MOFFETT TO BE ON TIGER LINE-UP THIS YEAR

Donovan Moffett, former Bainbridge high school athletic star, promises to be one of the shining lights in the football and basket ball aggregations of DePauw during the coming athletic seasons. Moffett put the Bainbridge high school basketball team on the map by his work and last year injuries kept him from assisting DePauw's championship football team.

Moffett has the weight, the speed and the nerve to make a terrific lineman for the Tigers this fall. He received an injured ankle in the Indiana game last year that kept him from other football games of the season, but he showed up well in basketball. His fellow team mates say he is one of the hardest hitting linemen ever attempting to make the Tiger team. He weighs well over 200, is lightning fast and Coach Buss is predicting great things from this Putnam county lad. He will be a sophomore this year.

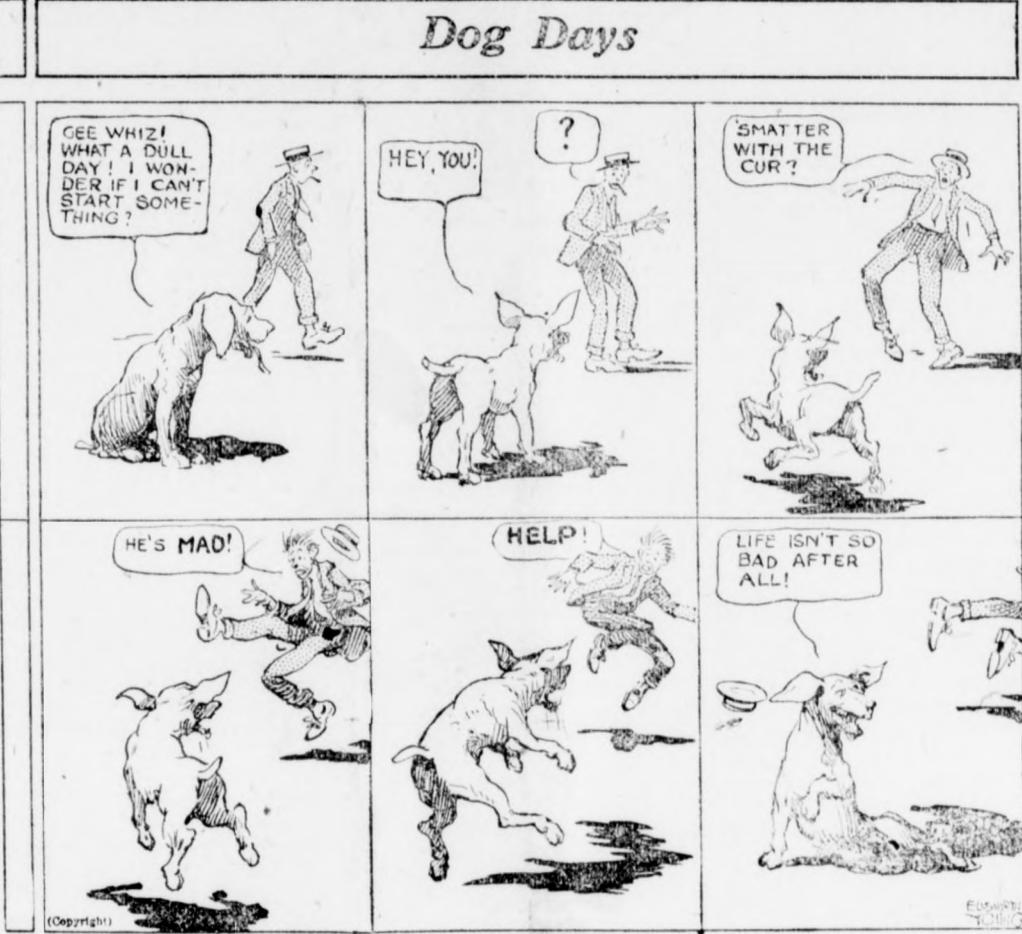

UNION MEETING TO BE HELD AUGUST 24

The union meeting of the Greencastle churches will be held next Sunday evening, August 24, at 7:30 in the Christian church. The address will be delivered by Rev. W. E. Carpenter, of Brazil. He has just returned from extensive travels in Syria and Armenia and from personal observations gives an interesting account of the conditions in these countries following the war. This will prove a most interesting meeting. Everybody in Putnam county cordially invited.

