ORDER PROVIDES NEW GAS STANDARD

Monthly Average of Quality Must Be 570 British Thermal Units.

RULES REGARDING SERVICE

Action of the Public Service Commission Effective May 1—Applies to State.

A new gas heat standard of 570 British thermal heat units a cubic foot of artificial gas is established for Indiana in an order of the Public Service Commission issued today. The order contains also many rules governing gas company service. It will be printed for distribution soon.

The commission has been working on the rules for nearly two years and they are said to contain regulations based on the most approved and practical experiences.

The order permits the quality of gas to vary from the standard to a maximum of 600 and a minimum of 540 B. T. U. but the monthly average must be 570 B. T. U.

Table of Variations.

If the monthly average falls to 559 B. T. U. the rate paid by the consumer is to be only 98 per cent. of the regular gas price a 1,000 cubic feet. A table of variations from the regular bill as the monthly average falls below the standard is set up in the order.

The order is effective May 1. Ever since the war began Indiana has been virtually without a gas quality standard, the old standard of 600 B. T. U. having been abandoned as impractical under modern operating conditions.

Charge to Consumer.

A table showing what per cent. of the regular price for 1,000 cubic feet of gas the company may charge a consumer, if it fails to maintain a monthly average of less than 560 B. T. U., follows.

From 560 B. T. U. to and including 550 B. T. U., 98 per cent.; from 550 to 540, 96 per cent.; from 540 to 530, 94 per cent.; from 530 to 520, 92 per cent.; from 520 to 510, 90 per cent.; from 510 to 500, 88 per cent.; from 500 to 490, 86 per cent.; from 490 to 480, 83 per cent.; from 480 to 470, 80 per cent.; from 470 to 460, 75 per cent.; from 460 to 450, 70 per cent.; from 450 to 440, 60 per cent.; from 440 to 430, 50 per cent.; from 430 to 420, 35 per cent.; from 420 to 410, 20 per cent.; from 410 to 400, nothing.

The rules provide that when the monthly average B. T. U. is less than standard, but not low enough to rebate consumers, the company may be required, on approval by the commission, to pay a penalty to the municipality within which it operates.

Jurisdiction Over Service.

The commission in the order recognizes that it has jurisdiction but it passes primary jurisdiction over service to municipal governments, and will exercise only appellate jurisdiction.

Other provisions of the order are summarized as follows:

Gas companies may require a meter deposit but when such deposit is made they must pay 6 per cent. interest on it. The patron may give security or guaranty instead of making a cash deposit.

No prepayment meters are to be placed after May 1. All prepayment meters are to be abandoned by January 1, 1923.

Removal of condensate or water from pipes is to be done at the company's expense.

Free Extensions.

The gas company shall make free extensions when the cost is equaled in five years by the gross revenue to be derived from the extensions. An arrangement is made for the return of money advanced to the company by persons who wish extensions, if the extensions prove remunerative to the company.

The commission recommends that each municipality place an apparatus whereby it may observe the quality of gas, degree of pressure and such other standards as are required of the gas company.

Certain maximum and minimum pressures in the mains are to be maintained each day. Tests are required at regular periods.

Testing of Meters.

Provisions are made for the testing of meters and for the refunding of overcharges because of incorrect meters.

The company may make a charge for turning on gas if it has turned off gas for nonpayment of a bill. The company may charge $1 for disconnecting and reconnecting a gas supply when a gas consumer changes location more than once in a year.

The commission worked out the rules in connection with the Indiana Municipal League, the Indiana Gas Association and the national bureau of standards. It has included in the order, however, some regulations not agreed on by each of the co-operating organizations. Paul P. Haynes, member of the commission, principally was in charge of experiments conducted in working out the rules. H. O. Garman, chief engineer for the commission, directed the technical work.

GARDEN LOTS PLOWED.

Association Will Do Work on Application to Harry Miesse.

The Patriotic Gardeners' Association will take care of the plowing of all small garden lots in Indianapolis, on application to it within the next week, Harry Miesse, director, has announced. The same system and the same charges for plowing as were in effect last year will again be followed.

Mr. Miesse said that through the co-operation of the Midwest Engine Company, he will be able to have in use two utilitors manufactured by the company, in addition to a large number of horse-drawn plows. He asks that teamsters desiring employment during the plowing season apply to him in his office at the City Hall. The following charges will be in effect: Lot, 40x150 feet, $1.50; lot 50x150 feet, $1.85; lot 60x150 feet, $2.20; lot 70x150 feet, $2.55; lot 80x150 feet, $2.90, and 35 cents additional for each additional 1,500 square feet. No charge of less than $1.50 will be made.

MINERS CUT WAGE DEMAND

Reduce by Approximately 50 Per Cent. Anthracite Schedule.

NEW YORK, April 24.—A reduction in wage demands of approximately 50 per cent. was made today by representatives of anthracite mine workers on the subcommittee of miners and operators negotiating a new working contract here for the hard coal fields. Demands for shorter working hours also were reduced and adjournment was decided on until next Monday for consideration.

The miners originally asked a 60 per cent. wage increase for contract workers and a $2 a day raise for day men. They now ask increases to correspond with those recently granted bituminous workers by the presidential coal commission. These amounted to 30 per cent. for contract workers and $1 for day men.

LEGION GET-TOGETHER.

Ralph D. Cole to Address First Big Gathering Sunday Afternoon.

Ex-service men of Marion county will hold their first big get-together meeting in the Riley room of the Clapool hotel Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Ralph D. Cole, of Findlay, O., former lieeutenant-colonel in the 37th dvision overseas, will be the speaker. The Marion county Americanism committee of the American Legion, of which J. J. Swan is chairman, will be in charge of the meeting.

Commanders of each post of the Legion in the county have sent letters to the post members urging them not to be "A. W. O. L." and declaring that the Legion's Americanism program, which will be discussed, should be held of the greatest importance by each Legion member.

A drum corps of Indianapolis Boy Scouts, in the charge of F. O. Belzer, scout executive, will give a twenty-minute program in front of the hotel, just prior to the meeting. Four numbers will be played by an orchestra in opening the meeting. James S. Dale, a former first sergeant, will lead a program of songs. The remainder of the meeting will be given over to Mr. Cole.

INDIANA TO TAKE CENTER OF STAGE

State Likely Factor That Will Determine Republican Presidential Nomination.

SPEECHES BEFORE PRIMARY

Main Contest Apparently Between Leonard Wood and Hiram Johnson—Scheme to Split Vote.

Indiana, often the pivotal state of national elections, and perhaps the factor that will determine the Republican nomination for President this year, will be in the national spotlight all of next week and until the results of the presidential primary election, May 4, become known. Scores of speeches will be made by the four contenders for presidential preference and by others who will speak in their behalf.

After April 27, when the Ohio and New Jersey primaries will be held, Indiana will command almost undivided interest, California sharing a little because of the primary of that state on the same day as the Indiana primary and because of the contest in California between Hiram Johnson and Herbert Hoover.

Wood and Johnson.

As the Indiana primary campaign draws to a close, it has become apparent to those who have kept advised, that the main contest is between Leonard Wood and Hiram Johnson, as it has been in other primary states.

While Warren G. Harding and Frank O. Lowden have organizations and some followers, the outlook is that neither is likely to command any great popular vote. The idea of their workers has been that the vote could be divided up in such a way as to keep any candidate, and especially Wood from getting a majority. For this reason they welcomed and encouraged Johnson, who did not file in the Illinois primary and who did not file in Ohio, but is co-operating with the Harding forces in Ohio by letting Harding candidates for delegate use him as second choice.

Plurality Demand.

But with the development of a popular demand that the Indiana delegates support the plurality candidate because otherwise party harmony would be endangered, the futility of the scheme to split the vote has so impressed Republicans who had been in favor of Lowden or Harding that some of them have already declared that they will not throw their votes away by supporting candidates having no prospect of carrying the state, but will use their influence and votes to determine whether Wood or Johnson shall have the support of the thirty delegates to the national convention.

Wood, Harding, Lowden and Johnson will all address the voters of Indiana next week, and some of them will speak on May 3, the day before the primary. Excepting Tuesday, when Wood will speak in Pittsburg, he will devote his entire time to Indiana up to the day of the primary.

Wood Arrives Monday.

He will arrive in Indianapolis Monday at 6 o'clock in the morning, and after taking breakfast at the Union station will go by automobile to Danville, where he will make a short speech about 8 o'clock in the morning. Then he goes to Greencastle by automobile, where he will speak about 9:30. From Greencastle he goes by interurban to Brazil for a short speech at about 10:30. Then he goes to Sullivan by way of Terre Haute.

He expressed a desire to speak at Sullivan because it is the home of Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman. He will be there about 2 p. m., and will go from there to Vincinnes for a short speech about 4:30 in the afternoon. At Vincennes he will take a train for Evansville, where he will speak Monday night in the Soldiers and Sailors' Coliseum.

Returns to Ft. Wayne.

Returning from Pittsburg to Ft. Wayne, he will go to Bluffton by interurban, and after a short stay there, will go on to Marion for a speech there shortly before noon. In the afternoon he will appear at Logansport, Peru, Wabash, and Huntington and will wind up the day with a night address at Ft. Wayne.

Thursday he will speak at Vil-

CONVICTED BY THE SENATE

PARIS, April 24.—Joseph Caillaux, former premier, who Thursday was convicted by the high court of the senate of commerce and correspondence with the enemy, has been set free. He arrived at his home in Paris this afternoon. He was accompanied by his wife and several friends. M. Caillaux refused to make a statement, saying only that he would not be in Paris May 1.

The former premier was sentenced to three years' imprisonment, his time spent in confinement pending his trial being deducted; five years' banishment and ten years' loss of civil rights.

EASTERN STRIKERS SEEK ASSISTANCE

Ask Mayors of Jersey Cities to Intercede With Roads in Behalf of Idle Men.

FREIGHT EMBARGO LIFTED

New York Central Releases Large Quantities of Merchandise Consigned to the West.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Hopes of striking railroad workers in the New York-Jersey City district to regain their jobs with the seniority ratings taken from them by the railroad managers centered today on a conference at Atlantic City of strike leaders with mayors of several New Jersey cities who were asked to intercede for the men.

Determination to seek the aid of the Jersey mayors was reached by the strikers yesterday after the Railroad Managers' Association of New York had twice turned down requests for rescinding of the ultimatum under which strikers who failed to report by last Sunday lost their seniority.

Railroad officials indicated today that they would ignore any overtures made on behalf of the strikers by the Jersey mayors, asserting that the strikers could return only as new employes. Places of many of the strikers already had been filled, it was asserted, and traffic was declared to be fast returning to normal.

The New York Central railroad today announced that the embargo on westbound freight, in effect since the unauthorized strike of railroad workers began, had been raised, releasing for westward movement large quantities of merchandise held here for western purchasers.

GOVERNMENT'S NEXT MOVE.

Officials in Dilemma Following Defiance of Cleveland Strikers.

CLEVELAND, April 24.—Government officials here today faced the dilemma of either backing down from the ultimatum issued yesterday or arresting approximately 1,500 strikers and thus continuing the strike in jail.

Threat of arrest made by John Sawen, of the department of justice, if the men did not return to work, was met with defiance at meetings yesterday and last night. The men agreed unanimously to go to jail rather then return to work before their demands are met.

The ultimatum was placed before the men by F. J. O'Rourke, president of the Cleveland Yardmen's Association, and later by each of the system chairmen.

District Attorney Ed S. Wertz, who authorized the presentation of the ultimatum, would not say early today what the government's next move would be. It was understood, however, that if the men are arrested they will be released providing they return to their switches, because of the difficulty of the railroads in obtaining new men to fill the vacancies.

Officials of the department of justice in Washington asserted that the ultimatum was entirely unauthorized, according to a dispatch received here. No order has been issued since the attorney-general instructed district attorneys that whenever they found evidence to warrant prosecutions of strikers they should be proceeded against under the terms of the Lever act, the officials said.

ROADS CLAIM BIG GAINS.

Report "Decided Break" in Strikers' Ranks in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 24.—A "decided break in the ranks of the striking switchmen" was reported today by the Western General Managers' Association, representing twenty-seven roads in the Chicago district.

Three hundred and fifty men returned to work, bringing the total number who have returned since the strike began to 1,036, the managers' statement said.

Movement of live stock, meat and coal continued normal, the railroad executives added.

Forty-two strike leaders, arrested last week for conspiracy to violate the Lever act were arraigned before a United States commissioner and their cases continued until May 3. John Grunau and Harold Reading, presidents of the two "outlaw" unions, were among those arraigned.

The statement from the railroad managers says:

"The number of switching crews in service today was 651 as compared to 630 yesterday and the normal total of 765.

"In addition to the other roads which have served ultimatums on the strikers, the Baltimore & Ohio Chicago terminal lines announced today that all men on strike after 8 a. m. Monday will lose their seniority."

Strikers Deny I. W. W. Plan.

COLUMBUS, O., April 24.—The Columbus Yardmen's Association, composed of railroad workers who are on strike here, today issued a statement

WALKER HINES RESIGNS AS RAILROAD DIRECTOR

PRESIDENT ACCEPTS TENDER OF FEDERAL ADMINISTRATOR.

EFFECTIVE DATE MAY 15

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Walker D. Hines, director-general of railroads, has resigned and his resignation has been accepted by President Wilson, effective May 15.

Much work in liquidating the affairs of the railroad administration will remain after May 15 and a successor to Mr. Hines will be named. Max Thelen, in charge of the claims department, probably will be appointed. He is understood to be Mr. Hines's choice and it was said today at the White House that the retiring director-general would name his own successor.

Letter Not Made Public.

Mr. Hines's letter of resignation was not made public, but it was understood that the director-general had desired to return to the practice of law in New York when the roads were returned to private control March 1 and that he had consented to remain until the task of liquidation was well under way.

In accepting Mr Hines's resignation the President wrote that he could not let the director-general retire without telling him how he had "personally valued and admired the quite unusual services you have rendered the government and the country."

Mr. Hines has served with the railroad administration since its creation in December, 1917. He was appointed then as assistant director-general and when Secretary McAdoo retired to private life January 11, 1919, Mr. Hines was made director-general.

TWO POINTS ARGUED ON SERVICE-AT-COST PLAN

COMMISSION JURISDICTION AND INTERURBAN CHARGE.

FRANCHISE IS DISCUSSED

Two points engaged the principal attention of the public service commission today at the closing of its hearings on the proposal of the city of Indianapolis to have the Indianapolis Street Railway Company operate its system on a service-at-cost plan.

One point was the duration of the commission's jurisdiction over the company and the other was the amount of money interurban companies should pay the city company for using its tracks.

Samuel Ashby, corporation counsel, and Woodburn Masson, an attorney, stood for a jurisdiction of the commission only until the company is able to make money with the franchise fare of 6 tickets for 25 cents in effect. They also urged that the interurban companies pay the city company more money.

Existence of Franchise.

Ferdinand Winter and H. H. Hornbrook, counsel for the company, asserted that the franchise no longer exists. They took no position on the amount of money to be paid by interurban companies, but insisted that the whole plan not be held up until that point is determined.

Mr. Ashby insisted that the city company be permitted to raise no

WARNS AGAINST MORE DELAY IN RAIL WAGES

FIREMEN'S LEADER ASKS "LIVING" PAY FOR MEN.

AT LABOR BOARD HEARING

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Warning against further delay in settling the wage demands of the 2,000,000 railroad workers of the country, Timothy Shea, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, told the railroad labor board today that the men "were fed up on promises, and dog-tired of delays." Mr. Shea presented the demands of the firemen and hostlers for a basic living wage of $6.50 a day, with differentials for skill, responsibility, experience and the increase in the cost of living since the demands were first presented last June.

He told the board that the lessons to be learned from the steel, coal and railroad strikes was that "men will not work when they can not live decently on the wages they are paid."

Repeats Workers' Declaration.

When he had urged the striking railroad men in the eastern terminals to return to work Shea said their almost universal justification for striking was that they and their families were starving at work and they "might just as well starve not working."

"We were patriotic," he said, "while the thousands and tens of thousands of war millionaires were being created. We have been patient while the profiteers have paused in their orgy of spending ill-gotten gains only long enough to skyrocket prices still higher and make a mockery of our government's promise that living costs would be reduced.

Strikers Turn to Congress.

The congress is to be petitioned to pass a resolution asking President Wilson to direct the railroad labor board to hear the complaint of the nonrecognized railroad workers, R. J. Mitchell, of the Chicago Enginemen's Association, announced today. He said letters were being prepared placing their request before senators and representatives from the various districts where the men have quit work.

The White House recently rejected a request of the strikers that it intervene to have the board hear their complaints.

NEGRO'S MURDER TRIAL SET FOR NEXT TUESDAY

INDICTMENT AGAINST RAY IS IN FIVE COUNTS.

SPECIAL VENIRE IS ORDERED

William Ray, colored, aged nineteen, was indicted by the Marion county grand jury today on a charge of murder in the first degree. His trial in criminal court was set for next Tuesday by Judge James A. Collins. He was indicted as William Ray, alias William Hart. The indictment, which was returned after the jury had been in session less than two hours, is in five counts. It charges that Ray killed Martha Huff, fourteen, on or about April 21, by stabbing her with a knife. It is charged in the indictment that the murder was committed in the perpetration of a criminal assault. The murder was done with premeditated malice, it is charged.

Venire of 150 Men.

Judge Collins ordered the county jury commissioners to draw a special venire of 150 men for prospective jury service in the case. Ray will be arraigned before the selection of the jury is begun. Judge Collins directed Frank A. Symmes, county attorney for the poor, to appear for Ray.

Sentence will be pronounced on Ray at once, if he is convicted, Judge Collins said. The state will demand the death penalty for the negro.

Witnesses for the prosecution in the case, as named in the indictment, are Chauncey Manning, supervisor of

96,500 AUTOS WILL BE MADE IN CITY THIS YEAR

VALUE OF INDIANAPOLIS OUTPUT PLACED AT $167,337,500.

SURVEY OF THE INDUSTRY

Approximately 96,500 automobiles will be produced by the ten motor car industries of Indianapolis this year, and the total sales value of these machines will be approximately $167,337,500, said B. A. Worthington, chairman of the industries committee of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, today. His statement was based on a survey of the automobile industries made by Myron R. Green, director of the bureau of industry.

12,300 Men Employed.

Other statistics compiled as a result of the survey show that approximately 12,300 men are employed in the manufacture of motor cars and that the capital invested in the factories is about $24,000,000. The value of automobiles to be exported by Indianapolis factories this year is estimated at $5,445,000. Approximately 3,758,000 square feet of floor space is devoted to the manufacture of passenger cars.

The figures do not include capital invested by accessory and parts manufacturers and the value of their products does not enter into the statistics.

"I do not believe any one in Indianapolis had any idea of the magnitude of our automobile industry until these statistics were compiled," Mr. Worthington said. "The highest estimate placed by prominent business men on the value of automobiles to be manufactured during the year was $50,000,000. This shows that the most enthusiastic boosters for our city do not realize fully just how big Indianapolis is.

Twenty-eight Cars a Day.

"These figures mean that 840 cars are being made in Indianapolis monthly, or about twenty-eight a day. The figures mean that the value of the output of our ten motor car factories is approximately $13,944,800 a month; $464,820 a day; $19,367 an hour; $322.80 a minute or about $5.38 for every second of the day and night during the current year.

"Our motor car factories give direct employment to about 12,300 men. Our city owes much of its prosperity and growth to the automobile industry. If present plans of the companies mature the statistics on the industry for 1921 will be even more astounding."

CAPPER AGAIN OPENS GUNS ON PROFITEERS

SENATOR QUOTES FIGURES ON COTTON EARNINGS.

REVEALS TRUST PROFITS

33 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—"Respectfully referring" to Attorney-General Palmer facts which he had collected to show that the United States is a "robbers' roost," Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, today declared in the senate that this country is going through an era of "Rampant, long continued and unrestricted profiteering."

Senator Capper declared at the outset that if the department of justice would enforce the laws and send the profiteers to jail, instead of "pursuing them with steakless Thursdays" prices would soon tumble. The proof of the profiteering, he declared, is in the margin of profit of great corporations, and he said that every one knew that their profits had never been greater nor their "greed more insatiable."

Senator Capper paid particular attention to the earnings of cotton mills and insisted that speculation in cotton and cotton goods has been "open, flagrant and scandalous." The spread between the farm price of cotton and the price of cotton goods to the consumer had been shown to be 1,800 per cent. by a senate investigation, he declared.

Corporations' Earnings.

Many of the large corporations in the United States, such as the American Hide and Leather Company, the woolen trust, the cotton trust, the steel trust, the United States Fruit Company, the Tobacco Products corporation, the Manhattan Shirt Company, the United Drug Company, the American Linseed Oil Company, and others were referred to specifically by Senator Capper. He declared that facts in regard to the exorbitant earnings of those corporations had been published.

Senator Capper declared that if the law enforcement officers of the government could not enforce the laws they should resign "and let men who can take their places."

Declaring that the proof of profiteering was in the margin of profit, the senator said that in one year

NEW YORK MARCHES IN BIG H. C. OF L. PROTEST

THOUSANDS WATCH DENIM-AND-PATCHES PARADE.

STORES LOWERING PRICES

NEW YORK, April 24.—Thousands of New Yorkers protested against the high cost of clothing today by watching an overalls parade of hundreds. An organized old clothes demonstration centering about Broadway was thoroughly enjoyed by multitudes watching from the sidewalk and buildings.

The parade turned out to be in part a demonstration against prohibition.

While elephants in blue denim and chorus girls in automobiles were also in the parade, marchers in patched-up trousers and plain overalls were in the majority. Girls in gingham dresses were almost outnumbered by girls in overalls.

Cheese Club in the Lead.

Members of the Cheese Club, who introduced New York to the overalls mode, led the parade behind mounted police. Thousands went to Columbus circle in old clothes for the start of the parade, but preferred to be spectators.

Every class was represented. The well-to-do business man marched shoulder to shoulder with the "white collar boy" of static salary envelope. High school boys and girls, municipal employes, humble citizens of the lower east side and a Chinese delegation from Mott street had places in the line, not to mention scores of theatrical stars of both sexes and all

YANKEES LOOKING TO LEONARD WOOD

New England States Highly Favorable to His Candidacy for President.

SOLID VOTE IS PROBABLE

If There Is an Exception It Will Be Connecticut, Where Brandegee Represents Cabal.

[By James P. Hornaday, Staff Correspondent of The Indianapolis News]

BOSTON, April 24.—Leonard Wood is the choice of the people of New England for President. No one, not even men who ardently favor some other candidate of the Republicans, questions the accuracy of this statement. At the outset he will, according to present indications, be voted for by at least sixty of the eighty-seven delegates from the states of Maine, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island. Most of the politicians up this way expect to see him get the solid New England vote, with the exception of that of Connecticut, after the first or second ballot.

Some persons have expressed surprise that more of the New England states have not instructed for Wood. The explanation is that it has been the custom to send uninstructed delegates and it was not deemed advisable to deviate from that rule this year.

New Hampshire Instructs.

New Hampshire, the home state of the general, has instructed. The Maine delegation is made up of active Wood men and could not be more loyal to him under instructions. Vermont does not choose delegates until May 18, but the sentiment in the state is so overwhelmingly for Wood that no other candidate has asked for support. Connecticut, where Republican boss rule is supreme, is not for Wood. This means that the delegates are being advised by Senator Brandegee that they are not to pledge themselves to the New England favorite.

Senator Brandegee is a part of the senatorial cabal which imagines it will be able to pick a candidate of its own particular liking. If an attempt is made by the inner circle of the party to bestow the nomination on some candidate other than Wood the Connecticut delegates will in all probability help promote that plan.

One of the Irreconcilables.

As an irreconcilable on the peace treaty Senator Brandegee is anxious to see the national convention approve the course of that group of senators; the delegates from the state will, if the opportunity shall offer, vote for a platform plank praising the irreconcilables. But there is a fixed determination in another direction that no such opportunity shall be offered. If the national organization can have its way, and it believes it can, the platform will indorse the treaty with the Lodge reservations.

Rhode Island is thinking of Wood only. The ten delegates from that state, it is asserted, will be for him "first, last and all the time."

Here in Massachusetts the primaries are to be held next Tuesday, the same day New Jersey and Ohio vote. Interest centers in the various district contests and in the contests for delegates-at-large. There is not a direct contest being waged between the presidential aspirants. Wood and anti-Wood slates have been put up in scattered congressional districts

Count on Many Delegates.

The Wood people count on getting from twenty to twenty-four delegates out of these contests and they have every reason to believe, they say, that after the delegates who feel that they must compliment Governor Calvin Coolidge have done so, Wood will get additional votes. It is generally agreed that Governor Lowden will have a few votes in the state and that Senator Harding will not be entirely overlooked.

The Bay state is so rich in Republican statesmanship it could not be expected to come to a complete agreement in advance on the delegates-at-large, but this year there are six candidates for the four places, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, former Senator W. Murray Crane, Frederick H. Gillett, Speaker of the house; former Governor Samuel W. McCall, former Lieutenant-Governor Louis A. Frothingham and Edward A. Thurston. The candidates with the exception of McCall have not pledged themselves beyond saying they will vote for Governor Coolidge on the first ballot. McCall has declared for Herbert Hoover.

After the First Ballot.

It is assumed that the four elected out of the six, unless McCall should win, will after the first ballot be guided by the wishes of the voters of the state. Thus if Wood does as well in the primaries as his friends expect him to the delegates-at-large will support him.

With exception, the Republicans of the state accepted Governor Coolidge's declination to be a candidate at its face value. The Governor undoubtedly did mean it, for he has not permitted his friends to do anything in his behalf in his own state or elsewhere. And yet there are influential members of the party here who are still insisting that the Governor shall be pushed to the front. Senator Lodge has just disposed of the doubt as to whether he will support Coolidge at the convention if the Governor so wishes, by saying:

"I told Governor Coolidge last au-

The growth of 80,544 in population in the last decade, has been the greatest actual increase in the ten-year periods in the history of Indianapolis. It is interesting to note that the per cent. of increase has been slightly lower in each succeeding ten-year period except in that ending in 1900, and the actual increase in population has been greater in each period than the preceding decade increase except in that ending in 1880.

The following table shows the population and per cent. of increase:

Increases at the end of the decades since 1840 have been as follows: 1850, 5,399; 1860, 16,520; 1870, 29,633; 1880, 26,812; 1890, 30,380; 1900, 63,728; 1910, 64,486, and 1920, 80,544.

[The Indianapolis News Bureau,
33 Wyatt Building]

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The population of Indianapolis for 1920, as shown by the official returns of the United States census bureau last night, was 314,194. This is an increase of 34.05 per cent. over the population of 1910, which was given as 233,650. The gain is 80,544.

The rapid and yet healthy growth of the city of Indianapolis as shown by the census report was the subject of comment here today, Indianapolis having shown a larger percentage of increase than any city in the United States of its size or larger. The increase in population of 60.4 per cent. in the decade from 1890 to 1900, the increase of 38.1 per cent. from 1900 to 1910 and now the increase of 34.5 per cent. from 1910 to 1920 shows, it is declared by census officials, that while Indianapolis is not a boom town, it has shown a steady and consistent increase that has been shown by few other inland cities.

Leads Other Cities.

The fact that the percentage of increase for Indianapolis, 34.5, is greater than that of any city of its class or larger is shown by the following percentages of increase of cities of this class:

Indianapolis, 34.5; Cincinnati, 10.3; Washington, 32.1; Milwaukee, 22.3; St. Louis, 12.5; St. Paul, 9.2; Minneapolis, 26.2, and New Orleans, 14.3.

That Indianapolis should have shown a greater increase than Washington, which gained thousands and thousands of government clerks during the war, was the subject of some comment and much surprise here.

Some of the cities smaller than Indianapolis, for which census figures have been given out, show larger percentages of increase than Indianapolis. Figures comparing the Indianapolis increase with smaller cities follow:

Indianapolis, 34.5; Toledo, 44.3; Louisville, 4.9; Syracuse, N. Y., 25.1; Nashville, 7.2; Dayton, 31.1; Memphis, 23.8, and Akron, 201.8.

Increases at Akron and Toledo are well known to have been due to great industrial booms in those cities. Dayton, however, also had a big industrial boom, but its percentage of increase was not as great as that of Indianapolis despite the fact that Indianapolis was not known to have had any especial boom.

CITY'S POPULATION GIVEN AS 314,194

May Improve Standing.

The standing of Indianapolis as the twenty-second largest city in the United States may be improved by the showing of the city in this census. In 1910 Kansas City, Mo., had 248,381, as compared with 233,650 for Indianapolis, and it is possible that Indianapolis may go ahead of Kansas City this year.

Seattle had a population of 237,194 in 1910 and it is also possible that Indianapolis may go ahead of this city. There is no chance for Indianapolis to pass any of the other cities which are now ahead of it in the list of cities, the other seventeen being New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Pittsburg, St. Louis, San Francisco, Baltimore, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Minneapolis, Detroit, Buffalo, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Washington and New Orleans.

The belief is that Indianapolis will maintain supremacy over Providence, R. I., which had 224,326 in 1910; Rochester, N. Y., which had 218,149; Denver, which had 213,381, and Portland, Ore., which had 207,214. It is not believed that any cities other than those in this list have a chance to pass Indianapolis. Providence, with its manufacturing boom during the war, has the best chance of the group to pass Indianapolis.

The population of other Indiana cities given out by the census bureau, with the percentage of increase of population over the population for 1910, was:

Kokomo, 30,067, an increase of 76.8.
Decatur, 4,762, an increase of 6.5.
Portland, 5,958, an increase of 16.1.
Batesville, 2,361, an increase of 9.8.
Bluffton, 5,391; increase 404, or 8.1 per cent.

Great City, Says Mayor.

"The new census report marks Indianapolis as a real large city," said Mayor Charles W. Jewett. "While the per cent. of increase is not as great as it has been in other ten-year periods, nevertheless the actual increase is the greatest in the history of the city.

"We are on the threshold of a great and rapid growth. If we had now a sufficient number of houses to take care of the people now living here and those who during the last few years wished to come, we would have a much greater population. Indianapolis is not alone in its lack of housing facilities, as all large cities are now suffering from this condition.

"With the completion of our track elevation system, Indianapolis will grow rapidly as the greatest inland railroad center in the country, thus inviting new industries and new businesses to locate here. Our citizens should realize that it is good business to encourage and stimulate in every just and fair way our home industries, and extend inducements to new industries to locate here. The more factories we have, the more business we conduct, the more labor we employ, the more wages we pay and the more profits we gather to the city, the happier are our people.

"Indianapolis has become a great city, well developed in every branch of civic and industrial life. No more patriotic or law-abiding American city exists than Indianapolis. Ours is a supremely desirable place in which to live, earn a livelihood and be a happy and useful people."

Fewer than 500 persons were missed in the Indianapolis count, according to a statement by John E. Spiegel, census director. The census bureau usually expects about 1 per cent. of the population to be missed, while Mr. Spiegel figures that less than .5 per cent. were missed here.

The first count of the population of Indianapolis, of which local persons and institutions have any record, was made in 1822, two years after the site of the city had been chosen for the location of the new state capital, and about three years after settlers built their first cabins along the banks of White river. In 1822, records show, 500 persons were living in Indianapolis. In 1826 there were 726 and in 1837 the population was announced as 1,006.

First Government Census in 1840.

In 1835 George Lockerbie, county assessor, announced the city's population as 1,683. The first government census of which there is any record was made in 1840, when Indianapolis was accredited with only 2,692 inhabitants. The census bureau ten years later gave the city a population of 8,091. Since then the increase in population has been steady. In 1860 the city had 18,611 inhabitants, in 1870 the number had increased to 48,244, and in 1880 to 75,056. In the next decade the city passed the 100,000 mark, and the census of 1890 showed a population of 105,436. Ten years later 169,164 persons were counted in the city, an increase of nearly 64,000. The increase between 1900 and 1910 was 64,486, with a total population of 233,650, a gain of 38.1 per cent. in the decade.

The population of Indianapolis is estimated three times each year—once by the United States census bureau, once by the Polk Directory Company, and once by the Dreher Simplex Guide and Map. There is usually a difference of only a few thousand in the various estimates, the directory estimate usually being higher than the government guess. In 1910, while the official count showed 233,650 inhabitants, the directory estimated the population at 248,645. Yesterday the directory company estimated the population on January 1, 1920, at 315,680.

Increase Has Been Steady.

Yearly government estimates, which never are based on actual counting of the population, shows how steady the increase in Indianapolis has been. In 1903 the government estimated the population at 186,410, an increase of 17,000 in three years. In 1904 the estimate was 197,705, and in 1905, the 200,000 mark was passed, with the government estimate at 204,772. This was increased to 212,198 in 1906, and to 219,154 in 1907. The estimate was 265,578 in 1915, and in 1919 was 308,555.

In 1900 the population of Indianapolis was divided as follows: Native whites, of native parents, 97,772; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 35,359; foreign born whites, 17,070, and negroes, 15,963. Ten years later the population was divided as follows: Native white of native parents, 150,593; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 41,420; foreign-born whites, 19,767, and negroes, 21,870. The foreign population of the city has run as follows: 1880, 14,449; 1900, 17,070, and 1910, 19,767.

In 1912 there were 1,512 more women in Indianapolis than men. There were then 116,069 men and 117,581 women, or 98.7 men to every 100 women. Twelve years earlier, in 1900, there were 97.5 females to 100 males in Indianapolis. Indiana had more men than women in 1912, the ratio being 105 to 100.

6,187 Foreign Born Whites in 1914.

The German group of foreign whites in Indianapolis numbered 21,870 in 1914. Those of English and Celtic (including Irish, Scotch and Welsh parentage), numbered 19,793. Others were: Yiddish and Hebrew, 2,177; French, 1,366, and Italian, 1,107. There were 6,187 foreign born whites in Indianapolis at that time.

The 1910 census report showed there were 855 industries in Indianapolis employing 37,288 persons. Of those employed, the greatest number found employment in foundries and machine shops, totaling 5,160. Second in number of employed is the slaughtering and meat packing industry, which gave employment to 3,985, and third the automobile and parts industry, employing 2,775.

In the value of output, slaughtering and meat packing led in 1910 with a total valuation of output at $39,134,000; foundry and machine shops, $11,442,000; automobile industry, including bodies and parts, $8,840,000.

High Products Valuation.

