nearly seven thousand grains, the pound of feathers is, of course, twelve hundred and forty grains heavier than the pound of gold.

Nicaraguan Customs.

Among the many old customs of Nicaragua, those relating to the dead are the weirdest to the stranger. Some of these have been handed down by tradition from the Indians, others were brought over by the Conquerors—and the two are so blended that it is difficult to tell which predominates. As soon as the medico pronounces one's illness fatal word is sent to the village padre, who prepares to administer the last sacraments of the church to the dying person. Placing the consecrated wafer in the custodia—a vessel of solid gold or silver, often resplendent with rare jewels—a procession is formed and marches through the street. A small boy ringing a bell rushes ahead to announce the approach of the sacred presence, and after him follows a band of music, often a single violin, playing a dirge. If it be possible to secure any soldiers, they surround the padre, who, dressed in brilliant vestments, is generally carried in a chair, over which four men hold a purple canopy. As the little cortege moves down the silent streets, every one bares his head and kneels, making the sign of the cross until the last soldier has passed. Woe to the sacrilegious stranger who fails to show this mark of respect, and many have been the instances where foreigners were pulled from their horses and even stoned for neglecting to follow this time-honored custom.

Degraded Indians.
The last man of the Santa Barbara Island was deported in 1853. Our knowledge of these extinct Indians of the California coast is derived from the accounts of the early voyagers, from the missionaries who subsequently settled on the islands, and from the remains of their refuse heaps and the skulls and skeletons which have from time to time been collected. Some of the islands probably at one time had a population approaching one thousand each, but in 1823 only about nine hundred were left on Santa Barbara and the neighboring islets; and by 1875 all had disappeared. Although they manufactured a certain number of domestic utensils, these Santa Barbara Indians are described by the missionaries as the most degraded of all human beings, with a morality lower than that of animals. Insects, especially grasshoppers, formed a portion of their food, also probably the larger varieties of earthworms.

The Smallest Book.
What is said to be the smallest book ever printed has just been published at Padua, Italy, by Salim Brothers. It is ten by six millimetres in size, and consists of eighty pages, each page containing nine lines of ninety-five to one-hundred that despite their diminutive size, are perfectly visible. The book reproduces hitherto unpublished letters, Gallilei's to Christina of Lorena (1615).

Stair Climbing Strength.
It takes eight times the strength to go upstairs that is required for the same distance on the level.

RESOLUTION SHATTERED.

The Moral Suasion Scheme Didn't Work on Jack Jones.

A little boy came home one day from school in a very bad humor. Another boy, Jack Jones, had given him a thrashing, and he wanted revenge. "Oh," said his mother, "don't think of revenge, Willie. Be kind to Jack. Heap coals of fire on his head. Then he will become your friend."

Willie thought he would try this method. So the next day at recess, just as he was buying a lemon pie for luncheon, Jack appeared and said: "Look here, I licked you yesterday, but I didn't give you enough. Now I'm going to lick you again."

And he planted a hard blow on Willie's little stomach.

Willie gasped, but instead of striking back he extended his pie to Jones. "Here," he said in a kindly voice, "I'll give you this. I make you a present of it."

Jack, in glad amazement, fell upon the pie greedily, and it had soon disappeared.

"Gosh, it was good!" he said. "What did you give it to me for?"

"Because you struck me," said the heaver of the coals.

Instantly Jack hauled off and struck him again. "Now go and get another pie," he said—Ladies' Home Journal.

FINANCE.

Landlord—I'll give you ten per cent off if you'll pay the rent to-morrow.

Tenant—Thank you. Now, suppose you let me have that ten per cent now and I'll pay it to you on account to-day.

Exasperating.
From the dark kitchen there emanated a series of thumps and angry exclamations. Jones was looking for the cat.

"Pat" called the son from the stairway.

"Go to bed and let me alone," blurted Jones. "I've just barked my shins."

"Pat" insisted Tommy, after a moment's silence.

"Well, what is it? Didn't I tell you to keep quiet?"

"I—I didn't hear your shins bark." And the next moment Tommy was being pursued by an angry sire with a hard hair brush.

A Sharp Retort.
"My dear," said a thin little Bright ton man to his wife, "this paper says that there is a woman down in Devonshire who goes out and chops wood with her husband."

"Well, what of it? I think he could easily do it if he is thin as you are. I have often thought of using you to peel potatoes with."

The thin man laid down his paper with a sigh that sounded like the squeak of a penny whistle.

Again Those Immigrants.
Little Eleanor's mother was an American, while her father was a German.

One day, after Eleanor had been subjected to rather severe disciplinary measures at the hands of her paternal ancestor, she called her mother into another room, closed the door significantly and said, "Mother, I don't want to meddle in your business of yours back to Germany."

Almost as Good.
Little Ike came up to his father with a very solemn face.

"Is it true, father," he asked, "that marriage is a failure?"

His father surveyed him thoughtfully for a moment.

"Well, Ike," he finally replied, "if you get a rich wife it's almost as good as a failure."

