Statement as to Inquiry at That Time, Its Motives and Facts Brought Out.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—When, in the fall of 1912, Senator Penrose and his old guard followers desired to smirch the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt for President of the United States, Penrose declared on the floor of the senate that $3,000,000 had been spent to get the Republican nomination for Roosevelt in the spring of that year, and he followed this with a resolution which permitted an investigation of the Roosevelt campaign expenses.

Penrose at that time succeeded in stirring up a great deal of criticism as to methods of campaigning in getting a great many people to believe that a great deal of money had been improperly expended. Testimony was taken and weighed and Mr. Roosevelt himself, at the time, issued a statement in which he spoke of the heavy expenses of preconvention campaigns and gave his philosophy on the question of campaign contributions.

This year, when the senate cabal desired to smirch the candidacy of Leonard Wood, Senator Borah made extravagant declarations on the floor of the senate and he succeeded in getting an investigation, with a packed committee, of the Wood campaign expenses, for the purpose of injuring, if possible, the candidacy of Wood for the Republican nomination for President.

Roosevelt's Characteristic View.

In 1912 Roosevelt went on the stand before the Clapp investigating committee and declared in his customary vigorous style that he did not care who contributed to his campaign or how much they contributed.

"Any man that would believe he would get any consideration from making any contribution to me was either a crook or a fool," declared Roosevelt amid the cheers and applause of the spectators.

This year, Senator Johnson, who has been making his campaign as the legal heir of the progressive policies of Theodore Roosevelt and who pretends to have inherited all the virile Americanism of Roosevelt, is attempting to make it appear to be a crime for any one to contribute more than $27,500 to a nominating campaign. The $27,500 limit is set because that is the amount of the largest contribution that has been made to the Johnson campaign to date.

Other Campaigns Neglected.

The investigation of the Roosevelt campaign for the Republican nomination was begun in September, 1912, with great eclat and much outcry and all the Roosevelt managers all over the country were speedily summoned to Washington, while other campaigns were neglected and overlooked. It was shown that $1,500,000 or $2,000,000 was spent in the Roosevelt campaign, if not more, for records were not kept and only the surface of the expenditures in Roosevelt's behalf was touched.

It was shown, for instance, that Dan R. Hanna, of Cleveland, contributed $177,000 to the Roosevelt campaign for the Republican nomination. George W. Perkins contributed $123,000 and Frank A. Munsey, New York publisher, contributed $118,000, making more than $400,000 for these three men alone. Munsey in his New York papers is now decrying the preconvention expenditures. It was shown that $144,000 was spent by William Flinn, of Pittsburg, in the effort to elect Roosevelt delegates from Pennsylvania and that $127,000, at least, was spent in Ohio, for which no accounting was ever made. The Roosevelt campaign in New York county cost $60,000 and E. E. Hooker as a sort of treasurer for the Roosevelt campaign disbursed somewhere around $144,000.

Senator Dixon, of Montana, spent somewhere around $100,000 for Roosevelt out of the Washington headquarters and he never accounted for any of it, for he did not keep books on either the contributions to his fund or on the method of disbursement. Ormsby McHarg spent $30,000 hiring lawyers to set up contests for southern delegates and he made no accounting of that money.

There were only two or three preferential primaries in 1912 and most of the money was spent in straight-out fights for delegates. In the campaign primaries have been held in many states and much of the money has been spent in that connection, one exception being $38,000 in the Lowden campaign in Missouri.

Pennsylvania had no preferential law, but William Flinn, who is now by the way one of the principal supporters of Senator Johnson, spent $144,000 to get Roosevelt delegates. Where it is now shown that as much as $50,000 is spent in a state where the expensive preferential primary system prevails, the candidate that spends the money is held up by the Johnson men, heirs of the Roosevelt policies, so they say, as suspicious and probably venal.

Never Concealed Large Amount.

But Roosevelt never made any bones about the large contributions that came to him. He told the Clapp committee right out that when he wished a special train, it had been necessary for George Perkins and Frank Munsey to underwrite it or he could not have gone. He gloried in the support of the men of wealth that rallied around him, and when he was told, on the stand, that a sugar trust lawyer had contributed $10,000 to his campaign, Roosevelt said: "Bully for him."

Furthermore the sky was the limit for contributions to Roosevelt. He did not have any faith in the efforts to limit contributions.

"My attitude as to contributions now is precisely what my attitude was in 1904 and will not be changed," Roosevelt declared in a vigorous letter to Senator Clapp.

"I do not draw the line against size and never shall. The conditions I impose are that the contributions shall be received without any kind of promise or obligation, expressed or implied, being accepted only on the announced principle that making it has no end to serve except to assist the cause he is championing; and, secondly, that the money shall be spent in honest fashion and only for legitimate expenses.

Discounted Limitation Plan.

"I have no sympathy with the proposal to limit contributions to $5,000 or $10,000 or any other sum. If the virtue of a party is so frail that it will weaken if the contribution is over $10,000 it will also weaken if it is $10,000. I am proud of the fact that there is at least a few men of wealth who possess the farsightedness and the generous understanding of the needs of the time which make them powerful champions of the cause of the American people. I honor the man of wealth whose fealty to an ideal makes him freely spend his wealth to aid the cause of justice, no more and no less than I honor his

Notice

Monday, May 31, the annual 500-mile race will be held at the Indianapolis motor speedway. The race will start at 10 o'clock and the winner is expected to finish about 3:30 p. m.

The News will issue its regular editions at the usual hour, excepting the night extra, which will be suspended for the day and an extra edition announcing the winners of the race and a complete story will be issued immediately after the finish. A final speedway extra will be put on the streets as soon as the names of the first ten drivers crossing the tape can be announced. On account of the print paper situation only a limited number of copies will be distributed. The News of Tuesday, June 1, will carry the full story of the race.

ROADS TO SPEEDWAY IN FAIR SHAPE, SAYS MELOY

RECENT STRIKE HELD UP PART OF REPAIR WORK.

BEST ROUTES OUTLINED

Roads leading to the speedway have been put in as good condition as circumstances permitted, A. O. Meloy, city street commissioner, said today. Due to railroad conditions, the city has been unable to get all the oil that was needed, and in some places gravel has been used which has not yet become packed.

The street commissioner's department has had only one week to work on the streets and roads, because 100 employes had been on strike for higher wages.

Three Main Routes.

The three main routes to the speedway are in fair condition, Mr. Meloy said. These routes are: Out Indiana avenue to the speedway road, north of the Fall creek bridge; Indiana avenue to Sixteenth street and thence to the speedway on the new pavell roadway, and the Thirtieth street route.

Other routes which will probably not be as heavily traveled are:

West Tenth street, from Indiana avenue to Olin avenue, thence north to the Crawfordsville road. Olin avenue is unimproved, but is in good condition.

Signs and Traffic Men.

West Michigan street, from Indiana avenue to Tibbs avenue, north to Garden avenue, northwest to Tenth street and west to Olin avenue, or straight west in Michigan street to Grandee avenue, and then north to Tenth street and west to Main street of Speedway City and north to the speedway.

West Washington street to White river boulevard, thence out the boulevard to Crawfordsville road at Emerichsville, or straight out West Washington street to Tibbs avenue and north, taking any of the several routes leading from Tibbs avenue.

There will be signs and traffic men to guide the motorists.

ROOMS FOR RACE VISITORS

For the benefit of speedway visitors seeking rooms, the classified advertising department of The Indianapolis News will have an information bureau in operation in the lobby of The News office Sunday and, as long as necessary Monday. The bureau will open at 8 a. m. Sunday and will be in operation as late in the evening as visitors come. Every effort will be made to direct visitors to places where rooms are suitable to the size of the party and in accordance with the visitors' desires as to cost.

The classified department now has listed about 400 homes in Indianapolis where rooms are open to speedway visitors. It is expected that at least double that many will be listed by Sunday. The list does not include hotels, as all hotel accommodations are taken by reservations.

DROWNS WHILE HUSBAND IS ATTEMPTING RESCUE

BODY IS STILL IN WABASH

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 29.—Mrs. Leona Taylor, age twenty-eight, was drowned today when she fell backard from a motor boat into the Wabash river, just below the Wabash avenue bridge here. Benjamin Taylor, her husband, who was on the boat with her, dived three times in an attempt at rescue, but the current, which is swift at that point, carried her away and the body never came up. The Taylors lived in a house-boat at the foot of Ohio street, a short distance from the scene of the drowning. The body has not been recovered.

JOHNSON'S FUND IS GIVEN AS $225,000

One Manager Inadvertently Admits Much More, if Available, Could Have Been Used.

M'CABE ON WITNESS STAND

33 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The campaign fund raised for Senator Hiram W. Johnson, of California, arch-foe of large campaign funds, was brought up to more $225,000 by testimony before the senate's investigating committee today and one of Johnson's managers inadvertently admitted that much larger sums could have been used effectively had they been available.

It was brought out by questions asked Alexander McCabe, one of Johnson's managers in California, that the stories of millionaires on the Johnson list of delegates from California, were true. McCabe knew of six millionaires out of twenty-six delegates, and of one millionaire on the list of alternates. Others might be millionaires for all McCabe knew, but he was sure of the six.

Amount Raised in California.

McCabe testified that from $100,000 to $125,000 was raised by Johnson's friends in California prior to the primary May 4, and he said that about $20,000 had been raised since. Of this amount, he said, from $50,000 to $70,000 was spent in California, although much more could have been used had it been available.

The expenditures in Johnson's home state was this large, McCabe testified, despite the fact that Johnson has a well organized machine in operation there and virtually controls the Republican organization in the state. McCabe attempted to justify Johnson's expenditure on the theory that the Hoover campaign had to be combated and the Hoover people were spending a great deal of money.

It seems to be the view of Johnson's backers that if it was necessary for other candidates to spend large sums to meet opposition campaigns in other states, the expenditures of the other candidates were open to suspicion. What Johnson spends was justifiable, according to the belief of Johnson and his backers, Senator Borah, of Idaho, who started the investigation, and others who are carrying it through.

Spencer Startles Committee.

Senator Spencer, of Missouri, startled the investigating committee, when he asked McCabe whether he knew of $100,000 being withdrawn from the Crocker National Bank, of San Francisco, on the night before the California primaries for use in the Johnson campaign the next day.

McCabe declared that he knew nothing about such a transaction and insisted vigorously that there was no such transaction.

Senators Kenyon and Reed, when the hearing adjourned for luncheon, were much irritated at Spencer for having the rumor of the Johnson slush fund put into the record, although they have been cluttering up the record every day this week with rumors about large expenditures for other candidates.

A verbal row took place between the senators and Kenyon indicated that the committee might put Senator Spencer on the stand to tell the source of his information in regard to the $100,000 of alleged Johnson money.

McCabe said he did not have the records with him, but offered to send for them. His estimate was based, he said, "on the last time I looked over the books."

Mentions Hoover Campaign.

McCabe declared that Hoover supporters in California spent "eight or nine times as much as we, at the lowest estimate, $200,000."

The witness testified that $25,000 of the total of the California fund was sent to the Johnson national headquarters in New York. He added that he had been in touch with the state organization up to "about May 4, when the California primary closed."

"Money was still coming in then," McCabe testified. "But we were in constant difficulties meeting the campaign of our opponents. Mr. Hoover ran, opposing Johnson there. Possibly $20,000 has been collected since to meet the deficit."

Contributors named by the witness included Herbert Fleshacker, $5,000; Will Crocker, $4,000, and John H. Rosseter, $2,500.

State-Wide Solicitation.

"The money was gathered in a state-wide solicitation," McCabe continued. Asked as to contributions by state officers, he said: 'Charles R. Neumiller, a prison commissioner, gave $1,000.'

Will C. Wood, state educational officer, "contributed active support to Mr. Hoover," the witness declared, adding that out of five railroad commissioners, three gave to Johnson funds, and the others "supported Mr. Hoover."

Regents of the state university also were divided in allegiance, McCabe said, but one or two "gave possibly $250 or $500" to the Johnson campaign.

"A large number of state officials did contribute to us," McCabe said, "but they were not men of means and they did not give large amounts."

Asked as to the assertion that

DEDICATION OF PART OF VICTORY WAY ARRANGED

LEGION POST TO DIRECT PROGRAM AT NOBLESVILLE.

MEMORIAL FOR SOLDIERS

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., May 29.—Part of Victory Way will be dedicated in this city Sunday afternoon, following Memorial day exercises at the opera house. Victory Way is a memorial for world war soldiers and eventually will extend from this city down the Allisonville pike to Indianapolis. One hundred and fifty American elm trees have just been set out on both sides of the road at this end of the line and they will be presented to the soldiers tomorrow.

The exercises will be under the auspices of the Frank Huntsinger Post of the American Legion of this city. No more trees will be set out until the improvement of the Indianapolis road, which is in progress, has been completed and then the local committee will plant trees to the Marion county line, with the understanding that Marion county will bring a similar improvement from Indianapolis to the Hamilton county line.

HENRY J. ALLEN WILL NAME LEONARD WOOD

GOVERNOR TO MAKE NOMINATING SPEECH AT CHICAGO.

GREAT PRIVILEGE, HE SAYS

NEW YORK, May 29.—Governor Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, who has himself been mentioned as a presidential possibility, will place the name of Major-General Leonard Wood before the Republican national convention in Chicago next month for nomination for the presidency of the United States.

The arrangement for Allen to make the nominating speech was completed today at a breakfast attended by William C. Procter, head of the Wood campaign committee.

Allen's Statement.

The Governor later had the following statement to make concerning the result of the breakfast parley:

"I received a telegram from Gen. Wood, dated at Charlottesville, Va., last night, as I was starting for my debate with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. Although I have not yet replied directly to General Wood, I got in touch this morning with Colonel William C. Procter, in charge of his pre-convention campaign, and assured him I would consider it a great privilege to present the general's name."

Personal Invitation.

The telegram which he had received from General Wood, the Governor said, was in the nature of a personal invitation. It was to the effect that General Wood and his friends, after considering the most desirable men to place his name before the convention, had agreed that the Governor was the most fitted.

Always a Wood Supporter.

General Wood's telegram stated that he and his friends realized the vital importance of the personality and reputation of the men who would present his name and closed by urging Governor Allen to accept the invitation.

In making the announcement of his acceptance, the Governor said he had always been a Wood supporter and wished to see the general the next President.

Governor Allen planned to leave for Washington Sunday, where he will testify before the house labor committee concerning the Kansas industrial relations court.

WILSON ISSUES ORDER TO RELEASE MRS. O'HARE

COMMUTES SENTENCE TO END IMMEDIATELY.

CONVICTED UNDER 'SPY' ACT

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Wilson today ordered the release from federal prison of Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, one of the so-called "political prisoners."

The release of Mrs. O'Hare, Eugene V. Debs, Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes and others has been asked by the Socialist party convention and citizens in petitions to the White House. The Socialist petition was given to Secretary Tumulty two weeks ago.

Mrs. O'Hare was convicted of violation of the espionage act. She has been at the Jefferson City, Mo., prison since April 14, 1918.

Mrs. O'Hare was under a five-year sentence imposed for a violation of the espionage act. She was accused of having, in a speech at Bowman, N. D., compared mothers who permitted their sons to become soldiers to "brood sows."

Secretary Tumulty announced that the President had acted in Mrs. O'Hare case on the recommendation of the attorney-general and that the action had no relation to the case of Eugene V. Debs, Socialist candidate for President, whose release also has been asked by the Socialist convention.

ANNUAL TRIBUTE FOR SOLDIER DEAD GRAVES

EXERCISES AT TEN CEMETERIES MEMORIAL DAY.

MONDAY OFFICIAL HOLIDAY

AUTOMOBILES NEEDED

The Memorial day committee, owing to a confusion of committee data, finds at this late hour that it is without automobiles with which to convey the old soldiers from the Monument Circle to Crown Hill cemetery, where the decoration of soldier graves will take place. The committee asks that forty owners of automobiles call Harry B. Smith, adjutant-general of Indiana, at his office, Main 6482, Sunday morning before 12 o'clock. The automobiles will be for service Sunday afternoon and will park in East Ohio street at the south front of the Federal building at 2 o'clock.

Graves of soldier dead in Indianapolis will be decorated in annual Memorial day observances, held under the auspices of the General Memorial Association of Indianapolis, Sunday morning and afternoon. Plans for the observances, including a parade in downtown streets during the afternoon, are complete.

The public schools of the city will be closed all day Monday in accordance with official instructions issued today from the office of Ellis U. Graff, superintendent of schools. The plan at first was to close the schools only Monday afternoon, inasmuch as Memorial day falls on Sunday, but the all-day closing order was issued following the Governor's proclamation designating Monday as a holiday.

Business houses, public offices and banks will be closed Monday. Most of the downtown stores, except men's clothing stores, will remain closed all day. The men's clothing stores will close at noon. Grocery stores will remain open until 10 a. m., and no deliveries will be made. Members of

GOVERNOR DECLARES CITY IN STATE OF INSURRECTION.

STRIKE IN RUBBER PLANT

BRISTOL, R. I., May 29.—Troops of cavalry and coast artillery were patrolling the streets of Bristol today to prevent a repetition of the rioting that occurred yesterday when striking employes of the National India Rubber Company sought to prevent other workers from entering the plant. Governor Beeckman has declared the city "in a state of insurrection," and was expected to come here to inspect the situation personally.

No effort was made to open the plant today, but it was expected that an attempt would be made to resume operations Tuesday after the holiday.

A strike has been in progress at the rubber works for about three weeks, resulting from a wage dispute, and operations have been suspended.

"The Governor is determined that violence shall get no start in the state of Rhode Island, that the personal safety and the preservation of property shall be protected to the fullest extent, and that all means necessary to accomplish these results shall be promptly used. No law abiding citizen will be interfered with in exercising his lawful right, but the security of persons in their homes and the preservation of property will be protected with every power possessed by the state. The Governor calls upon all citizens to aid in this emergency and maintain the fair name of the state in its reputation for law and order."

WOULD OUST RAILROADS FROM ALABAMA STREET

ATTORNEY IS EMPLOYED

A request that the city start ouster proceedings immediately against the railroad companies occupying Alabama street from Virginia avenue to South street, was decided on at a joint conference of representatives of wholesale grocers, the East Washington Street Merchant's Association, the South Side Civic League and the transfer division of the Chamber of Commerce, at the Chamber of Commerce Friday, according to a statement made by Tom Snyder, who was secretary, following the conference. W. S. Frye was chairman.

Mr. Snyder said that Merle N. A. Walker, employed as attorney by the organization, reported that the Big Four Railroad Company, now occupying that part of the street and the companies that closed the street by constructing an abutment across Alabama street, south of Virginia avenue, are trespassing. Mr. Snyder said Mr. Walker reported that there are no proceedings in the records of the City Hall of the legal closing of the street. Mr. Snyder said provision was made at the conference for the financing of legal proceedings to have the street vacated and that it was agreed in case the city administration refuses to start ouster proceedings, the organizations represented at the conference will take action.

Alabama street is closed by a contract entered into between the city and the railroads under the administration of Mayor Bell. The same contract provided for the closing of New Jersey street. Alabama street was originally closed from Virginia avenue to South street by contract between the city and the Big Four railroad at the time the old viaduct was built.

HOUSEWIVES WISH FREE STAND ON CITY MARKET

WOULD SUPPLY FOOD TO MEMBERS AT COST.

WILL VISIT WORKS BOARD

A large delegation from the Housewives' League, of Marion county, will go before the board of public safety next Tuesday at 10 a. m. to file a petition for a stand in the city market free of charge. At this stand the league proposes to sell garden truck and other household commodities to its members at cost. The organization has 1,000 members. Garden produce will be bought directly from the producer and members of the organization will do the work at the stand, if it can be obtained. One farmer has offered to plant anything the league wishes, the women said.

Delegation Members.

Mrs. W. H. Hart, president, will head the delegation, which will include Mrs. William Allen Ragan, secretary; Mrs. Thomas Gardiner, organizer; members of the purchasing committee and others who wish to go. The purchasing committee recently was appointed with Mrs. C. S. Dangler as chairman, and the following members: Mrs. J. V. Van Voorhies, treasurer; Mrs. Leo Lando, Mrs. L. Grover, Mrs. J. S. Jordan.

The decision to ask for a stand on the market was made by the executive committee recently, and at the meeting a revolving fund was started, with $40 in voluntary contributions. A meeting of the league memebrship has been called for next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the Chamber of Commerce, when plans will be made for increasing the fund.

Co-operative Store.

In case the request for the stand should not be granted, officers of the league said, the plan will not be dropped, but a room will be obtained elsewhere for a co-operative store.

Similar stores have been managed successfully by housewives' leagues and like organizations, in Kentucky, Ohio, Colorado and California, the women said.

OPINION IN CHICAGO PUTS WOOD IN LEAD

LOWDEN, JOHNSON IN ORDER

Illinoisan's Friends Expect Him to Gain in West and South, With General's Strength in East.

[By Richard T. Buchanan, Staff Correspondent of The Indianapolis News]

CHICAGO, May 29.—With the Republican national convention ten days away the opinion prevails here that the three leading candidates are Leonard Wood, Frank O. Lowden and Hiram W. Johnson, in the order named, though some observers think it not improbable that Johnson, on the first ballot, will receive more votes than Lowden. Wood stands first in instructed delegates, Johnson second and Lowden third.

The Lowden forces count on much support for their candidate from uninstructed delegates of the south and middle west, while the Wood forces believe their candidate will draw heavily from the uninstructed delegates of the east in such states as New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, which together have about 200 votes, or more than one-fifth of the total number of delegates in the convention. It continues to appear that those three states, if they stand practically solid, will have enough votes to determine the contest.

It is the general opinion that Wood has a better chance than any other candidate of gaining heavily from the votes of those states.

Doubt About Lowden.

Indications are that Johnson will get very few votes from those states and that Lowden has failed to convince them that he could put enough vigor into the campaign, if he were nominated, to make victory reasonably sure. Lowden has run below both Wood and Johnson in the primary states and in some of the most important states he has made a very poor showing. Also he stands below Wood and Johnson in the noteworthy straw polls that have been taken. This fact, it is believed, is not likely to be ignored by the convention, for the delegates naturally will be influenced by a desire to nominate a winner and will not be disposed to take a chance on the assumption that any Republican candidate for President can be elected this year.

It is true that several members of the old guard of the central states, including some of the members of the Republican national committee, are for Lowden, though they seem to be lacking in enthusiasm. As a rule, the old guard, in line with the senatorial group, has been for Lowden or Warren G. Harding in the selection of delegates. Wood has received practically no support from them. Johnson has been helped by them in some states, notably in Indiana, not because they wished him to become the nominee but because he served the purposes of the machine to keep Wood from getting too close to the nomination before the convention assembles. It is assumed now by the old guard, as it has been assumed all along, that most of the votes for Harding ultimately will be delivered for whatever candidate the old guard and senatorial group decide to concentrate on. There is no indication that Harding will become an important contender for the nomination.

Wood Leads in Delegates.

Wood has more instructed delegates than any other candidate. Johnson stands second in this regard, but it is well understood that many of the delegates instructed for Johnson are opposed to nominating him, and most of those delegates are, at heart, Wood men. No doubt they will vote for Johnson for a time, though his recent efforts to use the senate investigation of campaign funds as a basis for charging other candidates, particularly Wood and Lowden, with having tried to buy the nomination, has led some of the delegates instructed for him to condemn him openly and it has at the same time intensified opposition on the part of other delegates, for they see in his conduct an effort to reap a selfish advantage without regard to party harmony. They say it would never do to nominate a candidate who, in his primary campaign, gathered such large support from elements that

DEBS HEARS THE NEWS IN PRISON AT ATLANTA

IS NOTIFIED OF NOMINATION FOR PRESIDENCY.

APPEARS IN BLUE DENIM

ATLANTA, May 29.—Eugene V. Debs, several times Socialist candidate for the presidency of the United States and now serving a ten-year term in the Atlanta federal penitentiary for violation of the espionage laws of the country, was today notified by a committee from the national Socialist convention that he was again named by his party for the title role in the 1920 campaign. Leaders of the party planned to hold a Debs rally here Sunday afternoon. Debs has been assigned to comparatively light work in the prison hospital. He appeared to his visitors in the prison garb of blue denim.

In notifying Debs of the honor conferred on him by his comrades, James O'Neal said: "Comrade Debs: We have made this journey to formally notify you of your nomination for the presidency by the Socialist party. While this nomination is made by the Socialist party, we also know that hundreds of thousands of workingmen and women, and other citizens, heartily approve it.

Devotion to Ideals.

"In tendering you this nomination, we do it with the knowledge of your unfaltering loyalty to the masses and your unswerving devotion to the ideals of socialism. In the struggle of humanity for liberation its advance couriers have often spoken from a felon's cell. In the long roll of liberators your name has been added to this glorious list.

"The felon of one age becomes an emancipator in the view of posterity. Socrates, Christ, Bruno, Savonarola, Lovejoy and John Brown have trod this path. History will record its judgment of you, dear comrade, as it has of them.

"In an hour of passion and autocracy you spoke as they spoke. You defended the human mind unchained and the right of ungagged expression of opinion. You incarnate the best ideals and traditions in American life and the hopes of humanity. With affection too profound to express in words, in the name of the Socialists of the United States and

The others have had experience a plenty at other speedways and dirt track meets.

Speedway Trains Coming.

The largest crowd that ever attended a race meet here, and this means considerably more than 100,000, is expected. Special trains are en route to Indianapolis from all parts of the country, including several cars from the Puget sound district, the oil fields of Texas and from all parts of the south and east. Thousands of racing fans are motoring toward the city and the majority of these will remain in the smaller cities around Indianapolis until the morning of the race in order to get hotel accommodations. The local hotels already are full, but their population will be almost doubled by the use of cots. Many homes of the city have been thrown open to the race visitors.

The races on the local speedway long have been recognized as the greatest sporting event in the world because of the nature of the brick course, which requires both driving skill and speed to keep up with the procession. On board speedways it has been a question of speed almost exclusively. The Indianapolis speedway the fastest car frequently trails the others because of the superior driving skill of pilots with slower cars.

To Start Four Abreast.

The elimination trials were continued today and possibly several of the drivers who were delayed by freight shipments in getting their mounts to the track will be permitted to qualify Sunday. The racers will be lined up four abreast at the start.

JOHNSON'S FUND IS GIVEN AS $225,000

"nine millionaires are on the Johnson ticket of delegates" from California, the witness named Mr. Crocker, Mr. Fleishacker, George H. Cochran, and M. H. DeYoung. Mr. DeYoung, he said, gave nothing.

"How many millionaires on the Hoover delegation?" asked Chairman Kenyon.

"I've never counted," was the reply.

$2,000 Sent to Indiana.

As to expenditures of California, McCabe said $2,000 had been sent to E. F. Mitchell in Indiana, probably $5,900 to Montana; $4,000 to Michigan; $3,500 to South Dakota; $2,000 to North Dakota, and $5,500 to Oregon.

James A. Johnson, of California, McCabe said, had authorized some of the expenditures, which made him uncertain as to exact amounts. To Minnesota $1,500 was sent, he said.

"Then out of California funds you sent more than $50,000 to other states?" Chairman Kenyon questioned.

"I'm sure that's about right," McCabe said.

"You say this money was raised in small amounts?"

"Yes, by public appeals for funds."

"Somewhere around $50,000 was spent in California then. How was that spent; did you have chautauqua lecturers?"

"In four big meetings we paid expenses of speakers," McCabe replied, adding that printing and circulation of printed matter was the largest item, with little or no money spent on newspaper advertising.

Asks About Hoover Campaign.

"Did you see any evidence of expenditures by your opponents in the Hoover campaign?" Senator Kenyon asked.

"That was our great anxiety," McCabe declared. "We did not know how effective it was going to be. They circularized the whole state once or twice; they had many workers, women as well as men, employed in house-to-house canvasses. They were taking whole pages of newspaper advertising and we could not tell what we had to do to counteract it. They had a tremendous number of workers out of Los Angeles. We had to rely largely on volunteer workers. They had the money and could get them."

"Well, there were some people induced to work by their respect and admiration for Mr. Hoover, weren't there?" Senator Kenyon asked.

"Yes, of course, but there were great numbers employed," returned he when asked that in Los Angeles alone Hoover's men had 1,600 paid workers.

Rumors of Large Expenses.