The total capitalization of the 855 industries was given as $76,497,000. The total value of the product was $126,522,000, the raw material having cost $84,151,000, leaving the added value given by manufacturing as $42,371,000. Of this increased valuation, or the value of the manufacturing of Indianapolis proper, $23,051,000 was required for the payment of salaries and wages, leaving $19,321,000 for rentals, interest and overhead expenses, and the payment of dividends to the 631 employers and firm members, and other stockholders. This is more than 25 per cent. of the capitalized value of the industries, given as $76,497,000.

EASTERN STRIKERS SEEK ASSISTANCE

branding as "maliciously false" an assertion that the Columbus yardmen left the service of the railroads "due to a desire to formulate one big union, or, in other words, join the I. W. W. movement."

The statement places entire blame for the railroad strike on W. G. Lee, president of the Railway Trainmen, and say "our high salaried president [Lee] slept at the switch while we and our families were crying for bread."

Regarded as Out of Service.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

ANDERSON, Ind., April 24.—In the railroad yards here today it was said that none of the switchmen who have been out since April 11 had returned to work and they are now regarded as entirely out of the service. The Big Four yards is operating seven crews with five engines and the Pennsylvania will put on two crews Monday. None of the switchmen who are on strike have indicated an intention of applying for the positions.

Vote Against Returning to Work.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 24.—Thirty-five Big Four railroad switchmen here, who are on strike, decided at a meeting held Friday afternoon not to return to work unless their seniority rights are restored. The railroad company had announced that the men would be required to make out new applications for employment and that they would lose all seniority rights.

INDIANA TO TAKE CENTER OF STAGE

paraiso in the morning, Laporte at noon and Gary at night.

The Friday, Saturday and Monday, May 3, schedules will include central Indiana and the northwestern and northern counties

Other Candidates.

Governor Lowden, who canceled engagements in northern Indiana this week because of a sore throat, will speak at Marion and Muncie Monday in the daytime and at Anderson at night. He will go by automobile from Anderson to Richmond Tuesday, stopping briefly at Newcastle and Cambridge City and will speak at Richmond Tuesday night. Wednesday he will speak at noon at Greencastle and at night at Terre Haute; Thursday night at Evansville; Friday probably at South Bend; and Saturday probably in Lake county.

Johnson will speak Wednesday at Richmond; Thursday at Kokomo in the morning, Logansport at noon and South Bend at night; Friday, Michigan City in the morning, two speeches at Gary and Hammond at night; Saturday, a day speech at Terre Haute and a night speech in Indianapolis; Monday noon, May 3, at Lafayette and night at Marion.

Harding will speak at Crawfordsville Monday afternoon; night at Lafayette; Tuesday, Greencastle at noon and Terre Haute night; Wednesday, Vincennes noon and Evansville night; Thursday, Bedford noon and New Albany night; Friday, North Vernon in the morning, Madison noon and Columbus night; Saturday, probably Rushville, Shelbyville and Indianapolis.

Will Be Challenged.

Reports are coming to headquarters of Republican candidates for presidential preference and Republican candidates for the nomination for Governor that voters who were not affiliated with the Republican party at the last election, some of them Democrats and others independents or Socialist sympathizers, are planning to vote in the Republican primary, their purpose being to influence the Republican nominations without intending to support the ticket when nominated. Steps will probably be taken to challenge such persons.

The law contemplates that the nominations of a party shall be made by members of that party. A Republican informed on the election law says it provides that only those who voted for a majority of the nominees of the party at the last election or who will make oath that they will support the nominees at the approaching election have a right to vote at a party primary.

Committeemen Elected.

At the primary election precinct committeemen are elected, and they in turn elect county chairmen who elect district chairman. It is submitted that the right of a party to govern its own organization as well as to nominate its own candidates should be preserved.

James Baldwin, Indiana manager for Governor Lowden, of Illinois, says he has information confirming a Chicago newspaper report that the Chicago delegates, said to be under the control of Mayor William Hale Thompson and his machine, will vote for Lowden. Baldwin says Lowden will get the entire Illinois delegation, Johnson having agreed that the one Chicago delegate elected on a Johnson declaration should vote for Lowden.

SPEAKS TO COLORED VOTERS.

Fesler Addresses Large Crowd at Church—McCulloch at Shelbyville.

J. W. Fesler, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, addressed a large audience of colored voters at the Bethel A. M. E. church Friday night and was enthusiastically received. He discussed state issues and pledged a good business administration should he be nominated and elected.

Dr. Carleton McCulloch, the Democratic candidate for Governor, went to Shelbyville in the afternoon, where he spoke to the Democratic precinct workers.

Thomas Taggart arrived in Indianapolis and visited Democratic headquarters.

detectives. Detectives O. Simon, Dugan, Sneed, Trabue and Rademacher, Patrolman Carter, Alvin Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whittaker, of Salem Park; Edward Weakley, 285 North Mount street; William Johnson, 514 North Miley street; Sarah Smock and Nora Smock, 420 Bank avenue; Dr. George R. Christian, deputy coroner; A. C. Metcalf, shorthand reporter, and Thomas Newsom, 3515 West Washington street.

Loud Talkers Arrested.

Two men were taken into custody by the police last night because of boisterous remarks made in crowds that gathered in Washington street, between Delaware and New Jersey streets. Ora Runyon, giving his address as 12! East Michigan street, was slated on a charge of disorderly conduct, and a soldier from the aviation repair depot at the speedway, who was found wearing his side arms, was turned over to the military authorities. Runyon was fined $1 and costs and sentenced to serve two days in jail by Judge Walter Pritchard, in city court today.

A few hundred persons, apparently attracted by curiosity, gathered in Washington street for a time during the night, but they were not permitted to congregate. Jerry Kinney, chief of police, has established a zone around the county jail and intends to shut off traffic within a radius of a block.

Bonds Are Reduced.

Sixteen persons, who were arrested Thursday night when police and detectives broke up crowds that gathered in that vicinity, appeared before Judge Walter Pritchard in city court Friday afternoon. Their cases were continued until April 27. Judge Pritchard reduced their bonds from $5,000 to $250 each on their promise to remain away from crowds in that territory in the future.

Statement by Mayor.

"The apprehension and arrest of William Ray, accomplished with great dispatch by our police department, is a splendid achievement for the department," said Mayor Charles W. Jewett. "The police deserve the commendation of the entire community. It is unfortunate that in this day of schools and good environment, such debased criminals should exist, but it is good to know that we have agencies of government that can protect the community from their viciousness.

"The life of this self-confessed criminal belongs to the state of Indiana, and will be protected at any cost and delivered to the state for disposition by it under due process of law and justice. We have insisted that the man be indicted and arraigned without delay and that his trial be held at once, and justice be meted out to him by the state. Such atrocious crimes should be dealt with, with dispatch and precision. I am confident that the state's authorities will discharge their duty without one minute of unnecessary delay in order that the ends of justice may be accomplished and society fully protected.

"These unfortunate occurrences happen and a few debased persons of this nature still exist among all races of people. I am sure every citizen of Indianapolis, white and black alike, regrets this unfortunate occurrence. For the most part the citizens of Indianapolis have been very thoughtful and cautious in assisting the officials in the execution of their duty in this matter."

Police Department Commended.

John B. Reynolds, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has written a letter to J. E. Kinney, chief of police, commending the department on the capture of Ray.

The letter in part said:

"One of the greatest stabilizing influences of our social fabric is the speedy capture, immediate indictment and trial, and prompt execution of such criminals as these. I believe we of Indianapolis have every reason to be proud of the record of our police force and I wish to take this opportunity to extend congratulations through you to Detectives Sneed and Trabue and Patrolman Carter, who made the arrest and to any others who may have been personally concerned therein, as well as to the department itself."

Give Money for Smock Family.

Employes of the American Railway Express Company, through C. W. Latimer, agent in charge, and Miss Winifred Murphy, today collected $52 in the company's office for the use of the family of Hugh Smock, 420 Bank avenue. Mr. Smock is the stepfather and Mrs. Smock the mother of Martha Huff, victim of William Ray.

CAPPER AGAIN OPENS GUNS ON PROFITEERS

alone during the war the gross income of American corporations rose from thirty-five and one-third billions to eighty-four and one-half billions. He read to the senate a long list of corporations whose profits were placed at anywhere from 20 to 200 per cent.

Wall Street Melon Patches.

"Wall street's melon patches," he declared, "continue to be warmed by the sun of privilege, fertilized by the perspiration of labor, and watered by the tears of poverty, and this year will raise a record breaking crop free from the blight of income taxes, while the people are being urged to buy their coal early and be robbed for less, to abstain from steak one day a week, and to purchase War Savings stamps that the United States may live in nine billion style on a six billion income.

"At this moment the most brazen challenge we have had in this saturnalia of greed comes from the gamblers in sugar. A corner has evidently been formed right under the eyes of the department of justice. The canning season raid is on. For years the sugar interests have annually and openly and shamelessly robbed American housewives during the canning season."

After reviewing the activities of flour, sugar and cotton mills, the recent supreme court decision holding stock dividends untaxable, and the department of justice's campaign urging use of the "cheaper cuts" of meat—which he condemned—Senator Capper presented a list of corporations whose earning, he said, were proof of profiteering, "open, flagrant, scandalous."

Lists Earnings.

The list with the percentage of earnings, as given by Senator Capper, included:

"Continental Oil, 200 per cent.; United Fuel Gas, 200 per cent.; Ohio Fuel Supply, 100 per cent.; Nonquit Spinning Company, 100 per cent.; Amoskeag Cotton Manufacturing Company, 100 per cent.; Stutz Motors, 100 per cent.; Nashau Manufacturing Company, 100 per cent.; American Tobacco Securities Company, 75 per cent.; Manomet Mills, 66 2-5 per cent.; Hood Rubber, 66 2-3 per cent.; Crucible Steel, 50 per cent.; Cleveland Akron Bag, 50 per cent.; Union Bag and Paper, 50 per cent.; Auto Car Company, 40 per cent.; John R. Thompson Company, 33 1-3 per cent.; St. Maurice Paper Company, 30 per cent.; F. W. Woolworth, 30 per cent.; Electric Welding of Boston, 25 per cent.; Delaware and Cleveland, 25 per cent.; Hawaiian Pineapple Company, 25 per cent.; Electric Welding Company, 25 per cent.; General Chemical, 20 per cent.; American Multigraph, 20 per cent.; Truscan Steel, 20 per cent.

"The Standard Oil Company of Indiana," the senator continued, "has recently increased its capital from $1,000,000 to $30,000,000 giving its stockholders a stock dividend of 2,900 per cent.

Candy Company Earnings.

"The National Candy Company's earnings last year showed an increase of 545 per cent. over 1915; Burns Brothers, the largest retail coal dealers in the United States, made a net profit of 40 cents a ton, against 23½ cents in 1916; the earnings of the United Drug Company, doing a business of $50,000,000 annually, were 242 per cent. greater than 1916; the American Ice Company, which cuts ice by the millions, but not profits, has in the last four years increased its earnings 283 per cent.; the International Cotton Company, doing nearly $8,000,000 worth of business last year, made 39 per cent. more money, although it sold 20 per cent. fewer goods; the Pacific mills' output of cotton and worsted dress goods produced 34 per cent. more profit than in the year before the war, and the excess profits surplus of United States Steel—the surplus remaining after dividends—has aggregated nearly $500,000,000 in the last five years, although $315,000,000 was spent on improvements."

Attacks Bonus Sales Tax.

"These patriotic melon raisers who have made their millions and billions during and since the war," said Senator Capper, "now are urging that the soldiers' bonus be raised by a 1 per cent. tax on sales to be paid on every dollar spent by every man, woman and child in the country, including the ex-service men themselves. Mr. President, I shall favor placing this tax right where it belongs—on war profits—and taking from these huge stock dividends, from excess war profits, and from the profiteers all that is needful to compensate the men who sacrificed themselves instead of their country or their countrymen, in time of war.

"During the coal strike, while zero cold and privation threatened the people, the price of crude oil shot up nearly 300 per cent. and still is rising.

"The tobacco products corporation has a dividend balance showing a rise of 1,547 per cent. over its 1914 profits.

"The General Cigar Company, which in 1906 acquired the property and business of the old United Cigar Company, amassed a net income of nearly 34 cents on each dollar of its sales in 1917, and in 1919 this had grown to almost 38 cents.

"Other upholders of government and befrienders of the poor are the American Hide and Leather Company, whose profits for 1919 were more than three and a half times larger than those it gained in 1914; the Central Leather Company, whose 1919 profits more than double those of the same months in 1918, and the Endicott Johnson Shoe Manufacture Corporation, whose profits rose from $2,114,430 in 1915 to $9,791,580 in 1919.

Farmers Not Profiteers.

"Despite these swollen profits the public is being warned that shoes are going to cost more instead of less.

"For four years wheat farmers, as a whole, have little more than broken even. But the net profits of the fifteen plants of the Standard Milling Company have been increased 100 per cent., but not because of increased wages and taxes.

"The humble banana, controlled by the United Fruit Company with its fleet of twenty-three ships, has become a kingly profiteer. Its net earnings for fifteen months, ending December last, equalled 40 per cent. on $50,000,000 of stock outstanding.

"Our greatest industry—agriculture, tied hand and foot—has been made the helpless victim of speculators and profiteers.

"It is wrong to assume because extravagance flaunts itself in our cities that plenty exists in all the homes of the land. People who have never known want or privation are living today in tents instead of homes; thousands of men, women and children are compelled to do without necessary shoes and clothing, if not fuel, and certain articles of food.

"The need of drastic action by governmental agencies in the enforcement of the laws we now have has been increasingly evident for months. We already have laws against profiteering. If those charged with enforcement of these laws will see that the profit hogs are sent to jail prices will soon tumble."

tumn that if I were elected a delegate to Chicago and he cared to have me do so, I would be very glad to present his name to the convention, and I need hardly say that this is a promise which I intend to fulfill if the Governor so desires."

Crane and Gillett.

Crane and Gillette have, within the last few days, also said that if Coolidge should be a candidate they would support him.

But as far as anybody can learn, Governor Coolidge has no thought of putting himself in the attitude of being a candidate. The prevailing view here is that it is too late for him to enter the race and expect the state delegation to be for him. One hears talk here to the effect that Senator Lodge believes the lightning might strike in his neighborhood. It seems that a few of his admirers have been putting the idea into his head; they have been telling that he is to have the nomination as a reward for his work on the treaty with Germany. No one outside a small coterie of Lodge admirers is taking such talk seriously. Theodore Roosevelt tried to make Lodge the candidate four years ago, and soon learned that there were too many objections to be overcome.

New England wishes a change at Washington. It would like to see a clean sweep next November, a sweep that would not only put a Republican in the White House but would also retire many of the United States senators and representatives.

Conservative at Heart.

This part of the country is conservative at heart. Extreme radicalism is to be found in the industrial centers, but it is far from being representative of the dominating thought and purpose of New England. If there shall be any question at Chicago as to whether the Republican party shall cater to Socialism or Communism under the guise of Socialism there will be no doubt about where the New England delegates will stand.

The safest guides in the Republican party up here were greatly impressed with the warning issued by Edward C. Stokes, former Governor of New Jersey and chairman of the Jersey state committee, this week that Socialism and Communism loom large as a public menace and that the Republican party must be on its guard lest it fall into the hands of men who are preaching the new doctrine.

STATE AND FEDERAL ACTION ON SUFFRAGE

THREE OPINIONS ON LEGAL EFFECT OF AMENDMENT.

VIEWS OF HUGHES QUOTED

By Ida Husted Harper.

The attorney-general of Massachusetts comes to the fore this week with the ruling that its women can not vote even after the federal suffrage amendment is fully ratified until the state constitution is amended or an act is passed by the congress definitely conferring the suffrage on women. If there were any legal precedent or authority for such a ruling Massachusetts women would be in an unfortunate situation, having to stand back and see those of forty-seven states marching to the ballot box next November while they alone awaited the pleasure of the legislature and the individual men of their state, or the members of the congress, who would be entirely too busy in the campaign to remain in Washington and put a bill through both houses and up to the President merely to uphold the opinion of the attorney-general of Massachusetts. He should reach a hand across the border to Governor Clements, of Vermont, and say: "Shake; we have discovered a constitutional mare's nest which has escaped the attention of every other Governor and attorney-general in the United States!" If the constitutions of the various states still would have to be amended, where was the necessity of a federal amendment? The suffragists made the long struggle for it in order to avoid the labor, expense and delay of state campaigns, and this fact was universally recognized. In Massachusetts a state amendment has to pass two successive legislatures and then go to the voters. They could not possibly get this one before November, 1922, and women thus would be barred from the election at which Senator Lodge or possibly some one of his choosing would be a candidate. Nothing would give the "antis" so much pleasure, but it is not to be—the attorney-general will have to guess again.

All That Is Claimed for It.

In his opinion he makes this very illogical assertion if his ruling is correct: "In general the states may confer the right to vote as they see fit; only since the fifteenth amendment was adopted they may not deny the right to a man merely because he is black. If the proposed amendment is ratified they may not deny it to women merely because they are women." Certainly; this is all that is claimed for it. Its advocates have pointed out thousands—or rather millions—of times that this federal amendment left every state entirely free to impose any requirements for the exercise of the suffrage that it pleased, but they must apply them to women the same as to men. It reads as follows:

"Resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled (two-thirds of each house concurring therein), That the following article be proposed to the legislatures of the several states as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which, when ratified by three-fourths of the said legislatures, shall be valid as part of said Constitution, namely:

"ARTICLE

"Section 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex.

"Sec. 2. The congress shall have power, by appropriate legislation, to enforce the provisions of this article."

Clear and Explicit Declaration.

There is no excuse for trying to obscure this clear and explicit declaration by legal interpretations. It asserts emphatically that "when ratified by three-fourths of the legislatures of the several states it shall be valid as part of the Constitution of the United States." This should end all talk of a referendum of either the ratification or the amendment itself to the voters. It declares that the "congress shall have power to enforce its provisions," but does not give the congress authority for any other action on it. The opinion that, after it has been declared definitely by the secretary of state to be a valid part of the federal Constitution the congress must keep on tinkering with it before it becomes effective is an absurdity. If any state should refuse to observe the provisions of the amendment the congress can make use of the federal authorities to enforce them, but beyond this it has no cause for action and all state authorities are without jurisidiction.

No Basis for the Contention.

There is even less basis for the contention that state constitutions must be changed to conform with this federal amendment. They could be changed only by amending them, and this would require the whole long process of one or two sessions of the legislature, a campaign and an election, consuming at least two years' time. Suppose the voters refused to change the constitution, what then? No state constitution is permitted to conflict with the federal Constitution, so this contention, as made by Governor Clement, for instance, is also reduced to an absurdity. When the fifteenth amendment was adopted, no change of any state constitution was necessary to enable negro men to vote. The word "white," as a qualification for voting, was taken out of some of them from time to time, as they were being changed in other ways, but in others it remains to this day. It was voted out of the Oregon constitution only two or three years ago. When a new constitution was submitted in Ohio in 1912, one clause in it provided for woman suffrage and one for eliminating the word "white." Both were defeated by overwhelming majorities, the latter receiving more negative votes than the former; so the Ohio constitution still limits the franchise to "white, male citizens," but the colored male citizens go right on voting under the fifteenth amendment to the federal Constitution, just as they have been doing without the slightest hindrance for the past fifty years. In view of this precedent, what possible ground can there be for holding that further action will be necessary to make effective the woman suffrage amendment?

Tennessee Attorney-General's Opinion

Frank M. Thompson, attorney-general of Tennessee, also has given an opinion on this question, saying that "under the rules and holdings of the supreme court of the United States this woman suffrage amendment will ex propria vigore (by its own force) eliminate the words 'male citizens' in the constitution of every state in the union and permit every citizen, whether male or female, to vote, subject alone to such conditions as to qualifications as the states prescribe which do not pertain to sex." He bases his conclusion on many decisions of the United States supreme court in regard to federal amendments and says: "So far as Tennessee is concerned, this new amendment will require neither constitutional changes nor an extra session nor even additional legislation for assessing a poll tax on women." However, all minor opinions seem unnecessary after that of Charles E. Hughes, former justice of the supreme court, given at the request of Mrs. Chapman Catt, president of the National Suffrage Association. He wrote: "If the amendment is duly ratified so as to become a part of the federal Constitution, I am of the opinion that it will be immediately self-executing, and will render invalid and therefore ineffective any existing provisions in any state constitution or statute establishing a suffrage disqualification solely on the ground of sex. Where either contains the word 'male' in describing suffrage qualifications the effect of the federal amendment will be to strike it out and leave the constitution or statute to operate as though the word 'male' was not in it."

Wish Father to the Thought.

With the anti-suffragists the wish is father to the thought that after the amendment is officially adopted long litigation may be placed in the way of its becoming operative. Unless a decision of the United States supreme court shall declare unconstitutional the Ohio law, requiring that the ratification of a federal amendment by its legislature must be approved by a majority of the voters, it will be advisable to have thirty-seven states ratify it, so that Ohio need not be counted. Then as soon as the secretary of state announces it to be incorporated in the federal Constitution the women of the entire United States are at once enfranchised on the same terms as men. In other words, universal suffrage will be established forevermore and this will be a genuine republic.

Suffrage Action in Nebraska.

The men of Nebraska are determined that the women of that state shall vote regardless of what happens to the federal amendment. Three years ago the legislature gave them all the suffrage that it had the power to bestow—the presidential, county and municipal. The liquor interests immediately took advantage of the initiative and referendum in order to get this new law before the voters, where by methods which they knew how to employ they could get rid of it. The petitions were filed by the president of the Women's Anti-Suffrage Association. The suffragists carried them through the courts up to the state supreme court and in each they were thrown out because of fraud, and the "antis" were left with more than $5,000 costs to pay. Then a convention met to make a new constitution and included in it the complete enfranchisement of women. This will go to the electors in September, and in order to insure the success of this clause the convention made use of the power delegated to it by the legislature and provided that women should vote on the Constitution and that this especial clause should go into effect as soon as it was adopted, the others not till January 1.

magnitudes, brass bands and vaudeville comedians, out to contribute a little "jazz" to the occasion.

Stores Break Prices.

The power behind the overalls and patches movement in New York was strikingly emphasized along the line of march by posters in clothing store windows inviting the public to come in and buy at prices from $5 to $20 lower than those that prevailed last week, posters that emphasized among other phrases the line "Why wear overalls?"

More than a score of large stores have advertised price reductions in the newspapers, and A. W. Riley, head of the department of justice's "flying squadron," which has been doing missionary work among dealers here, predicts that the number will increase rapidly.

The line of march took the paraders down Eighth avenue from Columbus circle to West Twenty-third, through West Twenty-third to Broadway and back up Broadway to Columbus circle.

Kept Off Fifth Avenue.

Although Fifth avenue was barred to the paraders by city officials after a protest from merchants, who declared the parade would interfere with business, the word was passed among the marchers to wander down the avenue singly or in small groups after the parade, carrying the protest into the district where high priced clothes are made and sold. A mass meeting also was to be held after the parade, at which the foundation for a permanent organization of high price opponents was to be laid.

Cards were passed out to the marchers pledging them to inventory their sartorial possessions and plan their use so that only a minimum of new garments would have to be bought in 1920.

Students Wearing Khaki.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 24.—Khaki instead of overalls is the garment material chosen by Purdue students to fight the high cost of clothing. The sophomore class is leading in the campaign of protestation. The members of the class say they will wear no other kind of clothing until the prices come down.

more revenue by increasing car fares until it shall have obtained more revenue from the interurban companies for use of its tracks. He pointed out that although the interurban companies have obtained permission to collect greater fares, they have not been required to pay the city company more than in normal times.

Mr. Ashby and Mr. Masson warmly opposed the attitude that the city's contract with the company was abrogated by the enactment of the public service commission law, as was contended by the company. Mr. Ashby pointed out that the order of the supreme court mandating the commission to hear the company's petition for emergency relief a year or so ago left it to the commission to determine the extent of the emergency. He believes the emergency will be at an end when it can be shown that the company can operate with profit under the franchise fare agreement.

Railway Commissioner Question.

The question of a street railway commissioner and the possibility that he might draw the operation of the railway system deeper into politics bobbed up again at the hearing today. Commissioner Glenn Van Auken and F. B. Johnson displayed a keen interest in this phase of the problem, as well as in the question of whether the railway company should be expected to pay for the services of the city-appointed railway commissioner, who is to "have invasion powers" into the company's affairs on behalf of the city.

Mr. Ashby expressed the opinion that the commissioner would save more than his salary by the efficiency of operation he would bring about, and that the city has the right to know whether the plan is being carried out in a proper manner.

ARMENIA IS RECOGNIZED.

United States Acts Toward New Near East Republic.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Armenia was formally recognized today as an independent republic by the United States.

Similar action has been decided on by the allied conference at San Remo. The American recognition was in the form of a note addressed by Secretary Colby to Mr. Pasdermadjian, Washington representative of the Armenian republic. Note of the recognition also was communicated formally to the diplomatic corps abroad and to the allied conference in Italy.

This recognition makes no attempt to establish boundaries for the new republic. This is left to be determined later by international action.

Secretary Colby today said that no decision had been made regarding a diplomatic representative to be sent to Armenia from the United States.

AGREE ON ATTITUDE TO ENFORCE PEACE TREATY

LLOYD GEORGE AND MILLER- AND IN ACCORD AT SAN REMO.

REVIEW GERMAN SITUATION

SAN REMO, April 24 (by the Associated Press).—A complete agreement with respect to the attitude the allies shall adopt toward Germany in connection with the carrying out of the peace treaty has been reached by Premier Lloyd George and Premier Millerand, it was announced here today.

The agreement was reached during a conference lasting three and a half hours between the two premiers. The French premier left the conference room delighted with the outcome. Premier Lloyd George said:

"Everything is most satisfactory. A full agreement was reached in substance."

The American members of the reparations commission and Sir John Bradbury, the British member, arrived here today to give information to the supreme council respecting the possibilities of coal deliveries by Germany.

A consultation between Premiers Lloyd George and Millerand lasted two hours and was reported to have resulted in an agreement on the essential points concerning the questions of disarmament, reparations and common action by the allies with regard to Germany. This agreement, it is understood, will be submitted to the supreme council tomorrow.

The allies are reported to have decided to proceed as soon as possible to estimate the total amount to be demanded from Germany as reparation.

PREDICTS ASIA MINOR WAR.

Premier Nitti Severely Criticises Turkish Peace Treaty.

SAN REMO, April 24 (by the Associated Press).—"You will have war in Asia Minor, and Italy will not send a single soldier nor pay a single lire," said Signor Nitti, Italian premier, in an interview following a critical analysis by him of the Turkish peace treaty.

"You have taken from the Turks their sacred city of Adrianople," said Signor Nitti. "You have placed their capital city under foreign control; you have taken from them every port and the larger part of their territory. And the five Turkish delegates whom you will select will sign a treaty which will not have the sanction of the Turkish people or the Turkish parliament."

The board decided to waste no time on the alleged errors, and at once ordered readvertising of the plans and specifications. Since opposition to the sewer contract has developed here recently, it is probable that suits will be started to prevent a contract being let until there is a reassessment of the property affected. Mr. Graff called attention in his letter to the fact that the schools have always welcomed the opportunity to promote true Americanism and patriotic citizenship and he suggested that programs be arranged with the view to instruction in the national ideals of freedom and justice. Swift delivered in 1916 before the Indiana Historical Association, and also to the Americanism resolutions passed by the Rotary clubs recently at the Eleventh district conference at Ft. Wayne.

It was announced recently that the consolidation would take place on May 1, but it is said that the announcement was premature and that more time will be required to complete the taking over of the local system by the Citizens Company. The consolidated exchange will be operated at the plant of the Citizens Company in South Seventh street, but the long-distance business of the Central Union will continue in Ohio street, near Seventh.

VINCENNES—Judging by an announcement by the Juvenile Manufacturing Company to the effect that the working force would be increased from 50 to 200, in the next few weeks, the American made toy is rapidly taking the place of the "made in Germany" toy. This concern is expecting to do about $750,000 worth of business between now and fall. Toys of all kinds, especially of the wooden variety, are made at this plant. One Chicago firm alone sent in an order for $40,000 worth of toys. According to Harry B. Marsh, superintendent and general manager of the concern, the toy industry, although new to the American people, represents $80,000,000 to the American producer. Mr. Marsh says that prior to the war with Germany 70 per cent of all the toys bought for the pleasure of American children were imported. Since then most of the toys have been made in America....Because of the uncertainty of obtaining coal from the Kentucky fields suitable for the manufacture of gas the Central States Gas Company, which has been handicapped recently because of the coal situation, is placing a $70,000 water gas machine which makes gas from oil. The oil will be obtained from the Illinois oil fields.

Not to Buy License Tags.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 24.—Purdue University will not buy license tags for its motor trucks. The question was raised this week when a Purdue truck driver was arrested in West Lafayette for driving a truck without a license tag. The trial developed the fact that the truck was the property of the driver himself. The university officials told the court they would ask the state authorities for some kind of a marking device that would distinguish the university's trucks from privately owned vehicles.

A LESSON IN NATURAL HISTORY

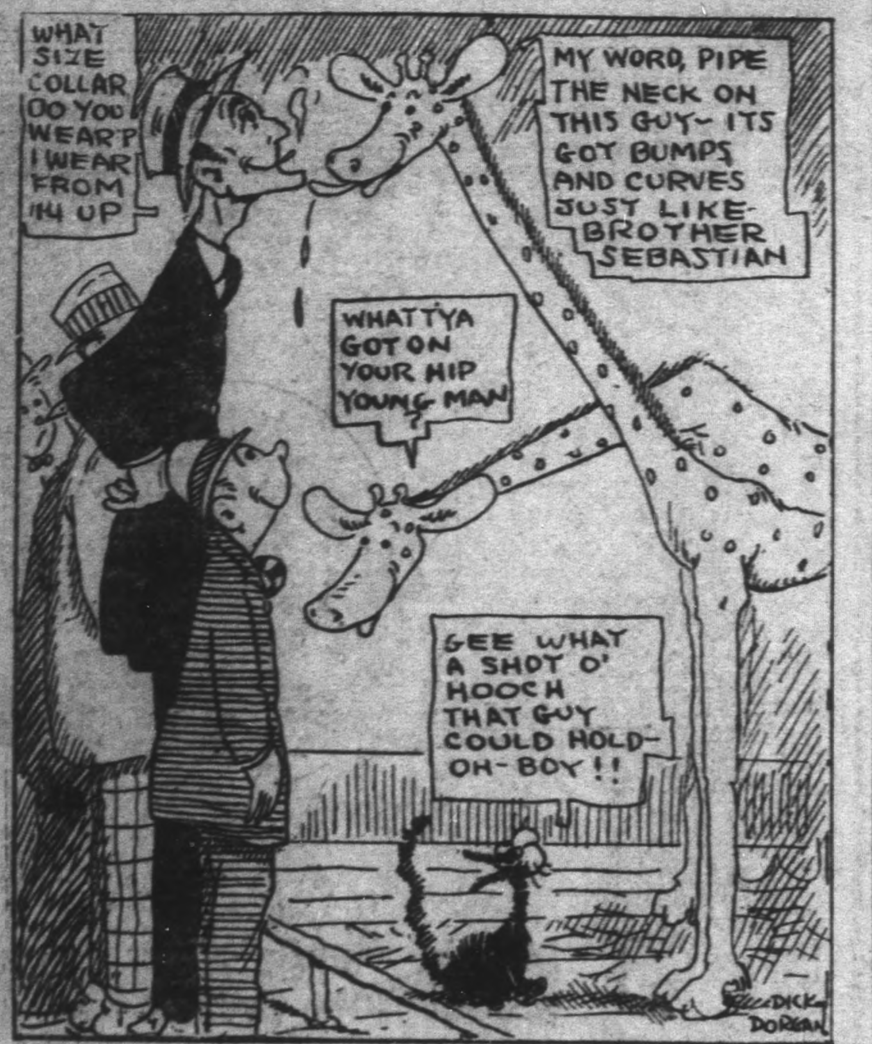
To the Editor:

Well, sir, since the last time I wrote an article for this paper I had a grand time the other night witch means in other words that I seen a circus in N. Y. city and I can't tell you the name of it on acct. of it being vs. the ethics of journalism to print anything free about circusses though baseball clubs witch is much funnier can be mentioned freely. But if I kind of hint that this circus is modestly called the greatest show on earth and that Madison Square garden is where I seen it, why maybe you can kind of guess witch circus this is.

Well they was about 10 of us in the party and needless to say we got in on a pass and for that reason I won't knock the circus except when I see fit. Well when we first got in mine host said that the first idear was to go and see the freaks though as a matter of fact we had plenty of them in our own party and I won't name them on acct. of giveing offense. Well we went into the freaks room and the first thing we run up vs. was my pals the giraffes who I can sympathize with because our necks is about the same distants and I was going to ask them where they bought their collars but several of the freaks in our own party kept shoveing us along so a person didn't have time to talk to nobody.

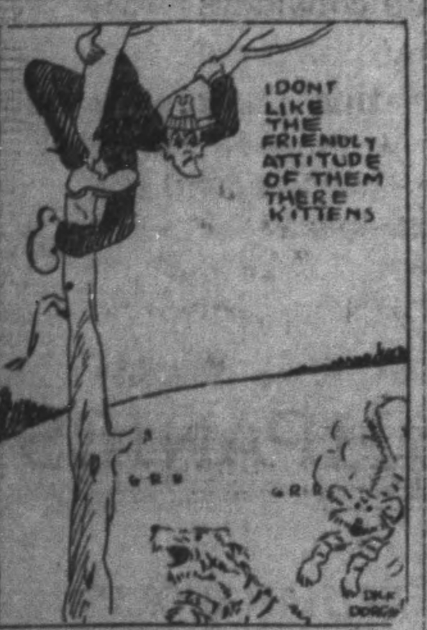
Bond of Sympathy With Giraffes.

Well they's very few of the freaks that I can remember who they was. Well one of them was Capt. Auger supposed to be the tallest giant in the world and several of our freaks kind of acted like they was afraid to go up close to him but I went right up and looked him in the eye because last July 4 I seen a giant pretty near as big and he didn't harm nobody except some of we girls that had a bet down on him. In passing I might make the remark that an Auger is a thing that bores, but in that respect he had nothing on the circus. Well I forgot to say a minute ago that I kind of resented haveing the giraffes parked in the freaks room because they have long necks and their tongues was all hanging out witch makes us synonymous or however you spell it.