Very Singular.
"That second speaker was a very singular man."

"There was nothing in his appearance to indicate singularity."

"But didn't you notice that when he got up he didn't say the toastmaster's introductory remarks reminded him of a story?"

What He Wanted.
Small Boy (applying for situation) - What kind of a boy does yer want?

Merchant—A nice quiet boy that doesn't use bad words, smoke cigarettes, whistle around the office, play tricks, or get into mischief—

Small Boy—Yer don't want no boy; yer want a girl. See?

Double Charge, Anyhow.
Howell—Did you have double pneumonia?

Powel—I guess so; the doctor charged me twice as much as I thought he would.

Rather Dubious.
"Yes, ma'am; this is genuine spring lamb," declared the butcher.

"Which spring?" asked the careful housewife.

ANOTHER CORN SHOW FOR PUTNAM COUNTY

Greencastle and Putnam County is to have another corn show this year. The Central National Bank expects to hold another event of this kind in the near future, offering prizes for the best exhibits of corn grown in Putnam county.

The past two shows which have been held by this bank have demonstrated to the farmers of the county the necessity for careful selection and cultivation of their seed corn, and the present disturbed condition of the grain markets will soon settle down to a steady demand for all kinds of farm produce, so if the farmers are to grasp their opportunities they must utilize every means to increase production and quality of their produce.

At the show held last year the bank procured the services of an instructor from Purdue university, who spent the whole day explaining the results obtained at the experiment station, and what could be expected in the way of an increased yield and higher prices if the farmers planted only the very best grade of seed corn and cultivated it in the proper manner.

Several hundred booklets published by Purdue university and pertaining to the selection of corn for seed were distributed last year with telling effect. For the past several weeks inquiries have been made at the bank when the corn show was to be held and a number of recently interested farmers have announced their intention to display corn of their cultivation.

While the definite date for this year's corn show has not been made public it probably will be held some time next month after practically all the corn is gathered.

SAYS HUSBAND DRAGGED HER ABOUT BY THE HAIR

Mrs. Sarah E. Steele of Jackson township, who is suing her husband, Lafayette Steele, for divorce in the Putnam Circuit Court, charges the defendant with cruel and inhuman treatment, and in the complaint says he choked her, knocked her down and pulled her about the house by the hair when she refused to obey his wishes. The action was filed today by Attorneys, Allee, James & Allee for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Steele asks for an absolute divorce from her husband, the custody of their six children, whose ages range from 6 years to 20 years, alimony in the sum of $800 and $15 a week for the support of the children.

She claims they were married August 10th, 1893, and were separated September 21st, 1914. According to the complaint the defendant left his family September 21st, 1914, and since has failed to contribute any money for support. She also accuses him of cursing and abusing her many times and alleges that he on several different occasions accused her of misconduct, of which she was not guilty.

When it was known that Bryan would come to Indiana to make a number of speeches Republican leaders and others opposed to the Democratic ticket immediately started another story that Bryan would not say a thing in behalf of any of the candidates in this state.

The results show that they played their hands too strong and that Mr. Bryan completely knocked the props from under them by showing that the President is in complete sympathy with the party in Indiana and very anxious that it shall be successful in the coming election.

Mr. Bryan put the matter squarely to the Democratic voters of Indiana by telling them in every speech he made that the way to endorse the President is to elect Senator Shively, the members of Congress and the state ticket. He called attention to editorials which have appeared in papers here that are unfriendly to the Democratic party. These papers indicate that the President is not an issue in this campaign, and the Democrats are not bound by their loyalty to him to vote the state and congressional ticket.

Mr. Bryan, in his forceful way, showed how foolish it would be for a Democrat to try to endorse the President by voting for a Republican. He made it plain that no endorsement could be given by voting the Republican ticket, and he stated emphatically that the very papers now calling for endorsement of the President by helping the Republican candidates would on the day following the election say that the President had been repudiated if the Democratic ticket is defeated.

While Chairman Korbly and Democratic leaders here have not been worried by any of the efforts of the Republicans to make it appear that the President was not in sympathy with the ticket in this state they feel that Mr. Bryan has made the attitude of the President so clear that the Republicans and others will not have the nerve to go any further along the line they have been following for the past two months.

Chairman Korbly, who made the trip through Indiana with Mr. Bryan, stated today that he never has attended more enthusiastic meetings and undoubtedly the results of the Bryan tour has been to strengthen the party for the general election. He has reports which have been received from every place in which Mr. Bryan spoke which show very clearly that the meetings were of great benefit to the party and that the Democrats are going in for the close of the campaign with a great deal of enthusiasm.

Chairman Korbly said that the Bryan meetings indicate very clearly that the rank and file of the Democratic party is in thorough sympathy with the national and state administrations as was shown by the enthusiastic response to Mr. Bryan's speeches.

