ACROSS THE BORDER

A Tribute to the Memory of "That Old Sweetheart of Mine."

BY C. A. ROBINSON

Pride of my youth, comfort of my age,
Soul of my heart, bright and glowing page
Upon a leaf within the book of life,
A leaf which now is turned,
And hides from you the sorrow and the joy,
The racking pain, the heart-sore sigh, the endless strife
That lingers still with me, for thou hast lately learned
The better way, the perfect place, the eternal truth.
Thou seest now the gold, without alloy,
And knowest what is life with endless youth.

'Tis not so many years, dear wife, I trow,
Since first we pledged our hearts, our lives our souls,
Each to the other. A year, 'tis but a breath,
Decade but one short step—a century, a league.
Who says that gray old time shall know
The measure of the stream of love that rolls
Beside such pleasant paths as ours? Can death,
With all its hidden arts, its dark intrigue,
The blissful bond of love undo?

Nay, verily; oh, sainted treasure mine,
Pride of my youth, my manhood strong and my declining years,
The love we know is measured not by hours,
What men call death excites in us no fears.
You are not dead. You stepped across the line,
And, standing behind the veil, beside the stream,
Await my coming. There, in the morning's gleam
Of heaven's sunlight, we shall meet again.
Just you and me.
And spend, together, in rapturous joy supreme,
Eternity.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Resolutions of Respect.

We, the committee appointed by Oronoco Council, No. 59, Degree of Pocahontas, I. O. R. M., beg leave to submit the following:

The shadow of death has again fallen upon our tepee and removed from our midst our dearly beloved sister, Milretta Robinson.

Whereas, The Great Spirit in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to remove from our hunting grounds this dear sister, who departed this life July 2nd, after a long and painful illness. A hand whose warm grasp we have felt is taken away, a voice to which we have often listened is hushed in death, a chair is vacant in our tepee.

Whereas, We cannot understand why this shadow has fallen upon us. And while we deeply deplore our loss we meekly bow to the will of Kishe Maniton, who doeth all things well. She has gone to the land of Pomemah beyond the skies, a place not made with hands eternal in the heavens, where parting is unknown.

Whereas, There comes to every member of our council a sense of personal bereavement, when we remember the sweet smile and warm and kindly greeting she always extended to all whom she met. Therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of Sister Robinson the husband has lost a faithful wife, the children a loving mother, the council a true and worthy member, and the community a noble woman.

Resolved, That we ever cherish her memory, imitate her many virtues and extend to the sorrowing family our heartfelt sympathies in this their sad hour of bereavement, and commend them to the Great Spirit, who alone can pour balsam upon their sorrowing hearts. Be it further

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days in memory of our departed sister,