WHAT SIZE COLLAR DO YOU WEAR? I WEAR FROM 14 UP
MY WORD, PIPE THE NECK ON THIS GUY— ITS GOT BUMPS AND CURVES JUST LIKE BROTHER SEBASTIAN
WHATTYA GOT ON YOUR HIP YOUNG MAN
GEE WHAT A SHOT O' HOOCH THAT GUY COULD HOLD— OH-BOY!!
DICK DORGAN

"WE RUN UP VS. THE GIRAFFES, WHO I SYMPATHIZE WITH BECAUSE OUR NECKS IS ABOUT THE SAME DISTANCE"



I DONT LIKE THE FRIENDLY ATTITUDE OF THEM THERE KITTENS
DICK DORGAN

"I shall never sit in a tree or hang around the crossing of a nullah."

One of the other freaks I remember is a girl they called the half-lady and in the 1st. place I don't see why they classify her as a freak because they's so many of them running around loose. This gal however was cut off in the middle and I don't know if she is getting a good salary but at lease she don't half to buy shoes because that's the ½ that isn't at the circus. Right close to the ½ lady was a man that his head was so small that they couldn't be no parking space for brains in it and I wondered why they had him in the freaks room, too.

Well, that's enough about the freaks that wasn't in our party and then we went into the circus and they set me next to the man that wrote "Queed" and I won't mention his name because its vs. ethics to mention anybody, and pretty soon the 2 of us put each other to sleep talking but finely he wokened up and said if you don't like the circus read the program because it's a whole lot better, so I begin reading the program and here is a few of the things I found out witch should be of interest as they are matters of education:

The first article is about the lion. "This lordly animal," says the program, "is distinguished by his majestic bearing, as well as color and size. The head is square, the forehead high. The breast is broad, he air haughty; therefore he has been appropriately called King of the Beasts." Well, you might of knew before that he was the King of the Beasts, but did you ever now before that he air haughty?

Use for Hippopotamus.

Well the next article is about the hippopotamus and I wouldn't even mention that bird in this article only it says way down in the article that "the tusks of the hippopotamus, or River Horse, are very solid and compact, admirably adapted for making delicate philosophical apparatus and articles of dentistry." So the guy that wrote "Queed" and myself decided that 1 of these days we will go out and buy the tusks of the River Horse and make a few philosophical apparatus and see what happens.

The next article is about the royal Bengal tiger.

"Of all rapacious animals, the tiger is the most formidable, as in its ferocious nature, strength, bloodthirstiness and cruelty are found united cigar stores. It climbs up trees with great facility. The localities most frequented by it are the cross-around the crossing of a nullah."

"Well," I said to my seat neighbor as I nicknamed him, "after this I shall never sit in a tree or hang around the crossing of a nulluh."

"Neither will I," said my seat neighbor.

The next article is about the elephant as they call him.

"The elephant enjoys the sense of smelling in such perfection that if several people be standing around him, he will discover food in the pocket of any one present and take it out by his proboscis with great dexterity."

"Well," I said to my seat neighbor, "let's never go to a circus again with spaghetti in our pockets or something on the hip."

The next article is about the giraffe.

"Giraffes once acclimated eat hay, meal and are inordinately fond of mulberry leaves."

Well, I ast my neighbor if he had any mulberry leaves in his pocket and he said no, and we thought the giraffes would probably get sore and kind of resent it in some way, so I said let's walk out on the circus and he said yes, and I could tell you a whole lot more about the human performers and their history out of the program but I don't want to be Capt. Auger and bore anybody to death.

Sincerely,
RING W. LARDNER.

FOUND NOT GUILTY OF OVERCHARGING CLIENT

C. W. ROLLINSON, ATTORNEY, TRIED BY SPECIAL JUDGE.

FEE OF $1,000 WAS PAID

Charles W. Rollinson, an attorney, was discharged by Charles A. Cox, special judge in city court Friday afternoon when he was found not guilty of a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. The finding followed a hearing that lasted most of the afternoon.

Rollinson was arrested last week after Harry Parsons, proprietor of a garage, had filed an affidavit in city court, charging that Rollinson had obtained $1,000 from him through false representations as to his ability to bring about Parsons's discharge on charges of receiving stolen automobiles.

Parsons, testifying at the hearing, said Rollinson had told him he could "get him discharged in the city court if he would pay him $200.00 He said Rollinson later said more money was necessary, and, after Parsons and his brother, Benton Parsons, had been bound over to the grand jury in city court, Rollinson told him a man named Bensinger, living at Jeffersonville, was preparing to spend $2,000 in an effort to cause Parsons to be convicted. Rollinson then told him he would require $500 more to handle his case. Parsons said he obtained this sum by mortgaging some of his belongings and paid it to Rollinson. He said Rollinson told him positively he could get him cleared of the charges against him. Rollinson told him, Parsons said, that he, Judge Walter Pritchard, of the city court, and Ralph Spann, deputy prosecuting attorney in city court, were close friends.

Bensinger Denies Story.

Clifford Bensinger, of Jeffersonville, testifying as a state's witness, said he had not told Rollinson anything about having a check for $2,000 to spend in shifting the blame for automobile thefts to Parsons. Benton Parsons testified that on one occasion when he went to Rollinson's office with his brother, Rollinson said something about a check for $2,000. Harry Parsons had testified that Rollinson told him he had seen a certified check for $2,000 made out by Bensinger to use against Parsons in the case in which Parsons had been indicted.

Rollinson testified that Parsons came to his office after a mutual friend had arranged a conference between them. He said Parsons told him of the charge of receiving stolen goods that had been made against him and asked him to act as his attorney. Rollinson said they agreed on a fee of $200, but later on the same day Parsons came to his office and said he had forgotten to mention the fact that he had signed a confession before detectives, admitting the charges against him. Parsons then suggested that the attorney defend him and his brother throughout the proceedings against them for a fee of $500 each. They agreed on this fee, Rollinson said. Later when Parsons had difficulty in paying the fee, Rollinson aided him in borrowing money on a chattel mortgage, the lawyer said.

Many Conferences Held.

Rollinson said Parsons told him he was a friend of Mayor Jewett and the mayor would help him. He testified that he talked with the mayor, who said he believed Parsons innocent. Rollinson said he had several conferences, he represented the Parsons brothers in city court and appeared for Harry Parsons when he was arraigned in criminal court and discussed the case many times with Harry Parsons. He said he was prepared, for the fee that had been paid him, to represent the brothers to the finish of their cases, taking the cases to the supreme court, if necessary.

"In March, Mayor Jewett called me up and said I had charged Parsons too large a fee," Rollinson testified. "I told him I did not allow the mayor of Indianapolis nor the President of the United States to say what fees I should charge. Parsons came to me and said he had learned he would not get a fair deal before Judge Collins in criminal court if I appeared as his lawyer. I told him I did not believe Judge Collins had said that, but if he had we would take a change of venue from the judge. Parsons later demanded that I give him back the money he had paid me and I refused."

Stenographer Testifies.

Mrs. Bessie Myers, a stenographer in the office of Rollinson, testified that Parsons told her Mayor Jewett had said he and Judge Collins would "get together and turn him loose" if he would discharge Rollinson as his attorney.

Judge Pritchard testified that a number of persons came to him after Parsons had been arrested, explaining that Parsons was a Shriner and bore a good reputation, and suggesting that his discharge would be the proper thing for the court to do.

INSTALLING OF OFFICERS CLOSES D. A. R. CONGRESS

Indiana Gifts to Library Announced—Numerous Social Events for Hoosier Daughters.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Installation of the new officers elected Thursday brought the twenty-ninth annual continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution to a close today. New business occupied the time of the delegates at the morning session. A majority of the delegates were to start for their homes tonight.

Indiana gave $50 to the library in honor of Mrs. James Fowler, of Lafayette, retiring librarian-general. Mrs. Alice Ross, of Crawfordsville, made the presentation speech. Mrs. Fowler herself gave $100 to the library, being the third gift of a like amount during her term of office. Caroline Scott Harrison chapter, Indianapolis, gave $100 to the Tomasse Mountaineer School in North Carolina. Mrs. Wilbur Johnson, regent, made the presentation speech.

A resolution offered by Ohio was indorsed by the congress for the raising of money to build a dormitory at Oxford College in memory of Caroline Scott Harrison, first resident-general and a daughter of Indiana.

At Mt. Vernon, Friday afternoon, a tree from Yorktown was planted near the tomb of Washington. Each state regent deposited at its roots some earth from her native state. Mrs. Frank Felter, of Huntington, Indiana regent, gave the honor of emptying the vessel containing Indiana soil to Bobbie Wasmuth, a page in the senate and son of Republican State Chairman Wasmuth.

PLAN TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT

National Society Delegates Favor Work Among Children.

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—Problems confronting the national tuberculosis association in its proposed nationwide campaign for prevention and eradication of tuberculosis were considered at the final session of the convention here today.

Malnutrition among children, it was declared, was largely responsible for the prevalence of tuberculosis and delegates urged that efforts be made to carry on child welfare work on as wide a scale as possible.

Joseph Herzstein, of Troy, N. Y., advocated more effective control of such children's diseases as measles, scarlet fever and diphtheria to stave off development of tuberculosis susceptibles.

Health crusades are indispensable in child welfare work, Miss M. Grace Osborne, of New York, said. The crusades, which are campaigns of education, she continued, bring the children as well as adults to a realization of the value of proper care of the body.

Resolutions asking that the government provide money for the treatment of former service men afflicted with tuberculosis were adopted.

Officers elected were: President, Gerald B. Webb, Colorado Springs, Colo.; vice-presidents, Philip King Brown, San Francisco; James A Miller, New York; secretary, George M. Kober, Washington; treasurer, Henry B. Platt, New York; honorary vice-president, former Surgeon-General William C. Gorgas, Washington.

HITCHCOCK WITHDRAWS AS DEMOCRATIC LEADER

ACTION MEANS UNDERWOOD AS MINORITY CHOICE.

LONG DEADLOCK IS BROKEN

WASHINGTON, April 24.—As a result of the withdrawal of Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, from the contest for the Democratic leadership in the senate, it was believed generally among party leaders today that the selection of Senator Underwood, of Alabama, for the post would be unopposed when the Democratic conference is held Tuesday night. Senators Hitchcock and Underwood were the only candidates, and the race was so close that a deadlock existed for several months.

The Nebraska senator announced his decision to withdraw last night, in a letter to the members of his party in the senate. He wrote that his withdrawal would conduce to party harmony, and would accord with his individual plans, which would not permit him during the remainder of the year to assume the work of minority leader. Friends explained that he expected to be away from Washington at frequent intervals during the summer.

Writes Letter to Senators.

"I now desire to terminate this deadlock," wrote Hitchcock, "and hereby withdraw my name from the contest. This will conduce to Democratic harmony and will accord with my individual plans, which will not permit me during the remainder of the year to undertake such continuous service in the senate as I have had during the last twelve months.

"The year during which I have acted as Democratic leader has been one of responsibility and difficulty, but one of pleasure also, because of the consideration shown me by party colleagues, whether they agreed with me or not."

The withdrawal of the Nebraska senator caused surprise in political circles here. He has been the administration leader throughout the long peace treaty fight and it was explicitly declared at the White House and by Senator Underwood that, irrespective of the outcome of the election for leadership, he would continue as the administration spokesman should the treaty fight be renewed.

What We Think of It

A quaint comedy-drama of smiles and heart throbs.

A simple, human story that touches the sentiment and reality of every one's life.

Like a stroll in an old-fashioned garden after the noise and dust of city streets.

Mingles sunshine and tears, and reveals the rainbow in the sky of life's hopes.

A quaint picture of an old-fashioned love affair, fragrant as old rose leaves and precious as faint memories.

A comedy of sunbeams and moonbeams, of youth and old age, and of romance and enduring love.

Dispels with bright hope the tears and fears of old age as the mists of morning vanish before the sun.

SENATOR JOHNSON

Whether Senator Johnson would help or hurt his cause by devoting a little of his time to the art of autobiography is a question that at least ought to interest him. He and his supporters in Indiana are very free with their opinions on public questions, but there is a good deal more to a man than his opinions. When he asks the people to raise him to the presidential office, his record, his political associates, and the influences behind him all become in the highest degree pertinent. It is very interesting to know that he does not like the league of nations—neither does Governor Catt, of Florida—and that his backer, O'Donnell, dislikes Mr. Hoover and hates England.

But it is much more interesting, and considerably more important to know that in California Johnson is being vehemently supported by the Hearst papers, and that on his delegate ticket in California are nine millionaires with a combined wealth of $150,000,000. A very interesting question is presented to the Republicans of Indiana, and that is whether they can be induced to make their party in this state a tail to the Hearst kite. The intimate and cordial relation between the senator and the editor is not new. On the contrary, Hearst has for years been a supporter of Johnson, who has served as his counsel.

The senator is also supported in California by the very men whom he denounced not long ago as representatives of the railroads and interests. One of these men is DeYoung, of the San Francisco Chronicle, of whom Johnson, as shown in an article in The News yesterday, once said: "When there is a city to be pillaged, when there is a man to be stabbed in the back, always lurking in the background can be found Michael Henri DeYoung." To another of his supporters, William H. Crocker, Johnson once paid the following tribute: "William Crocker, with his inherited Southern Pacific millions. There is not room for W. H. Crocker, M. H. DeYoung and myself in the same political house." DeYoung and Crocker are both of them on the list of Johnson delegates, the "political house" being now large enough to hold all three. The senator is also supported by the La Follette element, and he himself only a short time ago stood with La Follette and others of his way of thinking in support of government ownership of the railroads. In his recent speeches in this part of the country Johnson has objected to being classed as a radical. Perhaps, in view of his variegated support, it is not easy for him to tell just what he is.

There is no question as to the Hearst alliance. When the Hearst papers were excluded from England and France during the war because of highly improbable dispatches printed by them, they pirated their foreign news from the Associated Press. Johnson, then a member of the senate, defended the Hearst service in the United States supreme court. Hearst was, of course, opposed to the espionage bill, and so was Johnson, who also spoke against the censorship provisions of the measure. Whether the senator is a radical or not, he is certainly the Hearst candidate. It is not unfitting that the editor, who calls himself a Democrat, should support for the Republican nomination the man who in 1916 carried California by almost 300,000 plurality, while Hughes lost the state. It should be said further that in Nebraska Johnson was supported by Senator Norris, one of the few men in congress to vote against the declaration of war against Germany. We trust that the Republicans of Indiana will study this record.

MAY DAY

The first of May is the day set apart by tradition for the exaltation of the great unrest. Workers with an advanced case of spring fever are expected to turn out on May day in great numbers and start a rumpus. In some English villages the Maypole is still an honored institution, and among the French peasantry May dances continue to be the official means of celebration of the gladsome occasion; but in the cities, in the great industrial centers, and in general wherever men herd together largely for economic reasons, the day is understood to belong to the Socialists, the Reds, the anarchists and other queer gentry.

America has never accepted this radical May day idea. Now and then immigrants, unaccustomed to the ways of the country, have indulged in noisy outcries; and the Socialists have sought to carry out a program of disgust and protest, but never with any more success than permitted by the native American sense of humor. Now, however, the day promises to assume a new role. In many states, including Indiana, it has been officially proclaimed American day, a day on which Americans "may again demonstrate to the world that we are real Americans." Furthermore, the call is for a protest against radicalism in any form, but especially that kind flavored with Bolshevism.

It is unfortunate that Americans feel obliged to remind the world that they are still "real Americans." The country, however, is determined to show the radicals that they are in extremely bad odor. It will go so far as to make them stand on the curb and watch the Americans parade in honor of the day, thus reversing the custom of former times. This will go hard with the Reds, and many of them should be convinced that they compose a hopelessly weak minority, and had better join the "real Americans." The day should be observed by every one who wishes to show the world that he is a real American.

REED BEATEN

The Democratic convention of Missouri reflected great credit on itself when it voted to reject the selection of Senator Reed as district delegate to the national convention, and to return his name to the caucus that nominated him. The case against the senator was very strongly put by Frank Curlee, one of the delegates, who said that "Missouri has suffered long, and been patient, but her hour of vindication has struck." The speaker further said that "Senator Reed's political offenses antedated his opposition to the league of nations," and that by his course in the senate during the war he had "equivocated and condoned until he led the country to wonder whether Missouri was not more pro-German than pro-American." Senator Reed had, it was pointed out, opposed measures designed to help win the war. Curlee said:

> While I was in the United States army Senator Reed was in Washington opposing the food control act upon which I depended for food. * * * He had only hate for the President, hate for England, hate for humanity, hate for every one but the followers of his august personage.

The plea that the choice of Reed be concurred in for the sake of party harmony was easily disposed of by one of the women delegates, Mrs. W. W. Martin, who said:

> The most difficult problem the newly enfranchised Democratic women voters have is explaining Senator Reed. We can't explain how we can indorse the league of nations and then send to the national convention a man who is opposed to it. The women do not think it logical. You ask us to help you keep Missouri in the Democratic column. We can do it if you don't embarrass us with a handicap like Senator Reed.

It would be a fine sort of party harmony that would result from declaring for the league of nations and then sending to the national convention a man who had said that he would not be bound by such a declaration. If it becomes again necessary to draw the line, we trust that there will be no hesitation, and that it will in all cases be drawn as clearly and sharply as in Missouri. It looks very much as though there might have to be another sifting. That was the view of the Missouri convention which defeated Reed by a vote of 1,070 to 490. It was a good day's work.

THE PART-TIMER

According to a Chicago cartoonist, the bread line of a few years ago has its counterpart today in the 11 a. m. ticket line at vaudeville theaters. The night worker ought to be asleep at 11 a. m., and the day worker ought to be at work. This does not account for all workers by any means, but it has been found upon investigation that a great many able-bodied men seen loafing about amusement places at the busiest hour of the morning are highly paid wage earners taking a day off. They comprise the great army of part-timers, the people who take a day off once or twice a week because they can afford it, and do not fear the loss of a job.

Although the statistics show that the cost of living has advanced somewhat further than the wage scales, there are nevertheless a great many workers who find that they can live comfortably on the earnings of about four days in the week. Considering the workday as eight hours, this is thirty-two hours a week. It is in striking contrast with the days when a week's work in a factory was regarded as fifty-four hours and often as sixty hours. In those days the part-timer was almost unknown. He put in his week or lost his job, and when he worked he worked hard. It is no exaggeration to say that with improved machinery the worker of that day could double the weekly product of the worker of today.

There is no disposition to go back to long hours and killing work. It was then an economic necessity. Men had to do it to keep pace with the low margin of profit allowed by the fine balance of supply and demand. Idleness is costly. The man who does not produce, whether he has to work or not, is a burden on society. The immutable law is that when all work there is plenty for all; when few work there is plenty only for those who can pay. That law is now proving itself in the demonstrated fallacy of the labor demagogue's argument that the less produced the greater will be the wage. A good part of the prices now paid for necessary commodities is, in fact, tribute extorted by the part-timers.

THE ARMY COURTS

As a result of the popular feeling that the United States army courts are not suited to a wartime army, the senate has under consideration an amendment to the army reorganization bill designed to meet many of the objectionable features of the courts-martial. Samuel T. Anselm, formerly assistant judge advocate-general, who led the attack against the present system, has obtained recognition of some of his reforms in the proposed amendment. Civilian counsel may be demanded by the defendant, a sort of grand jury is provided for, sentences are reduced, the rules of evidence are changed and other features are suggested, all tending toward the complication of the present system in the interest of justice.

Even those who find many faults in the present system admit that in the hands of experienced officers it works well enough. War they maintain, brings many inexperienced officers into the army, and nowhere is their ignorance more costly than in the army courts. Therefore, they argue, the remedy is to place the army court out of danger of abuse in the hands of men who know nothing about its traditions and rules. The possibility that an admittedly workable system should be preserved rather than abandoned for an experiment, and that reserve officers should be trained to use it, is not considered in the senate amendment.

The civilian counsel feature is an interesting element in the amendment. If it goes through, the field army of the future will have to provide itself with a corp of civilian lawyers charged with the duty of holding themselves in readiness to answer the demand of indicted soldiers. That is a step toward a popular referendum on decisions and an echo of the senate's resentment over the fact that the American army in France somehow seemed to get along without daily advice from a senate committee. The drift, as indicated in this amendment, is toward a threefold army court system—one code for peace, one for a war army in process of training, and one for a war army in the theater of operations.

WOOD AND THE FARMER

Leonard Wood's page in the current issue of the Metropolitan magazine is devoted to the needs of the farmer. In speaking of his work in Cuba, General Wood says:

> In building up the republic of Cuba from the wreck of a war-worn Spanish colony, I turned my attention first to order and to agriculture as the foundations upon which the structure must rest. The returns were marvelous. We pushed forward agriculture as rapidly as possible. Taxation was suspended on all estates whose owners were attempting to put them under production. Farmers were furnished food, supplies and implements which enabled them to live on the farms and plant and harvest their crops. Animals were imported and issued to farmers on easy terms, securities being taken in the form of liens on property. Import duties on all agricultural and plantation supplies and machinery were reduced to merely nominal rates. The result was that in a very short time agriculture was in a most flourishing condition, and figuratively speaking, for every dime of outlay there was a dollar in return. The sugar crop jumped from 200,000 tons a year to nearly 1,200,000 tons in less than three years, and tobacco increased in proportion. The money received from crops was expended largely in rehabilitating the island. Revenues increased; peace and tranquility went hand in hand with advancing agriculture. Today the foundation of the prosperity of the island of Cuba rests squarely on its agriculture.

Knowing what agriculture did for Cuba and realizing what it means for this country, General Wood declared that the farmer must receive greater consideration and that his problems must be solved by those who have a practical knowledge of farm conditions. Now, he believes, is no time for untried theories. Some of his suggestions are better rural schools, better roads, more liberal credit in making loans, extensions of the farm bureau system, development of the campaign for better live stock and a general recognition that the time has come when the farmer needs something more than sympathy and a pat on the back.

The farmers may be looked on as the backbone of the nation. The government never has to worry about them, because it knows that the farmers will be ready for any emergency when called on. They were ready when war came. In the readjustment following war they have been hampered because of the labor shortage and because they have little to say about what they shall receive for their products. These and other conditions must be remedied, General Wood declares.

HIGH PRICE DYSPEPSIA

In condemning as merely freakish and wholly ineffective the popular attempt to reduce the price of clothing by the movement to wear overalls, the Philadelphia Public Ledger says:

> It is entirely true that when a failing supply and a rising demand send up prices, the cutting off of the demand will tend to cure the trouble quite as surely as the augmentation of the supply. But it is the poorest way to do it. The community which seeks this cure is like a man with the dyspepsia who seeks relief by abstaining from foods which give him discomfort. What he ought to do is to get a healthy stomach.

Undoubtedly what he ought to do is to get a healthy stomach, and the first step toward that end is to abstain from foods that give him discomfort. To persist in eating such foods aggravates the ailment. There is no hope of a cure until there is a change of diet. With a change of diet, however, nature may be able, without other aid, to relieve the patient, or if medicine is necessary that which is administered is more likely to effect a cure.

The body politic has been suffering for some time from a severe attack of high prices that all of the remedies thus far applied have failed to relieve. There are differences of opinion as to the cause, but there is no doubt that the effects are widespread unrest, resentment against the profiteers and a feeling by most people that most other people are making too much money.

That a shortage of material and labor—a condition that inhibits competition, which is the great balance wheel of commerce—is at the bottom of this unfortunate state of affairs there can be no doubt. As efforts at improvement by an increase of production have failed thus far, the alternative of effecting an improvement by a decrease of consumption would seem well worth trying. This evidently can not be done judiciously by boosting one manufacture at the expense of others, which would be the unfortunate effect of any really extensive wearing of overalls. But it can be done by judicious buying—that is, by using such articles, whether they be of apparel or other, as long as possible, and buying nothing that is not necessary to health, comfort and very modest pleasure. Thus production would have a chance to catch up with consumption. With this change in conditions, lower prices ought to result, with saner buying, which should put business on a firmer basis and be of great advantage to the general prosperity of the country. It is not an easy reform to bring about, but it should be possible if it can get leaders who are as earnest and enthusiastic as those of some much less important movements.

THE CITY'S GROWTH

The population of Indianapolis, according to the census figures given out last night, is 314,194, a gain of 24.5 per cent. in ten years, which is a very gratifying increase. In the last ten years some 80,000 people have come to Indianapolis to live.

While an official analysis of the source of the growth is not available, it is believed that fully 90 per cent. of the newcomers are American citizens, most of them Hoosiers, who have come to Indianapolis first to seek broader fields for their talents and second because it is a good, wholesome, solid city. There has been no mushroom expansion, no influx of floaters, no stream of foreign-born labor coming in faster than it can be assimilated. It is probable that no industrial city in America is less concerned with the problem of anchoring a drifting element composed largely of aliens, who know no English, and Americans, who cruise about, taking only wages from a city and giving no thought to the city as a home in return.

The growth is remarkable, but less so than the character of the new citizens. For the most part they are the kind of people who can be trusted to sense the solid traditions of the city and to carry its sane, conservative aspirations on another step toward realization. Their coming goes far toward proving the truth of claims that Indianapolis is destined to play an increasingly important part in the development of the middle west. They believe in the city or they would not come, and their faith is a precious asset. They, as well as those who have lived here much longer, will do well to make it count heavily in working out the problems involved in making the city first of all a city of homes.

Surveys made in many Indiana cities have shown that new houses are needed, that rental property is practically off the market, and that hundreds of new dwellings would be occupied at once if they were built. The situation in Indianapolis is typical. To let advertisements are rare, and any man who has a house to let is besieged by people, some of whom are willing to bid up the rental to an unusually high figure. Census figures reported thus far have shown general population increases, though a few Indiana towns have lost slightly. In one place a request for a recount is to be filed because it is said that many new homes have been built during the ten-year period, and yet there are no vacant houses. Some farm surveys show vacant houses, and there has been a considerable movement away from the rural districts. But decreases of population fail to counterbalance the increases and the house shortage in general.

The country must be prepared to see the Democratic convention at San Francisco nominate President Wilson for a third term, J. Hamilton Lewis, former senator from Illinois, told the convention.—Wichita dispatch.

And in the way of preparation what would you suggest, Jham?

It'll be a great help, too, when the society column reaches the point where it can announce that "the bridegroom wore the conventional overalls."

Now that Secretary Meredith has suggested that business men and college students help out on the farms during their vacation, maybe somebody will suggest that the railroad "vacationists," the dock "vacationists" and other similar "vacationists" could do something pro bono publico.

Even yet there are lots of us who are not nearly so apprehensive about an increase in the price of gasoline as an increase in the price of half-soles.

At that, the jail "mob" didn't make as much noise as a couple of "silent voters" off in a quiet corner by themselves.

Considering the large number of farmers who are in the cities helping out, the department of agriculture's scheme to induce city workers to spend their vacations helping the farmers ought to meet with great success.

One way to celebrate American day a week from today is to find out what precinct you live in.

Wood's Improving Chances

[New York Tribune]

The fact that Senator Johnson heads the list in Nebraska's Republican presidential preference primary is not likely to increase the chances of his nomination or to decrease the chances of General Wood.

In Nebraska, as in Michigan, Senator Johnson is not fortunate in the character of his support. In Michigan he was voted for by the elements which declared in 1916 for Henry Ford for the Presidency. In Nebraska he has the friendship of the pro-Germans, who are especially numerous in the state. Any one acquainted with the distribution of Nebraska's population will be struck in the returns with the Johnson strength in the German counties. To the help of pro-German irreconcilables the senator clearly owes his Nebraska victory.

The Republican national convention is not likely to be a body whose majority will vote for any candidate shouted for by radicals of a revolutionary or an extreme pacifist type. Nor is it likely to shower honors on the favorite of those who put Germany's interests first. Nor will the benison bestowed on Senator Johnson by William Randolph Hearst be an asset. William Hale Thompson, another conspicuous Johnson champion, may be strong in Chicago wards of large hyphenate population, but he is not as well thought of elsewhere.

Senator Johnson still represents himself as the true and lawful heir of the Roosevelt tradition. It is not easy to allow the claim, in view of the political company now seemingly welcome to this Roosevelt claimant. One can't exactly see Colonel Roosevelt, if alive, marching with the I. W. W. or the pro-Germans or with Hearst and Thompson. California's gifted son must be eager, indeed, to reach the White House or he scarcely would consent to the affiliations he now openly seeks.

But though there is small probability that Senator Johnson will gain the prize, the strength his candidacy has developed is impressive and there is being created a condition calling for a counter concentration. The outlook is that this concentration will be about Leonard Wood, whose friends, eschewing all combinations and dickers, are making an open and candid appeal to the people in all the states.

Crimean Children Ask to Be Permitted to Die

SEBASTOPOL, Crimea, April 24 (by the Associated Press).—Crimean children are living under frightful conditions and some welcome death as a relief from suffering, says an appeal sent to Colonel James A. Logan at Paris by Rear-Admiral Newton A. McCully, in command of American naval units in the Black sea. The appeal asks that some assistance be given in caring for little ones whose lives are in peril.

"Can not Russian children be included in the work of the American child relief fund?" Admiral McCully asks. "In Crimea there are 20,000 children in need. I today visited an orphanage where for the entire day the children had only bread and a tea made from apple peelings. Many are sick and a number showed fingers blackened with freezing during the extreme cold of the past winter. The children themselves asked to be allowed to die."

CONDEMNS COLORADO MOVE

Samuel Gompers Criticises Workers' Nonpartisan League.

DENVER, April 24.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, criticised the workers' nonpartisan league political movement in Colorado and took the local leaders to task for furthering a movement which he said bids fair to split labor's ranks in the presidential campaign, according to a letter made public today by John J. Listerman, secretary of the Pueblo branch of the league.

"Does this mean the soviet idea?" the letter asks in regard to a plank in the league platform declaring the purpose "is taking control of the lawmaking and administrative power of Colorado and administering that power in the interests of the heretofore always neglected working men and women."

The workers' league will hold a state convention May 1 and 2. Labor federation leaders have announced they will attempt to thwart any effort to put a third party in the field.

CASE AND COMMENT

Unity

Fellowship

There is, though many people fail to realize it, a fundamental unity on which all forms of unity depend, and one which every man can, if he will, create for himself. In the Bible it is spoken of as "the unity of the spirit." But whatever one calls it, it is an inward disposition or attitude, through which men are easily able to realize that they are "members one of another." That relationship is not limited to the church—it extends to society, and should control men in their social, political and domestic relations. There is a common life in which all share, and to which all should, according to their ability, contribute. There are obligations that rest on all, and it is only through a conscientious discharge of those obligations that the great unity can be brought to pass. The consciousness of this unity or fellowship ought to inspire men to serve, and the act of serving should and will strengthen the bond. All this is recognized in narrow circles, such as that of the family. What is needed is that men should widen the circle, and carry into the larger world that sense of loyalty to the general order which they show in the family relation. Though that is all that is necessary, it is a great deal, and the task is difficult. Loyalty to nation we can understand, but whenever a man begins to speak of loyalty to people of other nations, the separatists—who have been responsible for most of the wars—are greatly alarmed, or pretend to be, lest the world should drift, or be plunged into what they contemptuously call "a flabby internationalism." Of course this is very foolish, since nothing of the kind is meant. St. Paul was quite sure that God had "made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth," but he also said that God had determined "the bounds of their habitation." There is no conflict between a sound nationalism and the feeling of universal brotherhood. Whether we will it or not, we must work and sacrifice for men we have never seen. As "members one of another" we are dependent on one another. It would be a sad day for this country if the nationalism of Houston Stewart Chamberlain was ever fastened on it.

The General Good

The human race is, after all, a family. Those who fail to understand this are at least not Christians. But let us leave this phase of the subject out of the discussion, and think of the society in which we live and labor. Whether that shall be at unity with itself depends on the willingness of men to recognize the relation, to be true to it, and to sacrifice—if need be—their own interests to the general good. There is perhaps more of this willingness than we sometimes think, for much honest, conscientious work is done of which little note is taken. But looking out over the nation today, one can hardly say that the "members" are co-operating with one another for the upbuilding and lasting benefit of the whole organism—rather they are warring with one another, each determined to get all he can. The rich woman who says that she will spend her money as she pleases, and as much of it as she pleases; the profiteer who thinks only of gains and dividends, no matter how much others may suffer because of exorbitant prices; the laborer whose only thought is of a maximum of wages and a minimum of product—none of these can be said to have the remotest sense of social obligation. Of the nature of society and its needs, much less of its claims, they have no conception whatever. Many such people there are in America today. Some of them are greatly surprised and shocked at the unrest and disquiet that exist. What else could be expected? They are the result of disunity, and disunity itself is the result of the failure to recognize the sacredness of the social bond. Emulation, greed, covetousness and envy must be the characteristics of any society that is unable to claim the service, devotion and loyalty of its members. And where these are there are bound to be unrest, and a lack of unity. Rebuking the Corinthian Christians for their dissensions and schisms, St. Paul asked: "Is Christ divided?" What would be the answer to the question today? The remedy is within the reach of every man and woman. Men can not live solely to themselves without inflicting grievous injury on others.

Social Law

And that injury reacts on themselves—as when it brings the unrest which is so distressing to many of the very people who are responsible for it. It is fashionable to attribute present evils to those impersonal things which we call "conditions." But conditions are almost always of human creation. When men obey the great social law, which is co-operation, conditions are good; when they break it, they are bad. Breaking a social law necessarily entails social penalties. What men find it difficult to realize is that those penalties are visited, not solely on the offenders, but on all the members of society. Perhaps in the light of present experience it is not so hard to understand this as it once was. The rebel always expects to win, and often does win a great advantage, but he does not win it worthily, and in the end he always loses. Men can win by violating the statute law, but when they do this they are classed as criminals, and may be called on to answer for their crimes. It is quite as immoral, though it may not be a crime, and the state may be powerless to restrain, to trample on the social law. In both cases there is a disruption of unity and the result is a breaking of that peace which is the fruit of unity. The trouble is not to be found in the form of government or of the social organization, but in the nature of man—or of some men. If that is anti-social, or even non-social, it would interfere with the proper and smooth working of any political or social machinery that can be imagined, or dreamed of. But when men desire peace to such a degree that they are willing to work for it, and, if need be, to make sacrifices in its behalf, peace will come. It is really a matter of recognizing and being true to obligations the validity of which, in theory at least, all recognize. The call is the old one, the call of duty, which is and always has been unwelcome to the "natural" man. So, as has been said, it is necessary to cultivate an inward disposition and attitude that shall conform to external realities. Unity can not be manufactured, and is not the product of law. It must begin in the soul.

