

THE CONNERSVILLE TIMES.

It appears that an article published in the American of the 4th inst., in which we characterized a statement made by the Times as being a fabrication, has aroused the ire of our cotemporary, who, while disclaiming an intention to bandy epithets in return, indulges at length in an article in which may be found such choice expressions as—"the editor of the American may thus stoop if he please; we shall not;" "if the editor of the American will unman himself, &c.," "childish politeness," "chronic growlers of the district," "partially insane," and so on ad infinitum and ad nauseam.

Now we do not wish to pursue this matter any further, and we shall not. The whole of it is in a nutshell. The Times had made the charge that the Delegates from the Counties, other than Franklin, to the Connersville Convention, were not allowed to vote. We showed this to be incorrect by the statement which the Times has not denied, that said Delegates did vote on every proposition before the Convention, except the vote on adjournment. The Times extricates itself from this dilemma by the explanation that "they were not allowed to vote in the sense which we understand entitled them to." Of course not; but why did you not say so in your original article? If you had, there would have been no issue between us.

CHANGE IN THE INTERNAL REVENUE BUREAU.

Hon. Wm. Orton, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has been elected President of the United States Telegraph Company. It is probable he will accept this position, in which event, Hon. E. A. Rollins, Deputy Commissioner of this Bureau, will undoubtedly succeed him.

Recollections of the Early Settlement of the White Water Valley.

We present our readers this week with another article from the pen of Wm. McClure, Esq., which he intimates will be his last. We hope he may reconsider this determination, as his communications have been quite interesting. If Dr. Haymond, Dr. Berry, or some others of our older citizens with literary proclivities, could be induced to write a series of articles on topics similar to those treated of by Mr. McClure, they would add much to the early history of our Valley.

SAVE YOUR MILITARY CLOTHES.

The Richmond Telegram makes the following excellent suggestion, which we beg leave to commend to the consideration of our noble boys in blue: The associations of this war are particularly sacred. A thousand times, including Fourth of July, you will meet your comrades in arms, in festive scenes, celebrations and commemorations, when these "soldiers' clothes" which you wore in grim battles, will be your most appropriate apparel. They are also to become inexpressible precious relics to your children, and your grand-children a hundred years hence. They are too precious to wear out—panta, vest, coat, overcoat, undershirt and stockings, troopers and camp moccasins, including many mementoes and relics of your military life.

IMPORTANT LEGISLATION.

It is reported that the following bill will be presented for the consideration of the next session of our Legislature.—Its importance demands its speedy passage:

AN ACT To Amend an Act Entitled an Act Relating to the Act of God.

WHEREAS, Certain people residing in our midst, known as persons of African descent, and following the profession of Barbers, Boot Blacks, &c., have, by their cultivation and refined taste, shown a likelihood of overtaking certain white men, known as Copperheads, and associating with the same; therefore, for the better protection of said Copperheads, be it Enacted,

1st. Resolved, That if any person or persons of African descent, shall be found hanging around Groceries, drinking bad Whisky, swearing and abusing their Government, thereby imitating their said superiors—said Copperheads—such person or persons so offending, shall, upon conviction thereof, be called Copperheads and treated as such.

2d. Resolved, That if any negro woman shall so far forget herself as to receive the attentions of and associate with any Copperhead, such negro woman, upon conviction thereof, shall be condemned to marry said Copperhead, and abide with him, without divorce and without the benefit of Divorce.

3d. Resolved, That if any person or persons of African descent, shall be capable to say that the true relation of capital and labor is that of Slavery, and that he or she believe in the Resolutions of '36," such person or persons, upon conviction thereof, shall be condemned to subscribe, pay for and read the Franklin Democrat, and may God Almighty have mercy on their souls.

The lying sheets of the Copperhead party which last year presided resistance to the draft, called President Lincoln an ape, a tyrant, and the war a failure, are now ardently engaged in endeavoring to cover up their treason by hypocritical declarations of devotion to the "Constitution and the Union," and at the same time misrepresenting the issues involved in the pending elections. Here is a sample:

PLEASE CORRECT.