"You've been very helpful in giving us rumors of very large expenses for the Hoover campaign," Senator Edge began. "Have you heard of any rumors of slush funds for the Johnson side that came into use through channels outside your control?"

"I can say with absolute certainty that none such were used for Senator Johnson," said McCabe.

John H. Rosseter first took charge of the Johnson finances, the witness said, giving the names of the committee assisting.

"Pretty strong financing, I should say," Senator Edge remarked as he checked off names of bankers.

"Strong as we could get," McCabe returned.

"On this testimony I get a discrepancy of some $50,000 as to how much Johnson funds were in California and how much was sent out," Senator Edge said. McCabe said the books would show all details.

Sending Out Publicity.

"You were sending out publicity matter nationally," said Senator Reed. "Might it not have been possible to eat up $25,000 or $30,000 of this alleged discrepancy in that way?"

"Undoubtedly," replied the witness.

The witness said "one group of 300 college students were hired to stand at polling places election day by the Hoover committee."

"Then 300 young men got their first political initiation in this uplift campaign by getting money at the polls," said Senator Reed.

Senator Spencer (Rep., Mo.) asked a series of questions as to contributions in billboard advertising and total Johnson funds in all parts of the country.

"As nearly as I can calculate these figures," he said, "$203,000 has been raised for Senator Johnson in California and New York. Is that right?"

"About right," McCabe replied.

"Nothing of Any Consequence."

"And this does not include local sums raised in all parts of the country and perhaps in San Francisco?" Senator Spencer continued.

"Nothing of any consequence, I can say from my observation of the campaign," McCabe responded, adding that all other sums would not aggregate more than a few thousand dollars.

"And outside of the $27,000 a Pennsylvania man gave through New York, $5,000 was the largest contribution?" Senator Spencer asked.

"That is right."

"And you had a large number of California state officials who contributed?"

"There were a large number of men who had been associated with Senator Johnson in public life when he was Governor who gave. Some of them were still in office."

"Do you know of a drawing of $100,000 in currency out of the Crocker National Bank for your funds on the evening of election day?" asked Senator Spencer.

"I do not," Mr. McCabe said.

Classifies It as Scandal.

Later he declared he would class the story as "'a d—d dirty scandal.'"

Chairman Kenyon said the question amounted to a "charge" and Senator Spencer said he would supply the name of his informant for subpena use.

Newspaper Man on Stand.

Before calling McCabe the committee questioned Frederick William Wile, a correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, as to an article written by him that $86,000 had been raised in California for Senator Johnson's primary there. Wile refused to disclose his sources, but testified that J. H. Rosseter, formerly of the shipping board, and William H. Crocker, of California, had been instrumental in raising the reported fund.

"If there was a slush fund in California, we want to know it," Chairman Kenyon declared after a subpena had been issued for Mr. Crocker.

The witness said he had "heard a good deal to the effect that all candidates in California were spending a good deal of money."

Has Written About Hoover Men.

"Why didn't you write up the Hoover business, too?" asked Senator Reed (Dem. Mo.).

Wile said that the Philadelphia Public Ledger had "written that up exhaustively when Hoover men were before this committee."

Wile asserted that estimates of expenses for Hoover in California had not reached anything like the estimates of expenditures for Johnson.

"I was told," he said, "that the ceiling was the limit for the Johnson campaign."

"If you were impartial about it you would write stories about the expenditures of all candidates," said Senator Reed.

"Not exactly," the witness said. "I had a direct statement that $86,000 was raised for Johnsoon in California."

Asked About McAdoo Campaign.

Evan S. Harris, of Albany, N. Y., former Democratic state chairman, was called and questioned as to a campaign for William G. McAdoo. He said he did not know whether there was a McAdoo campaign or a McAdoo fund.

"We've been told you can give us something about this," said Chairman Kenyon.

"I've been out of touch for two years," he answered.

"Did Daniel C. Roper ever ask you about the McAdoo candidacy?" Senator Edge (Rep., N. J.) asked.

"I'll say no, and then explain," Mr. Harris replied. "Mr. Roper asked me if I thought he should give up his business in case Mr. McAdoo became a candidate. I advised him not to."

"You know Mr. McAdoo is a candidate?" Senator Edge asked.

"I know he said he was not," Harris returned.

Chairman Kenyon has put into the record a letter from James McClurg Guffy, of Pittsburg, denying that he had ever contributed any money to the fund raised for Attorney-General Palmer's campaign. Joseph F. Guffy, of Pittsburg, had been previously identified as the contributor of $10,000 to the Palmer campaign in the testimony by former Federal Judge J. Harry Covington, the Palmer campaign treasurer.

ST. LOUIS, May 29.—Jacob L. Babler, Republican national committeeman from Missouri, and E. L. (Liv) Morse, of Excelsior Springs, admitted at a meeting here Friday of the Missouri delegation to the Republican national convention, that they had received $32,000 of the Lowden presidential campaign fund and had expended it encouraging support for the Governor.

They said all expenditures had been legitimate and that none of the money had been paid to any individual to obtain Lowden support. Following their statements, a resolution was adopted asking the senate subcommittee investigating preconvention presidential campaign expenditures to make a thorough inquiry into expenditures in Missouri of presidential aspirants so that "all the facts may be ascertained."

L. L. Emerson, Lowden's campaign manager, testifying Monday before the senate subcommittee, said $32,000 had been given to Morse. After Friday's meeting Morse issued a statement in which he said some of the money was spent on trips he made to Oklahoma, Kentucky, West Virginia and Washington, D. C., in the interest of Lowden's campaign. The meeting re-elected Babler national committeeman.

PROCTER WOOD LEADER, EARLY SHOWED TRAITS WHICH MADE HIM SUCCESS IN BUSINESS

The following article, printed originally in the Kansas City Star, is reprinted today from the files of The News of Ma 20, 1920:

"Among the leaders of the campaign of Leonard Wood, soldier, for the Republican nomination f President, is one W liam Cooper Procter, business man, of whom the politicians know little but the business world knows much.

"Procter is president of the Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Company, soapmakers, and lives in Cincinnati, the home of the concern, which has a branch factory in Kansas City. But Procter is more than a maker of soap. He is likewise an experimenter in industrial democracy, and has been ever since that day in 1885, when, twenty-two years old and just graduated from Princeton, he entered his father's plant at Cincinnati as a soap boiler.

"To enter trade young William Cooper Procter gave up an ambition for the same career as that of the man he now supports for the presidential nomination. He wanted to be a soldier—and he wanted to enter West Point.

Started Half-Holiday.

"Having once given in to paternal suasion, however, he wasted no time in regrets, but, in overalls and jumper, working by the side of the lowliest employes of the plant, he prepared eventually to take his father's place as the head of the company. At the same time he advised his father concerning ways of improving the morale of the force. One of the first of these recommendations was the Saturday half-holiday, which since has spread through all American industry.

"The year after he went to work in the plant was the year o fthe Knights of Labor disturbances throughout the country. In twelve months there were fourteen strikes in the soap factory. And then, on William Cooper Procter's advice, a system of profit sharing was instituted.

"This was based on the yearly earnings of the employes. The total amount of wages was added to the sum of the other expenses of running the plant. This amount, then, was deducted from the total sales, and the profit remaining was apportioned according to expenses. Each worker received his proportionate share of that allotted to wages.

System Shown Successful.

"The employes were suspicious of the scheme the early months of its trial. They looked on it as a trap, and there were several more strikes. But when, at the end of six months, each received a bonus equal approximately to 11 per cent. of his wages for the period, their suspicions were allayed. Since then Procter & Gamble have had but one strike—that in the Kansas City branch—a couple of years ago, which Mr. Procter insists was inspired by the I. W. W. influence from the outside.

"In 1890 the younger Procter succeeded his father as president of the company, and today stock which then sold at par is worth $700 a share. Such is the proof of his business ability—and the proof that his plans for democratizing industry have not been the vapory ideals of an impractical visionary.

Tribute to Higher Education.

"Not long after taking control of the company, he extended the profit-sharing plan so as to make it act as a spur to employes to save by encouraging the investment of bonuses in the common stock of the concern.

"Today many of these workers have between $25,000 and $100,000 worth of stock, and one man who retired a few years ago, a man who started at $1,000 a year and whose income never exceeded $7,000 a year, had accumulated more than $750,000 in this manner. Of course, part of the accumulation has been the result of an increase in the value of stock.

"It was not long until a system of insurance for employes had been adopted, and then, a few years ago, at Mr. Procter's instigation, a 'conference committee' was appointed by the workers to meet with the management once a month and suggest plans for improving working conditions. Every department was represented on this committee on a basis of one delegate for every fifty employes.

Employes Become Wealthy.

"The most recent innovation was one instituted last year, by which the company's workmen elect three of their number as members of the board of directors, the highest governing body of the concern. Each of these directors represents one of the three Procter & Gamble factories.

"Procter picks his executives from the ranks. Every man in high position in the company, with one exception, forced his way up, step by step. But Mr. Procter has explained that 50 per cent. of these men were college graduates when they entered his employ. Such is his tribute to the value of education.

"That, in brief is the story of William Cooper Procter as a business executive and industrial reformer."

INDORSES PROCTER COURSE.

Noblesville Writer Sees Wholesomeness In Efforts for General Wood.

To the Editor of The News:

Sir—I have watched the investigation at Washington with much interest, and it has brought out about what I thought it would. It was framed up in the first place by somebody to get something on General Wood, not because he was General Wood, but because he was the candidate who was sweeping the country in the primary elections, piling up a big vote right in the home states of the "favorite sons." But if the somebody who started it all has got anything on the general, I can't see it.

It is shown that the great proportion—not all, but the great proportion of the money used in the Wood campaign has been advanced by William C. Procter, of Cincinnati.

Now, I don't know William C. Procter, but I am inclined to think he is all right. Certainly, if there has been anything against him, the unfriendly senators at Washington would have revealed it, because every move has indicated they were willing to do anything in their power to hurt General Wood. But it was not revealed as far as I have been able to find out that Mr. Procter is hooked up with any public utility combination, and political machine outfit or anything else of the kind.

Ideals in Campaign.

When Mr. Procter said he took up the Wood campaign idealistically, as he would undertake a Red Cross campaign, nobody, as far as I have been able to learn, sneered at this remark. Even the sneering Mr. Reed did not sneer. So Mr. Procter is evidently the sort of substantial citizen whose ideals are not conducive to sneers.

Mr. Procter, I suppose, thought a rather substantial person was needed to be President the next four years, and thought Leonard Wood was fine material for the office. A good many other people think it. I wish I had at hand the total vote that has been cast for General Wood in the state primaries. Mr. Procter performed a great service in making it possible, through widespread publicity, for all of the people to know about Leonard Wood. He has, I think, a much more virtuous idea about spending money in politics than does the old-time politician who likes to carry the boodle around the corner and up dark alleys.

In one article in your paper yesterday it was stated that large amounts of money were expended in the Roosevelt and Taft campaigns and no hubbub was raised about it. It was true, no hubbub, such as this was raised, but there was a great deal published about the railroad men and other utility men who had contributed to Roosevelt's campaign fund. Mr. Roosevelt said that none of these contributions took away from him any of his independence of thought or action and his statements to that effect were published in your paper and other papers. And I think it was proved that he was right. But in this case the man who is contributing to the Wood campaign fund, while he may have varied interests, is known wholly for the great private manufacturing concern he has built up.

Things to Be Considered.

Everybody knows contributions are made to campaign funds. Only three things are to be considered—the caliber and position of those who contribute; the caliber of the candidate, and the use made of the contributions.

In this case we have as the candidate a man of the greatest independence of thought and action—bluntly independent. And we have as the chief contributor a man of the caliber of Mr. Procter, and we find that practically all of the money contributed has been used in paying the expenses of publicity. Crookedness never courts publicity. It all looks very wholesome to me. J. H.

MILLIONS SPENT IN CAMPAIGN OF 1912

brother who has no wealth and gives what he can in its place."

In the same primary campaign, the Taft supporters, despite the enormous power of the federal machinery behind them, spent somewhere around $2,000,000, and no one ever tried to conceal the fact that the Taft forces spent $67,000 in the city of Pittsburg alone. Their expenses were $200,000 in Massachusetts, according to Senator Dixon, of Montana, and they presented an itemized account of their expenses in Ohio showing expenditures of $70,000.

C. P. Taft Gave $213,592.41.

The Taft organization in Washington spent somewhere around $400,000 in organization work for which no accounting was ever made, and no one thought anything of it. Charles P. Taft gave $213,592.41 to the campaign to get the Republican nomination for his brother, and yet no one accused Mr. Taft of having corrupted the nation and of having opened the sluice gates of a corrupt slush fund.

The business of cooking up investigations to injure or to aid a candidate is not, of course, new. It has been done for many years and is frequently revived under the theory that "you can fool all the people part of the time," which is the evident belief of Senators Johnson, Borah and Kenyon at this time.

Failure of Cabal.

The outstanding feature of the Republican senatorial cabal's investigation of preconvention expenditures by candidates for President now under way is the absolute failure to reveal any corrupt or unlawful use of money. This, of course, speaks well for the several candidates and their managers.

There is now general agreement among the politicians as well as the political commentators here that the investigation probably has eliminated Senator Hiram W. Johnson, of California, as a possibility at Chicago. It is the old story of an activity inspired by hatred and malice, a desire to harm another, hurting no one in the end except the promoters of the activity. Not only is the motive behind the investigation now standing out where it can be seen and understood, but the hypocrisy of it also is apparent.

Not Averse to Big Funds.

Senator Johnson, in whose interest the investigation was started, during his political career has never, so far as anybody here knows, been averse to having access to a large campaign fund. He certainly showed no aversion to the proper use of money in any amounts in the 1912 preconvention campaign, or in the election campaign of that year.

As pointed out above, the senatorial Republican cabal undertook to besmirch Theodore Roosevelt in 1912. It is an interesting fact that Senator Boise Penrose, of Pennsylvania, the man who, from all accounts, said to the old guard in the senate two weeks ago when Senator Johnson came back here and pressed for the passage of the investigating resolution, "Let it go through," was the author of the resolution which the senate passed August 24, 1912, instructing the subcommittee of the committee on privileges and elections to investigate preconvention campaign expenditures of that year. That resolution, it was well understood at the time and history has so recorded, had no other purpose than that of besmirching the political career of Roosevelt.

Motive Now Apparent.

The resolution under which the subcommittee is now proceeding, the public now understands, was presented and passed for the express purpose of "getting something on" the leaders in this year's presidential contest, and particularly on Leonard Wood. In the estimation of right thinking men in 1912 the only vital questions to be answered in connection with the investigation of that year were whether money had been corruptly or unlawfully used, and whether contributions have been made with the understanding that the contributors were to have something in return. Contributions under the last condition mentioned would, of course, have been corrupt contributions. The 1912 investgation petered out after Roosevelt went before the subcommittee. The motive of that inquiry was so clear, just as is the motive behind the present inquiry, that not only was the public not greatly interested in the inquiry, but the subcommittee itself lost interest and abandoned the inquiry before it was completed.

It was finally shown in the testimony in 1912 that the managers of Roosevelt or William H. Taft used the large sums of money that were made available in no improper way. The money went as it has gone this year to build up organizations in the various states and in promoting publicity. It is to be recalled, too, that only Oregon and Washington, and perhaps one other state, had presidential preference primaries at that time, so the candidates were not compelled to conduct expensive primary campaigns as they were this year.

Inquiry Hits Johnson.

The Johnson campaign had begun to look rather formidable until he, with the help of the old guard outfit in the senate, started this inquiry. The thing might not have reacted if the investigation had been intrusted to an unbiased committee. As has been pointed out, Senator Kenyon (Rep., Ia.), an ardent supporter of Johnson, was made chairman of the committee, and Senator Reed (Dem., Mo.), a political friend of William R. Hearst, who is supporting the candidacy of Johnson, was put on to do such cross-questioning as the Republican chairman of the committee would not care to undertake.

Kenyon and Reed have been the committee. Senators Spencer, of Missouri, and Edge, of New Jersey, both Republicans, have been from the start out of sympathy with the whole thing, but neither has had the courage to resign. They have simply remained quiet most of the time while the two Johnson representatives on the committee have conducted the inquiry. Senator Pomerene (Dem., O.), has been interested principally in producing campaign material for his own party.

The committee, it seemed today, is near the end of its work, although it may keep up the thing for appearance's sake for several days. The expenditures of every candidate who will have any considerable following in either convention have been looked into. For the moment the committee, under the influence of Senator Reed, the Hearst man, is making a desperate effort to "get something on" William G. McAdoo, whom Hearst opposes as a Democratic candidate for the presidency.

Viewed As Failure.

The newspapers of the east, almost without exception, take the view that the committee has failed to attain the purpose for which it was created, that of creating a situation that would be particularly uncomfortable for Wood. The New York Tribune, Republican, says editorially today that the public, in thinking the thing out, will most certainly commend General Wood for his decision to go to the people, even should it prove expensive.

"A large campaign fund was the necessary consequence of the decision to go to the people," says the Tribune. "To take the American people into confidence touching any special matter requires a large expenditure. To have a referendum when official machinery is not used means a million-dollar outlay. It is humbug to deny this. A condition exists for which General Wood is in nowise responsible.

"The inexperienced gentlemen in charge of Wood headquarters have doubtless made mistakes and wasted money. But they at least have done one thing. It is improbable that the Chicago convention will be merely a trading place. They have awakened the party—aroused in it a spirit of self-determination. Possibly, as far as securing a nomination is concerned, the King method, besides costing less, would have avoided drawing the fire of opposition.

"Nevertheless, it surely is to Gen. Wood's credit that he wished any mandate to him to come direct from his fellow-Republicans. The decision to which Mr. King objected (not to go to the people, but to pussyfoot) strikingly shows how strong is General Wood's belief in popular rule and how deep-seated is his democratic spirit.

"Whatever the outcome, it is safe to predict that he will not regret his decision to have a public campaign. With his character he could arrive at no other conclusion than to go, manfashion, to the people and to submit himself and his record for scrutiny."

VIEWS OF ROOSEVELT IN 1912 ON CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS; MOTIVE IN GIFT ONLY ISSUE

This brings me to the question of accepting contributions. It is no longer legal to accept contributions from corporations. Aside from this matter of corporations, my attitude as to contributions now is precisely what my attitude was in 1904, and will not be changed.

I do not draw the line against size and never shall. The conditions I impose are that the contributions shall be received without any kind of promise, or obligation, expressed or implied, being accepted only on the announced principle that the man making it has no end to serve except to assist the cause he is championing; and second, that the money shall be spent in honest fashion and only for legitimate expenses. I have no sympathy with the proposal to limit contributions to $5,000 or $10,000, or any other sum. If the virtue of a party is so frail that it will weaken if the contribution is over $10,000, it will also weaken if it is under $10,000.

If the money is tendered which should not be received, then, whether the sum be large or small, it is equally bad to receive it. It is morally as bad to solicit or accept $10 for improper reasons as $10,000. On the other hand, if a man who can afford it gives a large sum from worthy motives, and if this sum is properly spent, the transaction is entirely proper; just as much as in the case of a man who can only afford to give a small sum.

Question of Personal Reward.

To admit contributions of $10,000 will be no hardship to a reactionary cause, a cause championed by the enormous majority of the men who can each contribute to such a sum. But we who fight for the cause of justice and fair dealing, for the cause of the people as a whole, have only a few supporters among the very rich. These few supporters are, from the nature of the case, idealists, men of the kind who, when their interests are aroused, give generously and without thought of personal return, to parks, or play grounds, or museums, or seaside nurseries, or hospitals, or social settlement work, or to any one of the numerous similar causes. When their sympathies are aroused for a movement like ours these men are eager to contribute toward it with a like generosity and with no thought of personal reward. I welcome their contributions when made in such a spirit; I am honored by their support and receive it as freely and gladly as it is given, and I am proud of the fact that there are at least a few men of wealth who posses the far-sightedness and generous understanding of the needs of the times which make them powerful champions of the cause of the American people.

Motive Only Issue.

As long as the expense of running primaries and elections is left to be borne by private individuals instead of by the government, and as long as there is no limit to the total fund which can be raised, then each contributor should be left free to contribute according to his ability, if his motive is proper and is properly understood. Ten thousand dollars would be a wholly improper contribution for most men, and a reasonable, or even very small contribution from certain other men, and any contribution if made and received in an improper spirit is itself improper.

The ceremony took place in the warden's office. Debs greeted each member of the notification committee and then, under the prison rules, the Socialist leader could issue no formal statement, but he made a speech of acceptance.

"I have always been a radical, never more so than now," said Debs. "I have never been afraid of being too radical, but I have feared to become too conservative.

"There is a tendency in the Socialist party to become a party of politicians instead of a party of workers. This ought to be checked. We are not in politics to get office, but to achieve the industrial emancipation of the working class.

"Before beginning to serve my time here I made several addresses supporting the Russian revolution, which I believe is the greatest single achievement in the history of mankind. I said I was a Bolshevik. I meant it then and I mean it now. I did not mean I was a Russian Bolshevik in America, but that I was fighting for the same thing in America that they are fighting for in Russia.

Simply a Term.

"The dictatorship of the proletariat is simply a term which the hostile press has used against us. We are opposed to dictatorship of any kind. We stand for freedom, equal rights and justice for all.

"I am heartily in favor of the Russian revolution and think we should support it with all power."

Debs ceased by saying: "With all by heart I return thanks and appreciation to you for the honor you have done me. I may not be able to join you in the activities of the campaign, but you can rest assured that, if I am here, my spirit will breathe out through those bars so that comrades will know my heart beats with theirs."

At the end of Debs' speech, newspapermen and others withdrew while Debs and members of the committee conferred on policies and problems of the Socialist party.

President Wilson and Attorney-General Palmer have been asked by the Socialist party, through a committee appointed at its recent convention in New York, to release Debs and other so-called political prisoners. No action on the petition has yet been taken.

WILSON NOMINATIONS.

Woman Is Named to Be an Assistant Attorney-General.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—William C. Frierson, of Chattanooga, Tenn., now an assistant attorney-general, was nominated today by President Wilson to be solicitor-general of the United States. Mrs. Annette Abbott Adams, of San Francisco, now United States attorney for the northern district of California, was named an assistant attorney-general.

Mrs. Adams will have charge of the enforcement of tax and customs laws, the war risk insurance, pure food, quarantine and Adamson acts, and also will have supervisory control over federal prisons. Activities of the department in connection with the Volstead prohibition act, formerly in the charge of Mr. Frierson, will be transferred to another assistant, according to Attorney-General Palmer.

Mrs. Adams will be ordered to Washington from San Francisco immediately on confirmation of the nomination.

EVEN ENVELOPES.

Whereas, on Thursday one could buy six 2-cent stamped envelopes, size No. 5, for 13 cents, now 14 cents is the price.

Also another increase in price is this: Two-cent wrappers, formerly five for 11 cents, now are four for 10 cents or three for 7 cents.

The new price schedule was put into effect at the Indianapolis postoffice Friday. The instructions from Washington say the increase was made necessary by increased cost of production. The increase applies also to special request envelopes.

The schedule applies to all stamped envelopes and wrappers. The greatest increase is in the 2-cent wrappers, the price of which is advanced from $21.76 a thousand to $22.80 a thousand.

BONUS BACKERS SCORE.

Fail, However, to Muster Strength to Pass Legislation.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—While supporters of the soldier relief bill won the opening skirmish in the house today to force consideration of the measure, they were many votes below the two-thirds majority necessary to pass the legislation under a suspension of the rules.

When Chairman Campbell presented to the rules committee the resolution proposing to suspend the rules Representative Garrett, (Dem., Tenn.), and Representative Mann (Rep., Ill.), attacked it on the ground that the committee had no authority to report such a resolution. Mr. Garett appealed from Speaker Gillett's ruling that the resolution was in order, and the house sustained the ruling by a vote of 193 to 189, two members voting present.

Leaders in the fight for the bill said they would call up the measure despite the indicated lack of votes necessary to pass it.

On the test vote, thirteen Democrats joined with the majority Republicans in opening the way for considering the bill. The majority Democrats, with thirty-four Republicans, however, voted in the negative.

The suspension program was adopted, 220 to 165. This vote showed a substantial gain in strength for the members seeking to force passage of the bill, but the total was thirty-seven less than the two-thirds necessary for final passage.

RESENTS TREND OF INQUIRY.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

CHICAGO, May 29.—L. D Richards, a delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention from Nebraska, said Friday in talking of the preconvention inquiry into campaign expenses:

"I think this is bad business for the Republican party. It is an attempt to injure the candidacy of Leonard Wood by bringing before the public the unquestioned fact that primaries are expensive, and make the people think there is something wrong, when there is nothing at all. The men who started this agitation are unfair, and such statements about General Wood, who has proved his integrity and patriotism in every capacity, will be strongly resented by other delegates, as it is by me. I am sure the people will not approve of this attack when they know the facts, and they will know them as they get the full information.

"By plurality vote Nebraska instructed its delegates-at-large to vote for Senator Johnson. Such work as this will make me and other Republicans feel that as soon as we have complied reasonably with that instruction we will be free to vote for the man who has been made the object of the attack and aid in the nomination of General Wood."

WINS INJUNCTION SUIT.

Arthur Jordan Plaintiff in Case Against Son-in-Law.

A temporary injunction enjoining Orlando B. Iles from interfering with the taking of an inventory of the assets of the International Machine Tool Company was issued by Judge Solon J. Carter, in superior court, Room 3, today. The suit for the injunction was brought by Arthur Jordan, capitalist, and father-in-law of Mr. Iles. Mr. Jordan agreed that the inventory should be made at once and that it should not interfere with the work of the factory, when it resumes operations Tuesday morning.

Jordan, whose wife obtained a divorce in circuit court Thursday, alleged in the injunction suit that an agreement had been made in March that he would deliver to Mrs. Jordan his one-third interest in the machine company, but that he should receive the accrued dividends due for his share for the period from January 1 to June 7. The other owners of the company are Iles and Charles L. Libby. At the hearing Mr. Jordan testified that the accrued dividends could not be determined if an inventory is not taken. Attorneys for Iles contended that an inventory is not necessary in determining the dividends.

ARMOUR GRAIN CO. FINED.

Pleads Guilty to Consigning Adulterated Product to Armies.

CHICAGO, May 29.—The Armour Grain Company was fined $1,050 by Federal Judge Carpenter here today for violation of the pure food law. It was alleged that the company adulterated the shipment of thirty-five carloads of oats by mixing barley with it.

The grain was consigned to armies fighting in France, but was seized in transit by the government at Baltimore.

OPINION IN CHICAGO PUTS WOOD IN LEAD

would invite a dangerous attack by the opposition party, and they resent the support given to him by the Hearst newspapers.

Party leaders and delegates who have come to Chicago express the opinion that a great deal of the support Johnson gained in the primaries is made up of persons who are not affiliated with the Republican party and have no desire for its success. Of the delegates that will vote for Johnson on the first ballot, and perhaps on a few more ballots, it is doubtful whether one-half are Johnson men. Most of them will be acting under specific instructions or under moral obligations arising out of primary elections. They will wait more or less impatiently for it to become clear from the balloting that Johnson can not win.

Investigation a Topic.

Of course, the discussion here this week has mostly been on the investigation of campaign expenses by the committee of the United States senate and on the effect that it may exert on the convention. Unless corrupt use of money can be shown, it is the view of nearly all observers that the investigation will have little effect on the delegation, unless it be by way of reaction against Johnson and the old guard senators who permitted the committee to be made up to suit Johnson in order to cast aspersions on Wood.

One sometimes hears the theory advanced that the old guard senators let Johnson have his way about the investigation committee because they believed the result would be to wipe the slate clean and leave the old guard free to pick a candidate in ways best understood by it.

Herbert Hoover's candidacy is talked about considerably, though he is not regarded as a serious factor, at any rate at this time. He is called a candidate without delegates. Hoover headquarters are extensive here and his managers think he will have a good chance to be nominated if the convention is unable to agree on any of the candidates that will go before the convention with the support of a considerable number of delegates.

A new plan to cause Hoover to be talked about is being tried out in Chicago. A chart modeled after the charts in use in the schools forty or fifty years ago is being used on the street corners in silent appeals. On every sheet of the chart "who" is printed at the top in large red letters. Then some accomplishment or opinion of Hoover is set out in smaller letters in the form of a question. And the answer is "Hoover" in large red letters at the bottom.

Women Aiding Hoover.