Peace

Spirit

It has been said that the "natural" man does not easily respond to the call of duty. Yet as society is natural, it ought to be natural for men to live peaceably together under its laws. There is a failure to understand what society is, and to see why or how it can have any claims on the individual that conflict with what he may conceive to be his rights. Clear teaching on this subject is one of the greatest needs of the hour. But more than this is required, for men often fail to act in accordance with their knowledge. On the contrary, they frequently in their conduct fall far below that level. Arnold puts these words, relating to the old Roman world, into the mouth of his favorite philosopher:

> Like ours it looked in outward air.
> Its head was clear and true,
> Sumptuous its clothing, rich its fare,
> No pause its action knew.
> Stout was its arm, each thew and bone
> Seemed puissant and alive—
> But, ah! its heart, its heart was stone,
> And so it could not thrive!

To this world the voice of the East spoke thus:

> "Poor world," she cried, "so deep accurst,
> That runn'st from pole to pole
> To seek a draught to slake thy thirst—
> Go seek it in thy soul!"

If materialities and luxury could save—could do anything else than destroy—the Roman empire would today be master of the world. Their destructive power, one may be sure, has not been weakened. So it is necessary always to emphasize the spiritual aspect of life, and to think of society as having a spiritual side. This it must have, since it is a combination or aggregation of human beings each one of whom is "a living soul." So to one who is longing for peace the advice—"Go seek it in thy soul"—is still good. This is "the peace that passeth understanding," and yet it has been won and enjoyed by many men and women, and is within the reach of all. True unity is quite impossible without it. Men tend to rely too largely on externals, and to think that in them alone can happiness be found.

Right Feeling

"Its heart was stone," and so "it could not thrive." That is, there must be right feeling, for if there is not the animal in man will assert itself, and convert society, which should be fine and true, into a veritable wolf pack. And there is always this danger, as history clearly shows. There is a maxim that is a great favorite in certain groups which is thoroughly sound—"each for all and all for each." The trouble is that it is held to apply only within the group. All outside are expected to look out for themselves under the same rule of life. The result is war between the groups. The principle ought to be extended so as to apply to that great group which we know as society. So far from bearing one another's burdens, very many men are today striving desperately to shift their own burdens to others. Unity and peace are impossible on any such terms. A recent writer in attempting to show how much of value there is in Christianity, even though many of the things that men have believed should have to be given up, cites the following from St. Peter as a sort of social program, and it is hard to see how there could be a better one:

> Finally, be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, love as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous: not rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing: but contrariwise blessing: knowing that ye are thereunto called, that ye should inherit a blessing. For he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile: let him eschew evil, and do good: let him seek peace, and ensue it.

A society whose "heart is stone" can not endure, and a society's heart is but the composite of the hearts of the men and women who make it up. Whitman put the same truth in another way when he said that what America most needed was "great personalities." Great personalities are never distressed, or feel themselves abused because they can not have motor cars, and never feel a sense of wrong because some one has more of this world's goods than they have. Each for all, all for each, and all for and in God—then there will be peace and unity, for the human relationships will be right, and will be loyally upheld and maintained. A little self-examination at the present time would be found individually and socially helpful.

Man

Happy is that man who, when he comes to die, can honestly feel that he has done nothing to impede the march of mankind toward its true goal, that he has been loyal to the whole of which he was a part, has borne even more than his share of the burdens of life, and has contributed as far as he could to the general good. Miserable, on the other hand, must be that man who, under the same condition, is conscious of having preyed on society even lawfully, fought solely for what he believed to be his own interests, and conceived of life as a battle in which the only prizes were wealth, fame or power. Even the world, in the long run, recognizes its benefactors, and it never counts those of the latter class among them. There are many things which we need today, but perhaps nothing is more needed than a recognition of the dignity and greatness of man as he was meant to be, and is capable of becoming. Whitman speaks of "the melancholy prudence of the abandonment of such a great being as a man is, to the toss and pallor of years of money-making, with all their scorching days and icy nights, and all their stifling deceits and underhand dodgings," which can result, after losing all the true joys of life, only in "the ghastly chatter of a death without serenity or majesty," and says that this "is the great fraud upon modern civilization and forethought." It is also an insult to the dignity of human nature. No society made up of such men as those referred to by the philosopher is worth saving—or capable of salvation. It can not even live at unity with itself. For its vices, greed, envy, materialism, and love of luxury are all divisive in their character. There is such a thing as holding "the faith in unity of spirit, in the bond of peace, and in righteousness of life." This unity and peace good men have striven for throughout all generations, and they have always had the faith that they would one day be realized. Perhaps they are worth thinking about in these times when so many men are looking for happiness where they will never find it—in their possessions.

Four-Leaf Clover

I know a place where the sun is like gold,
And the cherry blossoms burst with snow,
And down underneath is the loveliest nook,
Where the four-leaf clovers grow.

One leaf is for hope, and one for faith,
And one is for love, you know,
And God put another in for luck—
If you search, you will find where they grow.

But you must have hope, and you must have faith,
You must love and be strong—and so,
If you work, if you wait, you'll find the place
Where the four-leaf clovers grow.

At a Chinese wedding the "beggar chief" is always invited. He brings a plate and begs from all the guests, but in return keeps all other mendicants from the marriage feast. The beggar chief of a big Chinese city makes as much as $15,000 or $20,000 a year, and out of this he pays the common or street beggars to keep away from social gatherings.

That trained nurses are being employed in increasing numbers shows that employers generally are recognizing their services. Previous to 1919, only sixty-six industrial firms employed trained nurses. Today more than 871 industries have nursing services. The industrial nurse has proved to be a good investment. She is a teacher of hygiene, and health education means prevention of accidents, which in years gone by have cost industry many thousands of dollars.

Facts, not promises, will be studied hereafter by the Nebraska farmer who is preparing to buy a tractor, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. For the state has decreed that all tractor types to be sold within its boundaries must first undergo official tests to determine their actual ratings. Reports of these tests will be at the disposal of the prospective purchaser, who will thus be enabled to make an intelligent choice. Necessary buildings and machinery have been completed by the state. All types and makes of tractors in local use will be rated. In all, nine tests are given in the course of the searching examination.

How "genuine antique rugs" are manufactured and prepared for European and American markets is told by an American who visited Bagdad. The shopping streets seem like tunnels. They are arched overhead with brick to keep out the heat; thus they run, like subways, up and down the bazar quarter. Through those long, stifling, faintly lighted tunnels throngs the eternal crowd of men, mules and camels. Often one will see a fine rug lying flat in the filth of a narrow street, ground beneath the tramp of men and beasts, but there is method in this. Foreigners make oriental rugs, bright and new, in Persia, and sell them through Bagdad. Since an "old rug" is worth more, wily brokers have hit on this way to make a new rug look old.

Vishnu is the second god in the Hindu triad. When he first appears in Vedic times, he is simply the god of the shining firmament, the younger brother of Indra, and inferior to him in dignity. The higher rank was accorded to him by later writers. The Brahmanic myths relating to Vishnu are characterized by the idea that whenever great physical or moral disorder affected the world, Vishnu descended in a small portion of his essence to set it right. He is generally represented as having four arms, each hand holding some particular object, and as riding on a being half man and half beast. His most enthusiastic followers are generally drawn from the middle classes of Hindu society. His mark on their foreheads is a trident, with a yellow prong in the center and a white one on each side.

The Mammoth cave was accidentally discovered by a hunter in 1809, and is annually visited by 5,000 persons. It is in Kentucky, eighty-five miles southwest of Louisville. It is the largest cave known, extending below the surface of the earth for a distance of ten miles, although the various avenues and passages already explored have a total length of about 175 miles. The main portion of the cave is four miles long and varies in width from 40 to 300 feet. It contains a vast series of halls, domes cloisters, grottos and caverns, to which appropriate names have been given. There are also several streams and lakes, among which may be mentioned the River Styx, Echo river, Lake Lethe and the Dead sea. The air within is pure and healthful, while the temperature remains at 52-56 degrees Fahrenheit throughout the year. The curiosities of the cave include eyeless fish and crawfish and blind insects. Professor Shaler asserts that the carboniferous limestone forming the Mammoth cave covers an area of 8,000 square miles and contains 100,000 miles of open caverns beneath it.

DISPATCH OF WARSHIPS PRECAUTIONARY MOVE

U. S. ATTITUDE TOWARD MEXICO UNCHANGED.

SONORA REVOLT GROWING

WASHINGTON, April 24.—While American cruisers were sailing toward rebel-menaced ports in Mexico today, there was lacking any indication of an altered attitude of the United States government. Officials of the state and war departments continued to watch developments in the new Mexican situation with apparent equanimity and unofficially it was declared that any move by the United States was improbable unless made necessary by the menacing of American lives or interests.

The dispatch of warcraft to Mazatlan, Topolobampo and Frontera was taken to mean nothing more than a guaranty, as far as possible, of Americans' safety. It was not believed the commanders of those vessels would be ordered to go further than to afford refuge to such Americans as chose to go aboard. At Mazatlan the number of Americans was reported to be fewer than eighteen and a smaller number at Topolobampo.

The number of states the Sonora representatives here say have joined in the movement is seven, with a steadily growing list of bands of federal troops scattered through the states yet controlled by Carranza. The most recent defection claimed is that of the federal commander at Linares, Neuvo Leon, on the railroad lines between Monterey and Tampico.

TAMPICO OIL FIELDS STAKE.

Federals and Rebels Reported Fighting for Possession.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Revolutionary forces under General Arnufio Gomez and Mexican federal troops under General Murgia are fighting for possession of the Tampico oil fields, according to dispatches received today by General Salvador Alvarado, representative of the state of Sonora, who is now in Washington.

It was said that all available troops were being rushed from the neighboring states to Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas to aid Murgia, who is reported to be in a dangerous position.

Official reports of the activities of Gomez's forces previously had been received here. Other advices to General Alvarado said that a column from the brigade of General Renteria, formerly federal commander in Michoacan, who now is serving under General Obregon, had entered the state of Colima and was menacing the Carranza garrison at the state capital.

Obregon Officials Dropped.

Dispatches to the American government today said that according to information published in the Mexico City newspapers, thirteen senators and fifty-two deputies of the Mexican congress had been dropped from the pay roll because of their sympathies with General Obregon.

Unusual military activity centering at Monterey also was reported officially today, and it was said that the lines from Monterey to Torreon and to Matamoras were interrupted yesterday.

From Chihuahua came reports that a large number of officers and men of the 3rd battalion of the Mexican army, stationed at La Cruz, had rebelled April 21 and joined the anti-Carranza movement.

The Mexico City press yesterday announced that Francisco Fihurea, governor of Guerrero, had revolted, but that the federal forces of that state under General Maycot had remained loyal. Advices from Michoacan several days ago announced that General Maycot had joined the rebels.

Federal Line Broken.

General Iturbe, commander of the federal forces at Mazatlan, on the Pacific coast, was reported to have ordered the iron bridge over the San Lorenzo river destroyed as a measure of defensive precaution. General Angel Flores, commander of the Sonora rebels pushing south through Sinaloa, broke through the federal line at the San Lorenzo river April 22, the advices stated. General Flores says that order is being maintained in the territory under his control and that troops and supply trains are on the way from the north to Culiacan capital of Sinaloa, which is now General Flores's headquarters.

The Mexico City papers yesterday reported that President Carranza held a long conference with General Pablo Gonzales April 22, and officials here accepted this as indicating that Gen. Gonzales was remaining loyal to Carranza. About a week ago General Gonzales had a similar conference with General Obregon at Chepultepec, at which they discussed the revolt in Sonora.

PAY OF SERVICE MEN.

House and Senate Conferees Agree on Increase.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—House and senate conferees on the army and navy pay bill reached an agreement today under which increased pay will be given to all enlisted men in both services, as well as all commissioned officers up to and including the rank of colonel in the army and captain in the navy.

He has e't th' meat from bears
He went out an' killed one day
When he'd tired of other play.

OLD MAN likes to brag about
How he drove th' Injuns out—
Him an' his big brother, who Killed 'em ever' day er two!

'COURSE I ist can't say 'at he Tells things what ain't so to me,
Still it's funny how he knows
All he does 'bout circus shows.

OLD MAN says when he wuz small
Circus ain't no show at all
'Less two hundred clowns er more
Met you at th' circus door.

OLD MAN says he can't be wrong—
He's seen show trains ten miles long.
Yes, an' camels so immense
Their big humps held up th' tents.

MAYBE it's all true—an' yet
They's one thing ain't so I bet—
'At's th' one he tells how he Ever' time would git in free!

JOHNSON FAR IN LEAD IN MONTANA PRIMARY

LARGE VOTE CAST BY MINING POPULATION.

WILSON HEADS DEMOCRATS

BUTTE, Mont., April 24.—Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, had a wide margin over his opponents for the Republican presidential nomination in Montana's primary, held yesterday, according to widely scattered unofficial returns available to newspapers tabulating the vote today.

Nearly 200 precincts of the total 1,500 gave Johnson 6,238 votes; Leonard Wood, 1,604; Herbert Hoover, 1,259; Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, 1,138, and Senator Warren G. Harding fewer than 500.

In the absence of a Democratic candidate for President, votes were written in for William G. McAdoo, President Wilson, Eugene V. Debs, Herbert Hoover, Governor Edwards, William J. Bryan and others. Little attention was paid to the Democratic vote in the tabulations, however. President Wilson led the list.

Returns for delegates to the national conventions came in so slowly that political observers said it would "be a week" before the outcome of those contests would be known definitely. United States Senator Walsh was leading in the race for delegate to the Democratic convention. Returns were too few to show that either the "regular" Republican delegate candidates or the eight men put forward by O. H. P. Shelley, of Helena, and repudiated by the Republican state convention, had a distinct advantage.

Large Mining Population.

The large vote in Montana is made up of the mining population, the bulk of it being cast by copper company workmen. In a matter of political lineup it is generally a question of being either with the company or the employes. An advertisement which was published recently by a copper company employes union in Butte, gives a fair idea of the way sentiment sometimes runs. In this advertisement the union whose members were on strike did not publish their demands as to wages in the advertisement in the Butte papers but notified the employing copper company that if it wished to know anything about the demands of the workmen it could get the information by coming to the headquarters of the union. It has been customary for strikers to outline their demands but the Butte union did not look at it that way.

The complete vote of Silver Bow county, the largest in the state, and in which Butte is located, gave Johnson 3,822 votes, Wood 473, Hoover 433, Lowden 419, Harding 73.

BRYAN GAINS IN NEBRASKA.

Returns Give Him Ten of Sixteen Democratic Delegates.

OMAHA, Neb., April 24.—Returns from 1,467 precincts out of 1,819 precincts compiled by the newspapers here, give William Jennings Bryan ten delegates to the Democratic national convention and Senator G. M. Hitchcock, six. Previous returns showed an even split.

As candidate himself for delegate-at-learge, Bryan today was in fourth place with a margin of 1,020 votes over Berge and 350 precincts to hear from.

In the Republican presidential contest Senator Hiram W. Johnson continued to lead Leonard Wood with 55,591 votes in 1,442 precincts, including Douglas county. Wood's vote in the same number of precincts was 37,384 and General John J. Pershing's, 24,744.

Wood carried two districts, the First and Second, but it is understood that these Wood delegates will observe the state plurality and vote for Johnson as long as his name is before the convention.

They Said It Couldn't be Done

In 1909 when Goldstein's moved to Indianapolis from Fairmount, Indiana, a town of 3,000 inhabitants, the general opinion was that the venture was sure to fail. They said: "It can't be done, a city is no place for a country merchant."

Was General Opinion Wrong?

Most assuredly. Some of the largest department stores in the United States are the outgrowth of cross road or village stores. The size of the town has little to do with the growth of a venture—it is simply a matter of ability plus integrity and plenty of hard work.

Ideas and Ideals

These are as necessary to the success of a venture as capital and labor. Without them no business can grow to any size. The one big idea back of this business was to sell good merchandise for as little as possible. The one big ideal was the application of the golden rule to all details of our business—we treat you as we would want you to treat us.

Yesterday and Today

In 1909 we had twenty-five employes, today we have more than 250 names on our payroll. In 1909 we occupied 17,500 square feet of floor space. Today we are using approximately 55,000 square feet of floor space. Our growth has been truly remarkable. We are not boasting—we state these simple facts as indisputable proof of our claim that we undersell.

One owner writes: We are through experimenting, as we are convinced that the Stewart Truck is the one best suited to our requirements.
Here is another: Our only regret is that we did not purchase more Stewarts, and fewer other makes.

SPORTS — COLONELS AND INDIANS IN DOUBLE-HEADER SUNDAY — BASEBALL — LOCAL RACE TRACK NEWS—DERBY DOPE AND GOSSIP — BOXING — LIVE BOXING NEWS AND RESULTS—GOLF NEWS—AMATEURS — ATHLETICS

FIRST DOUBLE-HEADER AT BALL YARD SUNDAY

INDIANS WILL LEAVE FOR LONG TRIP AFTER SERIES WITH COLONELS.

Step right up, fans, and assist the Indians in knocking off the Colonels in two games on Sunday. Yes, that's right. There's to be a double-header, the first of the season in any league, at Washington park Sunday. The horned and tailed weather man is responsible for it and Managers Hendricks and McCarthy, of the tribe and Colonels, naturally plan to knock the old dude overboard if possible.

"We are not observing the old rule of the association not to play double-headers so early in the season," said Hendricks. "The Indians have so many postponed games piling up that we are forced to start in early on bargain bills. So far we have played only four out of nine games scheduled."

Diamond Protected.

The first Sunday game will be called at 2 o'clock. The clubs expected to play this afternoon notwithstanding the unfavorable weather. The diamond has been well protected and all the clubs need is a little sunshine to make the park more comfortable.

The Colonels will wind up the series here Monday, after which the Indians will hit the long trail around the circuit, playing a series in each city. In order the tribe will vist Columbus, Toledo, Louisville, Milwaukee, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul. The Indians will return to the home lot on May 29, two days before the running of the speedway sweepstakes race, and will remain here for nearly a month. The Colonels will be here again on May 29.

HOME MISSIONS FIRST.

H. O. Page, new athletic director at Butler College, although not bound by contract to begin his work here before September 1, left his post at Chicago University early in order to help things along all he could this spring for the Blue and White. By so doing, Page cut himself out of the trip to Tokio, Japan, with the Maroon baseball team. Page couldn't be a missionary to Japan this season.

But there is always the home field to look to, and besides reviving sport interest at Butler and in Indianapolis, he is gaining converts outside the college walls.

"I am the mother of a boy who continually plays hookey from high school to play baseball," said a woman over the telephone this week to Miss Sarah E. Cotton, assistant to T. C. Howe, president of Butler. "He has no ambition to go to college; he wishes to go into professional baseball. I have heard so much of your new coach, Mr Page, and I am asking you to please send him around to talk to my boy and convince him that college baseball is real baseball, too."

Now Coach Page is going to go out as a missionary of an important gospel, after all.

WHEAT AND WEAVER TOP MAJOR LEAGUE BATTERS

NEW YORK, April 24.—Zach Wheat, champion swatter of 1918, was off in the lead among the National League hitters in the first span of the 1920 race. The Brooklyn star in nineteen times at the bat rapped out ten bingles for an average of .526. Next among the regulars were Flack, Chicago, .455; Rath, Cincinnati, .455; Hornsby, St. Louis, .429; Canton, Pittsburg, .409.

Buck Weaver, star third baseman of the White Sox, led the regulars of the American League. Six hits out of ten trips to the plate gave him an average of .600. Next were Doc Johnston, Cleveland, .545; Williams, St. Louis, .500; Eddie Collins, Chicago, .462.

Golf News VIEWS & COMMENT

Country Club Opening.

The Country Club formally opened its season today with a blind par tourney and an eighteen-hole medal play, handicap, played simultaneously. The regular greens were opened for the first time and were in splendid condition, according to Mr. Lawson, the club professional. Over 125 reservations were made for the beef steak dinner scheduled to follow the afternoon play. President Noyes and his committees arranged for real entertainment throughout the day and evening and the members and their guests started in to have a great time.

The season's golf prizes were on display at the club so that all golfers could see at the season's start just what they will have to shoot for. Ninety per cent. of the season's tournaments are handicap affairs, which will give all classes of players an even chance to win the trophies.

Golf Dates Switched.

The changes in the dates for the playing of the Indiana state golf tournament to the week of August 2 instead of July 12, as originally set, is meeting with general approval, according to several local golfers. Requests for the change were made to Jess Mossler, secretary of the state association by many golfers here, in Kokomo and other parts of the state, so that the dates would not conflict with those of the western tournament at Memphis, the week of July 12. A number of Indiana golfers plan to enter the western meet, among them being John Simpson, and Clarence Stanley, of Indianapolis, and the Sparks brothers of Terre Haute.

Golf at West Baden.

WEST BADEN, April 24.—E. L. Lennox, of the Highland Golf Club, of Indianapolis, was the winner of the low score in the nine-hole qualifying round of the amateur tournament played here on the West Baden Springs hotel golf course, yesterday morning with a score of 42.

There was a large number of players entered. Representatives of the Edgewater Beach, Bobolink, North Shore, Beverly, Oak Park, and Calumet clubs of Chicago; Redford, Detroit Club; Algonquin and Essex clubs, of St. Louis; Essex Country Club, of Ontario; Janesville and Oshkosh, Wisconsin; Los Angeles Golf Club; Essex Falls, New Jersey, Los Angeles, Cal., and Great Neck and Silvanoy, N. Y., qualifying for match play. The professional tournament which was to have been played on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, has been postponed until May 25 and 26.

Northern Indiana Golf.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 24.—The St. Joe Valley Golf Association, composed of the country clubs of South Bend, Mishawaka, Elkhart and St. Joseph, will open the season on May 22. The schedule will be as follows:

May 22—At South Bend, South Bend vs. Elkhart; Mishawaka vs. St. Joseph, Mich.

June 19—At Elkhart, Elkhart vs. St. Joseph; South Bend vs. Mishawaka.

July 24—At St. Joseph, St. Joseph vs. South Bend; Elkhart vs. Mishawaka.

August 7—At Mishawaka, Mishawaka vs. South Bend; St. Joseph vs. Elkhart.

It is the intention of the members of the South Bend Country Club to make this season the most important since the club was organized. Among the special events will be an invitation meet for the individual championship of the St. Joseph valley, open to all clubs in the golf association, on Labor day, September 6. It is also the intention to stage an invitation meet in the middle of the summer.

Mishawaka is also arranging for a big invitation meet to be held on June 5.

Developed Leg Scissors by Crushing Wheat Sacks

Joe Stecher, the new world's champion heavyweight wrestler, who will be seen at the Lyric theater the coming week in the motion pictures of his championship bout with Earl Caddock, has enjoyed a meteoric career in the mat game. Like the late Frank Gotch he is an Iowa farmer.

He first attracted attention by his quick disposal of nearly all the important men in the heavyweight division through his use of a leg scissors hold which he had perfected to the point where it was practically unbreakable. It is said that Stecher developed this by crushing sacks of wheat between his legs while working on the farm.

STATE MEET BOWLING.

FT. WAYNE, April 24.—The first break in the doubles event came yesterday at the state bowling tournament when Kraft and Severcher, of Ft. Wayne, rolled 1,288, putting them at the head of the list.

In the singles, Bill Doehrman, Ft. Wayne, rolled 697, putting him in eleventh place.

In the two-man events, Doehrman and F. Farnan, of Ft. Wayne, went into second place with 1,185 and Kelly and F. C. Carr, of Ft. Wayne, took third place with 1,176.

Anderson Wins Meet.

ANDERSON, Ind., April 24.—Anderson high school easily defeated Connersville high school in the first dual track and field meet of the season here Friday. The locals loomed up strong although a strong wind and lack of competition kept down the time and records in the various events. Tipton will oppose the locals here Friday, May 7.

BLOOM CENTER, Ind., April 24.—The Bristle Ridge Maroons won the opening game of the Felt Boot League yesterday, defeating the Bloom Centers, 45 to 27, in one of the hardest hitting games played here in years. Ike Mopps, star pitcher for the Ridgers, held the home team to thirty-three hits. The big feature of the game was the terrific batting of Catcher Lem Peters, of the visitors. In ten times at bat Lem got two doubles, three triples and four home runs. Zeke Spry, third sacker for the Bloomers, made the only assist when he threw out Ike Souls in the fifth inning. Souls' grounder was the only ball that hit inside the diamond. It was a busy day for the outfielders. The score follows:

SURE, IT'LL DO IT.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Rear-Admiral Sam McGowan, paymaster of the navy, believes that a South Carolina rabbit's foot enabled the Washington Nationas to beat Boston here Thursday.

With Washington five runs behind, McGowan found Clark Griffith, manager of the locals, and rubbed the rabbit's foot across his face three times. The home team made six runs in the next two innings.

Campus Climax

Butler College won't know itself when it rubs its eyes and stretches sometime late Sunday morning. Before dark the campus will be a rejuvenated thing. Irwin field, especially, received the attentions today of Butler students and faculty, who turned out, overalls 'n everything, to observe the laborious rites of annual cleanup day. Rebuilding the athletic field fence was the big project of the day. There were no sessions inside the college buildings.

BASEBALL SIDELIGHTS

With old Hi Cost keeping a strangle hold on all other lines the bargain bill, two games for one admission, scheduled between the Indians and Colonels Sunday is like getting something for nothing.

In addition to the weather man the ball tossers had opposition today in the way of a few elephants.

Because of those widely known knockout drops, rain, cloudy and colder the tribesmen will begin their long swing around the association circuit next week almost before they will have had an opportunity to get acquainted at home.

It would seem that Mike Kelley and his so-called Saints are overdoing it a bit.

Mike and his bunch crossed the bridge of sighs into Joe Cantillon's bailiwick and humiliated the Millers before 8,000 frigid fans at the Minneapolis opening, getting four runs on five hits while the Pengoites got none on ten.

Seven straight! Who'll stop St. Paul?

Jerky Jake Northrop, for whom the swan song had been sung long ago, set the Blues down with a four-hit defeat, Mostil's muff of a fly ball robbing him of a shutout.

The Mud Hens waded into Columbus and handed the Senators the same opening day defeat that they administered in Indianapolis, Jimmy Middleton pitching. Mike Kelly stole a base.

As yet no association club has won an opening game at home.

Hod Eller, minus his "shine ball," beat the Cubs. He weakened in the final inning, but was saved by brilliant support.

Foster drove in three of Boston's runs and helped the Red Sox beat his old teammates, the Senators.

The Dodgers got eleven hits and the Phils got ten, but Mitchell was more effective and the Dodgers won.

The Pirates, the Cards and a drizzling rain opened the season in Pittsburg. The Cards won.

Franklin Entertains Indiana.

FRANKLIN, Ind., April 24.—Everything was in readiness at Goodell field for the track meet this afternoon between the Franklin and Indiana University teams. Only five men on the Franklin team have had intercollegiate experience and the remaining athletes are more or less unknown quantities. Coach Thurber counted on Captain Kingsolver, who had little difficulty in winning both the dashes and the low hurdle race from the Bloomington lads last year, to take several firsts. E. Campbell in the broad jump, Farmer in the two-mile and one-mile events, Robertson a weight man, and J. Campbell, middle distance runner, were expected to show well.

SCRAP NEWS and GOSSIP

PICKIN' UP CHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, will tour America with a circus, it was announced here today by Jack Curley, who holds a theatrical contract with the Frenchman.

Carpentier is booked for his first appearance with the circus in Washington, May 10. While the contract figures were not made public it was reported that he is to receive $2,000 daily for seventy days.

Jersey City Results.

JERSEY CITY, April 24.—Willie Jackson, of New York, outfought Jack Lawlor, of Omaha, Neb., in an eight-round bout here last night. Lawlor, who made his first appearance in the east, covered up and clinched frequently during the first rounds. He showed more aggressiveness in the fifth and sixth when he placed several rights to the head. In the seventh, Jackson, off balance, went down for a second from a light blow. Jackson weighed 133½ pounds and his opponent 132½.

Jack Bloomfield, an English light heavyweight, won his first bout in this country, outpointing Walter McGirr, of New York, in a six-round contest. Spider Roach, of San Francisco, defeated Bert Spencer, of Brooklyn, in a six-round bout.

Georges Hits the Movies.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Georges Carpentier will do a fight scene for the films next Monday night. He will "fight" six rounds, probably with Clay Turner, the Indiana light heavyweight, or Jack Blumenfeld, his former sparring partner.

Tar Baby Is Licked.

DENVER, April 24.—Harry Wills was given the referee's decision over Sam Langford, in a fifteen-round bout at the stockyards stadium here last night. Wills led during the entire fight, knocking Langford down twice during the first round. The men are negro heavyweights.

Dundee Is Licked.

CLEVELAND, April 24.—Joe Welling, Cleveland lightweight, defeated Johnny Dundee, New York, in twelve rounds here last night.

Sharkey vs. Wilde.

BOSTON, Mass., April 24.—Jack Sharkey, New York bantamweight, will fight Jimmy Wilde in London next fall for not less than $25,000, he declared today in his reply to the National Sporting Club, which offered Sharkey $15,000 for a twenty-round decision contest with Wilde.

Bout for French Champ.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Lew Tendler, Philadelphia lightweight, has been selected as the opponent for George Pappin, the French lightweight champion, in his first fight in America to be staged in Jersey City, May 10. If the showing of the Frenchman is good enough he will be matched with Benny Leonard, the world's champion.

PERRY TOWNSHIP WINS IN COUNTY TRACK MEET

Perry township won the interscholastic field meet held Friday by the Marion County Athletic Association on Irwin field. Center township was a close second, while Beech Grove nosed out the Wayne team for third place. Perry township made 78 out of 157 points, while Center had 82 out of 182.

All of the events were hotly contested and the lead veered from one township to another as the contests progressed. Center held the early lead, but fell behind before the onslaughts of Wayne and Perry. In the afternoon, both Wayne and Beech Grove for a time forged toward the front.

H. O. Page, Butler athletic director, was referee of the meet, and he was assisted by several Butler students. In connection with the meet a picnic luncheon was served in the new gymnasium at Butler.

$125,000 Beauty Is Out

NEW YORK, April 24.—Babe Ruth, homerun king, is suffering from torn ligaments in his back, the club physician announced after an examination today. He will be out of the game for at least two weeks. Ruth is insured for $150,000, but the club will not collect on it, as it covers only accidents off the field. The Yankees paid $125,000 for Ruth.

Butler-Semi-Pro Game.

Butler's varsity nine held only a light workout Friday, but a real game was scheduled for today as the feature event of Cleanup day. The Central Union team, boasting six former big leaguers and the semi-pro title of the state, swept down on the collegians for what promised to be a merry battle. Staton or Shockley and Short were the probable batteries, Coach Stanley Feezle announced.

GRAPPLERS TO APPEAR ON COLISEUM PROGRAM

OLSON WILL LINE UP BEST HEAVYWEIGHTS—CARPENTIER IS ATTRACTION.

Charles M. Olson will go to Chicago Monday to complete arrangements for the program of the all-star athletic festival to be given by the Indianapolis Lodge of Elks, at the Coliseum, state fair ground, Saturday night, May 29, of which Georges Carpentier will be the featured attraction. Olson expects to contract for the services of several of the best heavyweight wrestlers in the game to appear here in finish matches as one part of the program.

According to announcement from New York Joe Stecher, the new world's champion heavyweight wrestler will likely be in the Carpentier party, in which event Olson will cast about for a suitable opponent for him.

Sale of Tickets.

The Elks committee in charge of the ticket sale consists of Leonard M. Quill, chairman, H. G. Spellman and W. G. Taylor. They will have charge of the twenty teams of ticket sellers now being organized to make a complete canvass of the city. Every seat in the Coliseum, which, with the ringside and arena chairs will accommodate approximately 7,500 persons, will be reserved.

Only a sufficient number of advance sale tickets have been issued to represent the actual number of reserved seats. These tickets may be exchanged for reserved seat tickets when the Elks' downtown box office is opened about May 17.

For Chicago Trip.

The purpose of the athletic festival is to obtain funds to help defray the expense of the Elks' marching club to the grand lodge gathering in Chicago next July, at which time the Indianapolis delegation will endeavor to capture the next grand lodge meeting for this city.

The Chicago convention committee agreed that the money to cover the expense involved should be raised by this entertainment rather than by subscription among the business men.

FAMOUS FRENCH PILOT TO DRIVE IN SPEEDWAY SWEEPSTAKES

ANDRE BOILLOT.

Andre Boillot has been named as second member of the Peugeot triumvirate that will endeavor to hoist the tricolor above the flags of competing nations during the eighth international 500-mile sweepstakes on the Indianapolis speedway, Monday, May 31.

With Jules Goux and Andre Boillot in the fold, the prospects of the famous French racing combination begin to assume a decidedly rosy hue, and it is the freely expressed sentiment of the wiseacres that Peugeot is the team the rest of the contenders will have to beat.

Andre Boillot looms up as a worthy successor to the laurels that crowned the brow of his famous brother Georges, conceded to be the greatest European driver who ever held a steering wheel.

Boillot's American racing debut was made during the Indianapolis contest of 1919. However, he met with disappointment on this occasion, being turned back when running in third position within twenty miles of the finish, due to the collapse of a treacherous wire wheel.

SOPHOMORES TAKE TECH INTERCLASS TRACK MEET

A total of 100 points gave the sophomores of Technical High School first place in the interclass track and field meet, which was held at Willard park Friday afternoon. The seniors took second place with 53½ points, the juniors copped third place with 26½ points, and the freshmen were third with 20 points.

Coach Beryl Black uncovered some promising material. Lewis, Harvey and Gross caught the eye of the coach, Lewis for making fast time in the half-mile run, Gross, a senior, being the high point-getter of the meet, with one first, one second, one third and one fourth for a total of nineteen points, and Harvey for exceptional work in the hurdles. The individual winners in each class were: Freshmen, Langlais, 13 points; sophomores, Harvey, 18 points; juniors, Haines, 8½ points, and seniors, Gross, 19 points.

Gray, star dash man, had the largest percentage of any athlete entered in the meet, winning first in both events in which he was entered, the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash.

