FIRE DESTROYS OLD BUILDING SATURDAY NIGHT

DELAPIDATED BUILDING ON EAST ANDERSON STREET OWNED BY WALTER ASHTON BURNED IN THE EVENING CAUSE OF FIRE UNKNOWN, WAS NOT OCCUPIED

EARL ELLIS HOME DAMAGED

The old frame building on east Anderson street owned by Walter Ashton, was destroyed by fire at near ten o'clock Saturday night. The building was an old delapidated structure and was not occupied. The cause of the fire is not known.

Flames got big headway before the fire department arrived. Because of the delapidated condition the loss is not great. The old residence building was one of the oldest structures in the city and formerly occupied by the Vorhees family one of the pioneer families of Greencastle.

On Sunday afternoon, burning soon from the flue at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ellis on Locust street which is being occupied for the summer by Mr. and Mrs. William P. Koehler ignited the shingles and quite a hole was burned in the roof before the firemen extinguished the flames with the chemical apparatus. The loss will not be great.

Miss Lucile Glidewell of Putnamville is visiting Miss Augusta Glidewell of this city.

The Beehive Rebecca Lodge will meet tonight in regular session at 8 o'clock. Dolly Caldwell, Noble Grand

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mann of LaPorte, Indiana were in this city Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Millard Hootman.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Knoll of Connersville spent the week end in this city with the former parents Mr. and Mrs.

A. J. Knoll.

Ott Webb, Treasurer of Putnam County who has been ill for several days at his home on east Washington street, influenza is able to go back at his office again today.

Dr. Winn blood specialist of Indianapolis was in this city Sunday in consultation with Dr. W. M. McGaughey. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Newgent of Clinton Falls are the parents of a boy born Sunday.

Mrs. Addie F. Ringo and Mrs. W. O. Timmons are in Indianapolis today on business.

The Veronica Club will meet with Mrs. William Benson Tuesday afternoon at her home on west Liberty street.

FINDING MISSING PERSONS IS NEVER-ENDING TASK

The Salvation Army, because of its branch in every country in the world, conducts what is probably one of the most efficient of detective bureaus. It is the Bureau of Missing Persons, which sends out daily alarms to all sections in the world to find those who have disappeared.

In the United States over 1,800 inquiries on missing persons come into the Salvation Army each year, and in spite of the meagreness of the available information, in spite of the fact that a large proportion of those who are missing do not want to be found, in spite of all the chasques and difficulties, over 1,000 are located by the Salvation Army each year.

There is the child who runs away from home because the terrors of cold and hunger are nothing to him compared to the fears of school and teacher. There is the man who finds it easier to desert than to support the family that he thinks is too exacting. There is the woman who feels that the river or the open gas jet is less terrifying than the hardships of life. For all these and many others the Salvation Army is conducting a vigilant, unceasing search.

And the methods used in finding the delinquents are as varied as the causes for their disappearance. Sometimes an overlooked clue is a cold letter or the address of a friend leads to the end of the search. Sometimes a paragraph inserted in the War Cry—the Salvation Army publication, which is circulated in every country in the world—or in other mediums calculated to catch the eye, will bring the missing one home. Sometimes the man disappears, sometimes he disappears.

New York, April 11 Awaiting trial on a charge of violating the Lever act by profiteering, for which he was arrested Saturday, Joseph Nichthausen, 50 years old a Brooklyn haberdasher today committed suicide in his home by shooting himself in the head according to the police.

Nichthausen was out on $2,500 bail.

He is alleged to have averaged profit of 60 per cent on articles sold in his store.

AUTOMOBILES ARE DAMAGED IN COLLISION

MACHINES DRIVEN BY WALTER EVANS AND ROBERT QUIN GO TOGETHER AT THE INTERSECTION OF WALNUT AND JACKSON STREETS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

OCCUPANTS NOT INJURED

The front wheel was torn off a Ford touring car driven by Walter Evans, a rural mail carrier when his machine collided with a Ford Roadster driven by Robert Quinton of Limedale at the corner of Walnut and Jackson streets at near three o'clock Sunday afternoon. Evans was driving east on Walnut street and Quin was going south on Jackson street when the accident occurred.