OHIO MAN NEW MANAGER OF TRICK BROS. STORE

Will Succeed Harold J. Comstock, Who Resigned to Take a Similar Position at Monroe, Mich.

Frank Stephens, of Greenville, O., who was recently discharged from service, has been chosen as the new manager of the Trick Brothers five and ten cent store here. He will succeed Harold Comstock, who resigned a few weeks ago to accept a similar position at Monroe, Mich. Mr. Stephens comes to Greencastle well experienced in this line, having been manager of the Trick Brothers Fountain Square store at Indianapolis before his entry into service. He was in the army eleven months, being stationed at Camp Sherman the entire period of his service. Mr. Stephens attended Oberlin College three years and is a brother of Clyde Stephens, who assisted in the store here during the holiday season two years ago.

U. S. NOT BOUND LEGALLY TO ACT SAYS PRESIDENT

CHIEF EXECUTIVE TELLS SENATE COMMITTEE QUESTION OF WAR RESTS WITH CONGRESS UNDER PACT.

QUIZ DRAWS OUT FACTS

Washington, August 19.—President Wilson, interpreting the league of nations covenant today for the Senate foreign relations committee, declared it imposed no legal obligation for the use of American military force in protecting the territory or independence of any other nation.

But he added that the covenant might involve, in certain circumstances, an "absolutely compelling moral obligation" which might be even stronger than a legal promise.

Pressed for a more exact definition by committee members, who insisted that the whole arrangement was "a rope of sand," he asserted that on the contrary he considered it as placing the nations in "an attitude of comradeship and protection" which would compel respect for the principles of justice and liberty.

Meeting the committee in a round-table discussion in the east room of the White House, in contradiction to the precedents of more than a century and with the whole nation listening through the medium of a relay of public stenographers, the President went into many of the details of the peace negotiations and touched on all the hotly-debated questions which have divided the Senate in its consideration of the peace treaty.

Gives Freedom of Choice.

Article 10 of the covenant guaranteeing the integrity of league members against aggression, he declared, would leave to each nation "complete freedom of choice as to the application of force." Even if the American representative on the council joined in a unanimous recommendation for military action the final decision for peace or war must rest, so far as concerned the United States, with Congress, he said.

The President revealed that Japan's promise to return Shantung province to China was reduced to written form in the minutes of the peace conference. He asserted he had "every confidence" that the promise would be carried out and told the Senators it was "the best that could be got" out of the negotiations. Japan having given notice she would withdraw from the conference if her demands were refused.

The American delegates, he said, had tried to keep the nation free from obligation in European affairs "so far as it was honorably possible to do so," but he asserted that it might be necessary to keep some American troops in the Rhine district under the treaty for the next fifteen years.

DR. JONES' CIVIL ILLUSTRATION AT INSTITUTE, TUESDAY

Tuesday afternoon Dr. Jones gave an illustration of the devices used to determine musical ability. Upon the phonograph he placed records showing slight differences of pitch, time and intensity. The teachers were asked to determine by ear the various differences. The tests were graduated from very easy to very difficult and it was noticeable that in the first stages of the test nearly all the teachers took part, being able to note the differences. Long before the end of each test, however, the voices grew fewer till toward the close only a half dozen from the 150 teachers were sure of their ability to determine a difference.

Dr. Sweet discussed the use of illustrations and the history library for high schools. He illustrated the use of illustrations by telling the story of a very remarkable manuscript in the possession of the family of Mr. James Bridges who lives just east of Greencastle. This manuscript is the log of a slave ship and is one of the two or three authentic documents having to do with the slave trade now in existence. The manuscript was presented to the grandmother of Mrs. Bridges by a former professor of DePauw University.

As to the library Dr. Sweet insisted that every library ought to contain three kind of books—guides, that is books telling of other books and their value in history; texts, books containing the facts of history, and historical literature, history written in elementary literary form and to be read because of its human interest.

Prof. Tilden spent the afternoon period in illustrating from various readings the divisions of literature dealing almost entirely with literature of the interpretation of life.

FOODSTUFFS ARE SELLING RAPIDLY

THE LOCAL POST OFFICE HAS SOLD APPROXIMATELY $1,000 WORTH OF GOVERNMENT FOODSTUFF IN PAST TWO DAYS—TOWNSPEOPLE BUY MORE THAN COUNTRY FOLK.