Heydler and Johnson Talk.

CHICAGO, April 24.—President John A. Heydler, of the National League, was in Chicago today for a conference with President Ban Johnson, of the American League. Neither president would say whether progress had been made toward solving the deadlock over the national commission chairman.

MOST OPEN DERBY IN LONG HISTORY OF RACE

PICKING FAVORITE IN LARGE FIELD QUESTION OF WIDE INTEREST.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 24.—The probable field for the Kentucky derby at a mile and a quarter here May 8 is shaping in a manner, according to horsemen, which gives promise of making it one of the most open derbies in the forty-six years of its history.

The horse which will go to the post the favorite in this richest of American turf classics already is a question of wide interest and thoughtful speculation. At this time, Damask, Harry Payne Whitney's winter track star, is said to be as fit as any that ever faced the barrier, and has a large following.

Those, however, who believe Damask does not possess the class of some of his eligible rivals, pin their faith to Blazes, the son of Wrack-Blazing Star, owned by Ral Parr.

Loft's Pair Good.

Blazes, however, has a rival in Donaconna in the stable of former Congressman George W. Loft, of New York. Bred for the distance, he is sturdily built, but with plenty of length. A considerable number say that the horse which beats Donaconna will win the race. Mr. Loft also has another string to his bow in On Watch, among whose impressive claims to distinction is that he is the son of the unbeaten Colin.

Prince Pal, owned by Simms & Oliver, and Sterling, C. C. Van Meter's probable candidate, have shared with the Loft pair and Damask the interest of that contingent which find turf instruction and entertainment in witnessing trials of derby eligibles.

Golden Broom, in the Jefford's stable; Major T. C. McDowell's High Command, E. R. Bradley's By Golly and Best Pal, John N. Camden's Lorraine, W. F. Polson's Peace Pennant and T. F. Henry's The Swimmer have trained so well that turf followers have given them consideration.

Patches, Simpleton, Grand Slam, Miss Jemima, Westwood, Alex Jr., Black Hackle, Brookholt and Rouleau also are accounted as having more than an outside chance.

DORT
Quality Goes Clear Through

There is, we believe in simply case after case, a deeper reason for the selection of the Dort than the merit of the car.

True, the well-known excellence of the Dort in performance and the fact that it is known to operate at a measurably lower cost per mile are unquestionably strong influences in the purchase.

But we like to think that aside and apart from these reasons the determining factor in the decision is a profound faith in the Dort Company.

The truth of the matter is that the name Dort has become inseparably associated in the minds of people with deep-seated integrity and careful skill in manufacture.

Each added Dort that goes into use serves not only to provide fresh evidence as to the quality of the car but also to emphasize anew the high ideals of the company that builds it.

BREEZY DOPE PICKED UP AT LOCAL TRACK

MART WILSON HAS SEVERAL GOOD PROSPECTS—START IS TOO EARLY.

In the pacer Star Mack, 2:16½, by Star Hal, at the state fair ground training track, Mart Wilson believes he has a great prospect for the 2:19 paces this year. The pacer's win race is 2:18¼, so he gets a bit of leeway over his record, and from past performances he looks equal to bringing in a few bushels of oats for the clever Indianapolis trainer. At Hillsdale, Mich., where he took his record last fall, he showed a mile around 2:12, and the track is not a fast one, either. He has also been a half in 1:03, so he has the whiz beyond doubt.

Stable Looks Good.

Wilson's stable looks pretty good for early season, despite the rain and cold. He has another pretty glib pacer in Happy Hal, 2:13¾, by Direct Hal, that took his record at Warren, Ind., last year. On breeding this sidewheeler has the edge on a great many racers, for his dam is the famous brood mare Duldeen, that produced Don L., 2:08¾, and others, and she was by Strathmore, a renowned brood mare sire, while his second dam was a daughter of Harold, sire of the ex-trotting queen, Maud S., 2:08¾. In Roy Enslow, 2:19½, he has a third pacer that appears good, as he showed a mile in 2:11¾ on a half-mile track.

In the trotting division a trotter eligible to all classes, but laboring under the severe handicap of a cognomen that overbalances the horse, nearly, is Wright's Great Intention (4), 2:22¼. The horse has been raced but little, is a grandson of Peter the Great, 2:07¼, and showed around 2:18 last year. With a real course of training he ought to get into the money.

Wilson has a two-year-old trotter of promise in Bingle Watts, owned by Dr. Sutcliffe, of this city. The youngster was sired by Bingen Silk (3), 2:07¼, and was out of the dam of Miss Dewey Watts (3), 2:06¾.

Start Is Too Early.

Trainers are beginning to hedge on resolutions regarding an early start to the races. Some who were inclined to the belief that they would start right off with the May meeting at Findlay, O., now say that there is not enough time to get their horses ready for the money in the period that is left. However, the events on at Findlay are all to be raced on the three-heat plan, and for early racing the plan is certainly ideal. Horsemen know just how long their charges will have to race, and that it will not be longer than the minimum of the old three-in-five plan.

AMERICAN TEAM WINS.

ANTWERP, April 24.—The American hockey team defeated the team of Switzerlad in the lympian hockey tournament here this afternoon by a score of 29 to 0.

BRIEF TELEGRAPH SPORTS

CHICAGO, April 24.—The Cubs today started unloading rookies on the bush league clubs. Utility Infielder Pearce was let out to the Rockford, (Ill.) club of the Three-I League. Southpaw Weber was sold to Peoria, Ill., of the same league.

CINCINNATI, O., April 24.—It was reported at baseball headquarters here that Pitcher Linwood Smith, who was left behind when the Cincinnati Nationals left for Chicago, has gone to his home at Portsmouth, Va. His friends say he will not return.

BOSTON, April 24.—Manager Barrow, of the Boston Americans, sent word here from Washington last night that Oscar Vitt, third baseman, who has been holding out for a revised contract, had notified him that he would join the team at New York the latter part of next week. He said Vitt would be used as a utility infielder.

SACRAMENTO, April 24.—Louis Moroing, owner of Sacramento's club, of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, announced today that J. Devitales, a pitcher from the New York American club, had been added to Sacramento's staff and will join the team next week. New York retains its rights to Devitales, Moroing said.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 24.—The fourth South American Olympic championship games, to last three days, started here today. Argentina, Chile and Uruguay have entered some of their best trained men in all the classic sports. It is expected that several new records will be established by the Chilean athletes. The three previous South American Olympics were held in Buenos Aires, Montevideo and Rio Janeiro.

NEW YORK, April 24.—A representative field of figure skaters will compete for the Olympic games championship at the Antwerp ice palace during the next few days, according to a communication received by the American Olympic committee here today. Five nations have entered competitors for the women's events; nine will contest in the figures for men, and six will be represented in the pairing of skating contests.

New Pitching Rules Have Not Speeded Up the Game

NEW YORK, April 24.—No riots, bloodshed or fatal trimmings have attended the enforcement of the new pitching rules. Hurlers of both leagues are keeping so close to the law that very few complaints have been made.

The Boston Red Sox in a game a few days ago with the Yanks, accused Bob Shawkey of doctoring the ball but the umpires could find no evidence.

What effect the ban on freak deliveries has had in increasing batting is impossible to estimate so early in the season. However, one result is apparent—the game has not been speeded up.

The games so far this season have so far averaged two hours and ten minutes. Benton and Rixey pitched the fastest game of the season in the major leagues in one hour and twenty-five minutes. The longest was played by the Cleveland Indians and the Tigers, a nine-inning game in three hours and four minutes.

Some pitchers, such as Jack Quinn, of the Yankees, are naturally slow workers in the box.

Coveleskie, spitball pitcher, and Al Sothoron, a former "shiner," pitched one of the fastest games of the season in one hour and thirty-six minutes. The intentional pass may have been curbed by the new rules but it has not been stopped. It is just as easy to get rid of a dangerous batter by a base on balls as it was before.

Three Tons of Fish in Three Years Is Record of One-Acre Fish Pond

An acre fish pond located on the farm would not only provide fine sport but produce food. That such ponds will prove popular, once Indiana farmers learn the revenue possible from them and will care for the fish in as comprehensive a way as they do a prize poultry flock, is the opinion of Richard Leiber, director of conservation in Indiana, and George N. Mannfeld, superintendent of the division of fish and game.

The acre fish pond is past the experimental stage, as statistics gathered from such a venture conducted by the Kansas fish and game department recently, will show.

About 16,000 young fish by actual count were placed in the pond, and as intended, many of these fish served as food for the more mature denizens. Three years later 27,000 fish of all ages and sizes were taken out. It is estimated the weight of the fish placed in the pond did not exceed 700 pounds and that the fish removed weighed 6,780 pounds, the latter figure not including hundreds of small fish. The total number of fish weighing one pound or over was 3,861, and their total weight was 4,279 pounds. Black bass, crappie and catfish made up 3,088 pounds of this weight. There was 978 pounds of bluegill and sunfish and about 1,500 pounds of carp, goldfish and shad.

There were two large-mouth black bass over twenty-two inches in length and each weighed in excess of six pounds, showing this species grows at the rate of more than a pound a year, for they undoubtedly each weighed only a few ounces when released. Some of the crappie and bullheads weighed two pounds, while some of the channel cat weighed from four to eight pounds.

Golf Season at Wabash.

WABASH, Ind., April 24.—Aat a meeting of the directors of the Wabash Golf Club held last evening it was decided to open festivities at the country club here the first week in June, and plans also were made for an addition to the clubhouse. Leonard Fox was named as chairman of a committee to handle details of the schedule for the Northern Indiana Golf League, which will be composed of clubs representing Marion, Kokomo, Peru, Huntington, Ft. Wayne and Wabash.

Madigan in Demand.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 24.—Edward Madigan, star center rush on the Notre Dame football team last fall, is in demand as a coach. Among the schools making efforts to secure his services are Columbia University, Portland, Ore., and Columbia College, Dubuque, Ia. According to Knute K. Rockne, director of athletics at Notre Dame, Madigan is the best coaching prospect at the uniaversity.

Georgette Cracks Household Whip and Big Georges Jumps

NEW YORK, April 24.—"Chorge—Chorge."

Oui, oui, un minoot, m'cher.
Un minoot, no no, toot sweet.

Thus cracks the domestic whip over Georges Carpentier.

Maybe the handsome Georges is the heavyweight champion of Europe, maybe he did give Joe Beckett passports to the Land of Nod in one punch, maybe he has enough stuff to rock the throne of Dempsey—nevertheless, he's second in his own house.

The beautiful young Georgette, his bride of a little over a month, who hasn't one-third the size of her illustrious spouse, rules the household.

"George, he used to be his own boss but the madame—she even tells him what to wear," Leon Wilson, his trainer, masseur, valet and interpreter, was saying as he selected the outfit for the day from the closet containing fifteen suits of clothes, twelve pairs of shoes, a dozen hats, twenty-five silk shirts and a few other things.

"It is not the proper wear for afternoon, but since the madame—" in a sort of soliloquy he mused.

"What does George do with all those clothes?" asked one of the two newspaper men decorating the upholstery in the elaborately appointed hotel apartment of the French gods of Fistiana.

"He wears them," a perfectly obvious answer that caused a slight chuckle at the London joke.

"You see it is like this," unmindful of the interruption, "George he makes at least three changes a day, sometimes more, so it takes a big wardrobe."

"I used to lay out George's clothes but since he's married—" The door opened and in walked Georges himself forcing his attendant to cease unburdening himself of the "bitter fruit" that Hymen had dished out for him.

Leads Olympic Shooters.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Lieutenant-General Robert Lee Bullard, commander of the department of the east, will be commander of the United States Olympic shooting teams which will compete for international rifle and pistol honors at Brussels, July 22-31.

Criticise American Athletes

LONDON, April 12 (by mail).—Criticism of American sport methods in the Olympic games in London in 1908 and in Stockholm in 1912 and the charge that American competitors in the past have been guilty of unsportsmanlike tactics, are made by a writer in the London Morning Post in an article urging contributions to finance British participation in the forthcoming games at Antwerp.

The service rendered by Paige Motor Trucks is often measured in terms of tire mileage and gasoline mileage. And these afford, indeed, a most sound basis of judgment. For service, to be really good, must be economical.

The economical service of Paige Trucks is traceable finally, of course, to their construction. Low operating cost follows as the direct result of mechanical excellence. We feel, therefore, that the records of Paige performance are a just tribute to the structural qualities of the trucks themselves.

The Determining Influence Among Motor Cars

ONLY things of acknowledged worth can acquire and retain the prestige of leadership. The world is not disposed to patronize failures; but it is quick to emulate success. Consider the recent marked changes in the design and construction of motor cars. Then recall which car it was that first introduced these striking advancements.

Cole Creations Strike New Note

The low bevel-edged body panel; the high cowl; the square corners at the rear; the valanced top; the keen aeroline from stem to stern have become the outstanding characteristics of motor car designing.

All of these trace their origin to the Cole Aero-EIGHT.

Aerotype construction with its attendant 15,000 miles on tires; its wealth of reserve power; its tenacious road adherence; its increased gasoline economy; its swift acceleration and wide range of performance have elevated automobile standards.

And aerotype construction was first applied to the automobile by Cole engineers.

Acknowledged as the sponsor of the present vogue in motor car design as well as a leader in mechanical achievement, the Cole Aero-EIGHT is seasons ahead.

Its prestige is being refortified again and again by the determining influence it continues to exercise over the works of its contemporaries, who have accepted Cole standards as the ones to which they, themselves, would build.

And with the ownership of the Cole Aero-EIGHT goes that feeling of pride in the possession of a thing whose worth is acknowledged by the eagerness of others to follow its example.

SAYS WOOD IS BEST OF CANDIDATES IN FIELD

PASTOR POINTS OUT DEBT OF AMERICAN PEOPLE.

LAWRENCE COUNTY MEETING

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

BEDFORD, Ind., April 24.—"Of the honorable and distinguished men proposed for the Republican nomination for President, Leonard Wood is the best suited to fill the position," said the Rev. S. S. Lappin, pastor of the First Christian church here, in addressing a large audience in this city. The assembly was the first big Wood-for-President meeting in Lawrence county and a dominating feature of the event was the large number of women in attendance. Mrs. Bertha M. Boruff, district chairman for the Wood women's department campaign, presided.

Best Suited for Office.

The Rev. Mr. Lappin said that for years the ministers have been telling the men members of the church to make their influence felt in the primary and to work for the election of the best man. He said that although a minister should not become too actively identified with politics he could not refuse to give his judgment as to which of a given number of public men is best suited for an office of responsibility.

"Leonard Wood," the speaker said, "is by nature and education well qualified for the position of President." He told the story of General Wood's life, spending much time in a discussion of his service in various parts of the world.

Worthy of Confidence.

In closing the pastor said that General Wood has shown himself worthy of the confidence of the people. "Through the ideals of clean life instilled in the training camps he exerted a great moral influence over the entire army during the world war. He knew what was essential to physical efficiency and what constituted unfitness. He knew what influences were most likely to corrupt and disqualify the recruit."

Preparing for Wood Meeting.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

VINCENNES, Ind., April 24.—Arrangements are being made for a big crowd at the Knox County courthouse Monday afternoon when Leonard Wood, candidate for the Republican nomination for President, speaks. General Wood is expected to arrive here from Sullivan in an auto and is scheduled to speak at 3:45 o'clock. He will be the first presidential preference candidate to visit Vincennes this campaign.

General Wood will be introduced by William H. Hill, a local attorney. He will go from this city to Princeton and then to Evansville for a night meeting.

INCREASED AID DESIRED.

Alumni Associations Plan Aggressive Campaign for Colleges.

Aggressive action looking toward increased state aid for Indiana educational institutions is to be taken by the Purdue and Indiana University alumni associations in accordance with plans made at a meeting at the Columbia Club Friday night. It is proposed to obtain interviews immediately with all candidates for the legislature to ascertain their attitude toward educational expansion in the state. Plans of the alumni associations have in mind an organization in each county to further the object of the campaign.

SAYS MALICE ACTUATES FOES IN FIGHT IN OHIO

LEONARD WOOD DENIES THAT HE IS MILITARIST.

STANDS FOR SMALL ARMY

NEWARK, O., April 23.—Leonard Wood answered the attacks being made by the opposition with reference to his military policy. The reply was brought out by newspaper advertising in the Marietta newspapers by William Harrington, chairman of the Washington County Harding Club. The advertisement said:

"That if he were President he would fasten upon the nation an intolerable military machine—and that if you would keep your boy in civil life, vote for Harding. If you would dress your boy in khaki and have him carry a gun, vote otherwise.

Here Is Wood's Answer.

Wood's answer made at Zanesville is as follows:

"The statement that I stand for everything that represents militarism is untrue. There is no one living in America today who is more opposed to militarism than I am. Statements to the contrary are given out with the deliberate purpose of misrepresenting the situation and creating an entirely false impression.

"I stand for a small army—much smaller than that recommended by the present administration and smaller than that authorized by the senate. There is no occasion whatever at the present time, as I see it, for a large standing army. An army of 200,000 men would be ample for all peace needs of the nation. I have always stood for reasonable preparation. If we had had such preparation the chances are there would have been no world's war.

For Period of Training.

"I have advocated a short period of intensive training, a period some time between the eighteenth and twenty-first year, to be taken in the year most convenient to the boy. Such training should combine military, industrial, and vocational training. This is a matter which must be taken up and decided by the people through congress. Personally I believe our people can safely be guided in this matter by the opinion of the ex-service men.

"No one is more anxious to return this nation to a peace basis than I, and no one is more opposed than I to affix upon it an intolerable military machine. Statements of this kind are deliberately false, misleading, and vicious."

Milburn
LIGHT ELECTRIC

"LET'S take the Milburn" is the common expression in families having more than one car.

It is so cozy and chatty; no chauffeur is needed, because anyone can drive this car, and likes to.

It is as roomy and comfortable as you please for a party of five.

Away you go as far as you care to and as fast as you ever want to.

And silently, without a motor sound to mar the ideal pleasure of swift motion.

There is no car like the Milburn. We take pleasure in its demonstration.

Columbia Six

Poise
The Columbia Has It

You can sum up the characteristics of the Columbia car in one word.

It is a Car of Poise.

Poise distinguishes the business or social success from the failure.

It expresses that confident, assured bearing denoting integrity, strength and ability to go thru with the hardest job.

It is the thing that has marked the Columbia from the beginning—the thing that has made it one of the most pronounced successes in automobile history—that has placed thousands of them on the road thruout the world within a few years' time—that has won for it a position among the three best liked and fastest selling cars in the medium priced field.

Choose a Columbia and you choose a successful car.

The Sedan

The Columbia Six Five-Passenger Sedan is now recognized as an all-year-'round car.

In summer, it has all the airiness of a touring car. There is little, if any, noticeable difference in operating expense due to its light weight and the efficiency of the motor.

It is equipped with automatic thermostatically controlled radiator shutters which keep the motor temperature constant.

Thus, the motor as well as the occupants are protected against disagreeable seasonal changes.

O'DONNELL LAUDS OWN COURAGE; HITS LEAGUE

TOMLINSON HALL JOHNSON SPEAKERS FLAY WILSON.

SMALL AUDIENCE PRESENT

"I didn't care what style of sleuth followed me, for I was talking for the bone and sinew of America," said Patrick O'Donnell, of Chicago, in a speech at a meeting in the interest of Hiram Johnson at Tomlinson hall Friday night, in which he attacked the proposed league of nations, held up Japan as a military menace, and referring to Ireland and the Irish, said "we're going to carve our way to liberty."

Clyde P. Miller, who presided and introduced O'Donnell and Louis Crampton, of Michigan, said O'Donnell "has been followed by federal agents ready to lay hands on him if they could fined the slightest excuse."

Refers to Small Audience.

Mr. Crampton, who spoke first, referring to the small audience, predicted that audiences will become larger as the campaign proceeds and interest in Johnson grows. He said the people had come to know of late how the President holds in the palm of his hand the fate of the nation.

"The President may decide whether your sons may be taken overseas," he said, as he submitted that the people should be careful in choosing a President. He accused the President of delay in appointing a labor adjustment board under the new railroad bill, and said railroad men who were not receiving decent wages struck. Not until an industrial crisis came did the President appoint the board, the speaker said. If Hiram Johnson had been President, he said, he would have appointed the labor adjustment board in six hours instead of six weeks, because "he's for humanity."

Crampton said he knew of a candidate for President (evidently referring to Leonard Wood) who discurses teachers' salaries, law and order and the budget system, issues that should be taken as a matter of course, while he said Johnson discussed vital questions like the league of nations and industrial issues.

Crampton said employes of a brass works in Detroit contributed $33.50 to the Johnson campaign. "Nearly all were foreigners, as shown by their names," he said, "but I don't care where they were born. I say they were the finest kind of American citizens to back up their own choice."

There was no dangerous radicalism in Johnson or in Michigan, Crampton said.

Views of O'Donnell.

The senate of the United States did the noble thing, said O'Donnell, when it took the league of nations pact out on a back lot and buried it six feet deep, face down.

He declared that the league of nations provisions are contrary to the second of President Wilson's fourteen points, which declared for freedom of the seas in time of war as well as peace. He said the "only honest man there at Paris was Wilson."

"Most people know that I helped draw the constitution of China," O'Donnell said, "and most people know I drew the protest for Korea against Japanese control."

He had been called hyphenated, O'Donnell said, but he would not sell this country out "with this perfidious league of nations." He said he looked up the birthplaces of members of Wilson's cabinet, and found that Lansing, Baker and Redfield were born under the Stars and Stripes, Wilson and Lane under the British flag, and the rest under the flag of the Confederacy.

Irish Reference Applauded.

There was great applause when O'Donnell, speaking of Ireland, said: "We're going to carve our way to liberty."

Cards to be signed by those who wished to join a Johnson club were distributed and collected by Patrick J. Hannon.

As the audience entered the hall, handbills were given out, on which was reprinted a letter of Frederick Landis, advocating Johnson for President and Edward Toner for Governor. The boys distributing the handbills said they got them at Toner headquarters.

Three Real Estate Meetings.

The Indiana Real Estate Association is planning to hold meetings Thursday and Friday at Terre Haute, Vincennes and Evansville. Among those who will attend are J. D. Gerhardt, of Kokomo, president of the association; Scott Brewer, the secretary; J. Edward Morris, a former president, and Earl Bullock, executive secretary.

COLORED PEOPLE FORM STATE WELFARE BODY

CLOSING SESSION OF THE RACE CONVENTION.

RESOLUTIONS ARE ADOPTED

A permanent organization which will probably be known as the Indiana Negro Welfare League was formed at the closing session last night of the race convention of colored people of the state. The conventions will be held annually, probably in Indianapolis.

The name of the organization and the place of the next convention has been left to the executive committee, headed by William P. Henry, of Indianapolis.

Resolutions recommending the formation of industrial boards for both black and white people to obtain better working conditions and condemning racial discrimination, social relations excepted, were presented last night by the Rev. C. S. Williams, of Indianapolis, and were adopted. Other resolutions which had previously been presented condemning crimes by men against children and women, and commending the work of the police department, and city and county authorities in handling the crowds which Thursday night gathered about the jail, also were passed yesterday.

Officers elected were: George P. Stewart, Indianapolis, president; W. A. Gaines, Evansville, vice-president; Fred M. Moore, Indianapolis, secretary; Rufus Willis, Indianapolis, treasurer, and Mrs. Hattie Daugherty, Franklin, assistant treasurer.

Several candidates for political office were present or represented at the meeting Friday night. James W. Fesler, for the Republican nomination for Governor, and Luke W. Duffey, for the Republican nomination for congressman, attended. Warren T. McCray was represented by W. A. Gaines, and Edward C. Toner, by Claire McTurnan.

FOUNTAIN PRICES RAISED.

Additional Increase Said to Be Due to High Cost of Sugar.

High cost of sugar has made necessary another increase in the selling prices of sodas, sundaes and all drinks at soda fountains, according to the Indianapolis Association of Retail Druggists. Members of the association, at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce, Friday afternoon, decided to put in effect May 1 the following schedule of minimum prices. Ice cream sodas, 15 cents; sundaes, 15 cents; malted milk, 20 cents; milk shakes, 15 cents; ice cream cones, 6 cents; phosphates and soft drinks, including Coca Cola and root beer, 9 cents. War tax is not included in these prices.

Retail prices for bulk ice cream will be 75 cents a quart for strawberry and 65 cents a quart for vanilla. Bottled soft drinks should be 10 cents straight, it was decided, and no war tax at the fountain is required.

Spark Plugs and

BETHLEHEM
U.S.A.

WHEN a spark plug fouls, or its porcelain fails, the result of that "miss" is distributed throughout the entire power-plant.

The first unit to feel the shock is the wrist-pin, up there in the piston. A knock develops to cut down power and pile up costs for gasoline and new parts. New wrist-pins mean tearing down the entire motor-block.

Guard against these internal strains. Use Bethlehem individually tested spark plugs in every cylinder—surefire Bethlehem. Improved engineering ideas reduce liability of fouling. Special-formula porcelain reduces breakage and current-loss to a minimum.

Realize what a vital link in the power-chain is the spark plug. Write for a copy of "Hit or Miss?", which tells you which particular Bethlehem plug is best suited to your particular need.

New standards of manufacture set new standards of performance

"Will set new standards of performance and long life"—that is what automotive authorities said of the new series Marmon 34 with High Efficiency Motor, when it was first exhibited at the New York Show.

Their predictions have been verified. The exceptional fineness of manufacture which is a distinguishing feature of the new Marmon 34 has proved in practice what it promised in theory. It has proved its value, in the smooth, liquid flow of power, in the surprising flexibility of the motor, in the freedom from vibration at all speeds.

No matter how many fine cars you have owned and driven, there is a new motoring sensation in store for you when you drive the new Marmon 34. We shall be glad to give you a demonstration.

COLORED WOMEN START DRIVE FOR CLUB HOME

MONEY TO BE SOLICITED FROM MEMBERS OF RACE.

ENTERTAINMENT IS PLANNED

The Woman's Club, the oldest club among the colored women of this city, opened a city-wide campaign this week to raise money to begin paying for a club home, to be used primarily as a home for girls and women. Miss Flora Harper is chairman of the finance committee, other members of the committee being Mrs. C. I. Taylor, Mrs. H. L. Herod, Mrs. Dove Smith, Mrs. Alice Frazier, Mrs. Mayme Shelton and Mrs. Elizabeth Coleman. The colored citizens will be solicited directly, and in addition to the contributions the club is arranging to give an entertainment at Tomlinson hall to raise money.

A home where girls and women can be accommodated is among the urgent needs of the city. Since the colored women's branch of the Y. W. C. A. was closed there has been no place where women and girls could be taken with any degree of protection, other than that afforded in the ordinary rooming house. The home is especially needed to care for transients who find it impossible to obtain satisfactory accommodations on account of the congested housing conditions.

It is the plan of the women to obtain a site centrally and conveniently situated, and manage it much on the plan of the modern club home of the larger cities.

The Woman's Club has been active in relief work among colored people for many years, and has done much relief work through its volunteer friendly visitor. In recent years it has taken up the problem of educating a young girl and she will complete her high school course this year. Mrs. Crecila Lee is the president.

WEEK'S NEWS OF PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Next Week in the Local Playhouses

BOOTH TARKINGTON'S new comedy, "Clarence," which has attracted much favorable comment during its long runs in New York and Chicago, comes to English's Monday for a week's stay. Like other Tarkington pieces, this is a comedy of character rather than plot. The hero, a demobilized soldier, but not a military hero, is a shy young man, not a caricature, but a queer, awkward, unsocial individual looking for a job. He finds employment in the home of a rich man with an interesting family. In the hostile, electric atmosphere of this home Clarence expands in unexpected fashion. The friction between the members of the family gives him a job that he can handle. The two children are Tarkington adolescents. The girl, Cora, is a spoiled child of sixteen, sentimental, modern, pretty and impertinent. The son, a little older, fancies himself a man of the world. A step-mother who is jealous of the governess completes the list of characters. Gregory Kelly and Ruth Gordon, who have been playing the son and daughter with the Chicago company for some four months, will be seen here, as will the entire Chicago production. The title role will be played by Robert Adams, and others in the cast are: Grace Filkins, Betty Murray, Byron Beasley, Guy D'Ennery, Clare Blandick, Joe Wallace and James T. Ford.

Reginald DeKoven's light opera, "Robin Hood," will be the last attraction of the regular season at English's. It is booked for the entire week of May 3.

Murat.

The Murat will be dark for professional engagements the first half of next week. The latter half of the week the bill is "The Riddle: Woman," with Bertha Kalich in the leading role. The star will bring the company which has been playing with her in New York and Chicago. The play, adapted from European sources, concerns the social conventions and their successful breaking. Mrs. Olrik, the wife of an important shipowner, is a woman of temperament. As a young girl she had yielded to the persuasions of a titled villiain, who reappears in her life long after her marriage. He is determined to replenish his coffers, and a wealthy young heiress, a friend of Mrs. Olrik, is chosen as the bride-to-be. With unconsidered generosity, Mrs. Olrik reveals the man's purpose to the girl. He threatens to tell Olrik of her former relations with him, but his evil intentions are thwarted by the extraordinary tolerance and unexpected knowledge possessed by Olrik. The supporting company includes Charles Millward, Frank Burbeck, Adele Klaer, Jack Roseleigh, Paget Hunter, Alice Haines, Esther Morgan, Jane Seymour and Lottie Salisbury.

"The Smarter Set" is announced for a booking at the Murat about the middle of May. On Monday, May 31, the Stuart Walker Company will open for its fourth season of stock in Indianapolis. The first play to be given is "A Very Good Young Man." The list of plays for the season and the personnel of the company are not yet definitely known, but a number of the old favorites will return.

MARIE CAHILL —B.F.KEITH'S

FRANCES CLARE —LYRIC

B. F. Keith's.

Marie Cahill, star of musical comedy, appears at Keith's next week for the first time in local vaudeville. Miss Cahill is filling a few weeks in the "two-a-day" with a musical offering, "Cahillisms of 1920," which serves to introduce several new songs, together with a medley of songs made popular in former musical successes. Marie and Mary McFarland will present a program which embraces a wide range of music. Bert Baker and company will be seen in a one-act farce, "Prevarication." The scene is laid in a business man's office, where "hubby" has trouble explaining some matters to friend wife. Maleta Bonconi, violinist, returns after an absence of two years with a varied repertory. Jimmy Fallon and Russ Brown, former privates in the 27th division overseas, will offer their comedy, "Gee, It's Great to Get Back." Billy McDermott, billed as "the only survivor of Coxey's army," is a character comedian. Reno is a pantomimic comedian. Paul and Mae Nolan are jugglers. The kinogram news weekly and clippings from the daily papers will also be shown on the screen.

Lyric.

Willie Zimmerman, who entertained vaudeville patrons for years with his impersonations of famous band masters, comes to the Lyric next week in a new act. He has taken the peace table in Paris as the setting of his offering and presents a series of impersonations of the dignitaries who had a hand in drawing up the peace treaty. Rawson and Claire will return in their sketch of childhood humor and pathos, "Yesterdays." Another featured offering will be the Five Violin Misses. Completing the bill will be the Chalfonte sisters, singers and dancers; Lew Carl anl Inez Dolly in nonsensical oddities; Skipper, Kennedy and Reeves, a trio of fun makers; Nixon and Sans, blackface comedians who call their act "Hotel Happenings," and motion pictures of the recent Stetcher-Caddock world's championship wrestling match.

Tarkington's "Clarence" and Other Notes and Comment on Things Theatrical

[By W. F. McDermott]

THE VISIT of "Clarence" next week is of unusual local importance. Not only is its author of Indianapolis, but two of its prominent players, Gregory Kelly and Ruth Gordon, are citizens by adoption through their association for successive summers with the Stuart Walker Company in its Murat engagements. "Clarence," moreover, has been accepted generally both by professional critics and by those who pay for their seats as Mr. Tarkington's best play.

Heywood Broun, the competent and seldom estatic reviewer of the New York Tribune, called it, as readers of theatrical advertising may be informed, "the best light comedy written by an American." That covers a wide if not especially rich territory, ignoring the question suggested as to what a "heavy" comedy might be. The paid play commentators made a complete about-face on "Clarence." Mr. Tarkington's plays, as he himself has publicly noted, whether successful or not, have been received by reviewers generally either hostilely or with cold neutrality. After each successive production of his play work almost from "The Man From Home" onward, the critical chain gang would solemnly agree that Mr. Tarkington was a great novelist, until the author was moved to wonder if his books might not eventually "persuade litterary critics" that he was a playwright. So strong was Mr. Tarkington's conviction that play critics could not regard his plays as anything except something not so good as his novels that he seriously considered writing "Clarence" under a pen name in order to obtain a fair hearing for it. He ventured this idea in a letter to George Tyler, the producer, who apparently dissuaded him. "Clarence," at any rate, went out under the Tarkington label. It was more generously and unanimously whooped up both in New York and Chicago than any comedy of the season. The reviewers who only a few weeks previously had emphatically set it down that Tarkington could not write a play were bowled over and profusely apologetic. Hardly a dissenting voice has been heard in the chorus of ardent commendation. More important, the comedy for many weeks continued to break all records in the matter of receipts for plays of the kind.

Not having seen every comedy, light or heavy, written by an American, the present observer is unprepared to say that "Clarence" is the best of the lot. It is, however, a first-rate play, shrewdly observant, droll, and smoothly written, altogether lacking in the current hackneyed clap-trap of sentiment and situation. The ordinary theatergoer will find it capital diversion and those who bother about literature will find it a sound and honest piece of writing as well. It was excellently acted in New York by a company that included Alfred Lunt in the name part, Helen Hayes and Glenn Hunter. The personnel of the Chicago company, which will be seen here, gives promise of a presentation as adequate as that given in New York. Of the ability of two of the important players at least Indianapolis playgoers have full knowledge.

One result of the association of A. L. Erlanger and Florenz Ziegfeld is a proposal to star Leon Errol, the droll souse of by-gone "Follies," in a new play written for him by George M. Cohan. Errol was "discovered" by Ziegfeld years ago in a Philadelphia burlesque theater. Both he and Cohan are convinced that Errol can do other things as well as that with which he has built a reputation in America and England.