The view of both drivers was obstructed by Dr. Gilespie's office until they were on each other and it was late to avoid the collision. A left front wheel was torn completely off the Evans machine and the crank, fenders, lights and radiator were badly damaged on the Quin machine. Fortunately no one was injured, although Dr. Gilbert Sallust of Cloverdale who was riding in the Evans machine was badly shaken up.

Yesterdays in the union evangelistic campaign set another highwater mark for religious activity in Greencastle, and the opening of the last week of the meetings conducted by evangelist Daisy Douglas Barr and party was indeed an auspicious one.

In the morning service which were conducted by the pastors in the churches, eighty-four people were received as members in the churches of Greencastle, practically all of whom had previously gone forward at the tabernacle. Every church also reported a notable increase in Sunday School attendance.

BAPTIST CHURCH QUOTAS IN FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN

MUSIC QUELLS RIOT

Italian City Is the Scene of Extraordinary Incident.

Bohemian Lad Playing on Hotel Balcony at Lucca Halts Maddened Throngs.

London.—Lucca was the scene of an extraordinary incident recently which recalls the classic fable of Orpheus with his lute, who charmed wild beasts with his music.

So says a Milan dispatch to the Daily Telegraph, and goes on: "The playing of a boy violinist suddenly halted a mob in the streets of Lucca and the rioters abandoned their violent purpose. The violinist is Voso Prlkoda, a Bohemian lad of eighteen, who wandered to Venice fourteen months ago and was at Lucca during the Socialist agitation. A great crowd assembled.
Enrico Malatesta, an anarchist leader, made a harangue which excited his hearers to fury and, ready for any excesses, they started through the main street to the public square.

"On the balcony of his hotel near the entrance to the square, the Bohe-mian boy was playing his violin to a few admiring people below. The first of the mob reached this group, listened to the violinist and remained fascinated by his playing. All the others stopped to listen and as the boy continued playing their fury subsided. Instead of smashing heads they applauded him, and half an hour later were all walking quietly to their homes."

Protect Your Property With Certain-teed Roofing

Certain-teed Roofing shelters your property against the severest storms. Driving rain will develop no leaks. Melting snow and ice will find no cracks or crevices through which to enter.

Certain-teed keeps the interiors of your barns and other buildings dry. It protects their contents from damage by water.

For when Certain-teed is properly laid, it is firmly cemented together. It makes an impenetrable one-piece roof.

And Certain-teed has other advantages. It is fire-retarding and spark-proof. It is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to weight.

Yet Certain-teed costs less to buy, less to lay and less to maintain, than any other type of good roofing.

See your dealer about Certain-teed. He either has it or can get it quickly from a nearby Certain-teed distributing center.

NEVER PUT IN CIRCULATION

Dean Swift's Notable Victory in Campaign Against Unpopular Coin Designated for Ireland.

Wood's halfpence, which was to have been placed for use in Ireland by Great Britain about 200 years ago, was never circulated in Erin, as a result of the efforts of Jonathan Swift, at the time dean of St. Patrick's in Dublin, where he was in "exile," and who had for ten years previously been attacking the attitude of the British toward Ireland.

Swift's fight against the circulation of the coin came when Great Britain decided to farm out the contract for their manufacture to a certain William Wood, on condition that he should pay the government 1,000 pounds a year for 14 years. In his famous Drapier letters Swift gradually built up a picture of the ruin which Wood's halfpence were destined to bring upon Ireland. The government became alarmed. A report to the privy council made in July, 1724, defended the patent to Wood, but recommended that the amount to be coined should be reduced.

In the end Lord Carteret was sent to Ireland as lord lieutenant to endeavor to settle the matter on the basis of this compromise. Lord Carteret offered a reward of 300 pounds for the discovery of the author of the Drapier letters, and ordered a prosecution against the printer upon his arrival. Swift boldly reproached him with his tyranny, then looked calmly on while the grand jury threw out the bill against the printer in spite of all the efforts of the chief justice to secure its return. The next grand jury presented Wood's halfpence as a nuisance which marked the end of it all, the coin never circulating in Ireland.