SALE TO CONTINUE

The Greencastle post office has sold 648 cans of government corn since the local office became a grocery store Monday morning. Postmaster William Denman and Assistant Postmaster Ernest Stoner, who have charge of goods have been sold. The farmers and Mr. Denman stated late Tuesday evening that if the people continue to buy as they were buying Tuesday the Greencastle apportionment would soon be gone. Already several articles on the list have been sold out. Approximately $1,000 worth of goods have been sold. The farmers of the township are not buying as readily as the townspeople. The rural route men were given instructions by Postmaster Denman to explain to the farmers the government sale and urge them to take advantage of the low price of the articles sold. For a comparison of prices, the government is selling beans at about 7 cents per pound, while the grocery stores are selling beans per pound at 15 cents. Bacon purchased at the meat store or grocery store is from 50 cents to 70 cents per pound, while the government is selling it for 36 cents per pound. The goods are in a large government depot at Chicago. It takes several days for the orders to be delivered to the purchasers. Rice, vegetable soup and cherries have been sold out, reports Mr. Denman. "The goods are a great buy," says the postmaster, "and more people should patronize the government. There is a possibility of the government selling through the post offices of the United States clothing articles within a few months. This sale would, however, not be put on until after all of the foodstuffs are sold."

POLITICAL GOSSIP FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., August 19.—Immediate relief from profiteering, prompt ratification of the peace treaty, including the League of Nations, and legislation extending some sort of substantial recognition to discharged soldiers for their services during the war are some of the things the country demands of Congress, and which Congress would do well to grant, in the opinion of Representative Scott Ferris, of Oklahoma.

Representative Ferris, who is chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, has just returned to Washington from a trip to the Middle West. He declares that the public is tired of the unending debate for which the present Congress is most celebrated, and which gets nowhere, and that unless the Republicans who control Congress substitute constructive action for words before very much longer they will hear from the country in tones that will be very distinct.

"If I am any judge of public sentiment in the Middle and Southwest," said Mr. Ferris, "the preponderance is that the peace treaty, including the League of Nations be agreed to at the earliest possible date; that the war be finally closed, that peace and pre-war conditions be immediately restored, and that we get back to normal conditions at the earliest possible moment. The people understand full well that the peace treaty carries provisions, first for arbitration, second for disarmament, third against secret treaties, and fourth that the United States can on two years' notice withdraw from the league if she desires. They are heartsick about debates in Shantung and other technical phases—they want the whole matter agreed to and put behind them."

"If I am any judge of the people demand some immediate and affirmative protection against profiteering and those who are making abnormal profits out of the necessities of life. They also want it made perfectly clear that President Wilson's suggestions will be followed and that every profiteer in whatsoever walk of life will be required to content himself with reasonable profits. Conditions are too abnormal and the load of the citizen is too heavy at this particular time to withstand the fabulous profits that are being snatched from both producer and consumer on every hand."

"The people demand that Congress do for the four million discharged soldiers what other countries are doing—give them some substantial recognition of their service. In conversing with numerous soldiers on the subject, they expressed the hope that the Mondell soldier land bill might be materially amended so that it will be made to benefit a very much larger number of soldiers and extend the hand of opportunity to those who do not desire to enter a soldier colonization plan."

"In short, if I am any judge, the people of the middle and southwest desire to put the abnormal war conditions behind them as rapidly as possible, resume pre-war conditions and take up their tasks anew, and any delay or long-drawn-out debate in the Senate over the peace treaty will be disheartening to them as it will be unprofitable to the country at large."

"I see that it has been asserted by Republicans now in control of both branches of Congress that the legislation now on the calendar is 'chicken feed' and does not deserve the attention of Congress."

"The American people who are daily being robbed by profiteers and food gamblers will be slow to agree with this logic. The railroad problem, intricate though it be, deserves attention and attention now. The development of the West by appropriate legislation for the development of oil, coal and other natural resources are all held in abeyance. Unless the Republican leaders in Congress are totally wanting in initiative, and are totally without ability to assemble themselves and act, substantial and immediate steps should be taken for the solution of these problems."

"The Republican Congress has been in session nearly three months. All it has been able to do is to re-enact the bills the Democrats formulated in the last Congress and which were killed by the Republican filibuster in the Senate. They have initiated nothing."