The success of "The Master Thief," on which Indianapolis recently had opportunity to pass judgment, has moved Oliver Morosco to buy another play from Edward E. Rose called "The Rose of the Getto," if the press agent is an authoritative speller. The elevation of Mr. Rose to an accepted position as a contributor to the $2.50 drama is one of the significant incidents of this theatrical epoch. Formerly he was a most prolific carpenter of ten-twenty-thirty cent drama.

The old Indianapolis Park theater has rung many a time with the screams of his heroines and deviltries of his villains. He was the author of melodramas that became classics on the popular circuits and were played year after year, and no season passed without a new spinetickler from his facile pen. Now the old Stair & Havlin wheel has passed on and he has no place wherein to exhibit his genius except the higher-priced theaters. Apparently, he is having no trouble in disposing of his work to a new clientele. He dramatized a play in which Tom Wise was seen here not long ago and he was the adaptor of "Penrod." To his new field he is carrying, though not so obviously in the latter, the same point of view and methods that brought success in the old thirty-cent drama. "The Master Thief" was the sort of play that Rose has written many times over for the Park theater audiences—the same screaming heroines, dictographs, detectives, wireless apparatus, noise, last-act rescues, Irish comedy, hokum, claptrap. His new audiences may snicker a bit when the old ones used to weep and hiss the villain, but they go to his plays.

"My Lady Friends," a musical play submitted to Indianapolis audiences before its metropolitan premiere, is doing quite well in New York, thereby encouraging the producer, H. H. Frazee, to try it again with a piece called "Ladies' Day." Which proves once more that you never can tell. "My Lady Friends" was an entertaining frivolity, well enough acted and up to Broadway standard as they are currently revealed hereabouts, but not as successful in realizing its unambitious ends as "For the Defense," a mystery melodrama in which Richard Bennett was starred and which was likewise revealed here preliminary to a New York engagement. "For the Defense" lingered very briefly in the metropolis and is now resting in the obscurity of the storehouse, while "My Lady Friends" lives prosperously on.

Trust New York for accurate information respecting the hinterland. The following is from the New York Telegraph:

"Every theatrical man, except a novice, and every company and advance agent, recalls the Denison theater in Indianapolis, which has been on the map for thirty-eight years. That veteran of the drama is to end its career tonight and a new office building and theater are to replace it. The building will cost $2,000,000, which sum is regarded in Indiana almost as a scandal."

The Denison was the scene of many a drama, but not that kind.

The leggy dancer, La Sylphe, of Georgie White's "Scandals," has been re-engaged for the new edition of the attraction. She was one of the interesting features of the 1919 show, but hardly had a chance to extend herself. In the new number she will have more opportunity and something in the way of special scenic embellishment.

WITH THE STARS OF MOVIELAND.

"The Virgin of Stamboul," regarded as one of the big pictures of the year, with Priscilla Dean in the leading role, is the feature attraction at the Circle all of the week. The story, by H. H. VanLoan, unfolds the life of the mysterious east, and reveals the customs of the Turk and the Arab, from the mosque at Constantinople to the great Arabian desert. A gorgeous stage tableaux representing a street in Constantinople, with its beggars, caravans, musicians and people has been prepared by Zimmerer, the Circle's art director. Musical setting for the play on the screen and for the stage setting has been prepared by Ernest Schmidt and will be interpreted by the Circle orchestra.

"Old Lady 31," the quaint comedy of simple folk by Rachel Crothers, starring Emma Dunn, will be the feature picture at the Ohio all this week. Miss Dunn created the leading role of Angie Rose in the stage production. She is the faithful wife of Captain Abe Rose, a seafaring man, whose improvident ways have brought him to the verge of poverty. Angie never reproaches Abe, even when their home slips from them and all their earthly possessions must be sold. The action of the story takes place in a home for aged women, where Angie is admitted, and Abe is admitted disguised as "Old Lady 31." Henry Harmon, who played Abe on the stage, creates the role in the screen version. Others in the cast are Winifred Westover, Antrim Short, Graham Prttir, Lawrence Underwood, Clara Knott, Carrie Clark Ward, Sadie Gordon, Martha Mattox, May Wells and Ruby Lafayette. The Indianapolis News Glee Club solo quartet, composed of Ray White, first tenor; Raymond C. Ball, second tenor; Marion Hart, first bass; Claude C. Lloyd, second bass, will sing at evening performances during the week.

Light comedy is mixed with drama in "A Fool and His Money," starring Eugene O'Brien, the feature at the Colonial all the week. The picture is founded on the story by George Barr McCutcheon, and is staged among the most picturesque settings. O'Brien is seen in the role of John B. Smart, an American author, who buys an old castle on the Danube and goes there seeking "atmosphere," for a novel as well as peace and quiet for himself. A charming "ghost" appears and one adventure swiftly leads to another ending in an unusually delightful climax. In addition to the feature Snub Pollard is seen in one of his latest comedies, and a prizma subject and the current news weekly are also shown.

J. Warren Kerrigan, in his new picture "$30,000," the feature attraction at the Alhambra the first half of the week, bumps into a cyclone of excitement in the role of a lawyer who attempts to recover a diamond necklace stolen by a criminal who operates a gambling den. The sum of $30,000 is left with him as a ransom, but it is stolen from his office before he has a chance to accomplish his mission. He goes to the gambling place where he wins $30,000 at roulette. He receives in pay for his checks a necklace of paste jewels and he leads a raid that results in a revolver battle, and the recovery of the real diamonds.

"The Amateur Wife," in which Irene Castle will be seen at the Isis the first half of the week, presents her in the role of an awkward, grotesquely dressed girl just out of a French convent. Tragedy overtakes the girl when her mother meets death at the hands of a jealous lover. Prompted by sympathy a man about town, offers to marry her. She accepts his proposal, but the marriage is anything but successful, largely because of her unsophisticated ways. But the story leads to an unexpected conclusion and Mrs. Castle has an opportunity to wear some striking gowns of her own design.

Sylvia Breamer and Robert Gordon are the stars in "My Husband's Other Wife," the attraction at Smith's all of the week. The title excites the interest and it is said that the picture can not fail to do otherwise, for it is built on one of the most dramatic situations in either life or fiction. The situations involved are most unusual and bewildering. Supporting Miss Breamer and Mr. Gordon are Warren Chandler, May McAvoy, Fanny Rice, Gus Alexander, Eddie Dunn and Margaret Barry.

A story of love and pathos is "The Broken Butterfly," starring Lew Cody, the feature at the Crystal all the week. The picture is founded on the novel by Penelope Knapp. Cody is seen in the role of Darrell Thorne, a young composer who goes to the Canadian woods seeking inspiration for a symphony. There he is attracted by the strange beauty of Marcene whom he finds living with an old woman who poses as her aunt but who in reality kidnapped the girl from her father who had jilted her. Many adventures make the picture one of the most interesting kind.

A program made up of short reels will be featured at the Regent the first half of the week. Franklyn Farnum is the star of "Hell's Fury Gordon," a stirring story of the west; Snub Pollard is featured in one of his latest comedies, "Shoot on Sight," another two-reel comedy, "The Janitor's Harem," and a novelty single reel also will be shown.

MILLIONS INVOLVED IN WAR CONTRACT FRAUDS

U. S. UNCOVERS MANY ILLEGAL TRANSACTIONS

PAYMENTS ARE HELD UP

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Attorney-General Palmer has announced that investigation by the department of justice of alleged fraudulent war contracts had "uncovered illegal transactions involving millions of dollars," and that through civil and criminal prosecutions now completed or under way large sums would be saved for the government.

"Questionable vouchers unearthed in one class of contracts alone have resulted in the withholding of payments by the government amounting to approximately $4,420,000," the department said in a statement. "These contracts have been under investigation for months and they affect a very restricted area. Reports to the department indicate that, as a result of indictments already returned against fifteen defendants in the northern Pacific division at Seattle, about $150,000 will be recovered from shipbuilders and former representatives of the United States shipping board emergency fleet corporation in that section. Similar cases in the same district involving approximately $265,000 will be presented to grand juries within the next few days.

"The bureau of investigation of the department now has before it fifteen large fraud cases in which special investigations have been ordered. All of these involve large sums claimed from the government. One of them, which is now being prepared for presentation to the grand jury in Ohio, involves $325,000."

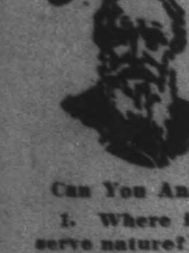
John Burroughs' Nature Notes



Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Where is the best place to observe nature?
2. Why is the porcupine a stupid animal?
3. Do birds ever fly very high in the air?

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Is the cuckoo a night bird?

I am convinced that our cuckoo is to a considerable extent a night bird, and that he moves about freely from tree to tree. His peculiar gutteral note, now here, now there, may be heard almost any summer night, in any part of the country, and occasionally his better known cuckoo call. He is a great recluse by day, but seems to wander abroad freely by night.

2. Is stormy weather necessarily forecast by clouds?

When the atmosphere is telescopic, and distant objects stand out unusually clear and sharp, a storm is near. We are on the crest of the wave, and the depression follows quickly. It often happens that clouds are not so indicative of a storm as the total absence of clouds. In this state of the atmosphere the stars are unusually numerous and bright at night, which is also a bad omen.

3. Are wasps hatched from spiders?

Pliny, who embodied the science of his times in his natural history, says of the wasp that it carries spiders to its nest, and then sits on them until it hatches its young from them. A little careful observation would have shown him that this was only a half truth; that the whole truth is that the spiders are entombed with the egg of the wasp to serve as food for the young when the egg is hatched.

THIRTEEN THEATERS IN "MONUMENT LOOP" DISTRICT NOT ENOUGH TO KEEP THE OLD TOWN ENTERTAINED

Interesting Theatrical Situation Develops in the Building of the New Loew Vaudeville Theater in Pennsylvania Street and the Proposed Picture House of the Lasky-Famous Players in the English Hotel Block—Illinois Street Now the "Gay White Way," With Pennsylvania Street's Side of the "Loop" Bidding for the Honor.

(By William Herschell)

WHAT is the limit of Indianapolis's demand for amusement? The day does not pass without its rumors of another theater in what is known as "Monument loop," the four streets bounding the Indiana Soldiers and Sailors' Monument—Washington, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania streets. Last week the story was current that the Denison hotel was to be replaced with a new hotel and theater, the cost of which would run into millions. Gossip frequently slips the tip that a new picture house, more magnificent than any yet built, soon is to supplant the Vinton-Pierce building at the southwest corner of Pennsylvania and Market streets. Other equally desirable sites get in on the rumors.

Wreckers are at work razing several buildings at Pennsylvania and Court streets, where the Marcus Loew theatrical interests are to erect the Loew theater and cater to the demand for popular-priced vaudeville. The cost of the new theater is to mount into seven figures, and it will be a beautiful amusement house. The B. F. Keith theater, which plays metropolitan vaudeville, is to close for a time this summer to make important changes and improvements.

Theaters in the Loop.

"Monument loop" has undergone many interesting changes in a theatrical way in the last fifteen years. The moving picture, of course, has been responsible for most of the changes and there now are thirteen theaters in the "loop," ten of which specialize in pictures. Two of them, B. F. Keith's and the Lyric, make vaudeville their features, but use pictures as "added attractions." English's is the one theater in the "loop" not playing pictures during the regular season, but it usually has "movies" when running through the summer.

The Orpheum was the original picture house in the "loop." It was in Washington street, near Pennsylvania street, on the site of the W. K. Stewart book store. East of it, in Washington street, is the Bijou theater, one of the pioneer movie houses of the city. It and a theater known as the Nickelodeon, which was in the old Occidental hotel building in South Illinois street, played pictures when there was more flicker than picture, and it only cost a nickel to see the show. The Alhambra, in Washington street, near Illinois street, has grown from a small picture house to one of the city's largest. It, too, is a pioneer in the picture business. Other picture houses in the "loop" are the Isis, Crystal, Royal, Smith's, Palms, Keystone, Ohio and the costly and capacious Circle, one of the finest picture houses in the country.

English's, a pioneer legitimate theater in the English hotel block, and the Circle theater, in the southeast segment of Monument Circle, are the only theaters directly fronting the Monument. A realty transaction made on December 17 of last year gives promise of a third theater there, however, one that will go into competition with the Circle. If the tentative plans are carried to completion the Market street end of the English hotel building will, in 1921, become the site of a motion picture house operated by the Lasky-Famous Players combination. The Lasky-Famous Players' plan is to build a large picture house, seating approximately 3,000 persons and fronting in Market street. The north wall of the Lasky-Famous Players' house would run almost to the south wall of English's theater. Immediately west of the Lasky-Famous Players' theater site is the Royal, a movie house catering largely to thrillers.

Changes Are Interesting.

It is interesting to follow the changes theatrically in the "Monument loop" district in fifteen years. It seems only a little while since the old Grand opera house and English's theater were the only amusement centers in the district bounded by Washington, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania streets. The Grand, long a legitimate theater playing stars of the first magnitude theatrically, became a vaudeville theater after the passing of the locally famous Grand stock company, which was one of the most popular organizations that ever played in Indianapolis. Elita Proctor Otis was the leading woman and had a wonderful following in this city. Then came vaudeville of the Orpheum circuit and the Grand continued in that program for several seasons.

About ten years ago the B. F. Keith interests took over the theater. For several seasons it was known as Keith's Grand, the Keith interests being smart enough to identify the name of Grand with the old house. And there are hundreds in Indianapolis, who still speak of going to the Grand, although that name has been dropped by the management.

Only Memories Left.

The building of the Lemcke Annex, of which the Keith theater is a part, caused the old Grand and its memories and traditions to undergo a change. Keith vaudeville now holds the house through both winter and summer seasons, but the oldtimers delight in recalling when Denman Thompson, Joseph Jefferson and other famous stars trod the boards of the Grand. English's opera house has continued with its policy of legitimate attractions during the winter season. During the last seven summers it has gone into popular-priced vaudeville and pictures.

Just what effect the building of the new Loew theater is going to have on the Illinois street "Gay White Way" will be interesting to observe. The Loew circuit plays popular-priced vaudeville. The Lyric, the big theater of the Illinois street amusement district, also plays popular-priced vaudeville. The Lyric is surrounded by motion picture houses that draw an immense patronage. Illinois street's "Gay White Way" is a lively place after 6 o'clock in the evening. Then the throngs begin to appear and they pour into the Isis, the Keystone, the Crystal, the Ohio, Smith's, the Palms and the Royal for pictures. The vaudeville fans take to the Lyric, which runs continuous variety from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 11 o'clock at night.

Changes in Sight.

The Circle theater, which has done an immense business since its opening four years ago, draws crowds into Monument Circle, and has served to create rivalry for the picture houses in the "Gay White Way." B. F. Keith's has played an important role in attracting amusement seekers into Pennsylvania street. The new Loew house will be another factor in the Pennsylvania street business. When the Lasky-Famous Players' house opens it will be expected to help hold the business in the Illinois street district. The Alhambra, in Washington street, has a loyal clientele that keeps the ticket seller busy. The Colonial, in Illinois street, one block north of the "loop," has been going big during the winter season. The Rialto, Regent and Broadway are attracting crowds south of Washington street.

Sizing up the situation from the viewpoint of business in the box office, it looks as if a merry battle soon is to begin for "Gay White Way" honors in Indianapolis. B. F. Keith's, the Circle and Loew's are on the Pennsylvania street side of the "loop." The Illinois street show clan will go the limit to keep the crowds going that way. The coming of the Lasky-Famous Players' theater to the Illinois street end of the "loop" will favor that clan.

But Why Worry.

But why should any of them worry? All the theaters in the "loop" district and outside of it are playing to capacity business every night. What effect the new theaters will have on a division of this business is yet to be seen. The new Loew and the new Lasky-Famous Players' house will make fifteen theaters in the "loop," and unquestionably more are to come if rumors are worth consideration.

The Pennsylvania street clan has on its side of the line the Little Theater Society, for that organization maintains its workshops and studio in the Vinton-Pierce building at Pennsylvania and Market streets. And, although well removed from the Pennsylvania street end of the "loop," the Murat theater has its theatrical influence on that side of the Monument.

Just how many more theaters will it take to meet the Indianapolis demand for amusement?

THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD

Two letters for me, in the morning mail; one from the Cynic, saying "thank you" as only he can say it, for our hospitality of a few days ago, and one from Margaret and Doris, filled with all the dear nonsense that womenfolk write to their nearer-than-kinfolks.

Sometimes I wonder, a bit wistfully, if I'll lose the little girl who has been mine for so many years, when I gain a daughter-in-law. If I do, I'll never forgive that boy of mine! Probably something of the sort was in Doris's mind, the other day, when she perched her small self on my chair arm, and asked, in a perfectly serious tone, what she was going to call me, after next June.

"You see, dear," she said, "I can't go on calling you 'Aunt Mary Ellen,' and if I call you 'Mother Machree,' I won't seem any more kin to you than other folks who do that."

Margaret smiled serenely. "Bob and I fixed our part of the problem, while he was at home," she volunteered. "He says 'Mother Margaret' sounds even better to him, than 'Aunt Margaret.'"

"Mother—Mary—Ellen," Doris tried it, slowly and tentatively, and then slipped her arm around my shoulder. "I guess you've been my Aunt Mary Ellen a lot longer than Bob's been anything at all to me——" she began, but I interrupted her.

"I think, my dear," I said, "that you'll have to admit that Bob's been something to you ever since you were old enough to toddle at his heels, while he dragged a protesting pup with one hand, and carried your doll cradle in the other. Do you remember Speckles, Doris?"

Doris smiled reminiscently. "Do you remember," she asked, "the time we played circus out in your woodshed, and Speckles was a leopard, because he was decorated with such realistic spots?"

Margaret groaned in mock anguish. "Never mind about all that," she exclaimed, "daughter!"

"We endured enough at your hands, along about that time, without having to relive any of the agony of it. But I can still see that little procession, Mary Ellen," she added; "Eloise and Bob in front, playing pioneers, more than likely, because that always gave Bob a chance to see Indians behind the currant bushes; and that long-suffering pup tugging along at the end of a string. Yes, Doris, I agree with your Aunt Mary Ellen that fate certainly intended you two for one another, and began the training process very early!"

"She means by that, Aunt Mary Ellen," said Doris, "that I'll be tagging at Bob's heels as long as I live!"

"That's a dare, for me," I said, "to tell you how utterly miserable you made him for a few years, my dear; but I don't want to spoil you by any such tale! However, I'll admit that it was very good training for him."

Doris sat very quietly for a moment, and then slipped down off my chair arm, with a murmured word about the children, and joined them on the porch. Margaret's eyes met mine with a pathetic little smile. "I wouldn't admit it to Bob, Mary Ellen," she said "and Doris would probably deny it earnestly to all of us, but Bob has a lot to answer for, over the shadows that have come into her eyes, a few times!"

"But he has always loved her," I protested. "I don't thing he has ever wavered for an instant in his genuine loyalty toward her." Then I made an unfortunate remark: "I've never doubted for a moment during all these years that these children of ours would marry some day."

Margaret stiffened slightly and then relaxed with a wry little smile. "Oh, Mary Ellen!" she exclaimed, "it would be rather far-fetched for me to remind you that Doris isn't the sort of girl whose love any man could calmly take for granted. It would be almost as much an insult as though I told you that you hadn't brought up Bob properly, and it's hard to say where your training left off and mine began with either of them. But it has occurred to me that Doris had to defend herself against the three of us. And there's nothing more certain to antagonize a girl than the calm assumption that she does care."

Then we both smiled reminiscently, for every woman has tucked away in her memory one or more stories of romance that were blasted by the too cordial approval of the heroine's family, and all too often the antagonism of her family arouses in a girl's heart a sweet sympathy which she will probably mistake for love. The tragedy of it is that all too often the man never has anything to offer her but more cause for more sympathy as the years roll by.

I had become so absorbed in my letters and the memories they aroused that the Little Mother's presence in the dining room doorway startled me. That she was worried was obvious, and that the letter she carried was the reason for her perplexity was even more certain.

"Mother Machree, will you listen to this? Did you ever get one of these endless chain letters?"

Then she read a rambling sort of an epistle which began with "God bless our soldiers and sailors," and ended with a dire threat of tragedy if the chain were broken by her refusal to copy it seven times and mail it to "seven married ladies." As a postscript it was remarked that these prayers originated on the battlefield.

"Well, I'll take issue with that last statement to begin with," I told her. "It occurs to me that our boys were quite too busy attending to the affair in hand over there on the battlefields to start anything like that." Emma's shining face appeared in the background. "Is you-all goin' to make that there sta'ch fo' me?" she inquired, and then her gaze dropped to the sheet in the Little Mother's hand. "Wha's mattah, honey? Is you-all gettin' bad news fum some o' youh relations?"

The Little Mother gave a little vexed laugh, and explained that she was just annoyed because of the absurdity of such a letter. Emma's eyes rolled in grave concern.

"Don' you go talkin' lak that, honey," she warned. "You-all bettah git youah pencil and papeh and set youhself right down and git that lettah wrote! Sumpin's sho t' happen to you, ef you don't do lak they tells you!"

"That's nonsense, Emma," I began, but the Little Mother interrupted by asking gravely: "Did you ever receive a letter like this, Emma?"

"Ah sho did! Ah 'spect Ah's got mo' of dem kin' of lettahs dan any cullud lady in ouah chu'ch," she proudly proclaimed. "And Ah's a-tellin' you that it's sho bad luck to not answer them, jes lak they says! Why, Ah could tell you," she continued earnestly, "of all kinds o' things that sho happened to folks what thinks they's too smart to call on de Lawd A'mighty in a prayeh lak that." This with an ominous frown for me.

"Well, you'll have to admit," I began my defense, "that more of them are written through fear than through any feeling of religious devotion."

"Ah don' know about that," her tone was one of stern reproof, "but Ah' jes tells you oncet mo that you-all will sho know what trouble means."

Then, to clinch her argument, she told the sad story of Sistah Althena Myrtilla Jackson, who "mighty nigh sprained her wrist, the first day afteh she got a praeh letteh."

"Well, I broke my wrist a few years ago, Emma, and that was surely worse than a sprain, and I hadn't disregarded any such letter, or anything of that kind," I told her.

"You sho'ly had done sumpin," she answered suspiciously.

"Oh yes, I admit that I 'done something'," I agreed. "I threw out my arm to save myself from a nasty fall, and it snapped. That was all there was to it."

But she was not to be cheated out of a sensation, and eagerly inquired if I recollected whether I had broken a looking glass, within about seven years.

"More than likely," I told her cheerfully, "I've broken enough mirrors to guarantee my having nothing but bad luck for ninety and nine years."

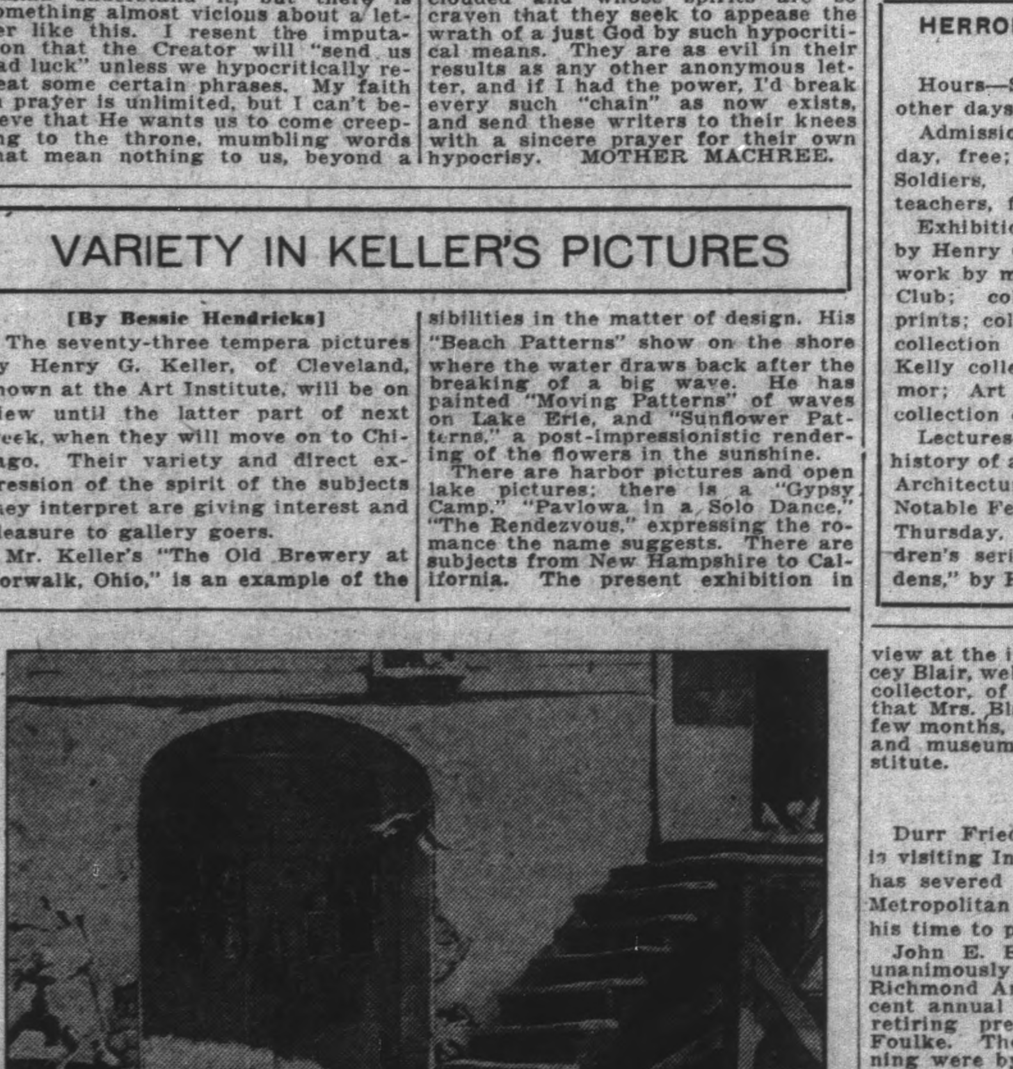
She shook her head as though my case were beyond hope, and sorrowfully followed the Little Mother to the kitchen and the clothes that were waiting to be starched.

I don't suppose I can ever make Emma understand it, but there is something almost vicious about a letter like this. I resent the imputation that the Creator will "send us bad luck" unless we hypocritically repeat some certain phrases. My faith in prayer is unlimited, but I can't believe that He wants us to come creeping to the throne, mumbling words that mean nothing to us, beyond a chance to escape misfortune. If bad luck, so-called, comes to me, it is because I have deserved it, and I should be worse than a coward to annoy my Creator with a whining appeal to be saved from the results of my own folly. The chances are that nine out of ten of these letters are written by women whose consciences are so clouded and whose spirits are so craven that they seek to appease the wrath of a just God by such hypocritical means. They are as evil in their results as any other anonymous letter, and if I had the power, I'd break every such "chain" as now exists, and send these writers to their knees with a sincere prayer for their own hypocrisy. MOTHER MACHREE.

VARIETY IN KELLER'S PICTURES

[By Bessie Hendricks]

The seventy-three tempera pictures by Henry G. Keller, of Cleveland, shown at the Art Institute, will be on view until the latter part of next week, when they will move on to Chicago. Their variety and direct expression of the spirit of the subjects they interpret are giving interest and pleasure to gallery goers.



"OLD BREWERY AT NORWALK, O.," BY H. G. KELLER.

Mr. Keller's "The Old Brewery at Norwalk, Ohio," is an example of the artist's realism. The picturesque old building is painted in harmonious detail.

There is a touch of humor in "Gallantry in the Garden," realistically painted. An imposing red-combed rooster is giving way chivalrously to a little brown hen in the matter of a tempting grasshopper. The artist expresses cold somberness in "A Raw Winter Evening," one of the tonal paintings. The tired horses pulling homeward, showing dimly against the sky at the crest of the hill, add to the sentiment in the picture.

Mr. Keller sees "patterns" in an interesting way that wakes one to possibilities in the matter of design. His "Beach Patterns" show on the shore where the water draws back after the breaking of a big wave. He has painted "Moving Patterns" of waves on Lake Erie, and "Sunflower Patterns," a post-impressionistic rendering of the flowers in the sunshine.

There are harbor pictures and open lake pictures; there is a "Gypsy Camp," "Pavlowa in a Solo Dance," "The Rendezvous," expressing the romance the name suggests. There are subjects from New Hampshire to California. The present exhibition in tempera brings a desire to see Mr. Keller's work in other mediums.

The series of early Japanese prints from George C. Calvert's collection, now on view in the lecture room, will be replaced after Sunday by a number of his Japanese prints of a later period.

Professor Alfred Mansfield Brooks, of the Indiana University, curator of prints of the Herron museum, will lecture on "Botticelli as an Illustrator of Dante" in the lecture room at 3:30 on Sunday afternoon.

A collection of pictures and art objects of the pioneer period of Indianapolis will be exhibited at the Art Institute during the centennial celebration in June.

Interesting visitors to the Art Institute on Wednesday were Wayman Adams, the portrait painter; Mrs. Charlotte Herbine Mock, whose collection of antique furniture and other interesting objects has long been on view at the institute, and Mrs. Chauncey Blair, well-known connoisseur and collector, of New York. It is hoped that Mrs. Blair will, within the next few months, lend some of her pictures and museum objects to the Art Institute.

John E. Bundy, the painter, was unanimously made president of the Richmond Art Association at the recent annual meeting in place of the retiring president, William Dudley Foulke. The addresses of the evening were by Mr. Foulke and Harold Haven Brown, director of the Herron Art Institute.

Clifton A. Wheeler will paint a portrait before the members of the Indiana Artists' Club and their guests next Wednesday evening. The meeting will be held in the rooms of the Woman's City Club, on the invitation of Miss Ann Todd, executive secretary. The artists and guests will begin the evening with a dinner in the Woman's City Club dining room.

A group of batik pieces by Mrs. Ida Strawn Baker and Miss Henrietta Coleman, art director of the Rushville schools, and a number of pieces of costume jewelry by Mrs. Alfred Potts, have been accepted by the Boston Society of Arts and Crafts. Acceptance of work admits craft workers into membership in the Boston organization.

A writer in the current number of the American Art News, speaking of the pictures in the twenty-seventh annual exhibition of work by members of the Women Painters' and Sculptors' Association, says: "Coast of Maine," by Susan Ketcham, is proof of her knowledge and understanding of the subject." Miss Ketcham went from Indianapolis to New York a number of years ago. Her summers are spent on the Maine coast.

RAILROAD'S VALUATION FOR TAXATION UPHELD

MASTER IN CHANCERY RULES ON TAX BOARD'S FIGURES.

COMPLAINT BY C. & E. ROAD

The valuation of $22,000,000 placed on the Chicago & Erie Railroad Company by the state board of tax commissioners for the purpose of taxation is approximately the true cash value of the property, according to a report filed late Friday by Charles Martindale, master in chancery, of the federal court.

Rules For Dismissal.

The report was made in the case filed recently in the federal court by Walker D. Hines, director-general of the United States railroad administration, on behalf of the C. & E. against the state tax board to enjoin the latter from taxing the road on the valuation established by the board. The master in chancery ruled that the bill of complaint should be dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

In its bill of complaint, the railroad company stated that it, as a railroad corporation, was assessed out of proportion to other classes of property in Indiana. In this relation the master observed that the board effected an assessment increase of 2.6 times in all property and of 2.8 times in railroad property. He explains that this is due to the fact that other properties were assessed proportionately higher under the former tax law.

Board's Method Approved.

In another part of its complaint the company alleged that the board should have given paramount consideration to its net earnings, which were averred to be insufficient to bear a tax burden of the size to be levied. The master found no fault with the method of the board in assessing on the basis of the company's balance sheet valuations of investments.

FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

James D. Odell, Indicted With Bride, to Die Week of June 13.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 24.—After deliberating for eleven hours and fifty minutes, a supreme court jury last night brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree against James D. Odell, indicted with his wife, Pearl Beaver Odell, for the murder of Edward J. Kneip on the night of January 7. Immediately after the verdict was announced Odell was sentenced by Justice Robert Thompson to die in the week of June 13.

The crime of which Odell and his bride of a month were accused and which police and county officers say they confessed was described by county officials as most brutal.

Young Kneip, whom Mrs. Odell accused of causing her downfall, was taken in a taxicab from the factory where he worked by Odell, posing as a police officer, and after they had been joined by Mrs. Odell, the three were driven to a lonely spot south of the city. There, in the bed of the old Genesee valley canal, Kneip, according to Odell's confession and story told on the stand, was handcuffed to a tree. Mrs. Odell, according to the confession, then beat him on the head with a heavy iron file until he collapsed. He was dragged to a culvert nearby, stripped of clothing and left. Later the Odells returned to the spot and, according to their story, Kneip recovered and attacked Odell. With the aid of his wife, according to Odell's story, Kneip was beaten off and felled with a club. Mrs. Odell will go on trial May 26.

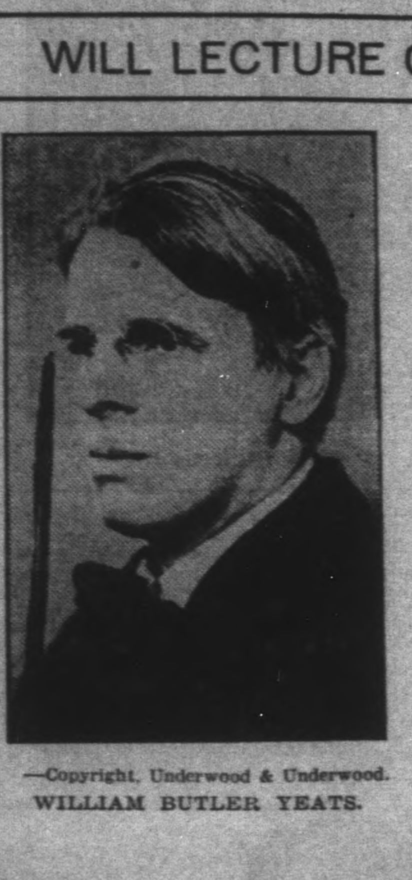
WILL LECTURE ON IRISH DRAMA



—Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

WILLIAM BUTLER YEATS.

William Butler Yeats, who will lecture on "A Theater of the People" at the Murat tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, inherently is a lyric and dramatic poet, but temporarily he turned dramatist to devote his energies to the development of an ideal—the creation of a true Irish literature and a national Irish theater. This ideal has been partly attained.