Women of Chicago have been displaying these charts from automobiles on the street corners. Not a word is spoken. The pages are turned and the curious public looks and reads. The purpose is to keep Hoover in the limelight until after the convention has chosen a nominee.

Harding headquarters here are even more quiet than they were in Indianapolis. Callers are rare, and Harding's name is rarely heard in the hotel lobbies.

Frederick A. Joss, of Indianapolis, vice-chairman of the Wood committee, will be in Washington Monday to testify before the senate investigating committee.

General Wood is expected to return to Chicago Sunday and be at his headquarters most of next week. It is probable that he will take personal charge of his campaign.

Joseph B. Keating, of Indianapolis, has come to remain until after the convention. He will sit with the national committee next week hearing contests as the representative of James A Hemenway, national committeeman from Indiana, who is ill. Mrs. Kealing, an alternate delegate-at-large, also is here.

ONE OF THE ADAMS BOYS.

Samuel, of Virginia, Reaches Chicago With V. P. Aspirations.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

CHICAGO, May 29.—Samuel Adams, of Greenwood, Va., stepped on the political stage here today as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Vice-President. Headquarters were opened and callers learned from his campaign literature that he is of the Adams family, of which John Adams and John Quincy Adams, were members. One piece of literature presents the candidate's picture in the center surrounded by Samuel, John Quincy and Charles Francis Adams.

The candidate is editor of the American Fruit Grower and is described as a student of political and economic questions and a man of independent means.

William Grant Webster, of New York, who was unopposed for vice-presidential preference in Indiana and who got a big vote apparently for that reason in several other states, has not opened headquarters. The time has not yet come for much thought of who should be nominated for Vice-President and that nomination will probably be dictated by geographical and other considerations.

WOOD TOURS NORTH CAROLINA.

Urges Reduced U. S. Expenses and Favors Modified League.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., May 29.—Leonard Wood, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, opened a whirlwind speech-making tour here today, urging reduction of federal taxes and expenses and indorsing the league of nations with modifications. The general planned to make nine addresses during the day in as many cities.

MAY ASK INJUNCTION.

Elks Expected to Try to Precent Interference With Bouts.

Arrangements were made early this afternoon for one of the judges of the superior court to be in the courtroom during the afternoon, ready to hear possible injunction proceedings, which, it was said, might be brought by members of the Elks' lodge to enjoin the police from interfering with the boxing bouts at the Coliseum tonight. It was said at the courthouse that the arrangements were made by Leonard Quill, an officer of the Elks, although Mr. Quill said earlier in the day that he knew nothing of any contemplated proceedings.

The police department, it was understood, was instructed by the board of public safety today to see that there is no violation of the laws in the exhibitions at the Coliseum tonight in connection with the appearance of Georges Carpentier, French pugilist. While no public statement was made by the board or the chief of police in regard to the instructions, it was said that the board of safety took the position that there has been no change in policy regarding the enforcement of the law.

FURIOUS DNIEPER BATTLE

Poles Hold Off Bolshevik Attack on Fortified Positions.

LONDON, May 29.—Furious fighting is in progress on the left bank of the Dnieper river, where the Bolsheviki are attempting to dislodge the Poles from their fortified positions, according to an official statement sent out by the soviet government at Moscow Friday. The Poles are offering stubborn resistance, the statement says, first one side and then the other holding the first line positions.

"In the Tarashchta region (sixty miles south of Kiev) our troops, overcoming the enemy's resistance, captured Tarashchta with a number of villages some twenty-seven miles distant from Tarashchta," the statement adds.

TWO YARDMEN SHOT DOWN

Armed Men in Auto Attack Russell (Ky.) Rail Employes.

RUSSELL, Ky., May 29.—Two yardmen employed by the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad were wounded seriously today when four men in an automobile appeared at the local yards and opened fire on yardmen there with shotguns. The injured men are C. R. Brown and James Womack. A posse was sent in pursuit of the gunmen.

HIGHER RATES ASKED FOR 39 EXCHANGES IN STATE

BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY FILES NEW PETITION.

$4.50 FOR HOME SERVICE

An increase in telephone rates in Indianapolis and in thirty-eight other Indiana cities and towns from South Bend to Vincennes is proposed by the Indiana Bell Telephone Company in a petition it has filed with the public service commission.

Single line business telephone rates in Indianapolis and Marion county towns are marked for a 43 per cent. increase, single line residence telephones for a 33 per cent. increase and other rates here and elsewhere for various increases. Examples of the changes are the proposals to increase the local business rate from $7 to $10 a month and the residence rate from $3.25 to $4.50.

About three months ago the Bell system obtained authority from the commission to increase its rates in Indianapolis and in twenty-five other cities and towns. At that time the commission declined to authorize increases asked for in thirteen other places and in eight of the places ordered reductions in rates. The new petition again proposes higher rates for the thirteen places, as well as second increases for the twenty-six cities and towns in which increases already had been granted.

Rates Recently Increased.

Places where the rates recently were increased are: Indianapolis, Broad Ripple, Beech Grove, Southport, Ben Davis, Cumberland, Greenwood, Muncie, South Bend, Mishawaka, Peru, Auburn, Rome City, Osceola, New Carlisle, Smith Valley, Culver, Gas City, Kendallville, Bedford, Boggstown, Brooklyn, Washington, Lewisville, Manilla, Yorktown. The places for which the commission ordered decreases are: Anderson, Bloomington, Crawfordsville, Vincennes, Frankfort, French Lick, Newcastle and Shelbyville. The places for which the commission declined to authorize increases but permitted the existing rates to stand are: Alexandria, Elwood, Bunker Hill, Fairland and Granger.

These changes were authorized after the commission had spent several months holding hearings in many places in the state. In the new petition the company requests additional increases, asserting that the work of the commission on the other petition proceeded "under restrictions against the deliberate and mature consideration by the commission of all the questions involved," and that the former hearings "were held under circumstances which made it difficult for the petitioner to present its evidence in such detail as the importance of the issue deserved."

Consolidation Effected.

At that time the system was principally under the Central Union Telephone Company, which since then became the nucleus of the Indiana Bell Telephone Company, a consolidation of all of the Bell interests in the state in an Indiana corporation. The petition contains also the usual averments as to insufficient returns on investment, and the rising labor and material costs.

In regard to this, Frank Wampler, vice-president of the Indiana Bell Telephone Company, said that he wished to emphasize the fact that the whole matter was purely a financial problem; that the telephone company, like other business concerns, could not serve efficiently without a revenue sufficient to meet operating expenses; that there was no possibility of inducing additional capital to come into the business unless a reasonable profit could be shown on the money already invested, and that there must be a better financial showing before additional capital to take care of the necessary growth could be obtained.

The new petition proposes for Indianapolis, Broad Ripple, Beech Grove, Ben Davis and Southport identical rates, and proposes also a measured residence service rate and a change in the present business measured service. A table showing present rates in the places named and the proposed rates or changes follows:

The Monument at Twilight

By WILLIAM HERSCHELL.

THE SUN, old plodder, goes his western way
Seeking for hours that make another day.
The rush and crush of traffic dims and dies
As twilight films with gray the evening skies.

The Monument a friend that calms the mind.
Its giant shape, in soothing silhouette,
Makes day's vexations easy to forget.

SOMEHOW, the waters that throughout the day
Have battled to be heard, begin to play
In gentle melody for ears that long
To hear a woodland cascade's cheery song.

AT TWILIGHT, too, those sentinels of gray
Ease their stern vigil and, relaxing, say
All men are calm in this soul-calming hour—
Forgetting quest of gold and fame and power.

MY THOUGHT is that if men of restless mind,
Of ranting tongue and to all reason blind,
But cooled their tempers at this evening shrine
Their sighs would cease, their discontent decline.

HOW GOOD it is to know that when we're gone
These twilight hours shall still live on and on;
Shall bring to other hearts the master thrill
That this gray pile will hold men loyal still!

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

Newburn told the police that Amore also shot at him. Amore was arrested a few minutes after the shooting. Mrs. Tharp is in a local hospital.

"We are Glad We Took the Time"

That is the remark overheard at our showroom one day last week.

"When you first suggested to us," she said to the funeral director, "that we visit the showroom of the National Casket Company to select a casket, my sister and I had no desire to do so. We felt that we would be repelled by the atmosphere, and our sorrow would be increased. We are glad now that you insisted.

"For we found everything different than we had imagined. While this place is business-like, there is nothing ghastly or gloomy about it. And it is extremely satisfying to us to have found one of the many handsome designs on exhibit here—one that was so appropriate and fitting.

"When I consider how many afternoons I have used up in shopping for some mere trifle, I certainly would always have regretted not to have spent the short time we have in selecting a final resting place for him."

An expression like the above is not at all unusual. Your funeral director will gladly accompany you to our showrooms.

Gas and Industry

Our city is rejoicing over the news that the Westinghouse Company is about to establish an immense new plant here.

It is worth while that the public should know that this plant would not have been brought to Indianapolis if the Citizens Gas Company had not been able to give assurance that suitable mains for giving large supplies of gas to the new plant would be ready by the time gas is needed.

Without a large supply of gas the new Westinghouse plant can not run. Without our assurances in this matter, the Westinghouse Company would not have considered Indianapolis for a moment.

We had to admit that adequate gas supplies could not be provided if the people of Indianapolis insist on heating their homes with gas. The Westinghouse people assumed that the present fuel shortage would be over by the time the new factory needs gas, and that the people of Indianapolis would not endanger the industries of the city by taking gas for house heating in such a way as to exhaust the supply.

We want the public fully to appreciate the significance of gas in the city's industries. While the Westinghouse plant will need more gas than most other plants in Indianapolis, it is not exceptional in being absolutely dependent upon gas for operation.

The Citizens Gas Company has abundant capacity for supplying all gas required by the industries of Indianapolis without diminishing the supply needed for all essential domestic purposes.

But the Gas Company can not heat the town and will never be able to heat the town. Any attempt on the part of the public to use gas for heating will not only result in bad service for domestic purposes but will destroy many of the city's most important industries. Great damage and loss resulted from this attempt in April. If the people had not tried to use gas for heating, normal pressures could have been carried throughout that period. In preventing the exhausting of the gas supply we had to reduce pressures so that most industries could not use gas at all.

At the very low price of gas in Indianapolis there is always a temptation to use it for heating purposes. But the people of the city should understand that the industries of the city will be paralyzed unless they give up this policy altogether. It is in the belief that this will be done that the great Westinghouse plant is coming to Indianapolis.

NEW KANSAS COURT SUBJECT OF DEBATE

NO DECISION IS RENDERED

Carnegie Hall, New York, Crowded With Partisans of Speakers, Each of Whom Is Cheered.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Carnegie hall was packed to the doors last night when Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Henry J. Allen, Governor of Kansas, met to debate the merits of the recently enacted Kansas industrial court law and kindred subjects. Alton B. Parker, of this city, presided and introduced the speakers.

Mr. Gompers and Governor Allen walked on the stage shortly after 8 o'clock while the audience arose and cheered. Each was followed by a large body of supporters. When the first wave of cheering had subsided a band struck up "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Mr. Gompers, the first speaker, prefaced his argument with the announcement that he had been in conference during the day with representatives of the striking longshoremen and that they had authorized him to state they were willing "to submit pending controversies to a fair and unbiased board of arbitration and will pledge themselves in advance to abide by its decision."

Speaks for Longshoremen.

He declared further that the longshoremen would return to work within six hours after the steamship companies have signified their willingness to arbitrate.

Herbert Hoover, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, James W. Gerard, Henry P. Davisson, George W. Wickersham, Paul M. Warburg, Paul D. Cravath, George Foster Peabody and Miss Mary Garrett Hay were among those occupying seats on the platform or in the boxes.

"We are now at the parting of the ways in the great controversies which are now occupying the minds of our people," declared Mr. Gompers, beginning his direct argument of the debate. "On the one hand we have the great constructive movement for progress, for civilization and with all the tasks these impose, and on the other hand we have those who are leading the course of reaction, of injustice, of tyranny. The time is at hand when there must be determined whether the eternal principles of freedom, justice and democracy shall hold sway or be supplanted by the tyranny and the injustice of old."

Mr. Gompers said he wanted to lay down a few fundamental principles and one of his executive committee, Mrs. Sarah A. Conboy, read the following statement:

"The fact that the voluntary organizations of the wage workers are declared by the courts to be trusts and combinations in illegal restraint of trade, does not necessarily so constitute them. In fact, the unions of workers are not such. None of their achievements in behalf of the toilers or society at large can be confused with the selfish and pernicious activities of the illegal trusts.

Labor Not Commodity.

"The trust, even at its best, is an organization of a few to monopolize production and control distribution of material products. The voluntary associations of wage workers for mutual benefit and assistance are essentially different. The fact must not be lost sight of that the power of labor is not a material commodity. There can be no trust in anything which is not yet produced."

Resuming his address Mr. Gompers said:

"There is a common error in the minds of a large number of our people, and peoples of the whole world, who confuse the term 'labor and capital' as being in exactly equal position toward each other. The fact of the matter is that capital is the product of labor.

"The difference between a slave and a free man is that the slave must work when his master or owner directs and wills. The free man may stop his work and whatever consequences of suffering that may be involved is his suffering and the suffering of no one else. The right of a free man to dispose of himself, of his labor and his labor power has been set forth in a supreme court decision—an opinion read by the then associate justice of the supreme court, Mr. Hughes, in which the principle is set forth clearly that no man is free, that involuntary servitude exists, when a man must work against his will."

Anti-Strike Legislation.

There is one thing about the labor question which is axiomatic," Mr. Gompers continued, "that is: if you attempt to outlaw strikes by legislation, depend upon it your law will be futile and you will simply make criminals and law breakers of workmen who are honest, patriotic citizens.

"There is but one ground upon which any justification may be assumed to tie men to their jobs and make strikes unlawful; that is the concession that our republican institutions and our democracy have ceased. Admit that, and I have no word to debate except that I combatted every moment of my life. The Boston tea party was a very nice affair. What was it except a strike against England, tyranny and injustice?"

Mr. Gompers's direct argument ended amid prolonged applause and cheers, at the conclusion of which a labor delegation presented him with a floral offering.

Governor Allen also was greeted with prolonged applause when he was introduced. He lost no time in coming to the defense of the Kansas industrial court building his argument on the promise that "the safety of the public is the supreme law."

He declared that this was the fundamental axiom on which he and his supporters were working and which governed his attitude toward capital, labor and the disputes which arise between them. He asserted that he was not present as a representative of capital or labor, but "as a representative of all of us—the general public."

He reviewed the labor troubles in Kansas last winter, laying especial emphasis on the coal strike and the alleged hardships resulting therefrom.

"We have not forbidden to any man the right to quit work," he asserted. "we merely have taken away from Mr. Gompers his divine right to order a man to quit work.

Asks for Alternative.

"A great deal is said about the growth of brotherhood and I am not unconscious tonight of all the progress that has been made by organized labor through its solidarity. And I am glad for the legitimate progress of every labor union organization in the United States today."

Governor Allen then referred to statements alleged to have been made by union leaders in the past, including Mr. Gompers, that "If you take away the right to strike, we will find some other way."

"Before the debate closes," he said, "I implore Mr. Gompers, in behalf of the country that is waiting to know, what other way he has in mind."

Governor Allen outlined in detail the organization and operation of the industrial court system in effect in Kansas. Speaking of its effect on the industrial world, he said:

"We have taken away nothing from labor, we have provided protection in all the industries, we have established everything that has been established in the history of the progress of this great industry."

Collective Bargaining.

He denied that the Kansas law denied the workmen the privilege of collective bargaining. He said it gave the miners that right, whether they were members of unions or not, and protects the sanctity of their contracts. Governor Allen assailed Mr. Gompers's political activity. Referring to Mr. Gompers's alleged orders to organized labor to see that no man goes to the congress who is not in favor of labor's program, he said:

"The political party in the forthcoming campaign that has not the constructive courage to stand out and pledge to the public protection against the wrongs and terrors of industrial warfare, will travel down the pathway of cowardice to defeat."

Storms of applause, which lasted several minutes, greeted this peroration. Governor Allen concluded his direct argument by asking Mr. Gompers to define "who had the divine right to forbid the switchmen to strike in their outlaw strike; who controls this divine right to quit work?"

Mr. Gompers, speaking in rebuttal, said he would like to answer the Governor if he had time. Several voices in the audience shouted: "You can't. You can't!"

Mr. Gompers said he would prove it if he lived long enough. He did not return to the Governor's question, however, until some minutes later, when he said:

"The Governor says that he wants to take from me, from Gompers, the divine right of ordering strikes. It reminds me very much of a man who has been told a story utterly ridiculous, but to his bland mind it seemed simply to be the truth, and he ran away and believed it. It may be interesting news to the Governor to know that in all my life I have never ordered a strike of two men; more or less—never, never—and I challenge him or any one else who will give his name to assert the contrary."

Retort Brings Laughter.

Somebody in the audience shouted: "Who ordered the strike?"

"Go home and find out. Take your special train back to Kansas," Mr. Gompers retorted, amid shouts of laughter from the audience.

Governor Allen, in rebuttal, went into details of the Kansas coal strike, saying that Gompers had not said anything of the man who does not want to go out on strike.

"He has said nothing of that fundamental provision in union labor for the compulsory organization of labor, not a word, and yet it stands out as a great and operative principle in it," he declared. "My friends, if there is going to be any compulsion in this country of one man over another, then in God's name let us have that compulsion directed by government."

Governor Allen declared the day is coming when "the doctrine we presented in Kansas will come to be accepted as the broad and just and impartial remedy for the compulsion of unionism. I would not seek to wipe out unionism. I would seek only to place it under less radical direction."

Right to Strike Defended.

Mr. Gompers, in championing labor's privilege to strike, electrified his partisans when he said, with evident emotion, that the workingman who wouldn't try to benefit his condition was a "poltroon to himself and society."

Mr. Gompers declared that the coal miners' strike took boys out of the mines; that the textile workers' strike brought children out of the mills and put them in the schoolroom, while the strike in the needle trades broke up the sweatshops when laws had failed to do so.

Governor Allen scored a point with his friends with the assertion that if there is to be a government of justice, there can't be any 'part greater than the whole.

He alluded to the attitude of the American Federation of Labor in the approaching election toward unfriendly officeholders as a "movement to unionize the congress of the United States."

The Kansas court does not prosecute labor, Governor Allen said, but it protects labor against capital, capital against labor and the public against either or both.

Governor's Question Unanswered.

A feature of the debate was Allen's efforts to get Gompers to answer this question:

"When a dispute between capital and labor brings on a strike affecting the production or distribution of the necessaries of life, thus threatening the public peace and impairing the public health, has the public any rights in such a controversy or is it a private war between capital and labor?"

"If you answer this question in the affirmative, Mr. Gompers, how would you protect the rights of the public?" asked the Governor.

The labor leader declined to answer it, asserting it was a catch question.

At another time, while Mr. Gompers was referring to the poverty of some workers, a man in the gallery shouted:

"How poor are you?"

Gompers was plainly angered at the question. He demanded the man's name amid shouts of encouragement from his followers, and when the labor leader had referred to the disturber's remarks as "a cowardly, ungentlemanly insinuation" the labor men shouted with glee.

One shouted: "You tell him, Sammy; that's the stuff."

Governor Allen, in conclusion, charged that Gompers's "remedy for war is more war."

Within a year, the Governor predicted, the best friends of the Kansas industrial law would be the laboring men of Kansas.

Governor Allen's industrial commandment was "you shall not conspire to shut down the industry necessary to the welfare of the people."

"When the general public says we have had enough of this," he said, "it's over."

The debate called for no decision, the committees in charge having purposely divided the house equally between supporters of each speaker.

SHORT FURROWS

—By ABE MARTIN—

"I see by th' papers quite a lot o' girls are missin' an' it haint surprisin.' 'Why girls leave home!' What's t' prevent? All the restraints an' restrictions have been swept away," said Mrs. Em Moots, t'day. "When I wuz a girl I stayed at home an' pap supported me an' maw made my clothes. Sometimes my face wuz shiny an' my hands wuz red, but after I got strung out it wuzn' long till I had a beau—not a fourflushin' dude an' trifler, but a serious minded productive beau that wuz self-sustainin' an' then some. I never thought of sparkin' till I wuz seventeen an' then I picked my man. I had no time fer triflers. I drove three fellers off before I found one t' my likin'. My maw taught me t' sew an' bake, an' before I saddled myself off on my husband my folks had my teeth all plugged an' lined up. My husband got an asset when he got me—not a liability. I pitched right in off th' bat an' done my part jest like a business partner. But I'm not surprised that ther's a few girls missin' each day. I've often wondered how they all got back home at night. Accordin' t' our social ethics an' standards a girl might as well stay lost after she once strays. It does a big hunk of a boy good t' run off an' git kicked about fer awhile. It straightens him out an' makes him appreciate what a home really is, but a girl haint made o' th' same stuff an' rubbin' around amongst strangers don't do her no good. It's bad enough fer a girl t' go on a visit amongst friends, but t' tear out an' cast her lot amongst strangers is th' limit, 'specially when they dress th' way they do. Th' very hats th' girls wear seem t' be designed t' git 'em in bad, t' say nothin' o' th' hose with th' fancy grill work on th' insteps. If th' girls are goin' t' dress th' way they do they wont only have t' pay th' fiddler, but also th' saxophone players an' trap drummers. They dress too darned becomin'ly t' be safe."

OH, BOY!

"When I wuz a young squirt of a feller I used t' dress up in th' evening,' dash on a lot o' cologne an' take my cane an' go down town an' walk till ten o'clock without seein' a girl, but t'day ther a drug on th' market," said Tell Binkley.

"Ther's somethin' wrong with th' home trainin' these days. Where th' mothers an' fathers are I don't know. They never seem t' worry about a daughter till she fails t' show up fer breakfast," sighed Gran'maw Turner.

D'ANNUNZIO TAKES DURAZZO

Italian, With "Irregulars," Seizes Albanian Adriatic Port.

PARIS, May 29.—Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio, whose "irregular" Italian troops have been holding Fiume, has seized Durazzo, principal seaport of Albania, and has set up an administration in the town, according to a Zurich dispatch to the Petit Parisien. The Jugo-Slav government is said to have informed the allies it would resist with force any attacks made by D'Annunzio against its citizens.

PARIS, May 29.—The troops of Gabriele d'Annunzio, which were reported as having occupied the village of Cavalaja and threatening to seize Sussak, in the Fiume region, are continuing to advance from Fiume, according to information received by the foreign office from Belgrade today. The dispatch says the Jugo-Slavs are preparing military measures to resist D'Anunzio.

French Fight Way to Aintab.

LONDON, May 29.—A French column fought its way into Aintab, Syria, and after heavy fighting succeeded in relieving the town, it was officially announced today. The Turks suffered heavy casualties.

In Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—By a vote of 236 to 106, the house adopted the conference report on the army reorganization bill, authorizing the maintenance of a peace time army of 297,500, officers and men.

Congressional investigation of the escape from custody of Grover C. Bergdoll, was proposed in a resolution introduced in the house by Chairman Kahn, of the military affairs committee.

The senate refused to recede from its amendment fixing the total appropriation in the rivers and harbors bill at $24,000,000 instead of the $12,000,000 total agreed on by the house and sent it back to conference.

Without opposition, the house passed and sent to the senate a bill amending the 1918 revenue law so as to insure taxation of 2,500 personal service corporations which supporters of the proposal including treasury officials, said might escape payment of taxes as a result of the supreme court's decision exempting stock dividends from taxation.

Under the measure personal service corporations would be taxed on the same basis as other corporations instead of on the partnership basis. Undistributed profits of such corporation would be taxed 20 per cent.

The Casket of Stone

Since the earliest period of civilization it has been the endeavor of man, in various ways, to provide a final resting place for himself and loved ones that would be a lasting protection from the destructive forces of the earth, of whatever nature.

The ancient Egyptians employed hewn stone for the building of massive tombs for the interment of their dead; and the mighty pyramids endure to this day, a mute but eloquent testimony of how well they builded.

Modern peoples, in trying to satisfy their longings for an exclusive burial place, have employed many different constructions, mausoleums of granite are built at great expense; caskets of bronze, steel, copper and other alloys of metal are made use of by those who can afford them as being the nearest approach to perfection yet devised.

Wherever there has been a great human need there has always arisen some human device to meet that particular need, as witness the many marvelous inventions of the past century. Not until recently, however, has this problem of the perfect casket been solved.

By the use of a lightened CONCRETE Mixture, steel reinforced, molded into correctly proportioned forms, the inventors and manufacturers of the IMPERISHO casket have met the need of the ages for a burial casket that is made tight against water, air and animal life and which, from the very nature of minerals from which it is made, will remain unchanged throughout all time.

KINNEY APPEALS FOR CITIZENS TO AID POLICE

HELP SUPPRESS CRIME AND PREVENT ACCIDENTS.

DETECTIVES FROM OUTSIDE

Jerry E. Kinney, chief of police, has appealed to the citizens of Indianapolis to give their fullest co-operation in the next few days to members of the police and detective departments in their efforts to suppress crime and prevent accidents.

"Today, Sunday and Monday Indianapolis will be host to thousands of visitors," said Chief Kinney, "and, although the police and detectives will exert every effort to keep down accidents and crime they will need the whole-hearted assistance of every citizen.

"The citizens generally can be of invaluable aid to the two departments by avoiding crowds as much as possible; by locking their homes securely before leaving and by a strict observance of the traffic and automobile laws. If the citizens will make it a point to obey the traffic laws to the letter, visitors to the city who are not familiar with the laws will be more apt to govern themselves accordingly."

Aid From Other Cities.

A group of detectives from Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis and other large cities in the middle west, have arrived in Indianapolis and will assist the local department in watching for pickpockets, confidence men, thieves and other criminals who may be present at the races.

Details of policemen, in the charge of lieutenants and sergeants, will be assigned Sunday to the cemeteries where memorial services are to be held, to the parade zone in the downtown district, to the baseball parks, amusement parks and other public places.

Special Care Monday.

Monday squads will be assigned to the traction and terminal station, the Union Station, along the route to the speedway, at the loading platform at the speedway and in the downtown district.

Nominations for Governor in Both Parties Still in Doubt.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 29.—The Republican and Democratic nominations for Governor in West Virginia's primary of last Tuesday remained in doubt today, with fifty-six precincts of the state missing. Returns compiled by the Intelligencer showed E. F. Morgan leading S. B. Montgomery by 2,450 votes for the Republican nomination, while A. B. Koontz held the lead for the Democratic nomination by 2,000 majority over A. B. Littlepage. Mr. Montgomery has announced that he will demand recounts in a number of counties.

Senator Howard Sutherland continued to hold General Leonard Wood for the Republican presidential indorsement on the face of incomplete returns from three counties and complete figures from fifty-two. The totals were: Sutherland, 45,787; Wood, 36,186.

ONE OF PRETTY SCENES OF "SUPREME DAY" PAGEANT

Prevention, Science and Cure, represented by dancing girls, formed one of the pretty scenes in the Supreme day pageant at Arsenal Technical schools Friday afternoon as they chased away Disease and Microbes. The scene is typical of the celebration that showed many epochs of the school's history. On the smaller stage in the background are Indianapolis, Our Nation, Columbia and two children before whom the pantomime was enacted, and other allegorical characters.

'SUPREME DAY' PAGEANT AT ARSENAL TECHNICAL

HISTORY IS RECOUNTED FROM DAYS OF THE INDIAN.

1,200 PUPILS TAKE PART

More than 1,200 pupils of the Arsenal Technical Schools took part Friday afternoon in a "Supreme Day" pageant which showed scenes of the history of the schools of the early history of Indianapolis. An audience of several thousand persons applauded the performance vigorously and pronounced it one of the most successful ever given by the institution.

Music, dancing, bright costumes, flashed throughout the sixty-one scenes, and the deep historical significance of the story of the pantomime combined to make the pageant an impressive event.

Our Arsenal Enters.

From the opening scene, when our Arsenal, carrying a copper box to be placed in the corner stone of the academy building, entered the outdoor stage, until the seniors pledged allegiance to Indianapolis in the closing scene, the performance moved swiftly and smoothly. The excellent organization was due largely to Miss Esther Shover, a teacher in the English department, who was director, but it also indicated the enthusiasm with which the pupils had entered into the spirit of the play.