CROWD COMES EARLY

THRONG ARRIVES ON GROUNDS AT 8 O'CLOCK AND PROGRAM STARTS—AMUSEMENT AND REFRESHMENT STANDS BUSY.

PICNIC WELL IN PROGRESS

You'll miss the time of your life if you don't attend the Farmers-Greencastle Commercial Club picnic now in progress in the Hazlett grove one-half mile east of Greencastle. Hundreds of people were on the ground by 8 o'clock this morning and the booth rows look like the entrance to the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus. Everything imaginable is there, from the balloon man to the cupid doll manager. The Greencastle band, under the direction of Henry Werneke, started off the program at 10 o'clock with a jolly tune. The people there all smiled and this smile still continues at the time this paper goes to press. It is worth going to the grounds just to see some people's face crack when they smile.

Many amusing belt ribbons were being worn by the "jolly" members. Such as these were seen: "Looking for a sweetheart," "I'm married—are you?" The grounds are a fine location for the Greencastle people and many are walking there. The interurban cars were being filled at 9 o'clock this morning and many thousand people are expected to pass within the picnic gates. The merry-go-round is taking in its usual round. The program for the afternoon is one of high spots throughout. The addresses given by prominent American leaders will please the older folks, while the amusement stands and refreshment booths will sell to the others. The following booths are on the ground:

John Goddard, refreshment booth, Greencastle.
C. McDowell, doll rack, Frankfort.
John Veach, doll rack, Indianapolis.

"Burning the Midnight Oil"

THAT, literally, is the reason why the American has won the proud distinction of being the best educated man in the world.

Because a cheap, dependable illuminating oil made from petroleum was developed first in the United States, the people of this country had the opportunity of studying late into the night long before such luxury was possible elsewhere.

The petroleum industry, in which the Standard Oil Company was a pioneer, has made it possible, even in remote places, for man to read, study and acquire knowledge in comfort, after the day's work is done.

The tremendous development of America shows that the American has "burned the midnight oil" to good purpose.

The seven men who manage the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), the 19,568 men and women who carry on the business, and the 4623 stockholders, all are proud of the fact that their Company has been,
and is, such a potent influence in the development of the nation.

Today the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) operates the greatest and most complete refinery in the world, together with several others of lesser output.

Throughout 11 states the Company distributes the refined products so thoroughly that even those in the remote corners are able, at all times, to get their requirements at a low price.

Thus is shown another marked benefit accruing to all from the activities of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as a public servant.

JAVA "LAND OF VOLCANOES"

Country Has From Earliest Times
Been Devastated by Turbulent Forces of Nature.

Java, with a territory about equal to New York state, has more volcanoes than any area of like size, and yet has more inhabitants than the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Texas combined. A bulletin of the National Geographic society finds that estimates of the active and extinguished craters range from 100 to 150.

"Everywhere in Java, in the huge crater lakes, in fissures that now are river beds, even in ancient temples, half-finished when interrupted by some fierce convulsion, are evidences of enthusiastic forces—such turbulent forces as now are in continuous hysterics in the valley of the Ten Thousand Smokes in Alaska and break their crusted surface again intermittently in Java." The late eruption of the Klot (or Kalut) volcano cost the lives of 40,000 natives, destroyed 20,000 acres of crops by the flow of hot mud, and did millions of dollars' damage outside by the falling ashes. This devastation, however, was mild compared with the violent upheaval of 1883, when Mother Nature planted a Gargantuan infernal mine in the Jawa doorway at Krakatoa.

The terrific detonation was heard in Australia, as far away as El Paso is from New York, much of the island was blown into the air four times as high as the highest mountain, and the hole left under water where most of the island had been is so deep that a plumb line to touch bottom must be twice the length of the Washington monument. The isolation lessened the toll of lives, many of the 35,000 deaths having been due to the tidal waves that flooded distant shores.

OH, MAN!
A man will oft bewail the shames
That flourish 'neath the sun,
Sweetly oblivious to the fact That he himself is one.

FLAMINGO LONG A MYSTERY

TO AMERICAN NATURALIST BELONGS HONOR OF LEARNING HABITS OF REALLY REMARKABLE BIRD.

Until comparatively few years ago
the habits of the flamingo, without doubt the most remarkable of all living birds, were a tantalizing mystery to naturalists. In 1904 the first photographs of nesting flamingoes were secured by Dr. Frank M. Chapman of the scientific staff of the American museum. The group was constructed from photographs and notes made during his investigations, and from specimens secured by him. Flamingoes occur in the warmer parts of both hemispheres. The American flamingo

—the most brightly colored of the genus—ranges from the Bahamas and southern Florida to Brazil and the Galapagos.