In his lecture tomorrow, Mr. Yeats will feature the Irish drama as well as the trials encountered in establishing the Abbey theater in Dublin. He has accomplished great things in the theater through his sincere enthusiasm, and after an absence of four years he returns to America at a time, it is believed, when dramatic art is getting closer to the people through the establishment of little theaters, the recognized importance of pageant and procession, and the introduction of educational dramatics in the schools.

He believes that if democracy is spreading through the world the drama of the people will become as familiar to the Irish stage as to the American stage.

Tickets for the lecture are on sale at the Ona B. Talbot office in the Hume-Mansur building. After 10 o'clock Sunday morning tickets may be obtained at the Murat box office.

Monday, May 3, Last Day

Leo K. Fesler, county auditor, has called attention to the fact that Monday, May 3, is the last day for the filing of mortgage exemptions in the auditor's office. Under the law a property owner is entitled to an exemption of $1,000 or less on the assessment of his property valuation if the property is mortgaged. At the present tax rate of $1.60 on each $100, this means a saving of $16 to the taxpayer.

"The peculiar thing about the mortgage exemptions," Mr. Fesler said, "is that the women are more prompt in filing than are the men. The women give us less trouble in filing their papers. All the papers must be on file by a week from next Monday."

Soldiers and widows of soldiers of the civil war are entitled to an additional exemption of $1,000 on their assessments and these claims must be filed by May 3, also. Only 400 of these claims have been filed, he said, and there are more than twice that number of soldiers and widows of soldiers who are entitled to the exemption in the county.

The melodeon was used again with the violin, played by Miss Ruth Fillmore, in accompaniment to a stately minuet, in which the following young women appeared: Mrs. Elizabeth Bogert Schofield, Miss Miriam Weir, Mrs. Carl Coerper, Miss Genevieve Downs, Mrs. S. D. Bash and Miss Irma Korn.

Mrs. Julian D. Hogate read a group of Sarah T. Bolton's poems, and Mrs. W. H. Ochiltree told an Indian legend. The last number was on the roof garden, when Mrs. Kate Milner Rabb, representing Old Indianapolis, told to Young Indianapolis, represented by Barbara Fowler, the story of the growth of the city.

Mrs. Long, general chairman for the affair, was assisted by a number of committees. Press Club members, in old-fashioned costumes, served tea and acted as ushers.

Y. W. C. A. Notes.

The May morning breakfast, Saturday, May 1, will begin at 6:30, for the benefit of those who must be at work early, and will continue until 9. This breakfast is an annual event. The Geneva Club, which has charge, uses the money raised to send girls who are interested in association work and who can not pay there own expenses, to the Y. W. C. A. summer conference at Lake Geneva. Tables will be in the charge of Misses Eleanora Harvey, Editt Compton, Myrtle LeFeber, Frances Newton, Edith Eldridge and Emily McCullough. Miss Augusta Hiatt, president of the Geneva Club, is chairman of the breakfast committee. The breakfast is open to the general public, and tickets may be obtained at the association.

A ruling has been made by the physical education department that all persons using the pool will be required to wear suits provided by the association. As the association can not obtain sufficient coal to heat the water in the large pool, only the small pool will be in use until the coal shortage is relieved.

The Federation of Industrial Clubs will have charge of vespers at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The program includes several musical numbers and an informal talk by Mrs. Will Adams.

Since many girls found it impossible to attend the class in bird study Saturday afternoon, plans have been made to go on the outdoor trips early Saturday morning. The indoor lessons will be held Friday evening, the first one to be Friday.

"Mothers' Night" will be observed by the members of the Federation of Industrial Clubs Wednesday, when each girl will invite her mother to be her guest at the federation supper at 6:30.

CANVASS FOR HUGE SUM WILL COVER ONE WEEK

THIRTY DENOMINATIONS HOPE TO RAISE $330,000,000

WORLD PROGRAM BUDGET

Thirty Protestant evangelical denominations in Indiana and the nation will begin Sunday what leaders term the biggest task they have ever attempted, a one-week campaign for more than $330,000,000. The money will be used by the various denominations in a world-wide program, worked out by leaders of the denominations and the interchurch world movement. This interdenominational organization is acting as the connecting link for the programs of the co-operating churches.

Throughout Indiana, ministers and laymen will begin the canvass for money at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Committees appointed by local churches, communities and counties will participate in the canvass, which is expected to provide an opportunity for every person in the state to give something for the advancement of Christianity.

In Indianapolis many hundred church members will be active in the campaign. The First Baptist church in Indianapolis has the largest quota in the state—$300,000. Ministers have preached and talked on the program of the movement for several weeks.

Many state, county and community conferences have been held. While the drive is for a total of the budgets of all denominations, amounting to $336,777,572, the part to be paid in 1920 is $175,448,349. In addition to the thirty denominations actually taking part in the campaign, a dozen have formally expressed their sympathy with the movement.

Chief Budget Items.

For work in foreign fields the denominations hope to raise $107,661,488; for home missions, $109,949,027; for American education, $78,837,431; for American religious education, $5,931,925; for American hospitals and homes, $5,118,465; for ministerial support and relief, $20,510,299 and for items such as war relief, temperance, $8,770,927.

"This campaign" said Dr. Don D. Tullis, state secretary of the interchurch world movement, "is the greatest concerted move that the Protestant churches of Indiana have ever made; that of working in unison in soliciting money from church members, friendly citizens, corporations, in fact from every person who has believed for years that the churches must be better organized and placed on an efficient business basis before progress can be made to any great extent.

Lack of System.

"Church members have been talking home missionary work for more than 100 years and many have been in even deeper sympathy with the church program that provided for the uplifting of humanity in the foreign lands. But system has been lacking in putting this program across. Churches, growing in membership and influence, have for the most part increased their benevolences accordingly, but many of the weaker congregations have all but failed in their contributions.

"Every right-thinking, broadminded man and woman will concede that no program, whether commercial or religious, can be carried out without sufficient financial backing, and while there may be individuals who will withhold their support, there will be thousands of persons who will stand ready to go the limit in order that the interchurch world movement program may not fail.

Every Item Legitimate.

"Every item included in the budgets is legitimate, every figure has been named only after expert statisticians have completed surveys that have brought out the need for adequate equipment and money that will be used in ministering to the physical as well as the mental needs of individuals.

"The success of the campaign, and that means the successful carrying out of the program, depends on just one thing, co-operation. Co-operation on the part of every person, anxious to see humanity uplifted, co-operation to the extent that pettiness and selfishness will give way to a great wholesome desire to work together, to prove beyond any doubt that every community and every town has aided in putting Indiana on the map as one of the greatest religious centers in the union."

A Call to the Comradeship of Service

"For our own sakes, for our children's sake, for the nation's sake, let us business men get behind the churches and their preachers." This is the appeal of Roger W. Babson, noted American economic and statistical expert.

"Never mind if they are not perfect," he continues, "the safety of all we have is due to the churches, even in their present inefficient and inactive state. By all that we hold dear, let us from this very day give more time, money and thought to the churches of our city for upon these the value of all we own ultimately depends."

Tomorrow there is to begin the united drive for $336,777,572, the accepted budget of the participating denominations in the Interchurch World Movement. $175,448,349 of this is to be paid in 1920, the balance in from two to five years.

This amount at first seems staggering, but in comparison with other sums recently spent for different purposes, it is really very small.

The people of the United States have just stopped spending two billion dollars a year for liquor; the churches are asking for less than one-tenth of this amount for this year.

The Protestant churches in 1918 raised for all purposes $249,778,835. This was two cents and seven mills a member. By doubling this amount, the 1920 askings will be oversubscribed.

If only the need can be realized, and the fact that the only remedy for the world's ills is in the hands of the church, the money will be forthcoming.

The Interchurch is first of all seeking to disclose the facts by a thorough-going and scientific survey.

Five million persons in the United States can not read and write. Twelve million young persons under twenty-five years of age are entering life without any religious training at all. 250,000—one-half of all the students of the United States—are in attendance upon church schools that are not adequately supported.

Thousands of sick are turned away from hospitals each year for lack of room, and children's homes are compelled to turn away every year more children than they can receive.

Nearly all plagues are oriental plagues. So long as China has only one physician to every 400,000 persons, the Orient will continue to be a menace.

So long as one-third of the babies of India die before their second year, our own babies are not safe. The Christian doctor or teacher sent abroad is working for America just as truly as though he worked at home.

Mr. Babson speaks of the inefficiency of the church. How could it be otherwise, when eight out of ten preachers are working for less than $20 a week?

The thirty denominations co-operating include in their fellowship at least ten million friendly citizens, men and women who believe in the church and its program, and want to contribute to its enterprises. These also will be solicited, with permission on their part to designate their gifts.

Crowds, undaunted by the chilly breezes, today lined the curbs of the downtown streets, waiting for more than two hours for the parade of the Hagenback-Wallace circus, which did not appear until about 12:30 o'clock. The circus had plenty of bands in line and plenty of animals glowered through the cage bars. This afternoon's performance started at 2 o'clock. Tonight's performance starts at 8 o'clock, with the gates opening an hour earlier.

Bible Students.

THE ASSOCIATED BIBLE STUDENTS.

Among the topics of public absorbing interest none can be of greater importance than the logical and satisfactory answer which the Bible gives to the question of Job: "If a man die, shall he live again?"

This and other similar subjects are treated exhaustively by Pastor Russell in his six volumes of Scripture studies and in such a manner that thousands look upon them as veritable Bible keys, in that they unlock and make clear the glorious character of Jehovah, God and His divine plan of the ages for the salvation of the whole human race.

C. A. Wise, vice-president of the International Bible Students' Association, and a Bible student and lecturer of national reputation, will address the public at 3 p. m. Sunday, April 25, at the Metropolitan School of Music on the subject suggested by the Prophet Job: "Will Our Beloved Dead Live Again?"

There is a great misconception in regard to the manner in which the dead will live again, but so satisfactory is the Scriptural explanation thereof that the demand for these treatises and lectures is increasing the world over. Following the usual custom of the association, the seats will be free, and no collection will be taken.

DEDICATION SERVICES AT REFORMED CHURCH

THE REV. G. H. GEBHARDT.

Dedicatory services will be held at Central Avenue Reformed church Sunday morning at 10:30. The church building has been remodeled. The building program has covered a period of two years. The Rev. G. H. Gebhardt, who has served the church as pastor for the last year while finishing his studies at the Central Theological Seminary, Dayton, O., will have charge of the services.

There will be a special program by the choir, led by Miss Louise Fehr, and assisted by the organist, Miss Bertha Jasper.

The improvements include new art glass windows, new pews, refinishing the interior and exterior and enlarging the platform.

The Central Avenue congregation was organized in 1905 by the Rev. Henry Gekeler, now editor of the Christian World at Cleveland, and has had a steady growth. Officers were elected April 5, and an every-member canvass was made April 11 with the result that the church budget for the year was fully covered by pledges. The officers are: Elders, Ernest Jasper, C. C. Fehr, Charles Scholer, B. F. Entwistle and Adam Grosskopf; deacons, A. T. Deily, Harry J. Dettra, Maurice G. Lipson, W. W. Schappell and Benet E. Wyon.

SEES NO DECREASE IN MEN'S CLOTHING PRICES

SCHLOSS SAYS FALL CLOTHES ARE HIGHER THAN IN 1919.

CITES COLLAR SITUATION

"The cost of men's clothing will not be any lower until production overtakes consumption. It is simply a case of supply and demand," Sol Schloss, of the Schloss Bros. Co., said today.

Fall clothes, Mr. Schloss said, are costing the retailers more than they did last fall and relatively more than spring clothes did, but the quality is better than during the last year.

Labor in the clothing manufacturing business, he said, is now receiving a just wage, whereas formerly in many instances labor undoubtedly was underpaid. But labor in these industries is curtailing production and is demanding increased pay.

The retailer, Mr. Schloss said, often looked on as a profiteer, is really only the last link in the distribution of the clothing after all other costs have been added to the merchandise.

Mr. Schloss called attention to the fact that five collar manufacturers produce 75 per cent. of all the collars in America. Two advances in prices have been made, he said, within six weeks. There have been many other advances. In all cases notice of increased prices have been given by all five within eight days of the first notice.

RECALLED LINCOLN TRIP.

Mrs. Spradley, Who Died Friday, Talked With Members of Family.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

PETERSBURG, Ind., April 24.—Mrs. Martha Spradley, age ninety-one, died yesterday at her home near Stendal, in this county. She was perhaps the only living person who could remember when the Lincoln family left the home near Lincoln City, Spencer county, and drove overland to Springfield, Ill.

Mrs. Spradley recalled vividly the Lincoln caravan, as it passed near her girlhood home, and the conversations she had with members of the Lincoln family at that time. She said that the Lincolns came by the way of Stendal and Winslow to this city, where they camped for the night at the White Oak Springs, just west of Petersburg. The city was then situated near the Indian fort, which recently was destroyed on the farm of Wirt King.

THREE MEN ARRESTED; TWO AUTOS RECOVERED

ADAMS BROTHERS KNOWN AS GUNMEN, POLICE SAY.

ARE WANTED FOR BURGLARY

Two stolen automobiles have been recovered as a result of the arrest, Friday night, at Beech Grove, of Otto Ball, alias Vernon Adams, William Adams and Howard Wise. One of the cars, believed to have been stolen at Newcastle, was recovered at Franklin, and the other, stolen at Franklin, was found in possession of the men at Beech Grove.

Ball is charged with vagrancy, William Adams is charged with being a fugitive from justice and Wise is charged with vagrancy and carrying concealed weapons. The men were arrested by Charles DeLong, marshal at Beech Grove, and B. H. Dennis, a deputy, and were turned over to Detectives Coleman and Giles.

Accused of Burglary.

The detectives say Vernon and William Adams are known as gunmen, and are wanted in Portsmouth and Ironton, O., and Ashland, Ky., on charges of burglary. William Adams, they said, is alleged to have fired several shots at a policeman who surprised him as he was robbing a store at Portsmouth. Adams reached for his revolver when DeLong and Dennis arrested him Friday night, but the weapon was taken from him before he had time to use it.

About 300 postage stamps and several stamped envelopes found in possession of the men were stolen from the office of the Graham Manufacturing Company, Franklin, which was entered and robbed a few nights ago, the detectives said.

Car Stolen at Franklin.

Sheriff Vandiver, of Franklin, notified detectives that the car recovered at Beech Grove belonged to Amos Kelly, of Franklin, and was stolen there Thursday night. Mrs. Oshia Adams, wife of William Adams, and her sister, Mildred Baldwin, told the detectives the three men drove one machine to Franklin and returned with one of another make.

OPPOSE DRINK PRICE BOOST

Wyckoff and Bottlers Say Increase Is Not Justified.

A price of 10 cents for bottled soft drinks such as phosphates, root beer and Coca Cola, sold at soda fountains, as proposed by the Indianapolis Association of Retail Druggists, will be vigorously opposed by Stanley Wyckoff, Indiana fair price commissioner and also by wholesale bottlers, according to Mr. Wyckoff. Such a price is not justified, he said, asserting that the retailers pay only $1 a case of twenty-four bottles, on which the war tax has been paid, and would receive $2.40 by the proposed schedule of prices, which were adopted Friday to become effective May 1.

During the war, with the cost at 80 cents a case a charge of 5 cents to the consumer was made, Mr. Wyckoff said, and he did not believe an increase of less than 1 cent on the cost price justified a 5-cent increase on the selling price of each bottle. Investigation also will be made whether a 15-cent increase on the wholesale price of ice cream justifies a 40-cent boost on the gallon to the consumer, he said.

Requests for sugar shipments to this city to be billed as perishable in order that less delay may be experienced in getting supplies from the east were made during the day by Mr. Wyckoff. Co-operation of the department of justice and of local railroad officials was sought.

REACH STUTZ SETTLEMENT

Allan A. Ryan and "Shorts" Decide on $550 a Share Plan.

NEW YORK, April 24.—An agreement was reached today between Allan A. Ryan, chairman of the Stutz Motor Car Company and the protective committee organized to safeguard interests of fifty-eight Stock Exchange houses under contract to deliver Stutz stock, by which settlement with Mr. Ryan for $550 a share was arranged.

The settlement price was fixed at $425 a share, plus $85 for a 20 per cent. stock dividend, plus $40 for premiums for twenty days at $2 a day.

Immediately after the announcement that settlement had been made, bids on the curb, where trading in Stutz opened with $550 bid and none offered, declined to $470, with none offered. The stock market reacted to the settlement by an upward trend of prices in the early trading. The settlement followed several days of sharp exchanges between the committee and Mr. Ryan, who, it was intimated, had cornered Stutz stock. This he denied and said he had acted merely to protect Stutz stockholders against a "gang of raiders" who had attempted to beat the price down. The protective committee announced that approximately 5,500 shares were involved, with an estimated profit to Ryan of $1,650,000.

URUGUAY DUEL ARRANGED.

President's Challenge to Newspaper Editor Is Accepted.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, April 26.—Baltasar Brum, president of the republic, has challenged Dr. Rodrigues Larreta, director of the newspaper El Pais, to a duel. Dr. Larreta has accepted the challenge.

The differences between President Brum and Lr. Larreta are the outgrowth of an article in El Pais attacking the president following his address on inter-American affairs before the students of the University of Montevideo Wednesday.

Jose Brum, the president's brother, took up the criticism against the president Thursday and sent Dr. Larreta a challenge to a duel. Dr. Larreta, however, refused the challenge. He issued a statement Friday morning in which he said:

"Dr. Brum is not maimed or aged, which are the sole circumstances by which the code of honor admits his being supplanted. To battle or not to battle depends solely upon him."

Thereupon the president named Deputies Minelli and Ghigliani as his seconds and sent them to Dr. Larreta with a challenge. Dr. Larreta, who is also a deputy, accepted and named Deputies Lussich and Morales as his seconds.

CANVASS FOR HUGE SUM WILL COVER ONE WEEK

WORLD PROGRAM BUDGET

Thirty Protestant evangelical denominations in Indiana and the nation will begin Sunday what leaders term the biggest task they have ever attempted, a one-week campaign for more than $330,000,000. The money will be used by the various denominations in a world-wide program, worked out by leaders of the denominations and the interchurch world movement. This interdenominational organization is acting as the connecting link for the programs of the co-operating churches.

Throughout Indiana, ministers and laymen will begin the canvass for money at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Committees appointed by local churches, communities and counties will participate in the canvass, which is expected to provide an opportunity for every person in the state to give something for the advancement of Christianity.

In Indianapolis many hundred church members will be active in the campaign. The First Baptist church in Indianapolis has the largest quota in the state—$300,000. Ministers have preached and talked on the program of the movement for several weeks.

Many state, county and community conferences have been held. While the drive is for a total of the budgets of all denominations, amounting to $336,777,572, the part to be paid in 1920 is $175,448,349. In addition to the thirty denominations actually taking part in the campaign, a dozen have formally expressed their sympathy with the movement.

Chief Budget Items.

For work in foreign fields the denominations hope to raise $107,661,488; for home missions, $109,949,037; for American education, $78,837,431; for American religious education, $5,931,925; for American hospitals and homes, $5,116,465; for ministerial support and relief, $20,510,299 and for items such as war relief, temperance, $8,770,927.

"This campaign" said Dr. Don D. Tullis, state secretary of the interchurch world movement, "is the greatest concerted move that the Protestant churches of Indiana have ever made; that of working in unison in soliciting money from church members, friendly citizens, corporations, in fact from every person who has believed for years that the churches must be better organized and placed on an efficient business basis before progress can be made to any great extent.

Lack of System.

"Church members have been talking home missionary work for more than 100 years and many have been in even deeper sympathy with the church program that provided for the uplifting of humanity in the foreign lands. But system has been lacking in putting this program across. Churches, growing in membership and influence, have for the most part increased their benevolences accordingly, but many of the weaker congregations have all but failed in their contributions.

"Every right-thinking, broadminded man and woman will concede that no program, whether commercial or religious, can be carried out without sufficient financial backing, and while there may be individuals who will withhold their support, there will be thousands of persons who will stand ready to go the limit in order that the interchurch world movement program may not fail.

Every Item Legitimate.

"Every item included in the budgets is legitimate, every figure has been named only after expert statisticians have completed surveys that have brought out the need for adequate equipment and money that will be used in ministering to the physical as well as the mental needs of individuals.

"The success of the campaign, and that means the successful carrying out of the program, depends on just one thing, co-operation. Co-operation on the part of every person, anxious to see humanity uplifted, co-operation to the extent that pettiness and selfishness will give way to a great wholesome desire to work together, to prove beyond any doubt that every community and every town has aided in putting Indiana on the map as one of the greatest religious centers in the union."

A Call to the Comradeship of Service

"For our own sakes, for our children's sake, for the nation's sake, let us business men get behind the churches and their preachers." This is the appeal of Roger W. Babson, noted American economic and statistical expert.

"Never mind if they are not perfect," he continues, "the safety of all we have is due to the churches, even in their present inefficient and inactive state. By all that we hold dear, let us from this very day give more time, money and thought to the churches of our city for upon these the value of all we own ultimately depends."

Tomorrow there is to begin the united drive for $336,777,572, the accepted budget of the participating denominations in the Interchurch World Movement. $175,448,349 of this is to be paid in 1920, the balance in from two to five years.

This amount at first seems staggering, but in comparison with other sums recently spent for different purposes, it is really very small.

The people of the United States have just stopped spending two billion dollars a year for liquor; the churches are asking for less than one-tenth of this amount for this year.

The Protestant churches in 1918 raised for all purposes $249,778,835. This was two cents and seven mills a member. By doubling this amount, the 1920 askings will be oversubscribed.

If only the need can be realized, and the fact that the only remedy for the world's ills is in the hands of the church, the money will be forthcoming.

The Interchurch is first of all seeking to disclose the facts by a thorough-going and scientific survey.

Five million persons in the United States can not read and write. Twelve million young persons under twenty-five years of age are entering life without any religious training at all. 250,000—one-half of all the students of the United States—are in attendance upon church schools that are not adequately supported.

Thousands of sick are turned away from hospitals each year for lack of room, and children's homes are compelled to turn away every year more children than they can receive.

Nearly all plagues are oriental plagues. So long as China has only one physician to every 400,000 persons, the Orient will continue to be a menace.

So long as one-third of the babies of India die before their second year, our own babies are not safe. The Christian doctor or teacher sent abroad is working for America just as truly as though he worked at home.

Mr. Babson speaks of the inefficiency of the church. How could it be otherwise, when eight out of ten preachers are working for less than $20 a week?

The thirty denominations co-operating include in their fellowship at least ten million friendly citizens, men and women who believe in the church and its program, and want to contribute to its enterprises. These also will be solicited, with permission on their part to designate their gifts.

Bible Students.

THE ASSOCIATED BIBLE STUDENTS.
Among the topics of public absorbing interest none can be of greater importance than the logical and satisfactory answer which the Bible gives to the question of Job: "If a man die, shall he live again?"

This and other similar subjects are treated exhaustively by Pastor Russell in his six volumes of Scripture studies and in such a manner that thousands look upon them as veritable Bible keys, in that they unlock and make clear the glorious character of Jehovah, God and His divine plan of the ages for the salvation of the whole human race.

C. A. Wise, vice-president of the International Bible Students' Association, and a Bible student and lecturer of national reputation, will address the public at 3 p. m. Sunday, April 25, at the Metropolitan School of Music on the subject suggested by the Prophet Job: "Will Our Beloved Dead Live Again?"

There is a great misconception in regard to the manner in which the dead will live again, but so satisfactory is the Scriptural explanation thereof that the demand for these treatises and lectures is increasing the world over. Following the usual custom of the association, the seats will be free, and no collection will be taken.

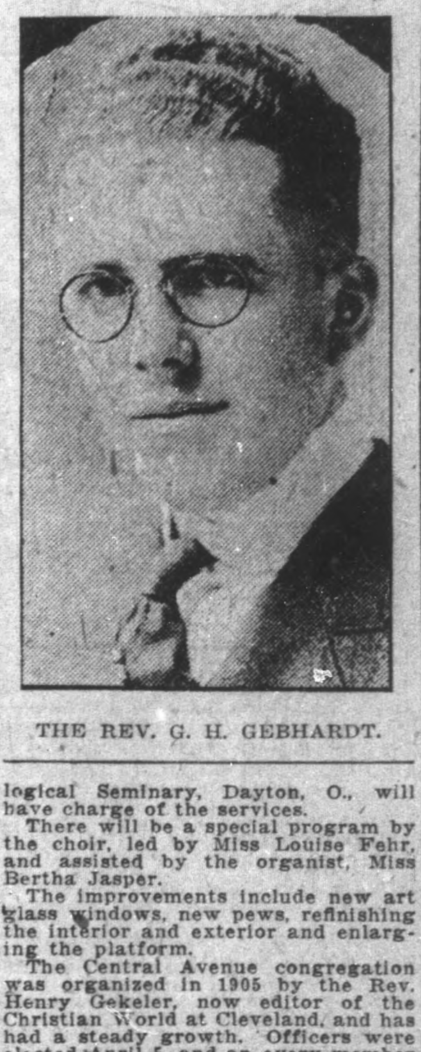
DEDICATION SERVICES AT REFORMED CHURCH

Building Has Been Remodeled—Steady Growth Shown Since Organization in 1905.

Dedicatory services will be held at Central Avenue Reformed church Sunday morning at 10:30. The church building has been remodeled. The building program has covered a period of two years. The Rev. G. H. Gebhardt, who has served the church as pastor for the last year while finishing his studies at the Central Theological Seminary, Dayton, O., will have charge of the services.



THE REV. G. H. GEBHARDT.

There will be a special program by the choir, led by Miss Louise Fehr, and assisted by the organist, Miss Bertha Jasper.

The improvements include new art glass windows, new pews, refinishing the interior and exterior and enlarging the platform.

The Central Avenue congregation was organized in 1905 by the Rev. Henry Gekeler, now editor of the Christian World at Cleveland, and has had a steady growth. Officers were elected April 5, and an every-member canvass was made April 11 with the result that the church budget for the year was fully covered by pledges. The officers are: Elders, Ernest Jasper, C. C. Fehr, Charles Scholer, B. F. Entwistle and Adam Grosskopf; deacons, A. T. Deily, Harry J. Dettra, Maurice G. Lipson, W. W. Schappell and Benet E. Wyon.

SEES NO DECREASE IN MEN'S CLOTHING PRICES

SCHLOSS SAYS FALL CLOTHES ARE HIGHER THAN IN 1919.

CITES COLLAR SITUATION

"The cost of men's clothing will not be any lower until production overtakes consumption. It is simply a case of supply and demand," Sol Schloss, of the Schloss Bros. Co., said today.

Fall clothes, Mr. Schloss said, are costing the retailers more than they did last fall and relatively more than spring clothes did, but the quality is better than during the last year.

Labor in the clothing manufacturing business, he said, is now receiving a just wage, whereas formerly in many instances labor undoubtedly was underpaid. But labor in these industries is curtailing production and is demanding increased pay.

The retailer, Mr. Schloss said, often looked on as a profiteer, is really only the last link in the distribution of the clothing after all other costs have been added to the merchandise.

Mr. Schloss called attention to the fact that five collar manufacturers produce 75 per cent. of all the collars in America. Two advances in prices have been made, he said, within six weeks. There have been many other advances. In all cases notice of increased prices have been given by all five within eight days of the first notice.

She said that the Lincolns came by the way of Stendal and Winslow to this city, where they camped for the night at the White Oak Springs, just west of Petersburg. In Loving Remembrance of our dear daughter and sister, Marie Piel, who passed away one year ago today, April 24, 1919. She always had a cheerful word. Her smiles we see them yet. Her tender love for every one we never shall forget. We think of you in silence. No eyes can see us weep, but many a silent tear we shed when others are asleep. FANNIE AND HARRY.

In Loving Remembrance

you learned a "trade" that enables you to get a fat envelope every Saturday? Or do you just work around from one "job" to another?
Knowing a good "trade" is like having money in the bank. You always have capital on which to rely. If you contemplate learning a trade why not choose Glove Making,
because it is one that is solely for women; is the lightest of the needle trades, has no dull season, is neither noisy nor greasy, has no disagreeable odors, pays high rates and is located out of the factory district in plenty of sunshine and fresh air.

BY RESULT OF VOTE.

Candidates for Delegates Asked to Let Public Guide Their Stand.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 24.—Demand was made today by the Hiram W. Johnson for President Club and the Leonard Wood organization on Republican candidates for First district delegates for the national convention, asking that they pledge themselves to be governed by the result of the vote for the candidate for presidential preference, who proves to be the choice of the voters of the district in the state primary on May 4.

The candidates for delegates are William H. McCurdy, buggy manufacturer here, and James A. Hemenway, of Boonville, formerly United States senator from Indiana. McCurdy refused to pledge himself. Hemenway is out of the district. McCurdy said:

"So far as those people are concerned they have a purpose in making this demand upon me. I would prefer to await developments."

Political gossip has it that McCurdy is for Warren G. Harding for first choice and Frank O. Lowden for second choice, while he absolutely is against Herbert Hoover and Johnson. The demand on McCurdy and Hemenway was voiced by U. H. Seiler, president of the Johnson for President Club here, and Eugene H. Sergeant, of Newburg, district chairman of the Wood organization.

Mr. McCray said he felt confident that the women would receive the right of suffrage for the November election, and urged fairness to both employer and employe. Good road building and just compensation for school teachers also were advocated in the speech.

CHICAGO REPORTS LEND STRIKE ENCOURAGEMENT

LOCAL YARDMEN MORE DETERMINED TO STAY OUT.

RAPID RETURN TO NORMAL

Reports from Chicago by representatives of the Indianapolis Yardmen's Association who attended the meetings at which John Grunau, head of the switchmen's strike movement, spoke to the strikers, today gave the local men more determination to stay out. They were told that the Chicago men are solidly behind their leaders and will remain out until wage demands and official recognition are granted them.

The local men were told that they could not go back now with good grace, since the Railroad General Managers' Association has taken the stand of refusing to grant any of their demands, and in addition has withdrawn their seniority rights.

Railroad lines serving Indianapolis report that their freight business continues to increase. Officials have abandoned the plan to induce the strikers to return, and are recruiting new forces to take the places of the men who quit.

The yard crews are taking care of all the freight business on the Indianapolis rails and railroad officials say that within a week the yard forces will be recruited to sufficient strength to take care of a normal freight business. Striking switchmen on the Belt line today turned in their equipment and drew their pay.

SPIRITED RECOVERY IN ALL LEADING STOCKS

BETTER MEXICAN SITUATION—STUTZ CONTROVERSY OVER.

ADVANCES 2 TO 15 POINTS

Average Stock Prices

The average price of twenty industrial stocks Friday was 95.46, off 1.69 per cent. The average price of twenty active rails was 71.65, off .74 per cent.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Stocks of almost every class made spirited recoveries during today's brief session, the rally resulting from a better understanding of the Mexican situation and the elimination of the Stutz controversy as a disturbing element. Advances of 2 to 15 points marked the rebound of motor, oil, steel and equipment issues.

Textile and Leather shares, together with kindred specialties made less extensive gains. Rails and shippings replaced early losses with moderate advances. Realizing for profits reduced some gains later. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 450,000 shares.

Imports from other countries for the ten-day period were negligible, with the exception of Ecuador, which, in its first shipment to the United States this year, sent $124,874. Grain and Provisions Sink During Financial Strain

CHICAGO, April 24.—Big setbacks in the value of grain and provisions have resulted this week from indications of severe financial strain. Compared with a week ago, corn prices this morning were 3½c to 6⅛c down, oats were off ⅛c to 2⅝c, and provisions lower, 37c to $1.95.

All deliveries of corn, oats, rye and barley were at about high-record prices for the season when suddenly the corn market was swept by an avalanche of selling. The pressure to get rid of holdings and to seize advantages from the break in prices went far beyond ordinary limits before traders began to regain their equilibrium and to be guided even partly by influences other than the violent changes of securities in New York. Active export demand for wheat and rye helped to a material extent at this juncture to restore comparative confidence on the part of bulls in the corn market. Later, however, the bearish effect of unusual weakness in New York stocks became again the ruling factor, and to a great extent once more flattened out the buying power in the corn market.

Oats joined the downward plunge of corn, but rallied better owing to lateness of seeding. Provisions were depressed with grain and hogs.

RYE AT HIGHEST PRICE AND THIS HELPS CORN

WET WEATHER HAS ALSO UPLIFTING INFLUENCE.

PACKERS BUY PROVISIONS

CHICAGO, April 24.—Weakness which manifested itself in the corn market today appeared to be due more to lack of buying than to any special urgency to sell. Railway traffic embarrassments together with difficulties in credits put bulls at a disadvantage. On the other hand, forecasts of wet weather tended somewhat to rally the market. Opening prices which ranged from ½c to 1½c lower, with May $1.64½ to $1.65, and July $1.56½ to $1.57 were followed by moderate general upturns.

Later the market derived additional strength from the fact that owing to export demand rye was commanding the highest price yet this season. Closing quotations were firm at 1¼c to 2¾c net advance, with May $1.67¼@1.67½ and July $1.60@1.60¼.

Oats were comparatively firm owing to predictions of rain likely to cause further delay to seeding. After opening ½c to 1c off, including July at 84¾c to 85c, the market scored gains all around.

Packers' buying gave strength to provisions. Offerings were light.

Reports that Germany had obtained $45,000,000 credit from an American packing firm helped further to strengthen values.

—April 24—

Following the greatly depleted supplies of live stock in all market centers last week due to the switchmen's strike causing inadequate shipping facilities there was a flood of receipts in all markets this week and prices suffered an unusual revision to a lower basis.

The total receipts of hogs at eleven markets was 546,000, against 194,000 last week, 545,000 the same week a year ago, and 570,000 two years ago. Locally the week's receipts showed an increase of 33,000 hogs, 4,100 cattle and 4,400 calves, compared with last week and a loss of only 1,500 hogs, only 400 cattle and an increase of 4,700 calves, compared with a year ago, so that the marketing was again practically normal and the run of calves was one of the largest in the history of this market.

Compared with the high time recently there has been a net loss of $2.50 in prices of hogs. Cattle, except the plain to medium light killing steers, have lost all of the recent advance, amounting to $1.50 in extreme cases and the highest price for veal calves now is $3.00 lower than it was Wednesday of this week.