Miss Hazel Abbott was in charge of the dancing, which played an important part in several scenes. F. H. Gillespie directed the R. O. T. C. Band, which, together with the orchestra, conducted by Miss Elizabeth Kaltz, provided the music. The large chorus of the school, in charge of Ralph Winslow, sang several special songs during the performance.

From Indian Days to Present.

One of the most impressive scenes was in the second of the five epochs, when the Indians, whose home was on the site of the Arsenal grounds, were summoned by their Great Father to go westward. The Great Father, in full war dress, arose from the background of foliage, surrounded by red fire and pointed solemnly to the west. From that period, the growth of the white men's civilization made up the story, centering on the work which the government arsenal, the Winona Arsenal Technical Institute, and finally the Arsenal Technical Schools, have done for the city and the nation.

Scenes from the civil war, the Spanish-American war and the training period of the world war also drew vigorous applause. Soldier drills, under the direction of Colonel Arthur Perry, gave added significance to these periods of the school's history. The theme of the story told by the pageant was that the Arsenal schools offer priceless gifts, through the pupils, to Indianapolis and the nation.

Allegorical Figures.

The passing of each epoch was marked by the ringing of the Arsenal bell, which is more than half a century old. Allegorical characters, with Ignorance, Riot, Disease, Selfishness and Laziness in one group, and Organization, Science, Prevention, Co-operation and Democracy in another, were engaged in a struggle throughout the play that provided excellent scenes for group dances.

POWER HOUSE MEN STRIKE

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Service, However, Declared to be Normal.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Service on the lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company was declared by company officials to be normal today despite the strike of power house employes, called yesterday. Leaders of the strike professed entire confidence in their ability to tie up the liner before the end of the day. Company officials asserted places of the strikers already had been filled by "reserve" employes.

The strike was called at . o'clock yesterday afternoon, following the refusal of Lindley M. Garrison, receiver, to meet a committee which included union leaders who are not employed by the company. He expressed a willingness to meet a committee composed wholly of employes. The strikers demand a six-day week, a wage scale 2? per cent. higher than the present seven-day wage for six days' work and recognition of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

WISHES TO ABANDON PLANT

Company Says Hot Water Heating in Lafayette Does Not Pay.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

LAFAYETTE, Ind., May 29.—Three hundred patrons of the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company in Lafayette were startled today when they received official notices from the company to the effect that a petition would be filed with the public service commission, asking for authority to discontinue the company's hot water heating plant in the city. If such an order were granted it would leave many homes and business buildings without heat.

The notice from the company informs the patrons that the 80 per cent. increase in rates which was granted last fall has not produced sufficient additional revenue to pay operating expenses and a fair return on the money invested. Recently the company filed with the commission a petition for an increase in heating rates, but this petition is to be withdrawn and another submitted, asking for the authority to abandon entirely the central heating system.

According to the company's figures the loss last winter in the operation of its heating plant amounted to $40,000. The city authorities will contest the petition.

ABE MARTIN TO FROLIC IN MUSICAL SHOW NEXT YEAR

Henry K. Burton Obtains Exclusive Stage Rights to Kin Hubbard's Famous Character.

Kin Hubbard's famous Brown county character, Abe Martin, is to cavort in musical comedy next season under the direction of Boyle Woolfolk, a Chicago producer, arrangements to this effect having been completed today by Henry K. Burton, who recently obtained from Mr. Hubbard the exclusive stage rights to Abe Martin for a period of years. Mr. Woolfolk visited Indianapolis last Wednesday and held a conference with Mr. Burton and Mr. Hubbard relative to the nature of the production. It was decided to introduce Abe in a rural musical comedy, the scenes for the most part to be laid in Brown county.

C. Carleton Guy, widely known Hoosier character comedian, will create the role of Abe on the stage. The first performance will be given early in August. The production will be seen at English's the week of August 24.

Boyle Woolfolk, the producer, has sponsored many musical comedies. "Honeymoon Town," "Odds and Ends," the La Salle Musical Comedy Company and the Woolfolk musical comedy stars were among his road shows last year. He plans to make "Abe Martin" the most elaborate of the cartoon comedies. The company will number thirty, and many of Mr. Hubbard's popular characters will be prominent in the action, in addition to Abe himself.

PRESENT; HUSBAND BEATER

Mrs. Brannon Accused of Biting and Drawing Knife on Clarence Brannon.

The "husband beater" now occupies a place with the "wife beater" on the records in the turnkey's office at police headquarters.

Mrs. Marie Brannon, 540 East Market street, was arrested Friday night on charges of mayhem and drawing deadly weapons as a result of a complaint made by her husband, Clarence Brannon.

Motor Policemen Brooks and Bernauer, who made the arrest, said Brannon told them his wife bit him twice on the arm and then threatened him with a butcher knife.

THE VETO SUSTAINED

The Knox resolution was yesterday defeated in the house through its failure to receive the two-thirds vote necessary to pass it over the veto of the President. There were 219 ayes as against 152 noes, and this was twenty-nine votes short of the required two-thirds. Only two Republicans voted to uphold the veto — Keeley, of Michigan, and Fuller, of Massachusets. Seventeen Democrats voted for the resolution — two less than supported it when first presented. Of these seventeen Democrats, ten came from New York, and of these eight came from Greater New York. Ohio furnished two votes to override the veto, Massachusetts three, Pennsylvania one and Louisiana one. Tammany was evidently strongly against the President.

Of course the action of the house means the death of the resolution, no matter what the senate may do. It ought not to have had even a majority, and probably would not if it had been considered solely on its merits, for of merits it has singularly few. What was sought was a "record" for campaign purposes. Whether it will prove helpful, an asset or a liability, is yet to be seen. Sooner or later, it is hoped, the country will wake up to the fact that the only way to make peace is by a treaty, and that this is specially true in the present case. Scores of inter-related rights and duties are involved which must be defined. We can not cut loose from them, can not, as Senator Lodge so well said, "make peace except in company with our allies." Bound as she is to the allied powers, and also to many neutrals, by the treaty of Versailles, Germany is not a free agent to negotiate a separate treaty with the United States. We should in that case be in no position to enforce our rights as against Germany except by war, and it would be a war in which we should have no support from any other nation.

The whole plan is preposterous — must have been felt to be so by many who voted for it. It would have involved us in complications at least as formidable as those from which the supporters of the resolution professed to desire to free us. What is needed, and should be insistently demanded, is a ratification of the Versailles treaty with reasonable reservations. The country will wait with great anxiety the promised statement from the President — it will also hope that the statement will be reasonable and conciliatory.

POLITICAL IDEALISM

Chairman Hays, of the Republican national committee, and others say that one trouble with public life is the lack of general interest in politics. Professiona l politicians are permitted to control policies and nominations. Successful men and women have been too busy with their own affairs to interest themselves in politics. When things went wrong they complained, only to be told that the fault was their own. Thhe demand was for men of broad vision, men successful in their own business, to lay aside their work for a time and devote themselves to the nation's business.

This year appeal reached a successful business man, W. C. Procter, of Cincinnati, a man without experience in politics, but nationally known as a maker of soap, decided that Wood was for him the ideal type of man for President. He advanced $500,000 to the Wood campaign fund, and he has testified that he did this with the same idealism that impelled him to contribute to the Red Cross during the war. Another large contributor was William Wrigley, a manufacturer of chewing gum. The special favors a President might give soap and chewing gum in return for pre-election support have not been named by any of the Wood critics.

Procter and Wrigley have made their business successful. They are known where newspapers and magazines are read because of their advertising. When they went to the support of Wood the only idea they had to bring into the campaign was the idea they used in their private business. Here was a man of good qualities, but with no organization to support him. Procter and Wrigley believed that the good qualities of Wood should be made known. So they started a publicity campaign. This took money, but that was expected by them and everybody else. They thought so much of their candidate that they were willing to promote his candidacy out of their private means. They called it practical idealism. In fact, it was an answer to the call for successful men to take an interest in politics and assist in party affairs. Yet the critics of the Wood campaign see something sinister in applying business methods and publicity to politics rather than following the old cut and dried, star chamber, back room plans. That money for campaigns has grown to be an evil is now a commonplace. But Procter and Wrigley only followed a practice that had been established by real politicians — which they are not.

No doubt all this was distasteful to the Washington politicians, who have opposed Wood from the start, and would be glad to supply a candidate of their own kind for the people to vote for. Probably the politicians are also chagrined because a half dozen or so widely known biographers have written books dealing with the life and work of Wood and these books have been published by reputable publishing companies, but they could hardly get at that "evil" even by an "investigation."

Possibly it is because Wood is the candidate whose career lends itself most easily to publicity that really angers the Wood opponents. He has been a busy and useful man and his life is interesting. Anyhow, the political opponents are badly wrought up, but are their emotions a thing the public should worry about greatly?

PUBLIC RIGHTS

In the course of the debate last night between Governor Allen, of Kansas, and Samuel Gompers, the Governor asked the following question:

> When a dispute between capital and labor brings on a strike affecting the production or distribution of the necessaries of life, thus threatening the public peace and impairing the public health, has the public any rights in such a controversy, or is it a private war between capital and labor? If you answer this question in the affirmative, how would you protect the rights of the public?

Mr. Gompers declined to answer, saying that it was a "catch question." Yet it goes to the very roots of the controversy. The principle suggested by it was directly involved in the debate of last night which was over the Kansas industrial court law, the sole purpose of which is to protect the public under such conditions as those outlined in the question. The law is based on the theory that the public has rights. Kansas has decided that there shall be no "private war" in which those rights are sacrificed. Before it can be decided whether the Kansas plan is right, it must be decided whether the object which it seeks to effect is also right. And it is with this latter point that Governor Allen's question has to do. Gompers could not have said how he would "protect the rights of the public" — the second part of Governor Allen's question — unless he first said whether there were any rights to protect. This he declined to do, and thus evaded the very issue on which the debate turned.

If our state and national governments ever cease to protect the citizen in his right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," or to "establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, * * * promote the general welfare," with the accent on the word "general," they will fail to fulfill the very law of their being. In such a controversy as that spoken of by Governor Allen, the public has, not only rights, but paramount rights. They go back far beyond Constitution and statute, namely, to the fundamental law of self-preservation. The society that fails to enforce them commits suicide.

SOUTHERN PORTS

Benefits should result to both the middle western shippers and the representatives of southern seaports as a result of the recent visit of the southerners to Indianapolis. The Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Trade thought so well of the suggestions made that they have adopted a resolution approving the campaign of the southern men. The plan is to educate middle western shippers away from the idea that all foreign shipments must be routed through New York.

One of the visitors said that 80 per cent. of the export business on the eastern and southeastern seaboard is routed through New York. The south has harbors, docks and other facilities to take immediate care of business that piles up in New York and is subject to delay. One of the visitors announced, after consultation with an Indianapolis commission merchant, that car load lots from Maine required about four times as long to reach Indianapolis as car load lots from Florida, although the distance frrom Florida is greater.

At New York there are congestion and labor difficulties. Some sort of strike seems always to interfere with the handling of freight and the terminals are so clogged that normal working forces will not be able to clear the jam for some time to come. The south offers facilities practically as good as those in New York. Shipments for Cuba, Central and South America should be routed that way. European business to a considerable extent must go through New York, but the other markets can be reached more quickly and to better advantage through southern ports.

COURT REPORTS

The latest volume of Indiana court reports now available does not include an appellate court decision since June, 1917, and the last supreme court decision included was made in December, 1917. To be in a position to render the best service to his clients a lawyer must be informed of current decisions of the higher courts. He may get these, in printed form, from private companies in other states and he has had to do this because of the unusual delay in getting out the state reports. Will H. Adams, reporter of the supreme court, says that reports of opinions issued by private concerns do not always cover all the steps taken in a case, and that the Indiana reports give the action as finally adjudicated. This would account for some delay. Another explanation is that the printing company having the contract was delayed by war work. The cause for delay can hardly exist now. Private individuals and concerns are having no difficulty getting printed matter. A flood of publicity in print, which burdens the mails, is evidence that somebody is getting much printing done. The court reports are valuable for future reference, but they are needed now. The bar association committee is not yet ready to comment on the result of its investigation of the delay but enough has been made public to show that some sort of reform is needed.

POLITICS AND IRELAND

The house foreign affairs committee yesterday by a vote of 11 to 7 adopted a resolution "viewing with grave concern" conditions in Ireland, and "expressing sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people for a government of their own choice." Six Republicans and five Democrats voted for it, and five Republicans and two Democrats against it. It therefore had a Democratic majority of three and a Republican majority of only one. The resolution is less objectionable than the one for which it was presented as a substitute, for the original resolution was a practical recognition of a non-existent Irish republic. But the one agreed to yesterday is bad enough, since it relates to a subject with which our government, as a government, has nothing whatever to do. Such action is a direct and impertinent interference with the interna; affairs of a friendly power, which has not asked and does not seek — but properly resents — our advice.

It is greatly to be regretted that Mr. Moores saw fit to vote for this resolution which can have no effect — outside of politics — except to cause irritation between this government and the government of a friendly nation in association with which we fought the great war that was supposed to be for the freedom and safety of the world. It is hard to understand how a member of congress can, with a straight face, vote for such a resolution. It has never occurred to a member of the British parliament to offer a resolution deploring conditions, even at their worst, in the Philippines, and "expressing sympathy with the aspirations of the Filipinos for a government of their own choice." If any such action should be proposed our people, and none more than those who have been asking for congressional action in this matter, would feel deeply aggrieved and bitterly resentful.

Of course it is nothing but politics, a mere bid for votes. But really we ought by this time to be able to manage our politics in such a way as not to embarrass our foreign relations or to make more difficult the conduct of our foreign affairs. Representative Connelly, a Democrat, and who seems to be an Irishman, who was paired against the resolution yesterday, has the right idea. For he is the author of a resolution declaring "the Irish question to be no concern of the United States." That, we believe, is the view of an overwhelming majority of the American people, and it is, of course, the right view. This is, after all, America, and not Irish-America.

PENNELL ON BILLBOARDS

Joseph Pennell has many of the qualities of Whistler, not alone as an artist of the first order, but as a wit. While Whistler's wit was keen and steel-true, Pennell's runs in somewhat more savage channels. He was in fine fettle when he rose to address the annual convention of the American Federation of Arts on the subject of signboard art, but before he finished he was at his savage best, and the result was a wholesome and effective arraignment of American vulgarity which brought the convention to its feet. Americans are not necessarily vulgar, but they have vulgar traits that should be eradicated.

He referred to billboards as "shrieking from the roadside, the hillside, the housetop by day and by night, and each yells in the most blatant, crude, vulgar fashion." The billboard itself, as Pennell might agree upon reflection, is not so bad as the American belief that it is necessary. The real trouble is that American business men believe that in order to do business they have to flaunt brilliantly colored accounts of their aspirations and virtues in the face of people wherever they go. The practice evidently pays dividends, but it reveals an indifferent sense of beauty in the public that stands for it, and a low estimate of the charms of natural scenery. Mr. Pennell advocated the elimination of billboards by law. He added:

> It is useless to seek aid of the press. That independent organ is stifled, blackmailed and doesn't dare do anything. If billboards are attacked there will be no more ads in the papers. Scarce a daily will touch the subject.

This remark rather weakens his argument, because if he has not read the newspapers enough to know that many of them have attacked the billboard, he has probably not studied the question of billboard prohibition and regulation well enough to know that in many cities much has been done to mitigate the evil and that in some states there are movements on foot to eliminate the billboard in country districts. The reason probably that newspapers have not said more about billboards is the thought that their motives may be attacked.

OVERWORKED BARTENDERS

The presumption that the Eighteenth amendment would put both the bartenders and the prohibition reformers out of a job is now shown to have been erroneous. The reformers are busily engaged in plans to hold hard-won ground, and the discovery that under the amendment a certain degree of choice in the definition of what constitutes beer and wine is allowed, has kept many of them almost as busy as in the preprohibition days. The bartenders have for the most part become soft drink dispensers, but it appears from reports that in many localities the chief effect of prohibition is greatly to increase their hours of work and to add to its hazards.

In a special dispatch to the New York Tribune it is stated that the bartenders of Scranton, Pa., have issued an ultimatum declaring that unless they receive a minimum wage of $35 a week and double pay for Sunday work they will strike. Their demands are supported by reports showing that the breweries of Scranton are doing more business than ever before and that the city is the most wide open town between Havana and Tokio. Owing to the failure of neighboring cities to wink at the Eighteenth amendment, the inflow of Sunday excursionists is large and the Sunday business in some of the 200 hotels, which are reported as running their bars wide open, is said to be greater than the other six days of the week.

Considering the probability that the federal authorities are likely to step in and stop the liquor business in Scranton, thus compelling the bartenders, if they insist upon following their calling, to work in dark back rooms and damp cellars, their case is a good one. The saloon keepers get $20 for a gallon of whisky, but that is hardly compensation for a penal record. If the Scranton trouble is not adjusted, there may be a general strike of bartenders in all parts of the country, and that would give the world an entirely wrong impression of the status of prohibition in the United States, but incidentally would release a lot of men for employment in better business.

THE GLASER CASE

In federal court yesterday Judge Anderson canceled the citizenship papers of Paul P. Glaser, Gary lawyer, because of radical activities. Glaser confessed himself a Bolshevist and indicated admiration for the Red flag, although his understanding of the significance of both terms differed from that popularly held. His feeling toward the Bolshevist idea was elicited when he told the court that he would be willing to give up valuable land to the government should the country decide on a Red regime.

According to his further testimony Glaser came to this country fourteen years ago with $500 in his pockets. Since that time he has accumulated at least $50,000. His property consists of a $30,000 home in Gary, a farm in Wisconsin, value about $4,000, a farm in Minnesota worth $16,000 and 128 acres of oil land in Wyoming that he estimated might be worth $200 an acre, but for which he was offered $1,000 an acre by the Standard Oil no more than a year ago. Thus in fourteen years in this land of political and economic tyranny he has amassed an independent fortune.

To the system of industry and government that made this possible he apparently prefers Bolshevism. As to conditions under that happy regime Colonel Edward W. Ryan, Red Cross commissioner, who has just returned from Russia, makes an illuminative report. Industry is nearing a standstill, houses are falling to pieces, the people are in rags, cities are indescribably filthy, transportation is wholly inadequate, fuel can not be bought, death and starvation stalk abroad, blackness and despair are on all sides. The system that brought this about engages the sympathy of a man who has become wealthy in fourteen years in a democracy, who has never lacked for food, who is able to enjoy all the comforts and luxuries of civilized life under an orderly government! In the humble opinion of the ordinary citizen, not Russia but the insane asylum is the proper destination for a man so endowed mentally.

The next President of the United States must be able, wise and well-informed, of unquestioned honesty, morally and intellectually; eminently fair and impartial, frank and sincere, broad-minded, deeply sympathetic, courageous, sturdy and well-balanced, and, above everything else, loyal to the Constitution and the law of the land.—Judge Gary.

Why, sure, Judge! You couldn't throw a brick in any direction in Chicago without breaking a window in his headquarters.

Judging from the packed steamships sailing from New York, all who remained at home during the war are now intent upon joining the so-this-is-Paris class.

Some of the critics seem to think that if a successful business man does not take an interest in politics he is a slacker and if he does take an interest in politics he is a crook.

More home-comings are in prospect, as the pardon board is to meet next month.

Indianapolis should remember that the speedway visitors offer an opportunity to practice some of that new brand of courtesy.

It's wonderful how nice a last year's straw hat looks when you make up your mind to it.

Sugar and Price Fixing

[Wall Street Journal]

A friendly reader in Beatrice, Neb., while agreeing with the principle so often expounded in these columns, that government price fixing, while perhaps a necessary evil in time of war, is a remedy which in practice becomes worse than the disease, still pleads for lower sugar prices through administration fiat. In all its price meddling the administration has been —to put it mildly—unfortunate. Not only did it refuse the entire Cuban crop at 6½ cents a pound, it guaranteed every hoarder and profiteer something like three times that price net for his sugar.

This was done through the department of justice, whose bowels of compassion were moved toward the sugar growers of Louisiana. They were guaranteed, in effect, the price of 17 cents a pound, in defiance of every free trade policy which the Democratic party has ever fathered. The result was to make the Cuban sugar grower rich beyond his wildest dreams at the expense of the American consumer.

In the old days of high protection, when the beet sugar growers could always count upon the sympathy of the tariff fixers in the United States senate, no such bald bounty as this was ever perpetrated. It remained for the Democratic attorney-general of the present administration to establish a new high record in protection. Heaven knows there was little enough principle in tariff making in times past. Schedule K was but a sample of the whole, and Democratic tariffs have certainly not been for revenue only.

But sugar today is dear because there is not enough of it for our own luxury demands. There is probably no real relief in sight before next September. We have our own sweet tooth to thank. No wonder we have the best dentists in the world. We need them. Prohibition, moreover, has astonishingly increased the consumption of candy. There is a short supply of sugar at a high price to the consumer because the demand is measured not by our needs but by our wants. The remedy is squarely up to the consumer. If he will deny himself, for only three months, even 50 per cent. of the candy he unnecessarily consumes, he can have all the sugar he wants for his coffee or his tea, or his rice pudding, at his own price.

It must be plain that there is nothing to be hoped from further government meddling. It has done incalculably more harm than good, and it is difficult to concede it in the case of sugar, to say nothing of coal and wheat, the credit for good intentions. We have all the politics we want or need in our morning newspaper. Spare us from that odious flavor imparted to everything else on the breakfast table.

TOUR OF THE WORLD ENDS

Church of God Men Covered 46,000 Miles in the Interest of Missions.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

ANDERSON, Ind., May 29.—F. G. Smith, chairman of the missionary board of the general conference of the Church of God, and the Rev. E. A. Reardon, of Chicago, who left Anderson July 4, 1919, for a tour of the world in the interest of Church of God missions, returned here yesterday. Mr. Smith was one of the speakers at the annual commencement exercises of the Anderson Bible Training School last evening when twenty-six students were graduated.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Reardon are preparing their report to be made at the annual international camp meeting of the Church of God in this city June 18 to 27. The report will show, Mr. Smith said, that they traveeld 46,000 miles without accident. They sailed from Vancouver, B. C., and visited Japan, China, the Philippines, Australia, India, Egypt, Syria, Palestine, the British Isles and France.

Their nearest point to danger was in Jerusalem April 4 to 6, when Arabs massacred Jews, and Mr. Smith and Mr. Reardon had some difficulty in getting out of the trouble zone. They visited numerous missions of the Church of God. The trip required less than eleven months and they transacted much business for the church.

Next Red Cross Roll Call.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—National headquarters of the American Red Cross notified its divisional officers today that the fourth Red Cross roll call would be held between Armistice day, November 11, and Thanksgiving day, November 25. The Red Cross now has more than 10,000,000 members, or twenty times the prewar enrollment.

SUPREME COURT

Abstracts of Opinions Announced May 28, 1920.

CRIMINAL LAW—ARGUMENT OF COUNSEL.

23659. William A. Hamke vs. State of Indiana. Knox C. C. Reversed. Myers, C. J.

The appellant was convicted of the crime of arson. After the close of the evidence the state made its opening argument whereupon the appellee waived argument and requested the court to proceed with the instructions, but the state insisted on additional argument and by permission of the court made further argument in the cause. This was error, requiring a reversal of the judgment.

ALTERATIONS OF BUILDINGS—LOSS TO LESSEE.

23214. Independent Five and Ten-Cent Stores vs. Adolph Heller. Affirmed. Harvey, J.

(1) The appellant was the lessee of the street floors of two adjoining buildings and the appellant was the lessee and occupant of the upper floors of one of the buildings. The appellant, by the consent of his lessors, removed the partition wall between the two storerooms on the street floor and substituted iron columns. When the work was practically completed it gave way and precipitated the appellee's property on the upper floors into a general chaos in the basement. "From these facts it follows that when defendant undertook to so change said wall, defendant did so at his own risk, and if injury to plaintiff's rights and possession and to his property on the upper floors, proximately resulted therefrom, defendant was chargeable therewith. This is the law, though defendant may have exercised due care in so doing." The fact that the work was done by an "independent contractor," whose fault caused the damage, does not relieve the appellant, nor does the fact that appellant used the utmost care in the selection of the architects and contractor for the work. (2) The fact that the complaint alleged that the work was negligently done and that much time on the trial was given to the question of negligence, does not change the rights of the parties, as the law made the appellant a trespasser on the rights of the appellee. The appellant could not escape the results of the negligence of the contractor in the fact that appellant had exercised care in his selection. (3) The fact that the answers of the jury showed that there was "no evidence" as to the value of the appellee's goods destroyed, does not overcome the general verdict, as there were other elements of damage to prevent the answers from overcoming the verdict. (4) It was not error to instruct that the appellee could recover 6 per cent. interest on the loss suffered, the amount of the loss being capable of computation, removing it from the rule making it a matter of discretion what, if any, interest shall be allowed in actions ex delicto.

APPELLATE COURT.

CARRIERS OF LIVE STOCK—SPECIAL AGREEMENTS.

10421. Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad Company vs. John C. Bower. Clark C. C. Affirmed. Remy, J.

The appellee used the appellant for damages for the delay of a shipment of cattle to Cleveland from Marysville, Ind., it being alleged that the appellant took sixty hours in delivering the shipment while reasonable care would deliver in thirty hours. The usual form of bill of lading was executed and filed as an exhibit to the complaint, and it is alleged that the appellee signed an agreement giving permission to the appellant to keep the cattle on the cars for thirty-six hours without feed, water or rest. The appellant demurred to the complaint, and as grounds for demurrer contends that the alleged contract of shipment was a special contract and for that reason unenforcible, as not being available to all shippers. The court says there was nothing in the alleged contract other than as provided by law for carriers and shippers, and that it does not come within the rule that a carrier can not be held upon a special contract making special agreements to the advantage of the plaintiff shipper.

DRAINS — INJUNCTIONS — TILE WATERING PLACES.

10374. Hal Green vs. William Cross et al. Rush C. C. Affirmed. McMahan, C. J., Enloe, P. J., not participating.

The appellant is the owner of a farm crossed by an eighteen-inch public tile drain and the appellees are owners of farms drained by the tile above appellant's lands. The appellees sued to enjoin the appellant from maintaining a watering place in the tile ditch, or from constructing another watering place in a new and different manner, on the ground that it interfered with the flow of the water in the tile. The appellant contends that the evidence does not sustain the judgment as to the injunction against the construction of the new and different watering place. The court holds that the evidence is sufficient.

OPINION IN FULL.

10389. James M. Brite vs. William C. Hastings. Spencer C. C. "Per curiam. Judgment affirmed."

CASE AND COMMENT

Memorial Day

Perhaps with Memorial day falling on Sunday it may be easier for our people to think of it in its spiritual aspect, and thus to draw from it those lessons which it preaches with such moving eloquence.

Sacrifice

There is only one reason for honoring the men who are kept in mind on that day, and that is the sacrifice that they made. They are revered not so much as soldiers, as citizens who in the hour of national peril counted nothing dear except the life of the nation. Parents, children, brethren, wife, houses and lands—they left all that they might serve a great cause; and they "were a people that jeoparded their lives unto the death in the high places of the field." What does it all mean if not that life itself, which men prize as something beyond price, weighs as nothing in the scale with honor and duty? Yet life is the greatest gift of God to man, else the sacrifice of it—or the willingness to sacrifice it—would count for little. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends" —that is the test or proof of perfect love. So the world honors, and the American people honor, those who gave the best—indeed all—that they had in the service of the nation, and who recognized that it was their duty to do this. Complete sacrifice, absolute self-renunciation, and the willingness on the part of the soldier "to throw away the dearest thing he owed, as 'twere a careless trifle"—it is because of these that the American people tenderly cherish the memory of the soldiers. The day, therefore, is fundamentally a religious day, since the root principle of religion is sacrifice, which is also the corner stone of the Christian faith. Patriotism implies and involves it, and in times of peace as well as of war. If men had not felt this in their hearts Memorial day would long since have ceased to be celebrated. Where there is no faith or love there can be no such thing as sacrifice, which is love—in this case love of country—in action, and the fruit of that inspiration which faith, and faith alone can give.