PREYS ON HARMFUL RODENTS

According to This Writer, the Owl is Really a Good Friend of the Agriculturist.

Superstition still clings to the owl, due largely to ignorance and lack of imagination.

When twilight falls the owl comes forth from some remote recess where it has spent the day in sleep, and uttering a peevish cry, hurries out upon its foraging expedition. As the tired farmer is lost in refreshing sleep, this bird, against which the hand of man has been raised for centuries, commences its beneficial work which only ceases when the first rays of the morning sun come slanting over the hilltops, blinding its eyes and sending it quickly to cover.

The great orbs of the owl are remarkably developed and are keenest in the early hours of the night and morning, when many harmful rodents are most active. Marvelous, indeed, is the sight that enables it to strike the tiny mouse in the darkness.

Owls are the natural check upon this multitude, and thus are of inestimable value to agriculture. From an economic standpoint, it would be hard to find a more useful bird.—Los Angeles Times.

England's Gleaming Bell.

Gleaming went out of fashion with the disappearance of the old windmills and watermills, because cottagers can no longer get their gleamed corn ground. But the "harvest bell," which notifies the villagers when they may begin gleaming and when they must cease, is still rung in some rural parishes within reach of London. At one place the "gleaming bell" rings from the tower of the parish church at 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. as soon as the harvest is sufficiently advanced. One penny is paid to the bell ringer by each family that gleams, so he can hardly be called a profiteer.

Birds That Dig.

We are not accustomed to think of birds as burrowing animals, but the puffin answers to that description. It is a chunky little fowl, less than a foot high, with large and powerful beak. For a home, it scratches a hole in the ground sometimes as much as four feet deep. To capture a puffin one must go digging. It is rather a job, and, inasmuch as the bird bites and claws fiercely, one is likely to suffer in the process. Thus the creature has maintained its numbers on many a lonely rookery, where other species of wild fowl have been killed off and exterminated.—Philadelphia Ledger.

British Broad Arrow.

The broad arrow is the mark cut or stamped on all British government stores to distinguish them as public or crown property, and to obliterate or deface which is a felony. Persons in possession of goods marked with the broad arrow forfeit the goods and are subject to a penalty. The broad arrow was the cognizance of Henry, viscount of Sydenham, earl of Romney, master general of ordnance, 1633-1702, and was at first placed only on military stores. It is also the mark used in the British ordnance survey to denote points from which measurements have been made.

Tactless, Indeed.

Miss Giddley—How old do you think I am?

Tactless Man—Oh, I should say thirty-five.

Miss G.—Hm! You are ten years out of the way.

T. M.—Why, my dear Indy! You can't really be forty-five!—Boston Transcript.

THAT is the kind of increase in salary the minister has received. His living expenses have risen just as fast and as far as yours.

But he is paid on the average just 52 cents more per church member than he was paid 34 years ago.

The Minister Never Fails You

Every officer of the Government with a war message to deliver appealed to the ministers first of all.

But 80% of the ministers receive less income than government economists figure as a minimum for the support of an average family.

When hospitals need money they enlist the support of the ministers—and receive it.

But when sickness visits the minister or the members of his family they must be treated in a charity ward. His pay is less than a day laborer's.

8 out of every 10 ministers receive less than $20 a week—about half the pay of a mechanic.

We Pay Him Half the Wages of a Mechanic

And of these pitifully inadequate salaries, how much do you contribute? Nothing if you are outside the church; an average of less than 3c a day if you are a church member.

All of us share in the benefits of Christian ministers to the community. They marry us; baptize our children; visit us when we are sick. In their hands is the spiritual training of the youth.

We Are All Profiteers at Their Expense

Part of the Interchurch World program is this—a living wage for every minister of Jesus Christ; an efficient plant, and a chance to do a big man's job.

If you want better preachers, help to pay the preachers better. It's the best investment for your community—and for your children—that you can ever make.

REVENGE THAT WAS COSTLY

Australian Farmer's Fancy Method of Pest Destruction Could Hardly Be Called a Success.