Chairman Korbly declared that Mr. Bryan's speeches have not only aroused Democrats to the importance of taking an active part in the campaign but they have completely cleared up the impression that was created by the Republicans in their persistent effort to make it appear that there was a discord in the Democratic party and that the President was not anxious to have the ticket successful in this state.

Chairman Korbly declared that Mr. Bryan, who undoubtedly spoke as the representative of the President made it clear that between the national administration at Washington and the state administration there is a bond of sympathy that cannot be destroyed by the Republicans or by any others who are seeking to bring about the defeat of the Democratic tickets.

What made the Bryan trip more than usually significant from a political standpoint was that the large meetings were not the result of vigorous effort on the part of the Democratic leaders to get out the crowds. No effort was made to induce people to come to hear Mr. Bryan but his meetings were the largest that have been held in Indiana this year. The Republican organization is pulling every string it can reach to get out crowds to hear its speeches but none of the meetings it has held can any way near approach those addressed by Mr. Bryan which may be taken as an indication of the comparative strength of the two parties in the present campaign.

It has not appeared as yet what plan of campaign the Republicans will follow during the next three weeks since Mr. Bryan has shown beyond question that there is no ground whatever for the charge that the national administration is not entirely in sympathy with the campaign in this state and since Mr. Bryan has shown emphatically that the national administration approves the state administration.

Mr. Bryan demonstrated very fully that the Democratic party in national and state affairs is proud of its record and that it has nothing at all to apologize for.

The Bryan meetings are to be followed up immediately by many others to be addressed by Governor Ralston and members of the congressional delegation who are expected to return to Indianapolis the latter part of next week. As far as Chairman Korbly is able to learn the Democratic organization is in much better condition than it was this time two years ago an indication that the Democratic vote will run into enormous figures.

Chairman Korbly's reports from throughout the state show very clearly that the Democrats succeeded in registering a larger per cent. of their votes than either the Republicans or Progressives which is another very favorable indication. In this city where the Republicans are making a very bitter fight on the Democratic local ticket, the Republicans fell down badly on registration day. The registration of Republicans was not up to that of two years ago in many counties, although in 1912 it was estimated by Republican leaders themselves that fully 60,000 voters of their party failed to register because they were not in sympathy with the campaign that was being conducted.

The drift of the betting here shows that the men who have money to wager are confident that Senator Shively on the Democratic ticket will be elected by a large plurality—as large as four to one is offered here that Senator Shively will be re-elected, which indicates the confidence of the Democrats in the outcome of the election. Even money is offered that Senator Shively's majority over his

WILSON BACKS UP THE STATE TICKET

CAMPAIGN OF WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN IN INDIANA TOTALLY DISPROVES STORY CIRCULATED BY G. O. P. THAT PRESIDENT WOULD NOT ENDORSE INDIANA DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

BIG MAJORITY FOR SHIVELY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 13.—That the weakness of the general plan of campaign of the Republicans in Indiana was disclosed by William Jennings Bryan in his brief tour last week and that he has left the Republican organization without a thing to stand on during the next three weeks is the consensus of opinion of the men who have given the matter careful consideration.

For the last two months Republican leaders and others who are opposed to the Democratic party have been putting out a silly story to the effect that President Wilson was opposed to the ticket of this state and that the only way to help President Wilson was to defeat not only the state ticket but Senator Shively and several members of Congress.

The purpose of this story was to alienate from the Democratic ticket the support of the strong Wilson men and to also keep the independent voters from supporting the Democratic ticket. The men who framed up this scheme figured that if they could make the people believe that the Democratic organization in Indiana was out of sympathy with the President it would be an easy matter to get thousands of Democrats to vote the Republican ticket.

It is regarded as probable that the Republicans reckoned entirely without their host in this matter as it is difficult to understand how otherwise they could have gone the limit in starting a story to the effect that the President wanted to have the state ticket of his own party defeated. It is thought that some of the Republicans and others who have been over-zealous in the opposition to the Democratic ticket actually believe that the President was not in sympathy with the ticket in Indiana and in other states and that they also thought that he and members of his Cabinet would let the matter go unanswered.

When it was known that Bryan would come to Indiana to make a number of speeches Republican leaders and others opposed to the Democratic ticket immediately started another story that Bryan would not say a thing in behalf of any of the candidates in this state.

The results show that they played their hands too strong and that Mr. Bryan completely knocked the props from under them by showing that the President is in complete sympathy with the party in Indiana and very anxious that it shall be successful in the coming election.

Even money is offered that Senator Shively's majority over his nearest competitor will be at least 50,000 but even an attractive bet like that is not taken for the reason that Republicans, while doing a lot of talking, have no confidence in the outcome as far as their own ticket is concerned.

It is regarded as extremely doubtful whether the Republicans will be able to run ahead of Albert J. Beveridge, the Progressive nominee as his meetings are twice as large and twice as enthusiastic as those addressed by Republican candidates. In fact Hugh T. Miller, the Republican nominee for United States Senate, seems to have been entirely lost sight of since his nomination several months ago and it is not expected that he will even figure during the remainder of the campaign.