Human Kind

It is a great thing to have such a demonstration as this of the capacity of men for sacrifice, for it makes us think better of our kind. The soldiers in all our wars were in no way different from their friends and neighbors. Drawn from the great masses of our people they were representative of them. More broadly, they were representatives of humanity—that humanity of which so many seem to despair. Heroism is no unusual thing in the life of man, and in great crises it is the rule. The world war furnished a new proof of this to the generation that has grown up since our civil struggle, and that knows it only as a great historical event. There ought to be a renewal and strengthening of faith in man, and a new birth of optimism. America is the one country above all others in which there should be no place for doubters and whiners. Rather the feeling should be that what men have done men can do, and that there is no task beyond the powers of Americans, nor any sacrifice which they will not make at the call of duty. The heroic strain in the blood has not died out—as we have learned during the last three years. The problem is one of making effective the great qualities and applying them to life. And the problem is by no means easy. The proper and reverent observance of Memorial day will help toward a solution. Gratitude there must always be to the men who saved the Union, and laid anew the foundations for a greater and nobler national life. Though our gratitude can not profit those who were killed in the war, or have died since, grateful hearts have a beneficial effect on those who possess them. Ingratitude, on the other hand, is one of the basest of sins. And nothing can be more destructive than selfishness, which is the antithesis of sacrifice. The moral value of the teaching of the day is of enormous value. It is the day of men who preferred national well-being and safety to personal ease and pleasure—to life itself. It is through that spirit only that the land can be redeemed, and kept true to the great ideals in behalf of which brave men have gladly given their lives.

Consecration

There should also be a renewal of consecration to a country that has cost so much in treasure and blood, and to institutions which are the fruit of the most painful toil and sacrifice. What we need is a higher patriotism, a love of our country, not simply because it is ours, but because it is worthy of our love. The men of 1861 and those of 1917 were deeply convinced that America and American institutions were worth dying for. One may well say in the words of the old prophecy: "Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by?" There is a wave of depreciation passing over the land. It is assumed that, because certain men in public life have failed to rise to a great opportunity for service, the nation has lost its soul. How often we heard those words in the days preceding the war! But we later learned that the nation had a strong and clean soul. So it will be now. It may be that we have no friends in Europe, though this broad statement may be doubted. Undoubtedly there has been a falling away from the exalted level that we lived on in the war days, but this was inevitable. But we know that the old stock is still sound, as sound as it ever was; that this is the land of freedom and equal opportunity, and that there have been few peoples in the history of the world more easily moved and swayed by idealistic impulses. The sacrifices that are now being recalled, and dwelt on, were made for a land that was worthy of them, and for causes which one could not embrace without a feeling of exaltation. It is very doubtful whether even the most "practical" men can rob America of the moral leadership of the world. It all depends on the people themselves. If they are true to the nation's ideals, and continue to walk in the old paths, they need never despair of the republic. There need be no fear of those who speak and think with contempt of a country for which brave men proudly died, and who valued it far above life itself. The country of Washington and Lincoln is safe as against any attacks from that source. Its only danger comes from the carelessness, selfishness and faithlessness of those who profess to love it.

Patriotism of Peace

It is a curious fact, though often noted, that men have always been more ready to make great than small sacrifices, and find it easier to die for a nation and cause than to live for them.

The Easy Way.

So it is easier to be patriots in war than in peaceful days. Men who would not hesitate to lay down their lives for their country will fight to the last ditch over wages and profits. They will volunteer for the most arduous and perilous service, and yet will not take the trouble to vote. They condemn the slacker unmercifully and yet they will cheat when it comes to paying taxes. It is apparently less difficult to give one's life than to part with a few dollars. What this country needs more than anything else is a carrying over into these peaceful days, and into the ordinary life, the great and heroic virtues that shone forth so brilliantly on the battlefields of France. Much is being said just now of the necessity of returning to the normal, and of course there is such a necessity. But it is to be feared that many give the words far too wide an application. In the moral and political world we can well afford, if we can manage it, to be supernormal. There are still sacrifices to be made, and services to be performed, though no glory, and perhaps not even credit will come from them. But glory and credit may be left to take care of themselves—they are unimportant. And sacrifices are being made and services rendered. If it were not so life could not go on. No man can play his part in the world, no matter what it is, without making sacrifices. Society is organized on that basis. This is true also of family and business life. Often the sacrifices are gladly and uncomplainingly made—but often not. There is always the temptation to choose the easiest way, even if it be not the way of honor. People do their duty when it costs them little. But when it involves even slight hardships or the sacrifice of mere ease, or when something else seems pleasanter, they shrink from the test. Laziness and love of luxury are great weakeners of character.

Small Failures

It is hard, too, to realize that the nation suffers from what we think of as small failures in individual lives. But it is so. Indeed, considered from this point of view, there are no small failures. The nation ought to be as able to count on the devotion of its citizens in what are supposed to be the dull days of peace, as in time of war. The best that is in them is none too good to give to a country to which other men have given their lives — "the last full measure of devotion." Except in times of great and manifest danger little thought is given to the relation between the state and the citizen, or to the state's dependence on the citizen. Yet the relation is real and vital, and the dependence absolute. Americans can not value their citizenship too highly — and yet it is of no value at all unless its obligations are fully met. When war comes we think proudly of the nation, its flag, its Constitution and its government. But when peace returns, these seem to go into retirement. This, it is feared, is what some mean when they talk about returning to normal. They demand that wartime restrictions be removed — as they should be — not because they object to the principle on which they are based, but because they interfere with the making of money. What is wanted is freedom to go the old, careless, selfish gait, and to charge whatever prices people can be made to pay. There is, of course, in all this nothing of the spirit of sacrifice, and no glimmer of heroism or devotion. Some of the bitterest sacrifices that men make are of the higher for the lower, as when they devote all their energy and ability to the accumulation of a fortune. Friends, leisure, family life, harmless pleasure, culture, books and religion are all put to one side in the pursuit of material gain. This is very much as it would have been if the Irish soldiers held as prisoners in Germany had accepted their release on condition that they should renounce their allegiance and not be called on again to fight. Loyalty to the lower is very obviously treason to the higher. There is too much of this treason in the life of the world.

Americanization.

So war has its inspiration and lesson, as Memorial day should remind us. No program of Americanization will be of any considerable value that does not make provision even for those whose Americanism runs back to Jamestown and Plymouth. All alike need to be instructed in the patriotism of peace. It does not consist in boasting about our country, or even in knowing about it, but rather in the willingness to serve it and make sacrifices for it. One, too, can serve the country without ever holding office. There can be no such thing as self-government in a land in which there is not individual self-government or self-control. The ability of a man to say no to himself and his desires is one of the finest fruits of discipline. Life itself imposes limitations on the individual life, and the civilized man recognizes them and submits to them cheerfully. In this particular the life of the soldier is not essentially different from the life of the civilian. Both are under orders, both are called on to face responsibilities. And both must submit to discipline, whether imposed by others or by oneself. Of both sacrifice is required. Americans assuredly have a great inheritance, and of it nothing is more precious than "the good examples of all those * * * who, having finished their course in faith, do now rest from their labors." It is of them that the nation will think tomorrow, think lovingly and with the deepest gratitude. If the people think to any purpose they will get an inspiration from the mighty sacrifice which will at least lift them a little above the plane on which the average man moves, and create in them a desire and longing to be worthy of the men to whom they owe the country which so many of them take as a matter of course, and selfishly enjoy. The Roman captain said: "With a great price obtained I this freedom." Though we, as the apostle, were "free born," our freedom nevertheless was maintained at great cost, as the cemeteries scattered all over the country, and those new ones in France, most eloquently prove. The only way we can pay the debt is by showing ourselves worthy of the sacrifice.

Decoration

"Manibus O date lilia plenis."

Mid the flower-wreathed tombs I stand
Bearing lilies in my hand.
Comrades in what soldier grave
Sleeps the bravest of the brave?

Is it he who sank to rest
With his colors round his breast?
Friendship makes his tomb a shrine;
Garlands—veil it; ask not mine.

One low grave, yon trees beneath,
Bears no roses, wears no wreath;
Yet no heart more high and warm
Ever dared the battle storm.

Never gleamed a prouder eye
In the front of victory,
Never foot had firmer tread
On the field where hope lay dead.

Than are hid within this tomb,
Where the untended grasses bloom,
And no stone, with feigned distress,
Mocks the sacred loneliness.

Youth and beauty, dauntless will,
Dreams that life could ne'er fulfill,
Here lie buried; here in peace
Wrongs and woes have found release.

Turning from my comrades' eyes,
Kneeling where a woman lies,
I strew flowers on the grave
Of the bravest of the brave.

—Thomas Wentworth Higginson.

THE NEWS OFFERS INTERESTING OLD CENTENNIAL CONTRIBUTION

First Issue of the Indianapolis Gazette, City's Pioneer Newspaper, Issued January 28, 1822, Reproduced—Many First Things Are Recorded—The Wedding of Patsey Chinn.

As a contribution to the centennial celebration, The News offers to its patrons a unique memento of early Indianapolis, in a reproduction of the first newspaper printed here. It is the Indianapolis Gazette for January 28, 1822, and is No. 1, Vol. 1, of that publication, of which the Indianapolis Sentinel became the successor in later years. Owing to the discoloration by age of the original paper, it was impossible to reproduce it entirely by photographic process, but the obsolete display type was so reproduced, and the body of the paper was reset, making so nearly a facsimile, even in typographical errors, that none but a printer would notice the difference.

The paper was owned by George Smith, and the editor was Nathaniel Bolton, later the husband of Sarah T. Bolton, the poet. It was published at Maryland and Missouri streets, in a log cabin, in a very primitive way, the forms being inked by hand with buckskin balls, stuffed with wool. Fortunately, the body type was a new font, and every word of the paper could be deciphered.

Naming of County Reported.

This issue of the Gazette is especially interesting for its record of "first things." More than a page is occupied by the state law for the first roads that were cut through the woods to Indianapolis at public expense—all previous roadways having been the products of the individual efforts of the pioneers, who cut trails wide enough to get through. Another interesting item of news is that the name that has been given to the new county is "Marion;" and the editor announces that he is informed that the election for county officers will take place the first Monday in April, and announces the names of thirty-five candidates for the offices.

The first "boom" article on Indianapolis appears, with a glowing account of the rapid development of the new capital, in which there are already more than forty houses. As practical evidence of growth, a call is published for a meeting at Hawkins's tavern to take steps for establishing a private mail—the Buriesson of that day having neglected to put Indianapolis on the postal map.

Patsey Chinn's Wedding.

The leading society event is the marriage of Patsey Chinn, daughter of Thomas Chinn, leading tavern keeper, major in the militia, and the first importer of blooded stock to this vicinity. There has never been a wedding in Indianapolis since Patsey's that equaled it in the viands served or in the length of the celebration which continued three days. It also was the only known wedding where the bride had to make her toilet in the smokehouse, because of the crowded condition of the mansion. These little details do not appear in the Gazette, but are preserved by various chroniclers, especially Mrs. Calvin Fletcher, who concludes her account as follows: "My husband and I came home after daylight the second day, slept until afternoon, and then went back and put in another night. I have been asked to a quilting party, but have declined since I do not think it proper to go when I am so weary."

The City's First Poem.

The Chinn wedding called forth the first known Indianapolis poem, and the first rhyme in which was used the word "Indianapolis." The introduction to the marriage notice opening with the lines:

"Come Hyman now and bear thy sway
In Indianapolis.
And hasten on the wish'd for day
That crowns the lone with nuptial bliss."

There seems to be no department of a modern newspaper lacking in this first venture. There is a joke column, and a market column, the latter exposing the profiteer of those days in the item: "Venison hams per pair, 62 cents." There are selected reprints in variety, foreign news and a report of the proceedings in the congress a month earlier, much of it very like what it might have been yesterday, but with an interesting resolution in aid of a canal to connect Lake Michigan and the Illinois river.

No Profit Sought on Memento.

The News seeks no profit in this publication, but provides the papers to the newsboys at cost, which allows them to make a small profit by selling the copies at ten cents each. Out of town patrons may obtain copies by sending ten cents to the News circulation department.

Supports Interchurch Movement.

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 29.—The Methodist Protestant general conference before adjournment last night voted to support the interchurch world movement to the extent of $50,000 and named Dr. C. S. Johnson, Pittsburg, as secretary for the church in this work. T. H. Lewis, Baltimore, was chosen chief representative to the ecumenical conference of Methodists to be held in London.

A resolution "forbidding" ministers of the church to use tobacco was changed to read "earnestly requesting" them not to use it.

The Girl Who Bent the Bank at Monte Carlo!

She was a mysterious visitor at the great Casino, her beauty thrilled the men gathered about the gambling tables, her radiance was the envy of every woman. She knew no one, her innocence fascinated—yet the cynics thought they saw "big game" behind the mask—then she placed a coin before the great roulette wheel, and before dawn she had bent the bank at Monte Carlo.

Thus begins the remarkable romance, the all-absorbing store of convent bred Mary Grant, whose unconventional, though innocent, conduct and huge winnings brought her notoriety and sensational experiences. "The American Beauty" is set against a background of picturesque scenes in this play.

PROPOSED REGULATION OF SCHOOLS DISCUSSED

TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES OPPOSE BONUSES FOR TEACHERS.

WOULD ENFORCE CONTRACTS

A legislative program proposed for school regulations was discussed Friday at the Denison hotel by the legislative committee of the Township Trustees' Association of Indiana, which was called together by Lew Lewis, of Manilla, chairman. The trustees disapproved of the bonus plan of increasing school teachers' pay, such as used in Indianapolis and other cities this year.

The trustees favored increases in pay, but asserted that salaries should not be raised until the year's contracts expire, and that the contracts should be rigidly enforced. Bonus increases tended to cause dissatisfaction in smaller communities, it was said.

Urge Contract Change.

A change in the contract system, which would give the trustees protection against teachers who "jump" their contracts, was urged, the trustees saying that although they have no protection against such teachers, it requires legal process for the trustees to discharge a teacher. A personal expense account also was advocated as supplementary to the office expenditure allotments.

Objection to the county unit educational system as advocated by some persons was expressed. The committee said it would centralize school control and would destroy local government of the townships as related to school government. Politics in the county office which would have more authority under such a system would be encouraged, it was said.

Committee Members.

Other members were Ralph Stevens, Evansville, First district; George M. Notter, Worthington, Second; Oscar Newsom, Azalia, Fourth; A. N. Powers, Terre Haute, Fifth; Mr. Lewis, Sixth; Arch A. Hamilton, Muncie, Eighth; Alva A. Swope, Lebanon, Ninth; J. Dibell Wolcott, Tenth; Frank M. Truss, Wabash, Eleventh; Charles H. Hartung, Huntertown, Twelfth, and C. C. Dukes, secretary-treasurer, Warsaw, Thirteenth.

Regular civilian hats and caps may now be worn by the freshmen for the remainer of the year.

Philadelphia Lawyer Is Held in Bergdoll Case.

BALTIMORE, May 29.—James E. Romig, a lawyer, of Philadelphia, was indicted by the federal grand jury here Friday on the charge of aiding and abetting Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, wealthy young Philadelphia draft dodger, in evading the draft. Romig was arrested in Philadelphia Thursday.

DRASTIC ACTION PLANNED FOR SITUATION IN IRELAND

Military to Be Used Following Death of Two Constables in Mob Attack at Killmalock.

LONDON, May 29.—British military officials today took steps to meet the critical situation in Ireland following attacks on soldier barracks at Killmalock, where two constables were burned to death. The barracks were set fire by a band of 100 men.

Premier Lloyd George presided at a cabinet conference last night at which it was understood drastic action to cope with Irish disorders was decided on.

Flying columns of cavalry have been sent to Killmalock. A motorcycle corps also has been organized for the district. Four eighteen-pounder guns, a quantity of rifle ammunition, grenades, petrol and barbed wire were landed at Kingstown last night, according to a dispatch received here. Army lorries also have been rushed to Dublin.

A heavy fusilade of rifle fire was the first indication the constables in the barracks had that they were being attacked. Bombs containing burning oil were thrown on the roof of the barracks, setting fire to one wing in which constables were endeavoring to fight off a mob that attempted to break through the door.

Marching orders have been issued for troops at Aldershot and other points in England.

SOUTH BEND—The Knights and Ladies of the Maccabees of northern Indiana cities will hold their annual outing at Hudson Lake June 20. It is expected that from 7,000 to 10,000 persons will take advantage of the outing. The young man came here a month ago from Lexington, Ky., and last week was arrested at Kokomo for alleged failure to pay board bill here. His relatives paid the bill at that time and he was dismissed, the authorities say.

SHELBYVILLE—William Edward Newcomb, age eighteen months, will lose the third finger of his right hand as a result of his interest in a gasoline engine. The baby, hearing the noise of the engine near his home, evaded his mother and toddled into the shed. When he thrust his hand into the revolving wheels three of the fingers were badly torn and cut. Linnes McPherson, a wealthy farmer of Shelby county, won a divorce in the Shelby circuit court Friday from Mrs. Flora McPherson. By an agreement which was reached out of court, Mrs. McPherson will receive $4,000 from her husband, in settlement of her claim for alimony of $10,000.

Hendricks Makes Deal for Minneapolis Pitcher

Batting Statistics in A. A. and Big Leagues—Golf and Tennis

WHITEHOUSE ADDED TO INDIAN PITCHING STAFF

TRIBE OPENS LONG SERIES AT HOME WITH COLONELS AS OPPONENTS.

The acquisition of Charlie Whitehouse, an Indianapolis boy, to the Indian pitching staff is expected to be a big boost to the Indians. For two years Whitehouse has been a member of the Minneapolis club and Hendricks has coveted him all that time. When the tribe boss sized him up for the last time as a Miller the other day his mind was made up. Whitehouse beat the Indians, 9 to 1, and right away Hendricks made an offer for the pitcher's release. The deal was closed last night.

Whitehouse made his professional debut in baseball with the old Indianapolis Federal League club. He is a young left-hander and he wants to play ball here, his home town.

The Colonels came today for a series of five games with the Indians. Two games will be played Sunday and two Monday. The tribe is now in fair shape in the matter of pitching material. On the staff, besides Whitehouse are Cavet and Hogge, of the old staff, and Petty, Jones and Turner. All are in condition except Turner, who has a sore arm. The Indians will play at home for nearly a month and Manager Hendricks is confident the club will be up in the running before long. The morale of the club is splendid.

Stumbling Block.

The Colonels have been going much better than the Indians so far this season, besides proving a stumbling block to the tribe. The clubs have met in two series and the Kentuckians received credit for winning five of the six contests played. In the first series played at Washington park the Colonels won by scores of 3 to 1 and 5 to 1, and took the third game when Umpire Finneran forfeited the game to the Colonels on the ground that the Indians were stalling for time because of the 6 o'clock Sunday law. Incidentally both teams were guilty of stalling.

In the second series played at Louisville the Colonels won 4 to 3 and 2 to 1. The Indians took the last contest played, 4 to 3.

Oldfield's Car Out

Barney Oldfield's golden special will not be in the lineup Monday when the starting bomb bursts. Waldo Stein, the driver, has striven in vain to repair a leaky water jacket. Though Stein has worked on the car since last November, delay in getting the engine from the makers and no time to try it out in Los Angeles has ruined a good chance for placing it in the biggest race in the world.

PURDUE STAR PITCHES NO-HIT-NO-RUN GAME

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., May 29.—Wallace, Purdue's star pitcher, had Wabash at his mercy yesterday and he let the Scarlet down without a hit or base on balls, while his teammates ran up a 9-to-0 score. Chanlaub, Wabash left fielder, reached first base on an infield error, but he never got any further. Wallace struck out eleven men and had the other batsmen making ineffectual stabs at his curves. His control was perfect.

White and Robert's were the heavy men with the stick, the former getting three singles and the catcher a pair. Score:

Wallace and Roberts; Heald, Vandergriff and Rusie, Ehlert.

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 29.—Notre Dame won here yesterday, 2 to 1, in a contest full of sparkling plays and some hard hitting. The victors did all their scoring in the first inning, when Bradley messed up an easy grounder with two out and lost the chance to retire the side. A double and two singles came along to produce results. Adams pitched feature ball for Valparaiso, while Captain Miles put up a pretty exhibition at short for the visitors.

		R.	H.	E.

Baseball by Wireless

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Score by innings of the Army-Navy annual baseball game at Annapolis today was flashed all over the world, wherever naval detachments are located, through plans worked out at the navy department. A radio telephone was installed on the baseball field and through it was transmitted to the navy department the score and a running story of the game. Out of the navy communication office leased wires carried the information to New York, Newport, Boston and Norfolk. From the radio stations located at these ports the score was sent by wireless to naval vessels.

JOHNSON FAVORS BLACK-LIST FOR JUMPING PLAYERS

CHICAGO, May 29.—Baseball players who violate their contracts to accept attractive offers from clubs in industrial leagues will be expelled from organized baseball and those who violate their reserve clause will be suspended for three years, if the recommendations of President Johnson, of the American League, are adopted.

President Johnson is in Philadelphia for a conference with President Heydler, of the National League, relative to a plan of action against the industrial leagues, which threaten to disrupt several clubs in the major and minor leagues by inducing players to violate their agreements. President Johnson proposes to appeal for injunctions restraining clubs in these industrial leagues from interfering with any club in the major or minor leagues.

AUSTIN, Tex., May 29.—Nine negro brothers, named Smith, at Temple, Tex., have formed a baseball team which is competing for the membership in the Dusky League of central Texas.

THE BIG PROBLEM.

A big problem will present itself to the drivers that get away from the tape Monday. That is whether they shall strive for the lap prize or for the first place prize and the honor of winning the greatest race in the history of the world. It goes without saying that the driver who tries to cop all the lap prizes by keeping his mount ahead of the field has not much chance of finishing in first place, because the probabilities are that speed means more stops at the pits. Some drivers there are that have absolutely no chance for the lap prize money. The wiser heads among these will no doubt set a steady pace that that should bring them under the tape around eighty-five miles an hour average, and it is reasonably sure that they will get a good slice of the purse.

Speaking of Speed, Joe Dawson Is in Town

Joe Dawson, winner of the 500 in 1912, is over from Baltimore strictly as a spectator. When Arthur Chevrolet was hurt last Sunday rumors began to fly that Dawson would be seen at the wheel of a Monroe. But Dawson has retired from the racing game, since he has found that he can not be in business and race also. His desire to retain his connection with the Marmon organization induced this decision. But in discussing records and piston displacement fans know that Joe has driven once around the clock faster than any one in the world.

On August 1 and 2, 1917, Dawson put a 224-inch Chalmers around the Sheephead speedway, a distance of 1,898 miles, an average of practically eighty miles an hour. This record still stands. During the entire twenty-four hours the motor did not stop once and the time at the pits for gas, oil and water was only thirty-five minutes seven seconds. The run was staged by the contest department of the Chalmers company under the direction of W. F. Sturm, also an Indianapolis product.

NIP AND TUCK AT PENN.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—Twenty colleges and universities had one or more men in the semi-finals and finals of the intercollegiate track and field championships at Franklin field today, and of this number any one of six institutions was in a position to capture the I. C. A. A. A. A. title. Aside from the one and two-mile runs, in which the entrants were not required to participate in elimination heats yesterday, Pennsylvania led in the number of men qualified for the finals with fifteen. Princeton, with fourteen, was second, and Cornell, third, with eleven. Next in order were California and Dartmouth, each, with seven qualifiers. Stanford had six.

Rice, of Washington, pulled away from his teammate, Bobby Roth, in stolen bases, and is showing the way with fourteen thefts. Roth has pilfered ten.

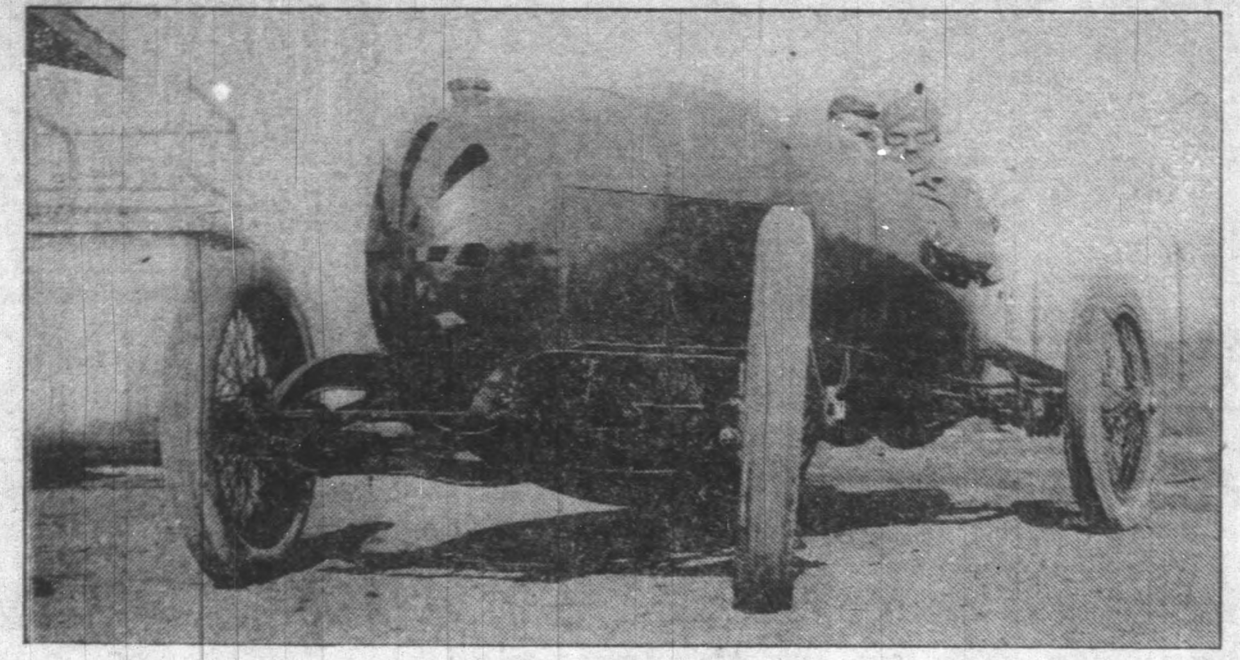
British Riflemen Out.

LONDON, May 29.—The National Rifle Association has decided not to be represented by a team in the Olympic games because of inadequate financial suport, it was announced yesterday by Lord Cheylesmore, of the association. He gave an unfavorable report of the association's finances and said that its appeal for funds had met with a disappointing response.

ONE OF THE "HOPES" OF INDIANAPOLIS



ROSCOE SARLES, IN MONROE.

In the last analysis of dopesters, the 500-mile race this year is between France and Indianapolis. France, with its two-well-known Ballot and Peugeot teams, and its less famous, on this side of the Atlantic, but equally game Gregoire duo, will present a field of opponents hard to beat. The hope of breaking the string of French victories falls largely upon the seven Monroe-Frontenac cars built in Indianapolis under the personal direction of Louis Chevrolet and upon the Duesenberg motored machines. And it is well known that from now on the Duesenbergs will be an exclusively Indianapolis product.

On the Monroe-Frontenac team, the dope seems to be that Gaston and Louis Chevrolet and Joe Boyer will be the "beat it" boys who will cut out after the lap prizes, while the remaining four members of the squad, Bennie Hill, Joe Thomas, Roscoe Sarles and Art Klein will play the safe and sane game and ramble along at a more conservative pace that may not be quite fast enough to win the race but will assure them places among the big ten. So say the dopesters.

BASEBALL SIDELIGHTS

Huck Sawyer swatted a triple with the bases full and then stole home for the Millers, but they couldn't beat the Saints.

Goldie Rapp got four hits for Mike Kelley. 'Nuff said.

The Brewers used four pitchers in an effort to stop the lowly Blues, who accumulated fifteen hits.

Eayres, the Brave southpaw, who substituted in left field, slammed a homer with two on in the ninth inning of the Brave-Dodger clash and materially assisted in the Boston victory.

Babe Ruth did not get a home run. Nevertheless the Yanks climbed a notch into third place by defeating the Red Sox.

The Cubs jumped into first place by trouncing the Cardinals twice in the same place while Pittsburg lost to Cincinnati. The first game was Alexander's tenth consecutive victory, while the second was Vaughn's sixth straight win.

THROUGH THE SPORT PERISCOPE

Wouldn't it be a fine thing and a tribute to the hardest worker and the greatest pioneer in the racing game if Papa Louis Chevrolet and his crew should be able to swing a Monroe or a Frontenac across the tape way up near the top—or even the top? Louis has done as much to keep the game alive as any one. He brought out the Cornelian, that precursor of small car racing, the Frontenacs, and now has had the courage to develop the Monroe, a car which, to be frank, the public laughed at two months ago and now today has begun to consider seriously in view of their preparedness and wonderful time. Yes, truly, there could be worse things than to have this a Chevrolet year. It is a far cry from those old Marquette-Buicks of early speedway days to the little cars that can figuratively almost be put under the hood of Louis's early love.