The Richmond Palladium reports Logan's majority at 609 in Franklin County. Will the Palladium give the true majority, which is only 287?

ABANDONED.

Messrs. Bifford & Locke have abandoned the idea of converting the State Sentinel into a Republican morning paper. It seems to be understood that the Sentinel will be continued as a Democratic organ.

which has given a practical exhibition of "social equality" by dining fully nine-tenths of the population in the country. That is an equality to which the Union party does not aspire.

"GLORIOUS VICTORY."

The Liberty Herald grows jubilant over the election of Judge Wilson, and thus expresses its gratification: We have the extreme gratification of announcing the election of that staunch patriot and most excellent man, Judge J. M. Wilson, to the office of Circuit Judge. Reuben D. Logan is floored, beaten, used up, squashed, squelched, dead and d-d.

About the Cholera.

John P. Brown, formerly of Ross county, Ohio, for many years a resident of Turkey, wrote a letter to the Chillicothe Gazette, under date of Sept. 10th, from Constantinople. We quote what he says about

CHOLERA AND HOW TO PREVENT IT.

I hope the cholera will not reach the United States. It is now in Italy and France. It has been clearly proven by the efforts of the Greek Government that by severe sanitary measures it can be kept out of a country, for not one case has occurred in Greece, nor in any of the Islands of the Archipelago. Nor is it much to be feared if a strict regimen is observed by all classes.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

The Democratic party in the State of New York have recently been in convention. As a party, they are there, as elsewhere, ill at ease in a minority. They sigh for the flesh pots, and stand ready to sacrifice every other consideration for success. They are very tolerant in the formation of their ticket, and would cheerfully composed, giving a generous portion of the nomination to their opponents, if by so doing they might secure the balance. Though sturdy partisans while in power, no people in the world better understand the doctrine that "half a loaf is better than no bread."

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

[Correspondence of the Indiana American.] Washington, D. C., Oct. 11, 1865. Mr. Editor.—After a very brief foretaste of winter, consisting of three or four days too cold for comfort without fire, we have warm and dry weather. The streets of the city are dusty, the yards are dusty, the houses are dusty, everything is dusty. To-day the colored folks devoted to kicking up a dust on their own account, and a better humor set of people I never saw.

Taxing Government Bonds.

The New York Tribune presents the following considerations upon the subject of taxing Government bonds: Of course there is some grumbling, as there always is. One would have the evidences of national debt taxed, though—as we have all that debt to borrow fresh at very short dates—the effect of this would inevitably be to raise the rate of interest, so as to take five dollars out of the Treasury for every four it put in. If you tax the bonds, the lender will take that circumstance into account in making his bids for the new loans, whereby the most of these running now must soon be replaced, so that instead of gradually working our average rate of interest down to five or not four per cent., we shall have to pay six or seven, as now. This project of lightening our burdens by taxing our debts is as futile as it is perfidious.

PERIODICALS.

Godey's Lady's Book.—Godey's Lady's Book contains "The Country School," a superb line engraving; "Preparing for a Tableau," a humorous picture; New Music and Drawing Patterns, Splendid Fall Fashions, colored, &c., &c. Marion Harland, Miss V. F. Townsend, Miss Metta V. Victor and Miss Annie Frost contribute to this number.

The Copperheads Abandoning the Name of Democrat.

The Copperheads having pretty much abandoned the name of Democrat and adopted the odious British Tory name of Conservative, it is suggested by several of our contemporaries that the loyal men of the country assume it, and be known hereafter as the regular Democracy. The name is "lying around loose" for some organization to take up and wear. The reason that the Copperheads and traitors have discarded the name of Democrat, is because it is too radical. Thomas Jefferson was a full-blooded radical. All reformers are radicals; all men who love liberty and hate slavery are radicals. Democrat is a synonym of radical; hence the Copperheads who hate liberty and equal rights, and who love slavery, caste and despotism, have dropped the name of Democrat, and taken up the British Tory cognomen of "Conservative," which means to preserve old and rotten abuses in Government and society. A Conservative is one who labors to make the rich richer and the poor poorer—to uphold privilege and degrade the masses. We wish the Copperheads much joy with their new name.—[Chicago Tribune.]