For nests flamingoes erect curious mounds of mud, from 8 to 13 inches high, and measuring about 22 inches in diameter at the base and 14 inches across the top. A depression about one inch deep, in the top of the nest, holds the single egg, laid in May. Both male and female incubate. When the young are hatched they are covered with a down like that of young ducks.
They develop their brilliant plumage in their second year. For their first three or four days they remain in the nest, and are fed by the parents on predigested food. At about three weeks of age they enter upon their adult diet of crustaceans.

WHAT BECAME OF HER?

Theodosia, the only daughter of Aaron Burr, was a woman of superior mental accomplishments and strong affections. In her eighteenth year she was married to Joseph Alston, afterward governor of South Carolina.
She was a devoted and adored wife.
The trial of her father for treason and his virtual banishment not only depressed her spirits but fearfully weakened her already feeble constitution, yet his disgrace in no way lessened her affection. When he returned from Europe she resolved to visit him in New York. Embarking from South Carolina on the Patriot, on the thirteenth day of January, 1813,

she was never heard of afterward.
The schooner may have fallen into the hands of pirates; but as a heavy gale was experienced for several days soon after leaving Georgetown, the probability is that the craft sunk.

REXALL DRUGGISTS

JOIN IN DISEASE FIGHT

In addition to the 542 pledges received by the Indiana State Board of Health from druggists of the state who have agreed to sell no patent medicines or other nostrums for the home treatment of venereal diseases except upon a physician's prescription, the Rexall druggists in the state, numbering 157, today indicated to the bureau of venereal diseases their willingness to serve in the federal campaign for the control and eradication of these diseases, and 208 more voluntary pledges came from independent retail druggists to the same end. This leaves a very small minority of the druggists of the state outside the co-operative effort. These represent, it is believed by officials of the bureau, druggists who have not been enlightened as to the purpose of the government and the method of attacking the diseases. The bureau officials indicate that a greater proportion of the druggists of Indiana have joined in this campaign than in any other state, population considered. The pledges represent a radical modification of drug store practices, in many instances, apart from the requirements of the United States public health service relative to the advertising of patent medicines of the character in question. The fact that many physicians fill their own prescriptions makes it apparent, according to officials of the bureau, that the druggists receive very little in return for the sacrifice represented in abandoning the sale of these remedies many of which, regardless of their potency, are sold in large quantities, due principally to their having been widely advertised.

GAME INTERESTS ALL RACES

Baseball Knows No Distinction of Nationality, Nor Does It Recognize the Color Line.

There isn't anything that can draw together the races, nationalities and religious beliefs like the good, old-fashioned American game of baseball.

In a game played on the Fourth of July an American who witnessed it in describing one of the plays says: A batter whose name showed him to be of Polish descent, had reached first base. A German went to bat. A pitcher with a French name pitched the ball and the German knocked a high fly. A Jew ran after it and dropped it. He picked the ball up and threw it to an Englishman at second. The Englishman threw the ball to an Irishman on first and a double play was made and the German and the Pole were declared out.

From where the spectator sat he could have reached out his hand and touched a German, a Russian, a Jew, an Italian and a negro. Several negroes were seated together watching the game. The umpire made a decision.

One of the negroes did not agree with the decision and he said the "empire" was "rotten." He'd bet $2 the "empire" was wrong, and he took $2 from his pocket. An American in soldier's uniform took the bet and covered the $2. The soldier explained the rule to the negro, and the negro said:

"Pears to me dat's right, after all."

Then the American put his own $2 back in his pocket and returned the $2 he had won on the bet back to the negro. What other athletic game could be played in this world with such representation of peoples as are to be found at a baseball game? The best of it all is that the soldiers having introduced it overseas, it now promises to be an all-over-the-world game.

BUILT UP POLISH INDUSTRIES

Russia's Expulsion of Jews From Moscow Had Results Unforeseen by Muscovite Statesmen.