Manual's High Point Man

CLINTON WHITNEY.

Clinton Whitney, captain of the Manual Training High School track team, who was Manual high point man at the sectional meet, tied with Marks, of Wabash, as high point man at the state track meet at Purdue last Saturday. Whitney is a little fellow, but he has plenty of muscle, grit and a lot of speed. He got his start in athletics by winning first in the twenty-yard dash at the indoor track meet held at the "Y" last year. Whitney graduates from Manual this June.

The Union Boat Club of Boston, which contemplates going to England in an effort to lift the Grand Challenge cup, will compete in the American Regatta, Philadelphia, May 29, as a preliminary to making the trip.

HOWDY NOW EQUIPPED TO COPE WITH PIT MEN

He also usually forgets any bit of English that he may be able to speak under normal conditions.

That's why Jack Wassner, a Frenchman who speaks both English and French fluently and who has been in this country long enough to get used to the American hustle and bustle, has been named to ride with Howdy Wilcox, only Yankee driver on the Peugeot racing team, next Monday.

Howdy does not get the rapid fire "parley-voo" of Goux, Boillot and their mechanics and if he were to roll into the pits to have a bit of snappy repair work performed on his car during the race it would take half a day to get the crew organized in English. With Wassner on the job the Frenchman can be the interlocutor and be of valuable assistance to both sides of the controversy.

LITTLE GLORY FOR MECHANICIANS

Little glory will go to the mechanician who rides in the little seat beside the driver in the 500-mile race. Although the plaudits of the crowd rarely ever are intended for the lowly mechanician, yet he plays an important part in the long grind. It is his duty to keep a close watch on the tires, check each layer as it succumbs to the friction caused by the rapidly revolving wheels on the brick pavement, and signal the pits, so that not a fraction of a second need be lost in the stop. He must also keep watch on the other cars in the race and signal his driver when one draws up from behind. He is the only one permitted to assist the driver in making repairs in case of a mechanical breakdown.

Throughout the race he is in danger of being bounced out, as he has no steering wheel to which he can hold—nothing but a small hand oil pump, which he operates throughout the race. Never is a word spoken between the driver and mechanician while their car is in motion. Each team has a sign language all its own.

Because of the smaller size motors entered in the 1920 dash, lightweight mechanicians are in demand, and the cars have been stripped of every every ounce of superfluous weight, even to drilling holes, scientifically placed, in the frame.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—Blink McCloskey, the Philadelphia heavyweight boxer, reported murdered in Paris two months ago, is alive in Alexandria, Egypt. Letters were received from him today by his father, Max Silverman.

On April 23 a cable dispatch reported that the torso of a man supposed to be McCloskey had been found in the River Seine. He had been missing from his Paris home since March 18 and his friends mourned him as dead.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Chicago fistic followers were convinced today that Georges Carpentier comes of champion stock. The Frenchman displayed his wares in the three rounds with Jules Leonaira, Belgian champ, his sparring partner, at the Illinois Athletic Club here last night.

ST. LOUIS, May 29.—Professional boxing here was suspended indefinitely yesterday by order of the board of police commissioners. Amateur contests will not be interfered with, it was said. Three clubs have been conducting no-decision professional entertainments, and it was explained that today's action resulted from the alleged failure of these clubs to abide by the boxing regulations.

Carpentier and his party arrived from Chicago at 2:40 o'clock this afternoon. In addition to the debonaire Georges, the party included Francois DesCamps, his personal manager; Jack Curley, who is directing his tour of America, and a retinue of sparring partners and attendants.

Carpentier was met at the Union station by a reception committee of American Legion members consisting of H. C. Harrington, chairman; Maurice E. Tennant, Russell J. Ryan, William E. Reilly, William Deary, James Dale, all of the Robert E. Kennington Post, along with Judge Solon Carter, Dr. T. Victor Keene, Will H. Brown, Robert Tyndall, Jackiel Joseph and Dr. E. I. Duboise.

At 6 o'clock this evening he will be the guest of a group of former service men who fought with Carpentier in the world war, and who came to know and admire the famous Frenchman across the seas, at a military dinner to be held at the Columbia Club.

WISEST DOPESTER MISSES IT REPEATEDLY, SAYS RABID DOPE REHASHER'S REVIEW

[By W. F. Sturm]

What will the 1920 speedway race bring forth in the way of speed? mused the Old Timer in the regular issue of the Rabid Race Rehashers' Review. The result depends on so many things that no bet is absolutely a safe one. To be sure, dopesters figure out the winner on form—that mysterious concoction of perfectly good reasons why a certain car should win—but a glance backward shows that the wisest dopester misses it at times as far as the girl who picks the winner by the color of his hair or ear. If there were no trouble mechanically, if there were no tire changes, if a single-lap speed could be maintained throughout the race "dope" would be worth a great deal. Thus last year the Ballots were picked to finish up in front and not one did so.

After the race has passed into history the fellow who doped this or that car to win—and guessed right—will say form is the only thing on which to base a judgment. The old Rehasher who has doped a particular car to win—and missed it by many laps—will alibi that the driver did not run true to form. And there you are.

Right away it is safe to say there are no special factors to make this race any faster than any previous one—on form. Piston displacement no longer seems to be the gauge of speed. Time was when piston displacement was thought to indicate just about everything.

The Indianapolis track is peculiar in that speed is far from an absolute factor. It never will be, because this track demands stamina and driving skill, as well as speed. Once away from the pits on the old Sheepshead Bay track the driver could let his car ramble for all it was worth. But on this track there is a wear and tear on everything from tires up to the driver.

There are right and wrong ways to hit the turns here. The wrong way spells strain on tires and mechanism. Even with the throttle wide open the turns retard speed considerably. Weather is a big factor. A hot day means more tire changes.

In 1915 when DePalma and his 300-inch Mercedes won the race at an average of 89.84 miles an hour, weather conditions were considered ideal. Granting that weather conditions can not be improved and that piston displacement means very little, it is a fair presumption that the race will not be a great deal faster than it was last year, when Wilcox won in his Peugeot at 87.95 miles an hour.

It is interesting to run over the winners and those that got in the prize money in the years gone by.

Ray Harroun, the wily Arab, and his Marmon finished first in the 1911 500-mile race in 6:41:08, an average of 76.6 miles an hour. Smiling Ralph Mulford in a Lozier was second in 6:46:46. Bruce Brown in a Fiat, third, 6:51:29. Spencer Wishart, Mercedes, came across in 6:51:57. Joe Dawson, Marmon, was fifth in 6:54:37. Ralph DePalma and his Simplex came in sixth in 7:02:02. Other contestants to place were Charlie Merz, National; Turner, Amplex; Belcher, Knox; Hughes, Mercer; Anderson, Stutz. In those early days the boys did not all know the value of a radiator guard. Joe Dawson, Harroun's teammate, was running in the same lap with Harroun near the close of the race when a passing car flipped a bolt from the track into his radiator. The water ran out and Joe died on the back stretch, as he thought, a mile or so from the finish. But a recheck showed that he had gone a mile over the distance.

In 1912 Dawson drove a National, the Marmon not entering that year. He won the race at an average of 78.72 miles an hour, his time being 6:21:06. Then came Teddy Tetzlaff, Fiat, in 6:33:09; Hughey Hughes, in a Mercer, 6:33:09; Charley Merz, Stutz, 6:34:40; Harry Endicott, Schacht, 6:46:28; Len Zengel, Stutz, 6:50:28; Johnny Jenkins, White; Joe Horan, Lozier; Wilcox, National; Mulford, Knox. This dramatic race has gone down in history. DePalma was running first with only about ten miles to go. Dawson was running second, far in the rear. Then DePalma's engine went bad and Dawson set out to cover some twenty odd miles while DePalma was covering ten. DePalma went slower and slower and died before the finish, while Dawson swept across the tape a winner.

In 1913 Jules Goux, Georges Boillot and several other foreigners invaded the speedway race. The displacement was then 450, as in 1912. Dawson, the previous year's winner, did not drive. Goux, Peugeot, finished first in 6:31:43, slower time than the year before and slower even than Harroun's time in 1911. Goux's average was 76.59 miles an hour. Wishart, Mercer, was second almost 15 minutes behind the Frenchman, his time being 6:45:06. Charlie Merz, Stutz, with his car burning furiously during the last lap, stuck to the wheel and finished third in 6:59:35. Guyot, Sunbeam, came next in 7:05:08; Pillette, Mercedes-Knight, was fifth, 7:19:35; Wilcox, Gray Fox, sixth, 7:23:38; Mulford, Mercedes, eighth; Disbrow, Case, ninth; Clark, Tulsa, tenth; Haupt, Mason, eleventh. In this race Gil Anderson, in a Stutz, was in second place at 495 miles, when he stopped at the pits and could not get started again, due to a broken magneto shaft, it was reported.

In 1914 the piston displacement was still at 450 inches. The foreign invasion swept everything before it, the first American driver across the tape being Barney Oldfield in a Stutz, in fifth place. Thomas, DeLage, was first in 6:03:45, an average of 82.47 miles an hour. His motor was a 380-inch job. Seven minutes behind Thomas came Duray in a Peugeot, variously reported to be in the neighborhood of 151 cubic inches. Duray's time was 6:10:24, an average of 80.90. Guyot, De Lage, was third, average 80.20; Goux, Peugeot, fourth, 79.49; Oldfield, Stutz, fifth, 78.15 miles an hour. Note that the first four men beat Dawson's time in 1912 and the first six men in beat Goux's time in 1913. Christaens, Excelsior, was sixth, 77:82; Grant, Sunbeam, 75.68; Keene, Beaver Bullet, 74.82; Carlson, Maxwell, 70.96; Rickenbacker, Duesenberg, 70.83; Burman, Keeton, 64.10. Georges Boillot, who gave his life for France, in the world war, was a strong contender with his Peugeot, but went out early, as did Chassagne, Sunbeam, and Fredericks, Buggatti. It was in this race that Dawson, driving a Marmon, turned out to avoid Gilhooly's wrecked Isotta and was seriously injured. It was felt that with the eclipsing of Dawson America's strongest hope went.

In 1915 the displacement was dropped to 300 inches and it was conceded that the race was between Dario Resta in his Peugeot, who had been sweeping everything before him, and Ralph DePalma in his Mercedes. The temperature at noon was 61 degrees. Gil Anderson and his Stutz led for 25 and 50 miles. At 100 Resta was leading. At 200, 300, 400, DePalma led, the lead being wrested from him once during a tire change. It was in this race that Resta was accused of refusing to let other drivers pass him on the turns. DePalma's time was 5:25:55.51, an average of 89.84 miles an hour; Resta, second, 89.28; Gil Anderson, Stutz, third, 87.60; Cooper, Stutz, 86.19; O'Donnell, Duesenberg, 81.47; Burman, Peugeot, 80.36; Wilcox, Stutz, 79.66; Alley, Duesenberg, 79.58; Hughes, Maxwell, 78.96; Van Raalte, Sunbeam, 75.88. It is to be noted that the first five men in beat Thomas's time in 1914. The first nine men in beat Dawson's National in 1912.

During the year agitation resulted in the 1916 race being cut to 300 miles. Ralph DePalma did not enter, and the race lost some of its luster because of this. Resta in a Peugeot, won in 3:36:10.82, an average of 83.26 miles an hour. D'Alene, Duesenberg, was second, 3:38:04, 82.54 average. Mulford, Peugeot, third, 3:39:55, 81.91 average; Christaens, Sunbeam, fourth, 3:48:24.10, 78.75 average; Oldfield, DeLage, fifth, 3:49:09.10, 78.75; Pete Henderson, Maxwell, 3:49:56.59, 78.28 average; Wilcox, Fremler, seventh, 3:56:19.10, 76.17 average; Haibe, Ostewig, 4:03:10.51, 74.02 average; Tom Alley, Ogren, 73.81 average; Johnson, Crawford, tenth, 73.53 average. Resta won under wraps, and this explains the slow time. After 200 miles the Englishman coasted down the straightaways to save his motor, only going fast enough to keep ahead of the second man. At 200 miles—eighty laps—the standing was: Mulford, seventy-seven laps; D'Alene and Rickenbacker (Henderson's relief), seventy-six laps; Christaens, seventy-four; Oldfield, seventy-three; Haibe, seventy-one; Wilcox, seventy; Alley, sixty-nine; Chandler, sixty-eight; Lewis and Johnson, sixty-eight; Louis Chevrolet, fifty-one laps. Resta had a five-minute lead over the field at this point.

Racing was resumed in 1919, after a two-year layoff, due to the war. The displacement remained at 300 and the distance was brought back to 500 miles. Howard Wilcox, in a Peugeot, took first in 5:40:42.87, an average of 87.95 miles an hour. The order of finish was: Eddie Hearne, Durant, 5:44:29.04; 87 average. Jules Goux, Peugeot, 5:49:06.18; 85.90 average. Albert Guyot, Ballot, 5:55:16.27; 84.35. Tom Alley, Bender, 6:05:03.92; 82.2 miles average. DePalma, Packard, 6:10:10.64; 81.05 average. Louis Chevrolet, Frontenac, 6:10:10.92; 81 average. Vail, Hudson, 6:12.42; 80.35 average. D. Hickey, Stickel Special, 6:13:57.24; 80.15 average. Gaston Chevrolet, Frontenac, 6:17:21.79; 79.45 average. Rene Thomas, Ballot, 6:21:10.92; 78.75 average; Cooper, Stutz, 6:21:35.05; 78.6 average. Shannon Special, 6:30:50.75; 76.75 average. Haibe, Hudson, 6:34:28.09; 76 average.

It was last year that the French invasion was expected to prove a victory, the Ballots being doped to finish in the first four places. In fact, there was nothing to it. They were all finished on dope except getting the prize money. Which proves that dope or form is not always right.

SPEEDWAY'S TIMING SYSTEM IS SENSITIVE BUT NOT NERVOUS

"There it goes—now what'll they do?" There have been thousands who have asked this question on two or three occasions during speedway races when the timing wire across the track opposite the judges' stand snapped under the steady wear of flying wheels. Really the snapping of the wire is not of much importance.

While the electric timing machine is a complicated and sensitive bit of machinery, it nevertheless is free of nervousness, absolutely accurate and capable of registering records without the variation of a hundredth part of a second. A regulation ship chronometer is used and the timing is registered on a broad paper tape, the hour, minute, second and hundredth part of a second being printed on the tape the instant a car touches the wire across the track. Incidentally the rear wheels of a car running more than fifty miles an hour do not register a mark, as the front wheels depress the wire and the rear wheel passes over it even before the wire rebounds.

As a car passes the wire and the time is recorded on the tape, a checker marks the number of the car opposite the time. It is a simple operation for the dozen or more timers even when the racers are bunched in crossing the wire.

"But what if the wire breaks?" is invariably asked.

That emergency is always guarded against. The official timer and operator of the device, Odis A. Porter, is always vigilant. When the wire breaks, as it has done two or three times, Porter merely uses an electric push button attached to the device and as the cars pass he merely presses his thumb and the record is made on the tape, the checkers adding the car identification under the direction of Chester Ricker, chief of the staff.

"What's the need of having a wire if it is so easy?" was asked.

"Well," said Porter, "when the wire is in working order one does not need to be so mentally alert."

The timing device, originally a Warner, has been much improved and developed since it was first used in the speedway's early races. The speedway company owns the apparatus, the only one of the kind in the world, and Porter, who has always been in charge, has perfected it. When the apparatus is used at other speedways, Porter is the man in charge.

Sterling Tires

When we say STERLING TIRES are dependable, and give big mileage, we are not theorizing. In our own organization are over 80 cars, fully equipped with STERLINGS—running every day, the year round. These include many kinds of cars, from two-ton trucks, using 40x8, to Fords wearing the small sizes.

These tires are not "nursed." They are purposely run under-inflated. They are given the hardest of tests. And yet the average mileage on all of them is higher than the highest printed mileage guarantee of other tires.

When we get, and hear of, STERLINGS that run 15,000, 20,000, 30,000 miles, we call it luck, but we know that every STERLING that is kept properly inflated and is given reasonable care will return to its user a very low cast per mile.

We do not believe that any cheaper tire can possibly cost so little per mile. We positively know that no tire of higher price can be any better. In making STERLINGS we spend every cent that will give added service and not one cent more.

Our guarantee is a square deal.

Nobody really wants or expects any more, or less, than that.

5 to 1 That an Overhead Valve Engine Wins the 500-Mile Race

The Stephens' Salient Six perfected overhead valve engine is not especially built for speed, however, you seldom see one eating the other fellow's dust.

It is the most powerful and most economical engine for its size in passenger automobiles.

Besides repeatedly establishing itself as the most economical engine in motor cars in its class, it is no respecter of the grades of gasoline you supply it.

This engine contributes to the greater value and the greater service of the Stephens' Salient Six.

IN DAYS OF OLD ROME WAS AGOG; NOW THRILLS ARE IN INDIANAPOLIS

[By Thomas A. Hendricks]

ROME, Ides of May, 20 A. D.—All Rome is agog in anticipation of the running of the 474th annual international speedway sweepstakes to be held at the Coliseum next week for the big purse of 70,000 sesterces. The fastest speed creations of the leading chariot firms in the universe have been given their final workouts by the speed kings of three continents. The betting in the Forum at present time showed that the Roman, Greek, Egyptian and Arabian flyers ruled as heavy favorites among the dopsters, but a late dispatch from the Delphic oracle, which read as follows: "Keep thine eye on the dark horses," resulted in a number of wagers being placed upon the Ethiopian charioteers.

All day long the roads from Tusculum, Tarentum, Capua, Cisium and Sutrium were crowded with throngs of visitors coming for the greatest sporting event of the Roman world. In fact the jam along the Appian way was so great that it threatened to get completely beyond the control of the crack traffic squad of the Centurions.

New records for the course are expected to be set because of the added 20,000 sesterces in lap prizes donated through the liberality of the Roman Merchants' Association, among whom may be mentioned the J. Cesar Shock Softener Syndicate, the Horatius Bridge Destruction Company and the Anthony-Cleopatra Amusement Company.

—From the Latium Evening Luna.

And it is all the same now—1900 years later. The sesterces may be turned to dollars; the chariots have attained a new motive force and a speed never even dreamed of by the most visionary ancient; the scene has been shifted to another hemisphere, to a land unknown to th sport lovers of that day, but the competition of nation against nation, of individual against individual, remains the same. The old human interest is still there, and the same love of a super-contest that filled the Coliseum of ancient Rome to overflowing for the chariot races, is bringing thousands upon thousands of persons from all over the United States to Indianapolis to see the start of the greatest automobile event in the world at the speedway at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

About twenty-four cars will take their places at the starting line, fourteen machines having qualified Wednesday and Friday and the remaining cars lining up at the start for the four laps necessary, starting at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Of the four machines that made the required speed Friday, Tommy Milton, holder of the world's straightaway records, made the best time of the day in his Duesenberg, with an average of more than ninety miles an hour. Eddie O'Donnel in a Duesenberg, Willie Haupt in a Meteor, and John Boling in a Richards Special, also qualified. Goux, Boillot and Wilcox, of the Peugeot team; Rene Thomas, of the Ballot; Mulford, the two Gregoires, and Joe Thomas in a Monroe, Rooney in a ReVere, were yet to qualify when trials were continued this afternoon.

Though this year's field is not so large as in 1919, the class of the field is much higher. Nearly all the cars are brand new, and there is none of the "junk" that has littered up the track in some previous races. Although not much more than one-half the size of those used last year, these new motors are really faster, and with favorable weather conditions there is every probability that a new 500-mile track record will be established.

* * *

Summing up the performances of the various cars in practice, and in their time trials, the following facts have become apparent: Unquestionably the Ballot cars have speed. Ralph DePalma in his qualifying four laps averaged more than ninety-nine miles an hour, and it was plainly evident that the blond Ballot had plenty in reserve. His teammate, Chassagne, did 95½ miles an hour in his trial, and he played it safe all the way, cutting out his motor on every turn. Rene Thomas had his car, that was wrecked last Sunday when a tire let down on the first turn, back on the track Friday, and it took its qualifying rounds today with exceptional speed.

* * *

The Deusenbergs have stamina. Their engines kick out ferocity, and Deusenberg motors are famous for their ability to keep on going. Just how fast they are is a little uncertain, for they have never let their cars out to the limit, but have been content to ramble around at a rate not much above the ninety-mile mark. In a stiff brush with Art Klein's Monroe, yesterday, Tommy Milton showed that one Duesenberg at least has fine speed possibilities.

* * *

The Monroe-Frontenacs are the lightest cars on the track and should be light on tires. This factor is likely to be a decisive one should the race be a close one. That the cars have speed is proved by Joe Boyer's ninety-seven-mile-an-hour average when he qualified, while Louis Chevrolet's average was less than one mile lower. Nearly all the fleet qualified above the ninety-mile mark.

* * *

Aside from Ray Howard's original type Baby Peugeot, heaven only knows what the Peugeot can do, and to date the ouija boards have not been able to get a communication on the subject from above. They have been on the track very little, some days not at all, and there is a deep secrecy surrounding the Peugeot camp that has been impenetrable so far.

* * *

If any of the other cars win it will be a triumph for individual effort and courage, pure and unadulterated. This includes Ralph Mulford, Willie Haupt in his Meteor, Tom Rooney and his snappy cream white Revere, Porporato and Jack Scales with their untested Gregoires and the Richards Special, which, by the way, has one of the sweetest sounding motors on the track but seems to have a low gear ratio.

* * *

In the past no driver has ever won two races. This year's race will see four former winners, Jules Goux, Rene Thomas, Ralph DePalma and Howdy Wilcox. Goux and Wilcox are teaming together for the Peugeots, while Thomas and DePalma will drive Ballots. These men have a fine fighting chance to break through the old single victory tradition.

* * *

All in all its a great field of cars and a great bunch of drivers. Almost every driver has raced here before, and nearly every one is a man of reputation won in national and international contests.

* * *

Stearns 1920

IN all the history of mechanical arts, no other record is given of worth increasing as operation continues. Yet in the Stearns Sleeve Valve Motor, this attribute is universally acknowledged. The motor does develop more power. It gains in flexibility, smoothness and the silence for which Stearns is noted.

1920 models await your critical inspection. Demonstrations made at your convenience. Call or telephone.

Where Gasoline Prices Stand

OIL products have advanced in price more slowly than any other products. The U. S. Department of Labor, in a comparative statement of price advances between January 1913, and December 1919, says:

(In the following table 100 is taken as the normal base for 1913)

	Jan. 1913 From	Dec. 1919 To	Percentage of Increase
Cloths and clothing	100	335	235 %
House furnishings	100	303	203 %
Labor and building material	100	253	153 %
Farm produce	97	244	151.5%
Food	99	234	136.3%
Chemicals	101	179	77.2%
Fuel and lighting	103	181	75.7%
Metals and metal products	107	169	58 %

(Monthly Labor Review, Vol. X, No. 3)

On January 1, 1913, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) was paying $1.44 per barrel for crude delivered at the refinery at Whiting, Ind., and was selling gasoline for 14½c per gallon.

On December 31, 1919, the price of crude had advanced to $3.51 per barrel, f. o. b. Whiting, and the selling price of gasoline to 21c per gallon.

In other words this Company is paying two and one-half times as much for crude oil as it was in 1913, but because of its more efficient refining methods it is able to sell gasoline to you for less than one-half more than was charged at that time.

(Continuing the table:)

Crude Petroleum	100	240	140 %
Red Crown Gasoline	100	144.8	44.8%

It will be seen from the above tables that gasoline stands at the end of the list as regards price increase, and that crude petroleum stands sixth from the end, showing how effectually refining efficiency has operated in behalf of the motorist.

Every cost entering into the making of gasoline has risen immensely. The cost of crude, the cost of refining, and the cost of marketing are all greater than ever before.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) by superior efficiency in every process of refining and distributing has contributed in no small degree to hold the price of gasoline down to its present level. Every man in the manufacturing end of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is keenly alive to the pressing necessity for an increased output of gasoline at a minimum manufacturing cost.

The ideal toward which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is striving, is to put Red Crown, a gasoline of known, standard quality, within the reach of motorists everywhere in the Middle West, at a price so low as to make possible the free use of that 25 percent increase in automotive vehicles which is anticipated for 1920.

EXTENSIVE INCREASE IN MIGRATORY BIRDS SEEN

GOOD EFFECTS OF TREATY WITH CANADA ACCREDITED.

WATER AREAS ARE NEEDED

23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—A marked increase in migratory wild fowl throughout the United States, instead of the alarming decrease which led to steps for their protection, is noted in reports received by the biological survey, department of agriculture, from all parts of the country during the last few months. The change is attributed to the good effects of the migratory bird treaty.

Friends of migratory birds believe that the first important step for the perpetuation of the birds has been made, but that another one equally vital remains to be taken. This consists of the conservation and perpetuation of a sufficient number of small inland lakes, as well as inland and coastal swamps and marsh areas, to provide the birds places for feeding and rearing their young.

Proper Habitat Necessary.

It is absolutely necessary, they point out, that birds during migration and in winter have proper places in which to live. It is a mistaken idea, they say, that the drainage of almost any area is a benefit to the community. Under proper conditions, "water farming" of lakes and ponds and of swamp and marsh areas will yield a distinctly larger return than would the same area if drained and used for agriculture. They summarize the productiveness of such farms as follows:

Food game fishes.

Wild fowl to be shot for sport and food.

Furs from such fur bearers as the muskrats, skunks and raccoons which frequent their borders.

Underground Water Level.

A definite and invaluable help in maintaining the underground water level in various parts of the state, and in helping to hold back the run off of rainfall to prevent excessive erosion and other damage.

Opportunities for healthful and interesting recreation for the citizens of the state.

Where such water areas are included in state parks or reservations they lend themselves admirably to educational uses and help interest the people of the state in outdoor life and in the natural resources of the state in the form of plant and animal life, which are important elements in supplying useful commodities.

STUDENT KILLED IN CLASH

University of Wisconsin Youth Said to Have Been Shot by Policeman.

MADISON, Wis., May 29.—Carl E. Jandorf, of Grand Rapids, Mich., a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin, is dead here following a clash between students and a policeman.

Matthew Lynaugh, a policeman, killed Jandorf when students attempted to force the release of a freshman, arrested for stealing a barber pole, students said today. The barber pole was to be used in a bonfire for freshmen camp night. Jandorf led the students threatening to take the prisonet from Lynaugh, according to witnesses. Lynaugh declared today he warned the boy twice before firing.

Jandorf's father owns a string of delicatessen stores in Michigan and Ohio.

CALLS FOR BINDER TWINE.

Freight transportation and other difficulties have interferred seriously with the distribution of the product from the prison plant.

You pay less and get more

There is real quality in a Stewart, plus low first cost, plus low operating cost.

Quality is furnished through use of high-grade parts, in quantity production, at a low profit per truck.

A low operating cost is insured by perfect balance of weight and simplicity of design. Hundreds of useless parts and hundreds of useless pounds are eliminated. This means a lower consumption of oil, gasoline and tires; lower repair and replacement bills; less time in the dry dock.

And the Stewart is a real truck from the ground up; designed by truck engineers; built in a plant that does nothing but make trucks. Notice these Stewart features included in every one of the five models: Oilless bushings, doing away with 35 grease cups and the time filling them; heavy truck axles; cast tank radiator; front bumper; rebound spring plates; internal gear drive axle, delivering more than 92% of the engine power to the rear wheels.

MONROE

MADE IN INDIANAPOLIS

Keep Your Eye on the MONROE "Greenbacks"

In building four Monroe racing cars in our own factory for the 500-mile Sweepstakes on May 31st, we fully appreciated the keenest competition possible to encounter.

But we felt that Indianapolis should be represented with an Indianapolis made car and we had full confidence in the Monroe organization of over 500 men to build a good racing car.

In securing Louis Chevrolet, Gaston Chevrolet, Joe Thomas and Roscoe Sarles to pilot the four Monroe "Greenbacks," as the "railbirds" at the Speedway call them, we feel that we have the best driving talent obtainable.