A farmer living near Boree Creek, New South Wales, was greatly annoyed by the depredations of a hawk, which almost daily took toll among his chickens. Finally, after a good deal of trouble, he succeeded in trapping the bird alive, and, smarting under his losses, resolved upon a really elaborate revenge. Procuring a supply of "gell" (explosive), he fastened it to the unfortunate hawk's leg and attached a long fuse to it. Then, having lit the fuse, he released the bird and waited for it to fly into the air to annihilation. However, the trick failed to work. Somewhat dazed, no doubt, by the rough handling it had received, the hawk obstinately refused to move from a position near the door of the "humpy."

With the fuse sputtering fiercely, the farmer began to get uneasy, and he did all in his power to scare this "feathered mine" away, but at first with little success. Finally it rose in the air—but only to settle on his roof, near the chimney. Shouting and bombardment with stones and sticks alike failed to move it from this position, and with the perspiration streaming down his face and his hair beginning to stand on end the farmer was ultimately obliged to take to his heels for his own safety. The bird sat doggedly on the roof till the end came; then the luckless squatter, looking back, saw roof, chimney and hawk go up in one terrific explosion. He has now sworn off all fancy methods of pest destruction.—Wide World Magazine.

FIRST USED BY FRENCH KING

Expression Now So Common, "Let George Do It," Said to Have Originated With Louis XII.

Not one person in a hundred could give a satisfactory answer to the question, Why is the sky blue?

And yet the explanation, as given by Professor W. H. Bragg, at the British Royal institution, is quite simple.

The blue sky, he explained, is due to the interception of particles in the atmosphere of the blue rays which form a part of the white light of the sun. The parts of white light conveyed by longer red and yellow light waves manage to jump the many substances in the atmosphere and are seen at sunrise and sunset.

The professor illustrated his meaning by showing a disc of light on the screen which, passing through a bowl of water, became gradually redder as the water got cloudier, till at last, after an imitation of the sun in a November fog, it faded away.

Professor Bragg has also revealed some of the mysteries of sound. If you put a stick in a revolving bowl of water, it sets up little whirlpools behind it. In the same way the wind rushing past trees forms whirlwinds on a small scale, and these cause those sounds so admirably described by the initiatic word "soughing." Similar sounds are set up by telegraph wires.

Tradition and Superstition.

The moon, of course, is the source, or reason, or what you will, of many superstitions. As one grows older possibly the moon becomes less an object of romance than formerly, but the sense of beauty is never lost—even though some otherwise sane people object, as long as they live, to seeing the lovely new moon over their left shoulder. Frankly, we do not know the reason of this fear. In the course of a busy and, we trust, useful life we have never happened to hear the reason. But it is well to assume that there is one.

Tradition is interesting; superstition is common. Perhaps we have too few traditions in this country and too many superstitions. But most of us will proudly affirm that we believe in all the good traditions and in no superstitions whatever—and maybe we all shall be telling the truth.—Exchange.

Tides in the Bay of Fundy.

The Bay of Fundy is noted for its high tides. At the head of the bay a rise of 62 feet is known, and in Passamaquoddy bay, which indents New Brunswick near the border of the state of Maine, a rise of 25 feet is not uncommon. At St. John the rise varies from 20 to 27 feet. At Moncton the tide rushes up the estuary a crest or wave of water from 3 to 6 feet high. At most places the tide rises gradually, but not slowly, each wave rolling up on the shore a little higher than the preceding one. There are two high tides in every 24 hours. For instance, say at 10 o'clock in the forenoon and 10 at night, and on the following day the two high tides will be one hour later, and so on.

Good Old Cheap Coal Days.

In the good old days of 1812 one could step out with a couple of dollars and come home with food and fuel sufficient to supply a good-sized family for a week. Facts regarding living expense a century ago are contained in a letter from John Sims, great-grandfather of Admiral Sims, to his wife, Emily, dated Untowata, 15th October, 1812. At that time, board and lodging for two cost $3.00 a week. Coal was 6 cents a bushel. Chickens still wearing their feathers cost 75 cents a dozen. Beef was from 3 to 3½ cents a pound, while butter retailed from 12½ cents a pound.