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

loyal support to the Government after the war began, it would have ended in half the time it did, and our taxes would now be correspondingly less.—[Liberty Herald.]

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

The Democratic party in the State of New York have recently been in convention. As a party, they are there, as elsewhere, ill at ease in a minority. They sigh for the flesh pots, and stand ready to sacrifice every other consideration for success. They are very tolerant in the formation of their ticket, and would cheerfully composed, giving a generous portion of the nomination to their opponents, if by so doing they might secure the balance. Though sturdy partisans while in power, no people in the world better understand the doctrine that "half a loaf is better than no bread."

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

[Correspondence of the Indiana American.] Washington, D. C., Oct. 11, 1865. Mr. Editor.—After a very brief foretaste of winter, consisting of three or four days too cold for comfort without fire, we have warm and dry weather. The streets of the city are dusty, the yards are dusty, the houses are dusty, everything is dusty. To-day the colored folks devoted to kicking up a dust on their own account, and a better humor set of people I never saw.

Taxing Government Bonds.

The New York Tribune presents the following considerations upon the subject of taxing Government bonds: Of course there is some grumbling, as there always is. One would have the evidences of national debt taxed, though—as we have all that debt to borrow fresh at very short dates—the effect of this would inevitably be to raise the rate of interest, so as to take five dollars out of the Treasury for every four it put in. If you tax the bonds, the lender will take that circumstance into account in making his bids for the new loans, whereby the most of these running now must soon be replaced, so that instead of gradually working our average rate of interest down to five or not four per cent., we shall have to pay six or seven, as now. This project of lightening our burdens by taxing our debts is as futile as it is perfidious.

PERIODICALS.

Godey's Lady's Book.—Godey's Lady's Book contains "The Country School," a superb line engraving; "Preparing for a Tableau," a humorous picture; New Music and Drawing Patterns, Splendid Fall Fashions, colored, &c., &c. Marion Harland, Miss V. F. Townsend, Miss Metta V. Victor and Miss Annie Frost contribute to this number.

The Copperheads Abandoning the Name of Democrat.

The Copperheads having pretty much abandoned the name of Democrat and adopted the odious British Tory name of Conservative, it is suggested by several of our contemporaries that the loyal men of the country assume it, and be known hereafter as the regular Democracy. The name is "lying around loose" for some organization to take up and wear. The reason that the Copperheads and traitors have discarded the name of Democrat, is because it is too radical. Thomas Jefferson was a full-blooded radical. All reformers are radicals; all men who love liberty and hate slavery are radicals. Democrat is a synonym of radical; hence the Copperheads who hate liberty and equal rights, and who love slavery, caste and despotism, have dropped the name of Democrat, and taken up the British Tory cognomen of "Conservative," which means to preserve old and rotten abuses in Government and society. A Conservative is one who labors to make the rich richer and the poor poorer—to uphold privilege and degrade the masses. We wish the Copperheads much joy with their new name.—[Chicago Tribune.]

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

not the very men who refused to give a dollar to relieve the soldier in the field, now join heartily in the enjoyment of soldiers' festivals at home? In less than four years many who counseled resistance to the draft, and who assisted in raising Vallandigham poles on Indiana soil, will claim that they have ever been the soldiers' friends.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

[Correspondence of the Indiana American.] Washington, D. C., Oct. 11, 1865. Mr. Editor.—After a very brief foretaste of winter, consisting of three or four days too cold for comfort without fire, we have warm and dry weather. The streets of the city are dusty, the yards are dusty, the houses are dusty, everything is dusty. To-day the colored folks devoted to kicking up a dust on their own account, and a better humor set of people I never saw.

Taxing Government Bonds.