The Monroe racing cars are the smallest and lightest cars entered in the Sweepstakes, and the qualifying by Louis Chevrolet at 96.3 miles an hour sustains our confidence in the cars, the drivers and the whole Monroe organization.

the Opening of Our Indianapolis Branch

On May 29th the Indianapolis branch store of the Archer Tire and Rubber Co., Inc., was opened at 322 N. Capitol avenue.

Knowing that Indianapolis is one of the recognized automobile centers of the United States, we decided to open a branch right in the very heart of the industry.

ARCHER HAND-BUILT TIRES

6,000-Mile Guarantee

have gained a wonderfully good reputation by their performance on the rough, rock roads of newly settled lands in the great Northwest. The work they will be called upon to do on the good streets and roads in the vicinity of Indianapolis will be child's play in comparison.

EXTRA THICK, TOUGH TREADS OVERSIZE EXTRA HEAVY SIDE WALLS

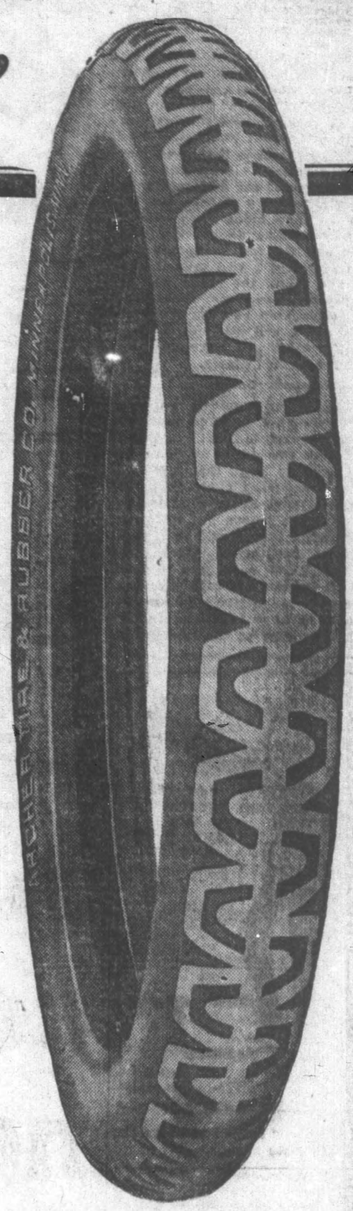
They are built to stand the strain of the most adverse conditions —they are GOOD where the going is BAD. Generously oversize. Their unusually heavy, tough treads and heavily reinforced sidewalls bid defiance to road wear and the "bites" of hard, encrusted ruts. Made just as good as tires CAN be made.



Arches Tubes

Made of many layers of pure, first grade rubber, with vulcanized splice. Absolutely leak-proof. Hold the air despite the concussions, caused by running on rough, rocky, rutty roads.

I'LL BE SATISFIED WITH SECOND PLACE

To the Editor:

They's only about a wk. before the big show opens out in old Chi and it looks to me like here was a good chance to slip my admires a last word in regards to my plans and specifications and etc. as I notice my rivals is waisting a lot of valuable white paper along the same lines.

Well friends, everything up to date has gone to my satisfaction and a lot of people thought it was a body blow to me when Sen. Lodge was named to make the key note speech, but between you and I, the Sen. and myself has never had a cross word or any other kind and wile I don't approve of a man wearing those whiskers why still and all I have got to congratulate the G. O. P. for nameing this old bird, as he is the only member of either party that can speak a sentence without winding it up with a preposition or a adverb. And as far as the key note is concerned, why if he gets off the pitch, I will be there with the old tuning fork and set him right.

Now recently one of my rivals for the office of the president's chair name Hiram Johnson come out and said he wouldn't take 2d place on the ticket or in other words run for vice president, and I want to make it clear to you boys and girls that I am not as much upstage as that and if I can't be nominated for the president's chair itself, why I will take the 2d. place or the show money, and wile I don't know nothing about vice, why still and all if I am nominated for the vice president I will take it and further and more, the man who is elected president over me would better watch his step because the first chance I get I will stick something in his coffee witch will make me president of the United States.

Dangerous Delegates.

Now friends, as I said a wk. ago the primarys is not going to play any part in this convention, but I do think after reading the names of some of the delegates at large that a whole lot of them shouldn't ought to be at large, and I don't know what is the matter with the police, but if I was running things they would be locked up in some institution where they would get good care and proper medical treatments and maybe by the time the next convention rolls around they would be fit to function. In the meanwhile as long as the convention is going to be held in the summer time, they shouldn't ought to be left run loose without a muzzle.

Several of my friends has recently asked me what would I do if I got in the white house. Well, in the first place I will tear out the partition in the south rm. and put in a roulette table and have the whole place redecorated and only raise the rent 50 per cent. Also they will be no excuse for the suffragists to picket outside of my picket fence as I intend to keep open house. But not Colonel House.

Now admires, they's only 2 candidates for this high office that knows anything about Chicago, myself and Gov. Lowden, and the latter hasn't opened his mouth to tell you where to go and where to not go. As far as his hospitality is concerned he might as well be President Wilson receiving the diplomats. In regards to myself I haven't been in old Chi since March but the boys tell me conditions is about the same as then and all as you half to do is call the house physician and he will give you a prescription provided you name what disease you got and you can send a bell hop out and get it filled anywheres for $3.50 a pt.

Music Is Appropriate.

The Coliseum where the convention is going to be held at is located on Wabash Ave. and 15 st. and the best way to get there is to walk and when you get there you show your badge to the policemans at the door but they can't read, so all as you half to do is knock them down and walk in and take any vacant seat and if it's like what it was in 1916, why the band will play appropriate music when you come in, like for inst. when W. J. Bryan entered the press box in 1916 they played rock of ages.

A great many of my friends has asked me how they will recognize me when I come into the convention hall. Well friends, I will be the most dignified bird in the press box and as I said last wk. I will probably be setting between W. J. Bryan and the highest paid short story writer in the world outside of myself and probably you have read lately about this story writer and their husband only meeting for breakfast twice per wk. but if I was married to a piano player he would be lucky if he seen me at breakfast 1 time a yr. let alone 2 times per wk., and in the second place if I was marrying for music I would marry a player piano instead of a piano player.

John Burroughs' Nature Notes

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Do birds appreciate sweet songs?
2. Are there flies which resemble the honey-bee?
3. Why do grazing sheep make horizontal paths?

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Do loons carry their eggs under their wings?

I have read that the Scotch fishermen will tell you that the loon carries its eggs under its wing till it hatches. One would say they are in a position to know; their occupations bring them often into the haunts of the loon; yet the notion is entirely erroneous. The loon builds a nest and incubates its eggs on the ground as surely as does the goose or duck.

2. Do squirrels play tag?

Animals have no rules or systems, and yet I have often seen two red squirrels engaged in what seemed precisely analogous to the boys' game of tag. Up and down and from tree to tree they would go, until one of them overtook the other, when it seemed to become its turn to flee and be pursued. But just how much method there is in such a game, it is impossible to determine.

3. How do bees spend the winter?

The queen bumblebee and the queen hornet, I think, seek out their winter quarters in holes in the ground in September, while the drones and the workers perish. The honey-bees do not hibernate; they must have food all winter; but our native wild bees are dormant during the cold months, and survive the winter only in the person of the queen mother. In the spring these queens set up housekeeping alone, and found new families.

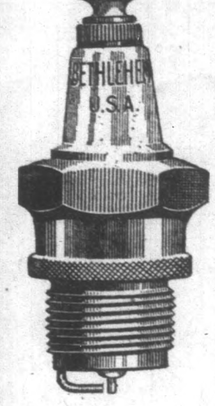
Spark Plugs and The Differential



THE shock of that misfiring spark plug is felt 'way back there in the differential.

Gears were never intended to run with a jerky motion. Chewed-up gears are expensive to replace. Cars and trucks were never intended to run with misfiring spark plugs.

Bethlehem Spark Plugs answer the problem of the "miss." They are sure-fire, and this is why: Improved engineering ideas reduce liability of fouling. Special-formula porcelain reduces leakage and current-loss to a minimum.

To help you get just the right spark plug, we have prepared a little booklet, "Hit or Miss?", which we will send free upon request.

SWARTZ-LIGHT

was seen by thousands of farmers on the Indiana Home Special on its recent tour of Indiana under the auspices of Purdue University, with equipment suggested for modern farm homes

Some of the placards used by Purdue University officials on this train favoring electric light and power for better farm homes.

Electricity runs the washing machine and turns the wringer. Does away with the drudgery of wash day. Saves clothes by doing away with unnecessary rubbing. Electricity heats the iron, relieves the drudgery of ironing and saves steps and unnecessary labor.

Electricity is the modern universal servant. It benefits every member of the family every day in the year. There is no other piece of farm machinery that will do so much for the entire family, as the electric light plant.

Electricity operates the water system and the vacuum cleaner. It removes the dust instead of moving it around in the room with a broom. It relieves the daily drudgery of sweeping.

The Swartz-Light Unit Plant used on the Indiana Home Special ran every day for the 31 days of the trip throughout Indiana. Never once was it necessary to adjust Swartz-Light. It delivered the same full load as the other hundreds of Swartz-Light plants are delivering daily throughout the country.

Swartz-Light will give you this service.

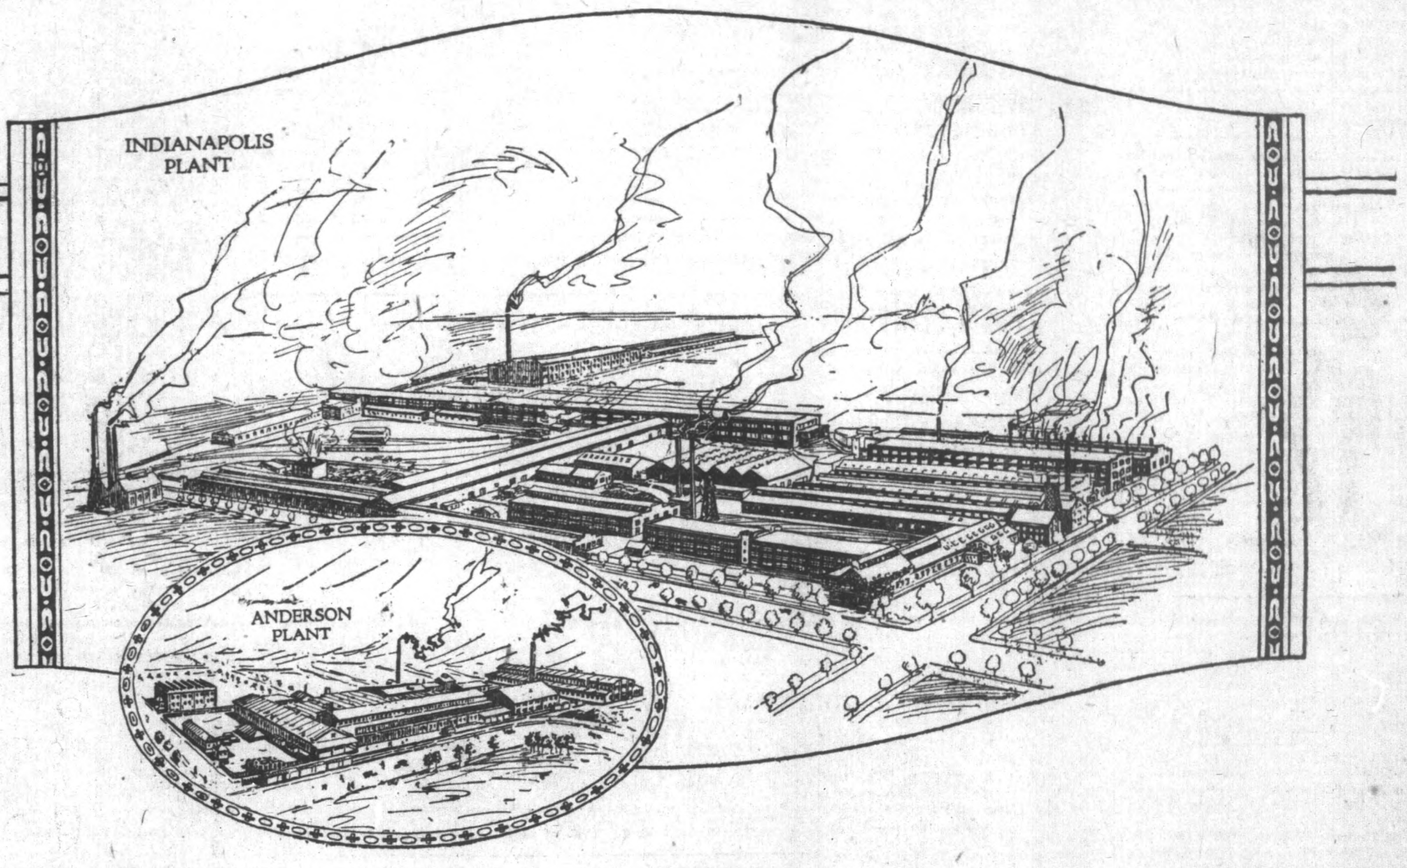
(No. 1 of a series of informative advertisements relative to the Midwest Engine Company)



This Company Produces Basic Necessities—Only

CONCURRENT with its national advertising, the management of the Midwest Engine Company has come to the conclusion that the people of Indiana should be told certain things about our broad policies, what we stand for, the position we occupy in the industrial field, and what we are successfully accomplishing.

We do not underestimate the importance of having the people of our own home State fully informed about us. Our national advertising is causing friends and passing acquaintances of Indiana people to ask repeatedly—"What do you know about the Midwest Engine Company?" To date we have not put the people of Indiana in position to intelligently answer this question.

We propose now, by a series of frank statements, to make up for this oversight.

The first and most important fact that we want you to realize is that the Midwest Engine Company is one of the largest and most successful institutions of its kind in the world. You can count on the fingers of your two hands all other manufacturing institutions in the so-called power field, measuring up, in production capacity, with the Midwest Engine Company.

We also want you to know that the products of the Midwest Engine Company are world known: (1) for the correctness of their engineering; (2) for their fineness of quality and, (3) for the service they are rendering in the hands of the user.

The soundness of Midwest engineering and the high quality of Midwest products are universally recognized.

There are many other facts about the Midwest Engine Company which every citizen of Indiana should know. At this time, however, we will mention but one more, namely, the strength, successful accomplishments, and unusual caliber of the Midwest organization.

Overlooking the management, which is composed of experienced, capable specialists, each in his own particular line, no factory organization possesses a higher order of mentality throughout than does the Midwest Engine Company's workmen personnel. The performance records of Midwest products conclusively support this statement.

In your travels about the country, when any one asks you about the Midwest Engine Company, purely in a spirit of cooperation with the industries of your home State, tell him: (1) that the Midwest Engine Company is one of the largest producers of motive power in the world; (2) that its products are recognized for their engineering correctness, and quality of service, and, (3) that the Midwest organization has developed to a point where its work ranks with the finest produced.

We feel that these facts, along with other facts we will present within the next few days, should be thoroughly known by every loyal supporter of Indiana Industries before the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World meet in Indianapolis on June 6th.

We would welcome similar information about other important Indiana institutions so that we, through our contact with people, and through our publicity efforts, may reciprocate in kind.

VINCENNES MAN LOSES CITIZENSHIP PRIVILEGES

COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBER

The citizenship certificate of Joseph Burchardt, of Vincennes, former secretary-treasurer of German local No. 25, of the Communist party, was canceled by Judge A. B. Anderson in the federal court Friday afternoon. The petition to have the certificate canceled was made by Frederick VanNuys, United States district attorney, on the ground that Burchardt was a member of the Communist party. It is said the department of justice has been particularly interested in the case, because it was the first in which the right ineligibility to citizenship papers was based on membership in the Communist party.

The defendant pleaded ignorance in regard to nearly every question put to him. When the hearing began his counsel told the court that in his belief Burchardt was a loyal citizen, but that he had been drawn 'nto the Communist party through ignorance.

Testimony by J. M. Martin, chief of the Vincennes police department, and a number of other witnesses for the government indicated that Burchardt had spoken in favor of using force to overthrow the government, and that he spent much of his time obtaining new members for the Communist party. Several of the witnesses said that they had been approached by Burchardt in regard to "A new party that has grown out of the Socialist party."

Arrested in January.

Burchardt was arrested in January during the department of justice round-up of alleged radicals. He was released on showing that he was a citizen. Evidence of his radical activities was obtained chiefly through the work of J. V. Bell and James O. Peyronnin, special agents of the department of justice. They testified as to the defendant's official connections with the headquarters of the Communist party.

A Souvenir Centennial Book

In order to insure the success of the Indianapolis centennial celebration it is desirable that appropriate invitations to attend it be issued by the people of Indianapolis to their friends outside the city.

For this purpose a souvenir history of the city has been prepared under the supervision of the historical committee of the centennial celebration committee, giving a condensed history of the city and illustrated by more than sixty half-tone views of the past and present, together with the lists of committees and program of the celebration.

This is to be distributed by Indianapolis News carriers.

In addition to its use as an invitation, citizens of Indianapolis will find this souvenir to be a compendium of information concerning Indianapolis, past and present. It is something that everybody will find valuable for information on all pertinent subjects during the centennial.

Give your Indianapolis News carrier an order for as many copies as you can use. The price is only 20c a copy in envelopes ready for mailing. This merely pays for costs of publication and the carriers' services. There is no profit to The News, which lends its organization to the committee to insure distribution and afford opportunity for all to obtain this book.

APPROVES WORLD POLICE FORCE UNDER THE LEAGUE

International Law Association, at Portsmouth, England Favors Society Studying Project.

PORTSMOUTH, England, May 29.—Resolutions declaring that the International Law Association, in session here, believes the league of nations should examine the project of an international police to which each country should contribute its quota, were passed at today's session.

Major David Davies, member of parliament, suggested in an address that newest weapons of war—poison gas, war planes, heavy artillery and tanks—be ceded to the league of nations to form the nucleus of such a force and that no state be permitted to make use of such inventions for warlike purposes.

A report by the British maritime law committee advocating various changes in international law, especially regarding submarines, mines and the detention of vessels, was discussed. No action was taken, but the subject will be laid before an enlarged committee, including representatives of several nations, in order that they may have an opportunity to consider the points raised.

ORDERS FAVORABLE REPORT

Senate Committee Acts on Poindexter Anti-Strike Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Favorable report was ordered Friday by the senate interstate commerce committee on the Poindexter bill, designed to prevent interruption of transportation by strikes of railroad employes.

The committee amended the measure by attaching provisions similar to the anti-strike clauses eliminated from the railroad reorganization bill after labor leaders had made strong protests. Action on the Poindexter bill is not expected until the congress reconvenes after the national convention.

The bill as reported would make a felony of any proved intent to obstruct or prevent the movement of commodities in interstate commerce by persuading persons to quit work or by destroying property and would provide for the punishment of persons who through violence or threats prevent employes from continuing work. The anti-strike provision of the railroad bill as added to the Poindexter measure would prohibit two or more persons from conspiring to bring about a strike that would tie up interstate commerce.

D. G. REID SUES EX-WIFE.

Seeks Personal Effects From Woman Who Divorced Him.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Daniel G. Reid, capitalist, has filed an answer in the supreme court to the suit of Mrs. Margaret C. Reid, who divorced him, to recover possession of personal effects and furnishings in the Reid home, 907 Fifth avenue, and in an apartment in Paris. He denies that Mrs. Reid owns the articles sued for.

Mr. Reid says that his attorney, Morgan J. O'Brien, and Edmund L. Mooney, representing Mrs. Reid, have had many conferences in an effort to reach an agreement as to the ownership of the property in question and that they have failed to agree. Mrs. O'Brien suggested that they choose a referee to decide the question, but Mr. Mooney refused to consent, Mr. Reid declares.

WILSON O. K.'S VIRGINIA DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

LETTER TO SENATOR GLASS

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The platform adopted by Virginia Democrats last week was indorsed Friday by President Wilson as "in full accord with my own views; especially the statement which sets forth the attitude of the party on the league of nations and the pressing problems of peace, finance and reconstruction."

The Virginia platform, drafted by Senator Glass, of that state, praised the President for "steadfastly standing for the covenant" agreed to at Versailles and condemned the Republican reservations as destructive of the purposes of the league.

Views in Full Accord.

The letter said:

"Thank you for sending me the copy of the platform recently adopted by the Democrats of Virginia. Aside from the purely personal references, which I, of course, deeply appreciate, let me say to you, my dear senator, that the sentiments expressed in this notable document are in full accord with my views, especially the statements which set forth the attitude of the party on the league of nations and the pressing problems of peace, finance, and reconstruction. These are the clear-cut principles of patriotic men who know how to serve their country and mankind.

"Surely this platform recites a record of achievement in which all Americans have a just cause for pride and congratulation."

League Plank in Platform.

The league of nations plank in the Virginia platform favors the league of nations as the surest if not the only practicable means, of maintaining the peace of the world and terminating the burden of great military and naval establishments."

"We advocate prompt ratification of the treaty without reservations which would impair its essential integrity," the platform set out.

The Knox peace resolution, vetoed by the President Thursday, also was condemned in the platform. In the field of finance the federal reserve system was commended and the Republican congress was condemned for failure to revise wartime tax laws.

PARIS, May 29.—Premier Millerand obtained for his government yesterday the largest vote of confidence it has received since its formation. This was 535 to 68, the unified Socialists alone voting solidly against the government. The question was Premier Millerand's interpretation of France's foreign policy, and the chamber gave the premier a mandate to go to the approaching conference at Spa between the allies and the Germans and demand application in full of the terms of the Versailles treaty and to accept no compromise on the question of a fixed sum of the indemnity to be paid by Germany.

Speaking in the chamber, M. Millerand said there had been no agreement by Great Britain, Italy and France with regard to any fixed sum to be paid by Germany. He added that it would be iniquitous were those responsible for the war not to be compelled to pay the total liabilities for the damages caused.

WEEK'S NEWS OF PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Next Week in the Local Playhouses

THE FOURTH summer season of the Stuart Walker company at the Murat opens Monday night with a new comedy, "Two Kisses," by Harry James Smith, author of "A Tailor-Made Man" and "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh." Chelsea, that once flourishing residence district of lower New York, is the scene of the play. The time is in the early seventies. A Miss Throgmore is the heroine of this tale of a quaint and now unknown New York. She is engaged in supporting herself and her improvident father, once an actor, by renting the rooms in her home, and by the ladylike occupation of giving elocution lessons. Her placid life is disturbed by a former pupil, Luella, who engaged a parlor where she may receive her young man. Alfred proves to be an old sweetheart of poor Imogen. The busy elocution teacher has learned several things since last she saw Alfred, and she sets about winning him back. First she proves to Alfred that Luella is a fickle person by engaging a certain Rupert Hawkins to make love to her. The hight of the complications is reached when Rupert falls in love with Imogen and Imogen solves the problem by the judicious application of two kisses. Blanche Yurka will appear in the principal role, others in the cast including Elizabeth Patterson, Aldrich Bowker, McKay Morris, Lael Davis, Judith Lowry and John Wray.

B. F. Keith's.

Charles Mack, known for his Irish character portrayals, will be seen at Keith's next week in an Irish comedy playet, "A Friendly Call," which includes songs and comedy. Marshall Montgomery, assisted by Edna Courtney, returns in a display of ventriloquism. Dixon, Bowers and Dixon, "Three Country Bumpkins," will be seen in a tube comedy. Morton Harvey and Dena Caryl will present a diversion with music. Coral Melnotte, formerly of the Melnotte Twins, and Edna Leedom, seen locally in the past in the act of Edmonds and Leedom, have joined hands in a display of music and dances. Art Browning offers a novelty as the first feature of the bill. Kinogram news weekly and topics of the day continue through the summer season. A daily matinee and two evening performances will be given.

Lyric.

The bill at the Lyric next week will have a girl and music act, "Look Pleasant," as the featured attraction. Produced by Will J. Harris, it has as its principals Eddie Karr, Ollie Carew and Virginia Rucker. There is also a chorus. Impressions of various movie stars and famous stage favorites are included. Brindamour, with his company of assistants, will introduce a number of illusions and difficult feats of escape. Mlle. Verobello and company, in a singing act, introduce selections from grand opera. Others are Blanche and Jimmy Creighton, in "Mudtown Vaudeville," an elaboration upon their former "Mudtown Minstrels"; Marie Sweeney, an aerial acrobat who is an expert on the Roman rings and the flying trapeze; the Pauline Saxon duo of character impersonators, singers and dancers; Dave Manley, monologist, and a Christy film farce, "Petticoats and Pants." No change is contemplated in the Lyric's policy during the summer months.

PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK

Notes and Comment on a Number of Things of Interest in the World of the Stage

[By W. F. McDermott]

INDIANAPOLIS takes on in theatrical importance with the opening of the Stuart Walker season at the Murat Monday evening. As in preceding summers a number of new plays destined for Broadway and by writers of the first rank will have their introductory presentation here. Other plays of more than passing importance will be given in addition to pieces typical of the season-by-season commercial successes and intended to be effective in roundly entertaining the greatest number. The plays will be staged, Mr. Walker gives assurance, with the care and completeness that has characterized his summer productions of the past. Frank Zimmerer's connection with the company at his old post of scenic director gives promise of interesting and eye-pleasing settings.

Some faces familiar during previous summers will be missed from the organization, but many of those responsible in great part for the popularity of the company are back for the present engagement. Much may be expected from Blanche Yurka, an actress of high and recognized talent, who will have important parts in the season's opening bills. John Wray, not so well known, is also spoken of as a competent actor. Before the season passes George Gaul, now playing in "The Ouija Board," incidentally reported not so bad as it sounds, and Margaret Mower, appearing in the Chicago cast of "Welcome Stranger," are likely to get to Indianapolis for a visit as members of Mr. Walker's company. Meanwhile, there will be Aldrich Bowker, Elizabeth Patterson, Judith Lowry, McKay Morris and Lael Davis, all pleasantly remembered as Mr. Walker's associates in summers spent.

It develops that the courageous Tom Barry, author of the biographical "Oscar Wilde," which A. H. Woods will shortly produce, has included in his cast of characters Bernard Shaw, James McNeil Whistler, Lord Alfred Douglas, Marquis of Queensbury and Algernon Charles Swinburne. Such faith in actors moves the heart. Consider the dilemma of Al Woods looking about for a player to fill the shoes of Bernard Shaw. Bert Levy, the only living actor who possesses a properly realistic hirsute contour, is a vaudevillian and obviously will not do. No other, suited by nature or temperament for the job, comes to mind. Finding a player for the Lincoln role in Drinkwater's play will be a soft labor in comparison. Nor will Whistler, Lord Douglas, or Swinburne be absurdly easy to cast. However, the job for the actor will be no heftier than that for the dramatist.

The widely discussed proposal by New York managers to set the price of next year's theater tickets at $5 each seems to have gone the way of other untenable ideas. Several managers have taken the opportunity to say that under no circumstances would they do such a thing to the public. Ticket prices undoubtedly will go up a notch next fall, but not so much of a notch. The year just closing has been one of the most successful from a financial standpoint in the history of the American theater. Receipt records of every sort were broken again and again. At present prices, when the theaters can be filled, money is still made very rapidly in the play business—or lost, as every manager knows.

Continuing to mix money and art, the tour of Sothern and Marlowe, lately brought to a close, was the most prosperous of any Shakespearean tour in the record of the native theater. The gross receipts, according to Mr. Sothern's business manager, reached in thirty-three weeks the total of $675,000. Washington, D. C., gave the Shakespearean drama its most substantial ovation with a total for one week—Holy week, at that—of $27,287, much less than an average week for "The Follies," but unprecedented for Shakespeare. For a single performance in Pittsburg $4,483 was taken in at the gate. Unfortunately, Indianapolis can not take proportional credit for this emphatic demonstration that Shakespeare lives. The week here was one of the poorest of the entire tour in the matter of attendance.

The Sotherns are booked to sail for England today. They will spend the next eighteen months in Warwickshire, resting after their long tour. In October, 1921, they will return to America to present probably three or four other classic plays in addition to the three of their present repertory, "Twelfth Night," "Hamlet" and "The Taming of the Shrew." The new style of stage decoration employed in their productions has been considered successful enough to be continued on their return to the stage. Ray Henderson, the Sotherns' business representative, and possibly America's most efficient press agent, will accompany the players to Europe.

The hungry college professor comes in for consideration in "$1,200 A Year," a new comedy by Edna Ferber and Newman Levy. The title refers to the pedagogic income, and the story concerns the complications induced by the professor's leaving his books for an overall job in the mills.