An odd bit of commercial history comes to light with the granting of citizenship to Jews in Poland, and shows how Russia, in expelling the race from Moscow, provided Poland with a human factor of great importance in developing her own industrial resources, the Christian Science Monitor recalls. Politically Poland lay helpless in the grip of her powerful neighbor, resisting as best she might that neighbor's determination to destroy the last vestige of Polish national existence. Industrially, on the other hand, her coal and iron ore districts had developed Polish centers of manufacture superior to those of Russia, but dependent for success on the sale of their products in Russian markets. Jews came from Moscow who were familiar with Russian trade conditions, had already established personal trade relations with Russian cities, and were admirably fitted to develop a commercial program between the two countries. These men became the natural intermediaries between Poles and Russians in business, and their expulsion from Russia is doubtless one reason for the prosperity of Polish industries at Lodz, Warsaw and Petrokow.

As with many other fundamental and social movements, profit sharing clearly came from the old countries, for one of the first successful profit-sharing plans in the United States was founded in LeClaire, Ill., named after the "father of profit sharing," Monsieur LeClaire of Maison LeClaire, Paris, France.

There are many modifications of profit sharing, as laid down in one of the complete and fundamental discussions of the subject, printed some forty years ago, and it is well to have in mind the differentiations of the true profit sharing and its various offshoots, such as bonus giving, holiday gifts, production bonus pensions, welfare work, etc.

Bohemia—Czecho-Slovakia.

American business men are reminded by Wallace J. Young, United States consul at Prague, that letters intended for that country should not be addressed "Bohemia," but should be addressed "Czecho-Slovakia."

Also in the body of the letters, when the whole country is intended to be mentioned, its proper name should be used. The former "Bohemia" is only one of the parts of Czecho-Slovakia, and when an American firm speaks, for example, of wanting agencies in "Bohemia," without a knowledge of such a firm's previous connections in the former "crown lands" now comprised within the state, it is impossible to tell whether the writer is desirous of securing new agencies in Bohemia only or throughout the entire Czecho-Slovakia.

The Virgin Islands.

The people of the Virgin Islands, having enjoyed the experience of seeing their territory sold "over their heads" by Denmark to the United States of America, are reported to be settling down without ado to their associations with the new landlord. They have, it would seem, reasonable expectations of increasing prosperity, owing to the constant visits of American warships to the harbor of St. Thomas and to the presence of American regiments in their midst, both of which circumstances serve to stimulate trade and to make the islands appear busy and "mouvemente." Meanwhile, a small appropriation from the United States covers the discrepancy between the expenditure and revenue of the islands, which are governed locally, as under Denmark, by the "Colonial Council." It remains for the United States congress to decide what shall be the permanent form of government. And the Virgin Islands are doubtless living in hopes.

Re-educating Porto Ricans.

The federal board for vocational education is leaving no stone unturned in its efforts to find every disabled soldier who may, if he so desires, receive re-education from the government. In Porto Rico there are at present 110 soldiers disabled in the service who should be beneficiaries of the rehabilitation law. The special agent of the board in the island is interviewing these men with a view to their future vocations. Porto Rico has no trade schools, but training and placement may be made in shops and industrial establishments for those who desire it, and the government agricultural college at Mayaguez provides training for those who wish to go on the land.

This new method of bringing out facial characteristics has met a great deal of favor since it was first displayed by the artist. Even in studio where there are any number of exceedingly attractive portrait paintings this living mask immediately arrests the eye. It gives one the impression that a face is peering through dark curtains.

Lives in Old "Pillibox."

A Belgian farmer, who has returned to his shell-shattered fields near Poelcapelle, has solved his own particular housing problem by converting an undamaged "pillibox" into a temporary home for himself and family. "Pillibox" was always an unfortunate and misleading name for concrete forts. Nearly all of them were rectangular and contained four or more large rooms. Very little work would be required to turn them into comfortable and even lasting homes. Some near Boesluege are already being fitted up as cafes, in anticipation of tourist parties which will throng the battlefields as soon as passports and travel restrictions will be relaxed.

Hawaii's University.

Under recent legislation the College of Hawaii is now the University of Hawaii, and one of the new courses planned is complete instruction in the island's leading industry, sugar.

It will embrace practical work by the students on plantations during at least one vacation, in conjunction with the classes at the college. Those specializing in the agriculture phase of the work with the planters' experiment station and those studying in the factory end will receive $45 a month and traveling expenses. With the new course in good working order, it is believed the university will stand as the leading institution in the world for instruction in the sugar industry in every phase.

Propaganda.