ITS "CULTURE" A TRADITION

African Natives Conduct Vehicles Along Jungle Tracks After Short Term of Apprenticeship.

Bogota, the capital of the Republic of Colombia, is a sort of South American Boston. Ever since the days when it was a colony of Spain it has been accounted a "highbrow" town and its name has been associated with literature, art, science and education. It is filled with sculpture, which ranges in subject from local heroes to great figures in Spanish history. There are many schools and colleges, a museum and an astronomical observatory.

Despite all this, the intellectual atmosphere of Bogota is more of a tradition than a reality. No great works of art have been produced there. The city is full of poets, but that is true of every city in Latin America, where young men and women compose and recite poetry as a social diversion, just as they play the piano and sing songs in this country. The scientists of Bogota have made some real progress, especially in archeology and natural history.

Many of the people of Bogota are Spaniards of the purest descent. When the country was colonized by the Spaniards centuries ago the colonists retired to the high Andean region and have lived there ever since in an isolation which has kept them true to type. These Spaniards form the ruling class, the rest of the people being " mestizos" of mixed Spanish and Indian blood.

Bogota is situated at an elevation of almost 9,000 feet and enjoys a splendid climate.

MAKE SKILLFUL AUTO DRIVERS

African Natives Conduct Vehicles Along Jungle Tracks After Short Term of Apprenticeship.

It is natural that since automobiles have found their way into every part of the world, the drivers would vary in appearance, and in attire or lack of attire, according to the customs of the countries in which the motor car is called to do service. If you were to walk along the road leading from the west coast of equatorial Africa several hundred miles into the interior, for instance, you might see a motor truck, plowing through the jungle, and in the chauffeur's seat, driving with peculiar and cheerful abandon, would be a west African native. And from the appearance of his driver's uniform, it would be evident that the high cost of clothing would bother him not one whit. These natives become full-fledged chauffeurs within three or four weeks from the time they see their first motor vehicle. The trucks, of which there are about 200, maintain regular schedules as feeders to a large steamship line plying between west African ports and Europe and America. They are loaded with men and supplies on the inland trips, and with cocoa products, palm oil, hides, and rubber bound for the coast.

Parasite Spreads Disease.

A peculiar disease that is still confined chiefly to certain river valleys of Japan, but suggests possibilities of breaking loose as a widespread epidemic, has been a subject of recent investigation. It is known as "tsutsugamushi" and is transmitted by the "akamushi," an insect parasite of certain field mice. It is a fever strikingly similar to typhus and Rocky mountain spotted fevers. The investigators have learned that its chief occurrence is in the months of June to October, which is the time of development of the insect carriers, and the season when the peasant victims of the disease are brought into contact with the mice. The mortality, though very variable, sometimes exceeds 50 percent. Under existing conditions, bites by the insects cannot be wholly avoided, and cutting out the bitten part does not prevent the spread of the virus, while such remedies as iodine, mercury, arsenic, quinine and dyes have proven ineffective. The only hope of stamping out the disease seems to rest in the extermination of the field mice.

Repairing U-Boat Damages.

If British shipbuilding has not yet reached pre-war figures the world has done wonderful things in ship production in the last twelve months. The total tonnage launched was 7,145,549, according to Lloyd's Register, and the British share was 1,620,000 tons. The feature of the returns is the expansion of shipbuilding in the United States and in Japan. The former appears at the head of the table with 57 per cent. of the world's output, and more than twice the tonnage built in the United Kingdom. Japan, with 613,800 tons launched, has built more shipping in one year than it did in the 22 years to 1913.

Far-Seeing Woman Reformer.

In noting the fact that Susan B. Anthony was born a hundred years ago, it is interesting also to remember that every considerable reform of which she was an advocate has come to pass, says the New York Sun. She fought for the abolition of slavery, for total abstinence and for equal suffrage. Slavery disappeared when she was still in her most active years. When she died, in 1905, many of the states had agreed with her views on prohibition and votes for women.