The Saturday hog market opened with a supply of 10,000, including 4,300 layovers, in sight and prices fell to a level of $15.00 formost of the good kinds averaging 225 pounds down and there were several sales of hogs averaging 275 pounds up at $14.00. The first sales were generally 50c lower than those of the day before but this caused many hogs to be locked up and with a fear that the available supply would not satisfy all orders, bids were raised to $15.25 and many sales were finally made at that figure.

Competition after the opening was keen and the top price for light hogs was raised to $15.50, the same as on Friday. There was no apparent rally in prices of the heavier grades but there was a sentiment late in the day that the low point had been reached for the present and that, with any improvement in shipping conditions between now and Monday, there will be a gain in prices. There was little business on Saturday between a range of $14.50 to $15.00. Pigs were practically steady with the general sales of the day before, $14.50 down and sows were somewhat lower at $11.75 down. Present prices are the lowest since February 26, when the top price was $15.25 and most of the sales were at $14.50 to $15.00. Most of the sales now are $2.00 lower than they were a week ago and $6.00 lower than a year ago.

Large Saturday Run of Cattle.

The fact that nearly 700 cattle arrived for the Saturday market caused a slump in prices and sellers locked up some of their consignments to await a better market. All business transacted was steady compared with that of the day before, including light steers at $13.25 down, heifers $13.00 down, cows $10.50 down, and bulls $10.00 down. The receipts of 900 calves were 200 larger than the run of cattle and another sharp decline ensued. Sellers put off a few calves early at $15.00, but finally $14.00 was a top price for good veals, representing a loss of $4.00 from the top price on the midweek market. Record receipts were, in a way, responsible for an unusual decline in prices, but eastern requirements for veal stock apparently had been satisfied and orders have been curtailed correspondingly.

The shrinkage in prices of killing cattle this week has placed values on about the same basis as they were on Friday two weeks ago, 50c to 75c lower, especially on the steer cattle, than two weeks ago last Monday. Most of this week buyers said that the decline in local prices was not equal to the loss at Chicago, though conditions there were subnormal.

There was a limited trade in feeding cattle this week on account of the lack of supplies. Killers bought many of the cattle ordinarily available for feeders. The demand was again chiefly for the light feeders that could be bought from $10.00 down, heifers from $9.00 down and cows from $8.00 down.

Trade and Industry Still Checked by Railway Strike

NEW YORK, April 24.—Bradstreet's says: Trade and industry are rather more irregular and while there are signs of improvement in the industrial field owing to the gradual burning out of the railway strike, the embers of this trouble are still a cause of arrested movement and production. In retail trade, bad weather, excessive rains and the cold late spring are credited with the chief responsibility for the little better than fair reports received. In wholesale trade, in which as in retail trade, manufacture and collections, the pace is slower, conservation bred of high prices, the closer scrutiny of credits and the more evident firmness of money in all markets are all causes assigned for the tapering off of buying for the more distant future. In no line are activities so marked in January, in March or in earlier April, while as compared with a year ago when the foreshadowings of the great expansion of 1919 were becoming visible, neither retail trade nor collections are so favorably regarded though manufacture and industry, of course, have greatly improved. Weekly bank clearings, $9,273,565,000.

Unsettled Money Condition Causes Decline in Cotton

NEW YORK, April 24.—After the advance to 42.50c for May and 37.25c for October, or about 9 to 11 cents a pound from the low prices of last February, bullish weather and crop advices seemed to lose force in the cotton market. As soon as buying failed to broaden on such features, the attention of the trade seemed to turn to unsettled outside conditions, and nervousness was evidently increased by reports of financial disturbances in Japan. This combined with the recent advance in the Bank of England discount rate, and a belief that extended control of credits would be utilized by the federal reserve board to restrict the use of resources in speculation or in holding commodities outside the channels of distribution, probably accounted for much of the selling. At times this was extremely active and general and at the low point of the week prices showed reactions of from 2 to 2½ cents a pound compared with the high prices of last Saturday and Monday.

The decline has been accompanied by rumors that cotton was coming here from the south for delivery, but nothing definite has developed in that connection, and local brokers have attributed the bulk of the selling to the liquidation of speculative long accounts. Weakness in the stock market has naturally emphasized unsettling features in the general situation, while the apparently growing resistance of consumers to high prices as indicated by the formation of various clubs to pull down the cost of living has also encouraged the view that commodity values had overtaken inflation. No change of importance has been noted in reports from the domestic goods trade, but the firm tone of prices has been attributed partly to reserve on the part of manufacturers pending the outcome of prospective wage demands, and private cables have indicated a check to business in Manchester owing to uncertainty regarding the outcome of the wage dispute with Lancaster operatives. Reports of improving conditions in Japan led to some covering toward the end of the week, and it was also noted that clearances for the far east were continuing in spite of the disturbances, with Pacific ports reporting shipments of over 35,000 bales to Japan and China for the week.

COTTON SUFFERS LOSS.

Improved Weather and Crop Condition Encourages Selling.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The cotton market showed continued nervousness, but rather a steadier tone during today's early trading. The strong opening of the stock market probably prompted covering for over the week-end, while there were bullish private crop advices, and sentiment was favorably influenced by reports that Lancashire cotton operatives were to confer with the British ministry of labor on Monday with a view to settling the wage dispute. The opening was 13 to 21 points higher, which met considerable overnight liquidation, with July selling off to 38.23c and October to 34.76c, right after the call, or 2 to 9 points net lower. Trade interests were buyers on this decline, however, and the market rallied on covering with active months ruling some 7 to 22 points net higher toward the end of the first hour.

The weather map, showing improved eastern belt conditions and prospects for rains in the southwest, was followed by a renewal of active general selling in the cotton market during the middle of the morning. The easier turn of the stock market after the opening advance also had an unsettling influence on the break, which extended to 37.85c for July and 34.30c for October, or about 40 to 55 points net lower and into new low ground for the movement on all deliveries except May. Closing prices showed rallies of several points on covering with the market barely steady at a net decline of 20 to 35 points.

Futures closed steady: May, 40.45c; July, 37.93c; October, 34.50c; December, 33.53c; January, 32.90c. Spot—Quiet middling, 41.45c.

Advanced Discount Rates Set Back Stock Prices

NEW YORK, April 24.—Further "corrective measures" invoked by the federal reserve board to curtail or restrict speculative credits gave the stock market a violent setback this week, but the reaction was accelerated by a weakened bull position.

The action of the central bank authorities took the form of advanced discount rates at important financial, commercial and industrial centers. This was supplemented by the private banks of those regions, where additional contraction of loans was in progress.

These domestic credit conditions were accompanied by evidence of world-wide stringency of the same character, an echo coming from Japan, where speculation during and following the war culminated in financial disaster.

Enormous liquidation of Liberty bonds at declines of 1 to 4 per cent. also served to unsettle the local securities market. Offerings of these issues evidently come from all parts of the country, but round amounts were sold by corporations as the only immediate means of new financing.

There was a letup to gold imports, also to exports of that metal, although further shipments to South America are under negotiation. Much of the week's setback in foreign exchange, especially the London rate, was due to offerings of sterling bills here for Japanese interests.

THE CHASE NATIONAL BANK, NEW YORK, AND CENTRAL UNION TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEES.

For information regarding these notes we refer to a letter dated April 19th, 1920, of Mr. H. F. Sinclair, president of the corporation, which he has summarized briefly as follows:

SECURITY: To be secured by pledge of all the capital stocks and other securities of subsidiary companies now owned or hereafter acquired. The company may not and will not permit any subsidiary to create any liens unless deposited under the trust agreement, excepting liens on marine equipment and tank cars, and purchase money obligations.

EQUITY: The corporation's outstanding capital stock, at current quotations, represents an equity of about $150,000,000, ranking junior to these $50,000,000 notes.

ASSETS: The consolidated balance sheet as of December 31st, 1919, certified by Arthur Young & Co., together with proceeds of this issue, shows total net assets available for the notes of over five times these notes, the net quick assets alone on this basis being equal to over 1.60 times these notes.

EARNINGS: Consolidated net earnings from operations, after Federal taxes, show net earnings available for interest and depletion, etc., as follows:
Year ended December 31, 1917—$15,134,967.
Year ended December, 1918—$19,640,717.
Year ended December 31, 1919—$21,890,898.
These earnings for 1915 equaled 5.83 times the annual interest on the new notes, and for the three years averaged over five times such interest.

CONVERTIBLE: Each $1,000 note to be exchangeable for 10 shares 8% cumulative sinking fund preferred stock (par $100 each) and 2½ shares common stock without par value. The notes may, instead, carry detachable warrants entitling holders to purchase said amounts of preferred and common stock for $1,000 (plus accrued dividends on the preferred stock) up to May 15th, 1922; thereafter the notes are to be convertible on the same terms, but only if accompanied by warrants (if any) originally attached. In case of redemption, the right to convert extends up to 30 days prior to such redemption date.

SINKING FUND: Commencing January 1st, 1921, the company will provide a semi-annual sinking fund of at least $2,000,000, to be applied within sixty days to the purchase of the notes at not exceeding $100 and accrued interest. If notes are not available for purchase at that price, the unexpended balance will revert to the company. Credit is to be allowed the sinking fund by reason of notes retired by conversion or through the exercise of the purchase warrant privilege.

PROPERTIES: The corporation, through its subsidiaries, owns and controls oil-producing properties in many fields in the United States and Mexico; a thoroughly modern pipe line system of about 2,800 miles; modern refineries with a daily capacity of over 45,000 barrels; extensive marketing system in the United States and foreign countries; in short, the properties comprise a complete unit in the oil industry. The legal proceedings are being passed upon by Messrs. Rushmore, Bisbee & Stern and Messrs. Hornblower, Miller, Garrisan & Potter. Temporary negotiable receipts will be deliverable in the first instance, which will be exchangeable for the notes, when, as and if issued and received by us.

It is expected that application will be made to list both these notes and the preferred stock on the New York Stock Exchange. We offer these notes subject to confirmation and approval of counsel, when, as and if issued and received by us at 98 and Accrued Interest, to Yield Approximately 8%.

OHIO MACHINE DEVICE AGAINST WOOD SHOWN

PLANS TO HAVE VOTERS WRITE IN JOHNSON'S NAME.

EFFORT TO SAVE HARDING

CINCINNATI, May 24.—An eleventh hour device of machine politicians to reduce the vote for Leonard Wood in the Ohio primary election next Tuesday and save Senator Warren G. Harding from a fatal setback in his own state and the nation has become public. Movements to write in the name of Hiram Johnson have been started as a means of saving Harding from the votes that would normally go to Wood.

Harding and Wood are the only candidates that filed for state presidential preference and that have national convention delegate tickets up. The indications are that the scheme is well financed. The extent of it became known a few days ago, and the Wood forces believe they can successfully counteract it. They are showing that the scheme is in the interest of Harding, although it is designed primarily to catch voters who prefer Wood to Harding and are firmly against the nomination of Harding by the Republican national convention.

John H. Price, chairman of the Ohio Wood committee, says:

"The Harding managers, to weaken Wood and divert a portion of his strength to Hiram Johnson, are financing a campaign with hundreds of highly paid workers going about the state appealing to voters to support Johnson and to vote for him by writing his name in on the ballot. A vote thus cast for Johnson will be a vote for Harding. In the choice between Wood and Harding such a person would vote for Wood and hence the willingness to finance the scheme, which will involve the expenditure of thousands of dollars."

It is manifest that writing in votes would not carry the state for a candidate whose name was used, and the conclusion most voters are expected to reach is that it is a bit of political trickery.

The campaign has become intense with charges and rumors. The Harding forces are trying to make Wood out a confirmed militarist. One newspaper supporting Harding is asserting that if Wood were elected he would turn the country into an armed camp. Wood has issued a statement disposing of this accusation.

TEACHERS DISSATISFIED.

Will Ask Another Salary Increase for Next Year at Anderson.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

ANDERSON, Ind., April 24.—The Teachers' Federation here has expressed dissatisfaction with a recent increase in wages of about 30 per cent. and announced today that it will make further demands on the school board before signing new contracts for the next term. Anderson teachers, whose salaries next year will range from $96 a month for Class A teachers to $147 for Class B., said they learned that teachers in the same classes at Shelbyville recently received much more than they have in Anderson, although Shelbyville has a population of less than 15,000 and Anderson has 30,000.

W. A. Denny, superintendent of public schools said the complaint of the teachers would be submitted to the board next week. It was thought the trouble had been settled when a general increase was proposed and also $100 bonus for each teacher at the close of the present term was decided on. Mr. Denny said that the salaries for teachers this term cost a total of $104,216 and under the increase next year $208,583 would be required.

PROVISIONS FOR GERMANY

Armour & Co. Release Big Supply in German Warehouses.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Chicago packers have completed sale of $45,000,000 of provisions to the German government, it was announced today by J. Ogden Armour, of Armour & Co.

Delivery of the meat, mostly pork products, will start at once. The supplies have been stored in warehouses at Hamburg, Rotterdam, Amsterdam and in Scandinavia for several months.

The transaction does not represent new business, Armour & Co., pointed out, as the meat was shipped shortly after the armistice in the expectation of a big demand in the central empires. The adverse exchange situation held up delivery. Under the arrangements now perfected payment is to be made by Germany under a special amortization plan.

Armour & Co. announced that retail meat prices, temporarily at least, will continue high as result of the delayed settlement of the "outlaw" switchmen's strike.

FILES MANDAMUS SUIT.

Esther Friday Asks That Name Be Placed on Pulaski Ballots.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

WINAMAC, Ind., April 24.—Miss Esther Friday has filed a mandamus suit in the Pulaski circuit court, asking that the two Republican members of the board of election commissioners be instructed to place her name on the ballots as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for county recorder. George Collins, county clerk, and J. M. Spangler are the Republican members of the board. In refusing to place the name of Miss Friday on the ballots they said that the action would be contrary to law.

D. L. Louden, Democratic member of the board, took an opposite stand. He held that the commissioners must place the names of all candidates on the ballots, and that it is not the duty of the board to inquire into matters touching on eligibility of candidates to hold office.

SEED CORN TEST COMPLETE

Satisfactory Results Announced in Shelby County.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., April 24.—Testing of seed corn for Shelby county farmers by the modified "rag doll" method, has been completed, Russell G. East, county agricultural agent, has announced.

A total of 14,564 ears were tested. Of this number, 1,644, or 11.1 per cent., showed poor germination, and 16 per cent., or 2,330 ears, were diseased, making a total of 27.1 per cent. discarded. Including the ears that were re-tested, more than 16,000 ears of corn were handled during the tests.

Wilson Cochran, of Washington township, is the first farmer to make the tests at his own home. With the aid of the county agent, he made a testing box, and has tested enough seed for 150 acres of his land, and for that of a number of his neighbors.

D. E. Hunter Dies of Injuries.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 24.—David E. Hunter, age fifty-seven, died in a local hospital today of injuries received January 29, when a wagon he was driving was struck by a one-man street car here. The bones in Hunter's leg were splintered and he was badly bruised and cut. A widow and six children survive.

FAMOUS CHOIR FOR THE MAY MUSIC FESTIVAL

FATHER FINN, CONDUCTOR PAULIST CHOIR

RAFAELO DIAZ, TENOR, AND OLIVER DENTON, PIANIST, WITH MINNEAPOLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

One of the purposes of the great May music festival, which has been arranged under the direction of the Ona B. Talbot Fine Arts Association, for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, and Wednesday matinee, May 3, 4 and 5, at the Murat theater, is to promote just recognition for American musicians and American music. The opening program of the festival might well be designated "American Night," for Henry Hadley, America's noted composer, has been invited to direct the interpretations of his own works with the Russian Symphony Orchestra, of which Modest Altschuler is the regular conductor.

Tuesday evening, "Choral Night," will give the patrons of these concerts the opportunity of listening to one of the famous choirs of the world, the Paulist Choir, of New York, Father Finn, conductor. Wednesday two great orchestral programs will be presented by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Emil Oberhoffer, conductor. Oliver Denton, the soloist for the afternoon program, was born in New York, where he began his career as a future American pianist. In 1916 Mr. Denton's name became known to the country through a series of appearances in Boston and New York. Rafaelo Diaz, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be heard on the evening program of the Minneapolis Orchestra, presenting two famous arias from the operas "La Gioconda" and "Romeo and Juliet," in both of which Mr. Diaz has won distinct success.

Of the ten American operas produced at the Metropolitan Opera House during the regime of Gatti Cassazza, Henry Hadley's "Cleopatra's Night" has been acclaimed the greatest. Two excerpts from this opera are included in the program for the festival. The "intermezzo" begins with the dance rhythm of the Greek ballet, music which is danced by the solo ballerina in Act II of the opera, when "Cleopatra" commands her maidens to dance for her lover, "Meianoun," for whom a great feast has been prepared. "The Dance of the Desert Girls," which follows the Greek dance, depicts a wild orgy at the close of which the riotous banqueters seize the maidens and bear them away to the garden. The sale of single seats for the festival concerts will open Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the office of Ona B. Talbot in the Hume-Mansur building.

REVEALS METHOD USED TO ROUND UP RADICALS

LETTER AT HEARING SHOWS PROVOCATION ACTIVITY.

SPECIFIC RAID MENTIONED

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Declaration by Federal Judge Anderson in Boston that the government "operates some part of the Communist party in this country" was reiterated by Swinburn Hale, a New York attorney, at a hearing today before Secretary Wilson to determine whether membership in the Communist Labor party is in itself ground for deportation.

J. Edgar Hoover, representing the department of justice, declared the statement made by the Boston judge was "an unjustifiable misconception of the facts." He added that it was the construction "which the most perverted mind" could not put on the evidence presented in the hearing over which Judge Anderson presided.

Knows of None Himself.

On Hoover's declaration that he knew of no agent of the department of justice who had ever acted as agent provocateur, Hale offered as evidence a confidential letter purported to have been signed by Frank E. Burke, of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, and sent to an agent of the department in Boston December 27, 1919, a few days before the first Communist raids.

The letter announced January 2 as the date set for the Communist raid, and declared "you should arrange with your undercover informants to have meetings of the Communist party and the Communist Labor party on the night set. I have been informed by some of the bureau chiefs that such arrangements will be made. This, of course, will facilitate the making of arrests."

Criticisms Not Accepted.

Secretary Wilson interrupted hearings after reading of the letter to announce that criticisms of the methods of the department of justice or defense of those methods did not come within purview of the hearing.

Secretary Wilson at the close of the arguments took the case under advisement.

Last Mænnerchor Concert

The last concert of the season was given by the Indianapolis Mænnerchor Friday night at the Academy of Music with Mary Jordan, contralto, of New York, as the soloist. Miss Jordan is a favorite with the Mænnerchor Society and received last night the usual enthusiastic applause. She has an impressive stage appearance and a large full voice which she uses with dramatic effect. She was encored many times last night and repeated several of her songs.

Her singing of the "Invocation to Eros" stood out as one of the most effective numbers given. "The Smith," by Brahms was one of the songs that drew the most applause. Other songs appreciated included "In the Moonlight" (Hale); "'Tis Spring" (Wolf); "Come Up, Come In With Streamers" (Deis); "I Passed by Your Window," and "The Year's at the Spring" (Mrs. H. H. A. The chorus sang in good form several groups of songs directed by Rudolph Heyne. They included "Close of Day" (Nessler), "In the Streets of Rome" (Baldamus), "Vale Carissima" (Spielter), "The March Wind" (Baldamus), "The Vain Suit" (Brahms), "The Rose in the Vale" (Zoellner), and "Rest On Me" (Moehring), which was sung with Miss Jordan. ADJUTANT COMMITTEE ASKS BENEFITS FOR ALL

SOLDIER LEGISLATION PASSED ON BY LEGION MEN.

ACTION TO AID PATIENTS

The recommendations committee of the state adjutants of the American Legion, in conference at the Washington hotel, today submitted its report suggesting action by the executive committee of the Legion or the national convention, which will be held in Cleveland, in September.

The report made several recommendations regarding the American Legion Weekly, favoring illustrated color covers, more art, better paper and more news regarding the purposes and work of the Legion.

The committee also recommended "such measures under the Constitution as will curb the indiscriminate action of posts and individual members which tend to embarrass and retard the promotion of avowed policies of the Legion as expressed by a majority sentiment."

For Regular Army Men.

Any attempt on the part of the congress to eliminate the regular army members, former officers of the war, or any other class of service individuals from the benefits of soldier legislation was condemned, and "regarded as undemocratic and unfair" by the adjutants.

Use of general hospitals of the war department for the care of tubercular former service men was urged in a motion passed Friday by the adjutants following a talk by William S. Terriberry, of the United States public health service. Secretary Baker will be asked to permit the acceptance of these patients under the direction of his department.

Care of Tubercular Patients.

Mr. Terriberry said that the care of tubercular patients, especially in the southwest, is one of the big problems of the bureau. Another problem is the care of former soldiers suffering with nervous diseases, he said. He estimated that 70,000 come under this class. This condition will not abate for ten years, and at the end of that time many men will have to be taken care of permanently, he said.

R. T. Fisher, speaking about the federal board for vocational education, told of difficulties encountered in getting eligible men who formerly were in the service to make applications to the board. Work done by the rehabilitation department and plans under consideration also were discussed.

WOULD HALT SETTLEMENTS

Accounts Board Becomes Interested in C. H. Mueller Case.

The state board of accounts has advised William E. Evans, Center township trustee, that he should not make any settlements with Charles H. Mueller as a Marion county justice of the peace since April 11. Mueller was a justice of the peace before that date. He settled up and quit the office April 10, the term to which he was elected expiring the next day. Marion county commissioners a few days ago decided that Mueller should continue to serve until his successor is elected because "no vacancy exists."

When Mueller's term expired trouble started at once for the county commissioners. Frank Glass laid claim to the office. So did W. E. Henderson, colored.

The board advised that if there is a legal dispute the trustee had better not make any settlement until the question is settled.

WABASH STILL NEAR 21 FEET

Slow Fall Expected at Terre Haute Because of Other Rivers.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 24.—The Wabash river has been almost at a stand for twenty-four hours, the gauge this morning showing 21.3 feet. Because of the flooded condition of the White and Ohio rivers, the fall is expected to be slow, and a normal stage probably will not be reached before the latter part of next week.

Ohio River at Jeffersonville.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., April 24.—The Ohio river rose only six inches last night and is at a standstill a little short of thirty feet. No local damage has been caused, but two stages of this magnitude in a month is a very exceptional occurrence, and rivermen say the stream has rarely carried off so much water as in the last six months.

Thomson & McKinnon Market Letter.

—April 24—

Corn—Financial condition as applied to the corn market has been overridden by the persistence and urgency of the foreign demand for rye. There was some reversal of position by former sellers. In addition there was an investment demand from some of the larger local operators who were influenced by action of the rye market and continuation of unfavorable weather. The real worth of corn is to be determined by its value for feed for live stock. There is no question but prevailing commercial prices are materially above a parity with hogs and cattle. Assuming that the railroads will in time be able to approximate normal service and assuming weather conditions will become favorable, we believe the feeding worth of corn, likewise the financial situation, have considerable to do with the attitude of the producer.

Oats—Toward the last there were reports of possibility of renewal of export demand from France. The market broadened considerably. On the extreme advance seaboard houses were sellers. This market is simply a reflection of corn.

Provisions—Arrangements of credit with Germany have stimulated the provision list. It is to be noted also that some of the larger packers appear to have changed their attitude as their brokers appeared in the market with buying orders. It is claimed accumulations abroad will supply the demand created by the extension of credit and this being so the market here is likely to be dependent upon the receipts of hogs.

Stocks—It would be interesting, if not instructive, if it were possible for any one to write a story of the week's stock market and expose to public view every influence, every current and cross-current that were instrumental in shaping values, but at best we are limited in viewing affairs to what appears on the surface. In attempting to analyze what we can observe and comprehend there are in fact only two points that stand out prominently. The first is the practical continuation of commercial, financial and political conditions as they have existed for some time. The other is the tendency on the part of the public to change ideas in the interpretation of these conditions. No one can say with any degree of authority that a violent change is immediately before us, but on the other hand there is a general unanimity of opinion that the change is inevitable, the only doubt is as to the time. Market conditions as they exist invariably lead to a period of real liquidation and it looks to us as though this liquidation is on.

Cotton—Cotton was weak again today, but without any new or distinctive cause. There is nothing in the goods market or in the crop conditions that would under ordinary circumstances create any sentiment for or against the market. The only thing that would justify aggressive bearish position would be a general change in economic conditions that would bring on a lowering of all values and as to this we have no decided view. Momentarily it looks as though the decline might continue until the long interest has been sufficiently reduced to place the market in a stronger technical position.

ADOPT DAYLIGHT SAVING.

New England Cities and State of Massachusetts Move Up An Hour.

BOSTON, April 24.—Massachusetts and numerous cities in other New England states were preparing today to enter on a five-month period of daylight saving. Timepieces will be moved ahead one hour at 2 a. m. tomorrow. The change in Massachusetts is by state law. A petition by farmers' interests asking for an injunction against enforcement of the law was scheduled for hearing today.

Railroads have announced revised schedules to conform with the change in time. Twelve Rhode Island cities and towns will change time tomorrow. In Maine the cities of Portland, Lewiston and Bangor and some towns will set their clocks ahead. Manchester is the principal point in New Hampshire to adopt the plan.

1,500 YOUNGSTERS ARE EXPECTED AT ROUNDUP

PURDUE UNIVERSITY TO BE HOST TO BOYS AND GIRLS.

CONTESTS, PLAY, EXHIBITS

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 24.—Practically every county in the state will be represented at the second annual boys' and girls' club roundup which will be held at Purdue University May 3 to 7. At least 1,500 youngsters, largely club winners, are expected to be here for the week of instruction and pleasure.

The program, which has just been completed, provides for daily setting up exercises under the direction of the military department; live stock, corn and egg judging contests for the boys; bread and sewing judging contests for the girls, and demonstrations of all this work by members of the university staff. Proper operation of tractors will be shown by university men, and inspection trips about the university have been scheduled in which all the different places of interest will be visited.

Periods of play also are on the program, under direction of the athletic coaches. A debate, "Resolved, That the tractor is a good investment on the average 120-acre farm in central Indiana," by the Marion-Elwood team against the Frankfort-Forest team, will be another feature.

Additional events will be "open house" in the shops and laboratories one evening during the week; an egg barbecue Thursday night, at the conclusion of the egg show, and demonstration on fitting and showing live stock.

The boys and girls will be accompanied here by county and home demonstration agents, club leaders, teachers and parents. Especially large delegations are expected to come from Sullivan, Fountain, Laporte, St. Joseph, Bartholomew and Clinton counties.

MRS. JAMES GORDON MURDOCK

The musical play, "Bubbles," to be presented at the Murat theater Tuesday and Wednesday nights for the benefit of the Boys' Club Association, was written by Mrs. George O. Rockwood, who is assisted by Mrs. R. Felix Geddes in producing the play. It is similar in construction to the "Follies," and full of comedy and catchy musical numbers.

The proceeds will be devoted to welfare work among the boys of Indianapolis. The Boys' Club derives most of its revenue through the presentation of annual plays.

One of the features will be a ballet by Mlle. Theo Hewes and her company of twenty. They will present the ballet which they will use on a Canadian tour this summer.

Among the persons who will take prominent parts in the play are Meredith Nicholson, Mrs. James Gordon Murdock, Miss Florence Anne Parkin, Mrs. Glenn Friermood, Mrs. Geddes, Clarence Sweeney, Russell Johnston, H. B. Williams, Charles Rauh, Victor Richardson, Thomas Nealis, Miss Elizabeth Nicholson, Miss Caroline Coffin, Miss Gertrude Shideler, Mrs. Charles Schaff, Mrs. Richard Fairbanks, Miss Ruth Perry, Mrs. Don Hawkins, Mrs. John Fishback, Mrs. Gordon Tanner and Mrs. Charles Rauh.

Meredith Nicholson will sing "Pyorrhea Jones." He is satisfying the pet ambition of a lifetime, he said, when he sings a song on the stage. George Somnes is directing the play, a special arrangement having been made with the Little theater. Tickets are on sale at the Murat box office.

Little Stories of Daily Life

Why Not!

The other day the little daughter of a Salem household was watching a family of small kittens at their first meal of chicken bones. They were somewhat shy at having to eat before an audience, and first one little kitten would come up and get one little chicken bone and retire to a corner of the arbor to eat, and then another little kitten would slip up for its choice and run off with it to its own particular place. The child watched them for a little while and then she came running in the house. "Mother," she said, "do you know what we are doing? We are running a cat-eria out here instead of a calf-eteria. Just come and see!"

A Lightheaded Customer.

A Jeffersonville merchant has recently placed an automatic weighing machine in front of his store. A few days ago a citizen was observed standing on the machine and closely scrutinizing the dial. His hat was in his hand although the thermometer marked a low temperature and a passerby asked him why he had his hat off. "I want to see what I weight without my outdoor garments," said the citizen blandly. His interlocutor walked away muttering, "He wouldn't weight much less if he took his head off as well."

SAY RENT STRIKE IS PLAN.

New York Committeemen Declare Leaders Plotted Months.

NEW YORK, April 24.—A rent propaganda has been carried on in this city since last October looking to a big rent strike May 1 as the start of the "Revolution in America," according to a statement last night by Arthur J. W. Hilly, chairman of the mayor's committee on rent profiteering.

Mr. Hilly said his own office and the police were thoroughly familiar with the plans of the agitators, who hoped to "socialize" the houses in which the strikers live. The police and courts, he added, were prepared to cope with any situation that might arise. He had no doubt the whole thing would be a fizzle.

Mr. Hilly said efforts to find out who the leaders were had been unsuccessful. The propaganda has been spread from mouth to mouth, May 1 having been selected because of the belief that other radical demonstrations on that date would add fuel to the flames.

The authorities are keeping special watch on Brownsville, where it has been announced that a general strike of tenants will be called for May 1 in the expectation that 25,000 families will refuse to pay rent. The agitation for this strike has been carried on in the Workingmen's Consumers League, whose attorney, Emmanuel Wehl, said yesterday it had between 9,000 and 10,000 members.

SHORT FURROWS

—By ABE MARTIN—

"Ther haint nothin' improbable any more," said Tell Binkley this mornin'. "Th' world war, th' flyin' machine, th' price o' butter, th' submarine, th' defeat o' th' peace treaty, Hiram Johnson's vote in Michigan, one hundred an' thirty-five-dollar business suits, nationwide prohibition, scientific discoveries, home brewin', th' antics of our statesmen, th' quality o' nickel cigars, th' brazenness o' hypenated Americans, th' girls that walk th' plank in 'musical' shows an' th' price o' p'taters, have altogether brought this sober, startlin' fact home t' us with such vividness that we cant sidestep it. So, then, it is well t' ponder long an' seriously over a statement recently made by Landlord Gabe Craw, o' th' New Palace hotel—that in th' course o' th' next eight or ten years ever'buddy 'll be livin' in hotels an' boardin' houses. Landlord Craw says its simply a matter o' evolution an' that ther's ever' indication t' back up his assertion. Th' ole cottage home with its garden plot an' fruit trees 'll disappear jest th' same as th' ole squeakin' green pump an' family hitchin' post has disappeared. Apartment buildin's are springin' up ever'where, gigantic hotels are piercin' th' very skies, while fewer an' fewer homes are bein' built an' ole homes are bein' transformed int' four-apartment flats. I expect t' see great cantonments built after th' fashion o' poultry houses fer couples that wish t' raise children. Th' cost o' maintainin' a personal establishment has already reached th' point where its well nigh prohibitive. Rents are goin' up, plumbers are slower an' more expensive, capable servants are extinct, growin' daughters refuse t' do housework, tired wives are throwin' up th' sponge, there's no one t' spade th' garden or cut th' grass. Th' desire t' eat away from home is growin' an' growin' while downtown eatin' places are multiplyin' by leaps an' bounds. Ice bills, coal bills, property assessments, taxes, light bills, telephone bills, grocery bills, milk bills, an' all kinds o' bills, are gittin' higher an' higher. Mother is gittin' tired o' runnin' a home an' father is gittin' tired o' tryin' t' have a home."

"I reckon th' future gran'mother 'll thrill those about her by relatin' how she used t' git home late from a shoppin' tour, call th' children home from th' neighbors, an' open a can o' beans, an' send t' th' corner grocery fer a loaf o' bread, an' make a pot o' coffee an' muss up ever' dish in th' house jest fer th' sake of a little dinner in her own home," said Miss Fawn Lippincut, with some sarcasm.

"Yes, an' then gran'paw 'll relate how he washed th' dishes an' minded th' children while gran'maw powdered her nose an' made a couple o' new eyebrows an' trotted off downtown agin," put in Uncle Niles Turner.

Commitee of Miners and Operators Again to Take Up Scale Question.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 24.—The subcommittee of the joint scale committee of miners and operators of District No. 11, comprising the greater part of the Indiana bituminous coal field, which has been in session here for more than a week, adjourned last night until Monday night, several questions before it still remaining unsettled. The district convention of the miners has been called to convene Monday.

It is expected that the miners' representatives on the joint committee will report progress and the convention will recess until the matters in dispute in conference have been adjusted.

PUPILS ARE REINSTATED.

Charges of Attacking Instructor Are Not Sustained.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 24.—Four boys, suspended from the Lafayette High School recently because of their connection with the hazing of Schuler P. Hall, chemistry instructor, who was attacked and severely beaten, were reinstated today by the school board. The affair was investigated and the charges against the boys were not sustained. The pupils of the high school had planned a general strike Monday morning, cards having been distributed pledging the pupils to take part unless the boys were reinstated.

The man who is teaching a nation to FEED itself!

DO YOU KNOW
THAT there are 260,000,000 farmers in India?
THAT a farmer in India walks 42 miles in plowing one acre of ground?
THAT he uses only a sharp wooden stick for a plow?
THAT the native Indian chicken weighs about 2½ pounds and lays two to three dozen eggs a year?
THAT the native cow, which is sacred and must not be killed for beef, gives only a little over a pint of milk a day?
THAT farming methods in India have been so primitive that it takes 4 oxen and 6 men a whole day to irrigate about an acre of land along the bank of a stream?

Is it any wonder that India is a land of famine? But things are changing! American missionaries made the change

THEY introduced steel plows, crossed American milk cows with the native cow, quadrupled the milk supply,
crossed American hens with native fowls, increased the size and laying power of the hens, taught modern agricultural methods to the natives.

Do YOU believe in this kind of Christianity? Come, hear the man who has done this