The New York Tribune presents the following considerations upon the subject of taxing Government bonds: Of course there is some grumbling, as there always is. One would have the evidences of national debt taxed, though—as we have all that debt to borrow fresh at very short dates—the effect of this would inevitably be to raise the rate of interest, so as to take five dollars out of the Treasury for every four it put in. If you tax the bonds, the lender will take that circumstance into account in making his bids for the new loans, whereby the most of these running now must soon be replaced, so that instead of gradually working our average rate of interest down to five or not four per cent., we shall have to pay six or seven, as now. This project of lightening our burdens by taxing our debts is as futile as it is perfidious.

PERIODICALS.

Godey's Lady's Book.—Godey's Lady's Book contains "The Country School," a superb line engraving; "Preparing for a Tableau," a humorous picture; New Music and Drawing Patterns, Splendid Fall Fashions, colored, &c., &c. Marion Harland, Miss V. F. Townsend, Miss Metta V. Victor and Miss Annie Frost contribute to this number.

The Copperheads Abandoning the Name of Democrat.

The Copperheads having pretty much abandoned the name of Democrat and adopted the odious British Tory name of Conservative, it is suggested by several of our contemporaries that the loyal men of the country assume it, and be known hereafter as the regular Democracy. The name is "lying around loose" for some organization to take up and wear. The reason that the Copperheads and traitors have discarded the name of Democrat, is because it is too radical. Thomas Jefferson was a full-blooded radical. All reformers are radicals; all men who love liberty and hate slavery are radicals. Democrat is a synonym of radical; hence the Copperheads who hate liberty and equal rights, and who love slavery, caste and despotism, have dropped the name of Democrat, and taken up the British Tory cognomen of "Conservative," which means to preserve old and rotten abuses in Government and society. A Conservative is one who labors to make the rich richer and the poor poorer—to uphold privilege and degrade the masses. We wish the Copperheads much joy with their new name.—[Chicago Tribune.]

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

was very much surprised—so much so that he went in constant danger of falling out of the cars—and was quite communicative. He was particularly anxious to improve it upon his fellow passengers that he was Democratic to the core, in blood, bones, marrow and tissue. Although he had been a soldier for three years, his Democracy had stood the test. He said he could not read or write, but did not care, for he was smart enough to know how to be sentenced to be shot three times, and got out of the scrape, and was going to vote the Democratic ticket all his life. We are no longer skeptical about Democratic soldiers. We have seen one.—[Ind. Journal.]

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

[Correspondence of the Indiana American.] Washington, D. C., Oct. 11, 1865. Mr. Editor.—After a very brief foretaste of winter, consisting of three or four days too cold for comfort without fire, we have warm and dry weather. The streets of the city are dusty, the yards are dusty, the houses are dusty, everything is dusty. To-day the colored folks devoted to kicking up a dust on their own account, and a better humor set of people I never saw.

Taxing Government Bonds.

The New York Tribune presents the following considerations upon the subject of taxing Government bonds: Of course there is some grumbling, as there always is. One would have the evidences of national debt taxed, though—as we have all that debt to borrow fresh at very short dates—the effect of this would inevitably be to raise the rate of interest, so as to take five dollars out of the Treasury for every four it put in. If you tax the bonds, the lender will take that circumstance into account in making his bids for the new loans, whereby the most of these running now must soon be replaced, so that instead of gradually working our average rate of interest down to five or not four per cent., we shall have to pay six or seven, as now. This project of lightening our burdens by taxing our debts is as futile as it is perfidious.

PERIODICALS.

Godey's Lady's Book.—Godey's Lady's Book contains "The Country School," a superb line engraving; "Preparing for a Tableau," a humorous picture; New Music and Drawing Patterns, Splendid Fall Fashions, colored, &c., &c. Marion Harland, Miss V. F. Townsend, Miss Metta V. Victor and Miss Annie Frost contribute to this number.

The Copperheads Abandoning the Name of Democrat.