A doughboy who had just returned from Coblenz was talking to a very estimable elderly woman—straight-backed church member.

"How did you like it up in Germany," she asked.

"Oh, we got along very well with the Germans," and, with a big, broad smile, he added, "and had all the good German beer that we wanted to drink."

"More German propaganda," exclaimed the elderly woman.

SHEEP HERDER WELL HOUSED

Compact, Comfortable Dwellings Provided for Those Who Tend the Herds on Western Plains.

Just at present the sheep herder's lot is a fairly happy one. Frank R. Arnold writes in Popular Mechanics magazine. He gets $100 a month besides his expenses, and one never can see his sheep wagon without wanting to leave civilization for a few months and take to the range. It is the most compact dwelling house on wheels that has ever been devised. For utilizing all possible space it can give lessons even to a dining car or a saloon. It is dining car and sleeping car in one, and historically forms a permanent link between western pioneers days, when every one traveled in a prairie schooner, and automobile days when the sheep wagon is used only to follow the herd during the winter and spring, until it disappears up on the high summer range, where only a saddle horse can penetrate.

The wagon, which for months is thus the home of two sheep herders, has a long, narrow body, to give freedom to the wheels, but above the wheels it flares out enough to give a broad room with benches along both sides. It has three coverings of canvas for greater warmth in winter, and a stove screwed to the floor near the front door. The back part of the canvas covered space serves as bedroom, containing nothing but a bed, to which air is supplied by sliding glass windows to the rear end of the wagon.

Attached to the bed is a folding table, and under it are small drawers and a large bin to contain the herder's supply of flour and grain.

DESERVE MORE THAN PRAISE

Men of the Type of Private Oscar Zwald Surely Entitled to the Country's Best.

Col. A. C. Read, inspector general, asked General Liggett to write letters of highest praise for the heroic conduct of Private Oscar Zwald, Fort Dodge, Iowa.

By rushing fearlessly into a burning car loaded with live shells, and extinguishing the fire at great risk, he saved scores of lives and possibly nearly a million dollars' worth of munition stores for Uncle Sam at the Muhlen munition store yard, near Coblenz.

If the fire had not been promptly subdued it would have resulted in blowing up a whole trainload of shells, to which the burning car was attached, together with possibly many nearby buildings filled with high explosives, stored there for emergencies.

This is the type of man returning to us now from abroad. Fearless, courageous, and ready to do the right thing at the right moment. All may not have received the D. S. C., but each one of them is a valuable addition to any factory, office or workshop.

They return to us now in great numbers. About 300,000 are discharged from the service every month. Col. Arthur Woods, assistant to the secretary of war, in charge of the re-employment work of the war department, is leaving no stone unturned to find employment for each one of them.

COMMENTARY ON WHITE RULE

Indiana Have Flourished Only Where the White Man Did Not Want Their Lands.

In only two parts of all America are the Indians as numerous today as when the white men came—in Canada, north of the Saskatchewan, where the population is actually increasing; south of the Rio Grande, in Yaqui land, where whip and sword and rifle have failed to conquer what should have been pacified. In northern Canada the fur-hunting Indians have prospered in peace for two reasons. The white men did not want their lands. They did not want them. The land of the Far North was only good for furs; and so the second reason, or from purely selfish motive to increase the output of furs, with absolute justice if with absolute despotism. The safety of the lone trader's life depended on absolute justice; and, oddly enough, the only Mexican who has ever succeeded in controlling the Yaquis has controlled them in the same way, by leaving to them their lands and by absolute, if at times despotic, justice.—Detroit Free-Press.

Another Use for Bunny.

That Belgian hare has other resourceful veins than meat producing remained to be established by an amateur English woman fancier.

The climax of her undertaking was when she appeared at a large pet stock show in England with a jaunty, becoming hat, a coat, and a set of furs made from rabbit skins, which she admitted publicly were nothing more than some of her pet rabbits.

In England, $3,000 rabbit skins a year are being made over into ermine, Arctic fox and black lynx furs to fool milady. Before the war such rabbits were produced by scores of millions in Europe, and vast quantities of the skins imported to the United States to masquerade as real fur. American breeders are raising the same kind of rabbits that produce the best money for the fur shops, and it is certain that as valuable rabbit fur can be produced in America as elsewhere. It is a business that can be conducted every month in the year, and the hobby that will pay its way is one to be valued publicly were nothing more than some of her pet rabbits.