The Copperheads having pretty much abandoned the name of Democrat and adopted the odious British Tory name of Conservative, it is suggested by several of our contemporaries that the loyal men of the country assume it, and be known hereafter as the regular Democracy. The name is "lying around loose" for some organization to take up and wear. The reason that the Copperheads and traitors have discarded the name of Democrat, is because it is too radical. Thomas Jefferson was a full-blooded radical. All reformers are radicals; all men who love liberty and hate slavery are radicals. Democrat is a synonym of radical; hence the Copperheads who hate liberty and equal rights, and who love slavery, caste and despotism, have dropped the name of Democrat, and taken up the British Tory cognomen of "Conservative," which means to preserve old and rotten abuses in Government and society. A Conservative is one who labors to make the rich richer and the poor poorer—to uphold privilege and degrade the masses. We wish the Copperheads much joy with their new name.—[Chicago Tribune.]

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

was very much surprised—so much so that he went in constant danger of falling out of the cars—and was quite communicative. He was particularly anxious to improve it upon his fellow passengers that he was Democratic to the core, in blood, bones, marrow and tissue. Although he had been a soldier for three years, his Democracy had stood the test. He said he could not read or write, but did not care, for he was smart enough to know how to be sentenced to be shot three times, and got out of the scrape, and was going to vote the Democratic ticket all his life. We are no longer skeptical about Democratic soldiers. We have seen one.—[Ind. Journal.]

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

[Correspondence of the Indiana American.] Washington, D. C., Oct. 11, 1865. Mr. Editor.—After a very brief foretaste of winter, consisting of three or four days too cold for comfort without fire, we have warm and dry weather. The streets of the city are dusty, the yards are dusty, the houses are dusty, everything is dusty. To-day the colored folks devoted to kicking up a dust on their own account, and a better humor set of people I never saw.

Taxing Government Bonds.

The New York Tribune presents the following considerations upon the subject of taxing Government bonds: Of course there is some grumbling, as there always is. One would have the evidences of national debt taxed, though—as we have all that debt to borrow fresh at very short dates—the effect of this would inevitably be to raise the rate of interest, so as to take five dollars out of the Treasury for every four it put in. If you tax the bonds, the lender will take that circumstance into account in making his bids for the new loans, whereby the most of these running now must soon be replaced, so that instead of gradually working our average rate of interest down to five or not four per cent., we shall have to pay six or seven, as now. This project of lightening our burdens by taxing our debts is as futile as it is perfidious.

PERIODICALS.

Godey's Lady's Book.—Godey's Lady's Book contains "The Country School," a superb line engraving; "Preparing for a Tableau," a humorous picture; New Music and Drawing Patterns, Splendid Fall Fashions, colored, &c., &c. Marion Harland, Miss V. F. Townsend, Miss Metta V. Victor and Miss Annie Frost contribute to this number.

The Copperheads Abandoning the Name of Democrat.

The Copperheads having pretty much abandoned the name of Democrat and adopted the odious British Tory name of Conservative, it is suggested by several of our contemporaries that the loyal men of the country assume it, and be known hereafter as the regular Democracy. The name is "lying around loose" for some organization to take up and wear. The reason that the Copperheads and traitors have discarded the name of Democrat, is because it is too radical. Thomas Jefferson was a full-blooded radical. All reformers are radicals; all men who love liberty and hate slavery are radicals. Democrat is a synonym of radical; hence the Copperheads who hate liberty and equal rights, and who love slavery, caste and despotism, have dropped the name of Democrat, and taken up the British Tory cognomen of "Conservative," which means to preserve old and rotten abuses in Government and society. A Conservative is one who labors to make the rich richer and the poor poorer—to uphold privilege and degrade the masses. We wish the Copperheads much joy with their new name.—[Chicago Tribune.]

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.

W. S. McCormick, the inventor of the famous reaping machine, now generally used on the western prairie, and by which he made an immense fortune, died lately in the Illinois State Lunatic Asylum. He was a native of Virginia, and was one of the most enterprising citizens of Chicago.

Death of McCormick, the Inventor of the Reaping Machine.