The Fanchon and Marco Revue, which, according to the Marco curtain speeches at each performance, was headed directly for Broadway, has got farther than that. It has just been reported as arriving in San Francisco.

Lew Fields's production of "The Poor Little Ritz Girl" will have but two men principals, not including Fields himself. Six feminine roles are expected to make generous amends.

"Sweetheart Shop," a new musical piece disclosed during the last weeks of the season at English's, has struck it rich in Chicago, where it has become, in a few short weeks, the reigning hit of the town, and, if the receipts are accurately reported, of the nation.

PRE-CONVENTION DAYS' GOSSIP

[From a Staff Correspondent]

CHICAGO, May 29.—George Porter, banker, of this city and president of the Young Men's Lowden League, came near having another first name, according to a story which is not altogether new but is being told anew about the hotel lobbies where politicians gather. George Porter's father was H. H. Porter, a Chicago financier and a close friend of George M. Pullman, whose daughters, by the way, became the wife of Frank O. Lowden, now Governor of Illinois. H. H. Porter thought the world and all of George M. Pullman, and when the son, who is now president of the Young Men's Lowden League, was born, Father Porter wished to name him Pullman by way of compliment to his old friend. But mothers are usually quicker witted than fathers. Thus it came about that the name of the president of the Young Men's Lowden League is George instead of Pullman Porter.

Water, water everywhere in sight in Lake Michigan as the national convention forces gather at the hotels on Michigan boulevard, but not a drop to drink in these expectant pre-convention days unless you have a friend, or a friend that knows a friend who knows where a nip is to be had. It will be the first "dry" national convention. It won't be bone dry, however, for now and then one gets a whiff of the old days in a tell-tale breath, and here and there one sees a stagger. Lots of fellows came to Chicago expecting to "connect up" with a little something—white mule, if nothing better—but they are having to hunt around a good deal to find it. In their hunting they ask in low voice many a time: "Can you lead me to a place where it is?" The disappointment spreading over their faces when they fail to get the desired answer would be regarded by some folks as pathetic.

Of the 984 delegates to the Republican national convention, which meets here June 8, twenty-six will be women. Of the 984 alternate delegates, 129 will be women. These figures are compiled from lists of delegates reported to the Republican national committee. Indiana did not choose a woman delegate, though several women alternates were chosen. The plan for the state convention to select at least one woman, a delegate-at-large, was supressed by a move of the old guard. Congressman Will R. Wood, of the Tenth district, was recognized by pre-arrangement, when the time came for nominating Indiana's delegates-at-large, and he moved that New, Watson, Goodrich and Beveridge be declared elected. The motion was put and carried in short order. The congressional districts were never called for nominations. In some states a report is out that women will not be seated as delegates. Telegrams of inquiry are coming in. It appears that there is no good ground for such reports.

MAJOR G. O. P. CONTEST RULINGS TO SETTLE ALL

122 CONVENTION SEATS ARE INVOLVED.

HEARINGS TO OPEN MONDAY

[By the Associated Press]

CHICAGO, May 29.—Decisions in four of the contests among delegations to the Republican national convention probably will settle all of the disputes, which involve 122 seats, members of the national committee said today. Precedents in four major rulings will govern the points raised in the other cases, it was said.

Clarence B. Miller, secretary of the Republican national committee, arrived yesterday with the briefs filed in Washington in the 122 contests. The national committee will begin consideration of them next Monday and four days, it is estimated, will be required to dispose of all of them.

Aside from the contests in the Tenth Minnesota (Minneapolis), and the Fourth and Fifth Missouri districts, the contests are from southern states, with close fights indicated in the Georgia and Mississippi district disputes.

Calendar of Contests.

Alabama—Fourth district, one delegate.

Florida—At large, four; First, Second, Third and Fourth districts, one delegate each.

Georgia—At large, four; First to Eighth districts, inclusive, and Tenth district, one each; Ninth district, two.

Minnesota—Tenth district, two.

Missouri—Fourth and Fifth districts, two each.

North Carolina—At large, four; First, Second, Third, Sixth, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth districts, one each; Fourth, Fifth and Seventh districts, two each.

Oklahoma—Second, Fourth and Fifth districts, two each.

Tennessee—Sixth and Tenth districts, one each.

Oversize Delegations.

Another sort of contest to be handled either by the national committee or the state delegations involved is the elimination of fifty-six excess delegates from ten states where more than the allotted number of delegates were chosen.

In those ten state delegations 117 delegates were certified to the convention with only sixty-one available seats. The states that have elected too many delegates, according to Secretary Miller's records, are the following:

Arkansas, eleven delegates for six seats; Illinois, ten delegates-at-large for six seats; Iowa, twelve delegates for six seats; Mississippi, eight delegates for six seats; Missouri, eight delegates for four seats; Nevada, twelve delegates for six seats; Tennessee, ten delegates for five seats; Oklahoma, eight delegates for four seats; Texas, thirty-four delegates for seventeen seats; Virginia, three delegates for one seat.

OFFERED BY TEXAN.

House Resolution Would Repeal All Wartime Legislation.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Repeal of all wartime legislation was proposed Friday in a joint resolution introduced by Representative Connally (Dem., Texas). The repeal would be effective on final passage of the resolution.

Soon after Representative Ackerman (Rep., N. J.) presented a similar resolution. Neither resolution is expected to be called up before the summer recess or adjournment. The Connally resolution calls for repeal of "all acts and resolutions passed since April 6, 1917, and which by their terms are to be effective only during and for a specified period, after such war or such present or existing emergency."

GOOD-SIZED FIELD NOW ASSURED TO DEMOCRATS

ADMINISTRATION LIKELY TO CONTROL THE CONVENTION.

WILSON AND THE PLATFORM

The Indianapolis News Bureau, 33 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Awhile back it looked as if there might not be any considerable number of candidates for the Democratic nomination for President, but now there is a fair prospect of a good sized field. It seems reasonably certain that the following men will formally be placed in nomination: William G. McAdoo, New York; James M. Cox, Governor of Ohio; A. Mitchell Palmer, Pennsylvania, attorney-general of the United States; Robert L. Owen, senator from Oklahoma; Edward L. Edwards, Governor of New Jersey; Gilbert M. Hitchcock, senator, Nebraska; Hoke Smith, senator, Georgia, and John W. Davis, West Virginia, ambassador from the United States to Great Britain.

Some persons would add Thomas R. Marshall, Vice-President of the United States, to this list, but the Vice-President continues to insist that his name will not go before the convention in a formal way with his consent.

Bryan Silent as to Course.

Other persons would add the name of William Jennings Bryan, but Mr. Bryan has not yet indicated that he will enter the convention as a formal candidate though it is generally understood that he is not without hope.

The convention will be made up very largely of uninstructed delegates. Early in the year the federal administration let it be known that it hoped the policy of sending uninstructed delegates would be observed and the request has been very generally respected. Under a long-standing Democratic convention rule it will require the votes of two-thirds of the delegates to nominate. There is considerable agitation in favor of revoking this rule, but the same agitation has taken place prior to the meeting of every Democratic national convention for many years and has always failed to produce results. So the prevailing view is that the two-thirds rule will stand for the coming convention.

When it comes to prophesying as to the probable nominee of the convention difficulties are encountered. It is generally assumed that the administration will be in control of the convention.

Concerned About Platform.

It has been said by persons who ought to know what they are talking about that President Wilson is more concerned in the platform utterances of the convention than in the condidate, but it is a safe guess that he is interested in both platform and candidate. The political party in control in the executive department always has at its command a large and influential following of federal office holders, and this following is apt to enable the administration, if it so desires, to control a nominating convention.

While not an unusual number of office-holders have been chosen as delegates to the San Francisco convention, it will in all probability turn out that the keen politicians among the federal office-holders will be on the ground and in charge of the important developments. Many Democrats and also a considerable number of Republicans will be glad to have information as to the probable wishes of the President with respect to the candidate.

Some time ago it was assumed that Attorney-General Palmer was the favorite of the administration, but there are representatives of the party who question this. Likewise there are influential men in the party who doubt whether McAdoo is to be regarded as the candidate of the administration.

Talk of Davis as Favorite.

Recently there has been some inside talk to the effect that John W. Davis, ambassador to Great Britain, is President Wilson's favorite. This may or may not be the fact.

The only man included in the list of candidates who may be regarded as actually anti-administration is Hoke Smith, senator from Georgia. The senator is not in sympathy with the President's peace policy and, generally speaking, has been out of touch with the administration for the last three years. E. M. House, who formerly was the President's chief adviser on political matters, has let it be known that he is disposed to favor the nomination of Senator Hitchcock. The Tammany organization in New York city has caused Vice-President Marshall no little embarrassment by announcing that it favors his nomination.

Governor Edwards, of New Jersey, is the favorite of the persons and organizations that would set aside the prohibition amendment.

It is obvious that the Democrats will be guided a good deal by the outcome of the Republican convention. This will be true in all probability as to both candidate and platform.

Opinion Differences Apparent.

There are some matters on which there is difference of opinion among influential men in the Democratic party. There is not entire harmony over the treaty of peace and particularly over the league of nations covenant. If as predicted the administration controls the convention, the plank in the platform dealing with the treaty of peace will undoubtedly be written by President Wilson himself. There is small probability, it seems now, of the convention acceding to the demands of the "wets" for an attack on prohibition. But it is altogether likely that there will be much parleying over this matter before the platform is adopted.

2,000 CARRIERS IN PARTY

Circle Theater Manager Entertains The News Boys and Girls.

Assembling from all parts of the city and the county, 2,000 carriers of The Indianapolis News, boys and girls, today attended a theater party at the Circle as guests of S. Barret McCormick, manager, and their applause through the more than two hours of entertainment was ample evidence of their enjoyment.

Anita Stewart in "The Yellow Typhoon" held their interest as she enacted a role of twin sisters through a melodrama dealing with the secret service and submarine plots against America. A Mack Sennet comedy, "Let 'Er Go," was part of the program.

All the carriers and newsies of the city and suburban districts were invited, and through George Schmid, city circulation manager, tickets providing for admission were distributed.

ARMY FLYERS EXPECTED.

Six Planes May Come From Dayton for 500-Mile Race.

Major Jacob Rudolph, commanding officer of the aviation repair depot at the speedway, has made arrangements to entertain several army aviators who will come in airplanes to see the 500-mile automobile race Monday. As a forerunner of the visitors expected, a Martin bomber airplane, carrying twelve passengers, visited the speedway Friday, coming from McCook field, Dayton, O. Among the passengers were Eddie Rickenbacker, Colonel J. W. Bane, commanding officer at McCook field; Major Reed Chambers and Lieutenant Harris, pilot.

The speedway repair depot probably will put in a requisition for a big bomber to be used in recruiting campaigns, Major Rudolph said. The Martin bomber and five DeHaviland planes are expected to come here from Dayton for the races.

WITH THE STARS OF MOVIELAND

Robert Louis Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" has been translated to the screen with John Barrymore in the leading role and will be shown at English's next week. The story is too well known to give a synopsis here. Martha Mansfield is Mr. Barrymore's leading woman and others of repute are in his support.

Katherine MacDonald in the leading role of "Passion's Playground," translated into picture form "The Guests of Hercules,' a story by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, comes to the Circle next week. The gambling hall of Monte Carlo is reproduced in the picture. The story concerns Mary Grant, played by Miss MacDonald, who leaves a Scottish convent on receipt of her inheritance and goes to Monte Carlo. Mary's winnings mark the beginning of tragic and romantic experiences in her career. The fun will be provided by Mack Sennett's comedy, "Let Er Go," featuring Louise Fazenda, Bert Roach, Charlotte Mineau, Billy Armstrong, John Henry, Jr., and Teddy, the dog actor. Other features on the week's program include a musical number, the Pathe news weekly and an overture by the Circle Orchestra.

Two romances form the story of "The Dark Mirror," which will be shown at the Alhambra theater the first half of the week with Dorothy Dalton in the principal role. Priscilla Maine, a young society girl, is loved by Dr. Fosdick. In the Chinatown underworld lives Priscilla's counterpart, Nora O'Moore. She is known as Red Carnahan's girl, though a romantic Spaniard named Mario Gonzales is in love with her. There is a murder, Nora disappears, and Priscilla is mistaken for her and kidnapped. Exciting adventures follow which end to the satisfaction of all. A supporting cast includes Huntley Gordon, Walter Neeland, Jessie Arnold, Lucile Carney, Donald Macpherson and Bert Starkey. A Christy comedy and a Fox news weekly will be shown.

A special series of songs and instrumental selections by Tad Dolan's troupe of entertainers will be one of the outstanding features on the program at Smith's next week. "The Great Air Robbery," featuring Lieut. O. L. Locklear, a former army aviator, and Carter DeHaven's latest comedy, "Beating Cheaters," form the photoplay program. Lieutenant Locklear, as Larry Cassidy, guides his aerial craft on its speedy flight from coast to coast. A band of society thieves plan to hold up the flying mail in midair, and lay the guilt on Cassiday's pal. Two women are apprized of the scheme, and Cassiday starts in pursuit. He leaps from one plane to another, and finally breaks up the gang of sky pirates and wins the girl he loves. He is supported by Francella, Billington, Carmen Phillips, Ray Ripley and Allan Forrest.

Louis Joseph Vance's story, "The Bandbox," with Doris Kenyon as the featured player, will be the attraction at the Crystal the first of the week. The star appears in the role of Eleanor Searle, a young singer, caught in the net of a band of international crooks. In addition to this feature the Crystal's program includes a comedy and the current news weekly and a special musical program by the Crystal entertainers.

"Overland Red," a western story, starring Harry Carey, will be the feature attraction at the Regent all the week. The story opens with the star as Overland Red, a "knight of the road," who still retains the gentlemanly instincts of better days. He is enjoying life to the utmost with Collie, a boy he had befriended. A girl comes into their lives and becomes the center of two dreams of a rosy-tinted future. In addition to this feature, Snub Pollard is seen in one of his latest comedies, "All Dressed Up."

Elaine Hammerstein will be seen in "The Shadow of Rosalie Byrnes," all the week at the Colonial. Miss Hammerstein first appears in the role of Leontine Madderp, a vaudeville player. Later she apears in the role of Leona, a singer, and sister of Leontine. Miss Hammerstein is supported by a strong cast, including Alfred Hickman, Juliette Benson, Fannu Mogan, Edward Langford and George Cowle. In addition to this feature Snub Pollard is seen in one of his latest comedies, "Grab the Ghost," and a Prizma subject in natural colors, "The Ghost of John Barleycorn," also is shown. The American Harmonists and the Liberty quintet give a special musical program.

Bryant Washburn will be seen in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" at the Isis theater the first of next week. The picture was a feature for many years as a stage play. Wanda Hawley is the leading woman and Walter Hiers and Sylvia Ashton are in the cast. The Novelty Five, jazz singers and musicians, will offer a repertory of the latest hits. A Billy West farce will also be included on the bill.

"Silk Husbands and Calico Wives," starring House Peters, to be shown at the Ohio theater all next week, is based on Mote M. Katterjohn's popular novel of American life, a story dealing with both country and city. The story depicts vividly the struggles of two young people making their start in life, fresh from the country. They are full of the enthusiasm of youth and are thrilled in their call of the great city when the offer comes to go to New York. The program also includes "The Lost City," animal picture; the International News Weekly, and Literary Digest topics.

BIG BILL WILL SUPPORT LOWDEN IT IS ASSERTED

"COMPROMISE" SUSPECTED

[From a Staff Correspondent]

CHICAGO, May 29.—Mayor William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, is to be re-elected national committeeman of Illinois and the Chicago delegates to the national convention under his control are to cast their votes for Governor Frank O. Lowden for the nomination for President, say men who are supposed to be on the inside of Illinois politics at the present time. They further say that the contest at Springfield recently over the election of a chairman of the Republican state committee was really a "frame up" to make it appear that Governor Lowden was making no compromise with Mayor Thompson, against whom there is much feeling the country over because of his attitude on the war and because of his brand of politics.

At the Republican state committee meeting in Springfield Tuesday night, Congressman Frank L. Smith was re-elected chairman and Harry Ward, of the Thompson Chicago machine, was elected secretary. Smith is the manager of Lowden's interests at Washington.

Secret Understanding.

Lowden got the chairman in the reorganization, while Thompson got the secretary. This is cited as evidence of a secret understanding between Lowden and Thompson by which the Chicago delegates under the Thompson influence are to vote for Lowden in the national convention.

But a little contest was staged at the Springfield meeting to give the appearance of no compromise with Thompson on the part of Lowden, who enjoyed rather favorable comment in the press because at the Republican state convention Lowden's forces voted down a Thompson platform by 1,110 to 631. If the assertions of men supposed to be on the inside are true, the Lowden forces, after voting down Thompson's platform at the state convention, decided it would be the part of political wisdom and expediency to make terms with Thompson in order to get practically the solid delegation of Illinois for Lowden in the national convention. It is understood that Edgar Cook, one of the Chicago delegates, is determined to vote for Hiram Johnson. Cook is connected with Johnson headquarters here. But it is said that the other Chicago delegates are to support Lowden, at least while he seems to have a chance to win, although at the primary election Wood received more votes in several of the Chicago districts than Lowden. Under the Illinois law, the way the popular vote goes in a district is regarded as instructions to the delegates of the district.

To Be Kept Quiet.

If the assertion is true that the contest over the reorganization of the state committee this week was a "frame-up" to save Lowden from the odium of having entered into a deal with Thompson, then the matter is to be kept as quiet as possible, so that the deal will not be confirmed until the balloting begins in the national convention.

At the meeting of the state committee the Lowden forces moved to postpone election of a chairman and secretary of the state committee until after the state primaries, when candidates for state and local office will be nominated. The motion was voted down, 15 to 10. This looked like a Thompson victory. And then the state committee proceeded to elect Smith, one of Lowden's managers, chairman, and Ward, a Thompson man, secretary. This was all staged, according to assertions made here, to make the voters believe Lowden was not giving in to Thompson in any way. The remainder of the deal will be carried out, it is asserted, when the Illinois delegates to the national convention support Lowden for President and reelect Thompson national committeeman.

"Unnecessary Compromise."

The Chicago Tribune says Smith's re-election was brought about by an "unnecessary compromise," and it adds: "If the people down state are infatuated with Chicago Republican politics they will be glad Smith surrendered when he might have had the place by a clean fight or have lost it with more credit."

The understanding of "insiders" here is that the name Lowden could easily have been used instead of the name Smith in this criticism, for the compromise is believed to be just one part of the deal to throw the support at the national convention of nearly all the Illinois delegates to Lowden, although Lowden has been played up as the unrelenting opponent of Thompsonism.

WASHINGTON AND ILLINOIS STREETS IN MULE CAR DAYS

[By William Herschell, Staff Correspondent of The Indianapolis News]

THE APROACHING celebration of the centennial of Indianapolis, in the eyes of youth, looms as an event dealing with the remotely ancient. To men and women of middle years, Indianapolis is "not so old," and to those who have passed the threescore and ten mark—well, to them their beloved city seems but little older than they. And, in truth is, Indianapolis is a youthful city, for there are scores of men and women living within its bounds who well remember it as a struggling village.

One of the most interesting phases that has developed from the plans for the celebration is the number of books, newspapers, photographs and paintings that have been rounded up, all showing Indianapolis in the time of its youthful development. They are treasured mementoes of days gone by, and are viewed with keen interest by those who were not here when the scenes were a reality.

Historical documents have been rounded up that will prove invaluable in the years to come. The other day I. L. Frankem, born in Indianapolis when the town was fifteen years old, dropped into The News office with an old book under his arm. It was a directory that combined the towns of Indianapolis, Logansport and Lafayette. Published in 1869, it seemed, in the count of years today, to be a very old book. And yet it was printed when Indianapolis was forty-nine years of age. The book seemed almost amusing in its reflections on the history of "old Indianapolis."

Indianapolis has changed much in the fifty-one years since this volume was printed. It was compiled by M. V. B. Cowen, and printed by the firm of Cowen & Protzman, printers, at 16½ East Washington street. And while Mr. Frankem's old city directory was being perused a parcel post package arrived from Chicago. It was from Mary Hardesty, a relative of J. O. Hardesty, one time Indiana newspaper man. The inclosure was a collection of copies of the Gazette, the first newspaper printed in Indianapolis. The Gazette was founded in January, 1822, when the new capital was two years old. The founders were George Smith and Nathaniel Bolton, the latter the husband of Sarah T. Bolton, a woman whose poetry still lives to be treasured by Indiana.

Interesting Collection.

The bundle of Gazettes was an interesting collection. The pages were yellow with age, but they were an accurate reflection of life in the infant years of Indianapolis. The Gazette continued until 1829, when it was merged with the Indiana Democrat, a new publication founded by Alexander F. Morrison. The Gazette soon was forgotten in the maze of new journals that sprung up in the town, but these old files are of value historically.

Here is Indianapolis, in its one hundredth year, as unlike the town of the Gazette's day, as Indianapolis is unlike the Little Town o' Tailholt. On this page of The News is printed a picture, a reproduction of a sketch showing Washington street in 1825. It was in this wilderness that the Indianapolis Gazette had its beginning and one wonders where Smith & Bolton found patronage for their little journal. The picture, shown here once was used as a scenic effect on the curtain of the old Metropolitan theater in this city. The Park theater formerly was the Metropolitan.

Sliding Scale for Subscribers.

The Gazette was a folio 17x11 inches in size. It had a sliding scale for its subscribers. If the year's subscription was paid within two months the charge was $2.00. If delayed for six months the price was $2.50, and if the subscriber waited until the end of the year to pay, his bill was $3.00. The editors gladly took all forms of farm products on subscription, being particularly appreciative of furs and honey. Rags also were accepted as collateral for job printing or subscription.

The advertisements in Indianapolis' first newspaper were mere trifles when compared with the pages that meet the eye of the reader today. One advertisement proclaimed a new ferry at Washington street, the same to be operated by Collins & Ogle. They announced a large boat for the transporting of horses, wagons and cattle and a skiff for bearing over the waves the waiting foot passengers. "We are determined to pay strict attention to our duty and expect to share the public patronage," the enterprising ferrymen announced.

Calvin Fletcher, the town's first lawyer, announced that he would practice in the courts of Lawrence, Monroe, Morgan, Greene, Owen, Marion, Henry, Rush, Decatur, Bartholomew, Shelby and Jennings, county. In later years Mr. Fletcher formed a law partnership with J. A. Breckenridge and their advertisement, under the head of "Law For Sale," ran thus: "As attorneys and counselors at law, will perform any business in their profession, even that which comes under the denomination of pettifogging, if they are roundly paid for it, in any court in the Fifth judicial circuit. They are not desirous of having any professional calls, unless well compensated therefor, either in cash in hand or approved assurances. Their office is situate on Washington street a few paces west of Major Carter's tavern. They do not pledge themselves to those who employ them, to perform their business with correctness, diligence and punctuality, but, like most of the profession, they will do it as well as they know how."

Carter's Tavern.

Frank souls, those lawyers of early Indianapolis. And they could not be arrested for false advertising.

The Carter's Tavern spoken of in the advertisement was opposite the courthouse in Washington street. It was Major Carter who, when a theatrical performance was to be given in his tavern, insisted that there be prayer before the unholy fiddle was played.

The advertisement of Caleb Scudder, the first cabinet maker of Indianapolis, also appears in an early issue of the Gazette. His shop was on the Statehouse square and is depicted in the picture showing Indianapolis in 1825. An amusing feature of the sign on the cabinet shop is that the pioneer sign painter was a poor speller and spelled it "Kalop Skudder." Caleb Scudder was the grandfather of Cale S. Eaglesfield, the hardwood lumberman, of this city. Mr. Scudder's advertisement on the first page of the Gazette announced that he "would receive for cabinet work all good merchantable cherry, walnut and poplar plank, also corn and sugar, and will never refuse cash when offered." He also announced that cabinet work would be exchanged for a good work horse. Scudder's cabinet shop was the scene of several of the town's early theatrical performances.

The Gazette, both in advertisements and news, discloses Indianapolis as a city of permanent dwelling, for familiar names in the Gazette are familiar names here today. The descendants of these pioneers have clung to the old town with a sentiment that proves they came of good stock and are proud to abide in the city of their fathers.

Other pictures reproduced here are of interest to centennial celebrants, for they depict the changing scenes that have marked the progress of Indianapolis. The picture of Monument Circle, showing Christ and Plymouth churches, is historically interesting. It is not generally known that the north wall of the English hotel, adjoining Meridian street, is the old north wall of Plymouth church. The picture was one made for stereoscopes by Brigham, a photographer who lived here years ago. It was made at a time when there was a light fall of snow and the Circle shows it. One of the homes shown in the picture was that of Bishop Talbot, a well known divine of the city.

Familiar to many living today is the picture showing northeastern Indianapolis from the Courthouse tower. The old county jail is in the foreground. In this old jailyard several hangings that formed important chapters in the criminal history of the town took place. The old market place will be well remembered, too.

Many of the buildings that were in existence in mule-car days still are doing mercantile service in Washington street. To those who now are in the middle years of life the mule cars are well remembered, but they never dreamed, as they saw the plodding mules go by, that within their time they would see street cars operated by a mysterious current called electricity or that airships would fly above their heads and do all manner of queer maneuvers. Nor did they believe a vehicle would be built that, self-propelled, would go a hundred miles an hour. It seems only a little while since the mules were here—but look at the pace we're traveling now. Within the time of those with mule-car memories will come another innovation—that of an aerial union station from which will arrive and depart airships plying to all points in the country. For inventors now have practically completed devices whereby airplanes will be enabled to rise or land on any flat rooftop.

An interesting picture, too, is that showing Indianapolis west from the Monument. This photograph, made in the late nineties, shows the old Cyclorama in Market street, the Windsor hotel block and the Miller block, all of which have given way to more modern structures.

The wonder is what Indianapolis of fifty or a hundred years from now will say of Indianapolis pictures when the city celebrated its centennial. These are changing years.

THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD

"Of all the places in this world, where you see human nature without veneer," I began, and the Little Mother looked up with an air of exaggerated interest.

"Another one?" she teased. "I've heard about public eating places, when your victims didn't know they were among enemies."

"I've never said anything about enemies," I countered. "I've just said that I judged the table etiquette of some folk by the way they eat, when they don't know that any one's noticing them; you might say when they're not among friends, if you want to put it that way," I conceded.

"And I've heard about the vagaries of human nature as expressed in street car conversations," she continued.

"You never heard me say that you get the pure and unadulterated article, however, as far as nature and disposition are concerned," I argued, "for the very simple reason that most folk talk, unconsciously or not, for effect when they discuss private affairs on a street car." Then we both began to giggle over the "Girl With the Alligator," as we've always called the young woman who told a car full of people about the strange pet her "gentleman friend" sent her one day last winter. The young man in question "sure had swell taste," according to our informer, and the Little Mother and I, looking at the recipient of his many and varied gifts, agreed with her.

However, I had come home with a grievance, and was not to be deterred from airing it. "As I was saying a moment ago," I hopefully began, "a woman lays aside her mask when she goes shopping, and you see a glimpse of her real disposition, then, if ever."

"I've seen a number of them who seemed to be posing supremely," she murmured. "I think some women put on more airs then than at any other time."

"Putting on airs, my dear, is one of the simplest and easiest forms of the same unmasking," I retorted, "and if you could have heard some of the remarks I've listened to this afternoon you'd agree with me." Then I asked a question which had been puzzling me all afternoon. "Don't brides prepare linen chests any more?"

"From the way all the linen shops prosper, I should suppose that they do," she answered. "Are you afraid Doris isn't going to provide herself with such essentials?" She dimpled at the absurdity of her own question.

"No fear about that child doing anything of the sort—or failing to do it, rather," I retorted. "She has been tucking things away in that chest of hers ever since her high school days. And I'm not really fearful about the American girl falling down on her job; I suppose every normal, natural sort of girl does take pride in making things for a home, some day, but what discourages me is the utterly prosaic way in which some of these brides-to-be sit down and discuss the merits of filet versus Madeira embroidery, calmly make their choice between them, have the bill charged to their mothers' account, and stroll off to the matinee."

"How many June brides are thinking of matinees, just now?" she teased. "Can you imagine any girl thinking of anything of the sort at this season?"

"Oh, well, if it isn't matinees, it's parties," I grumbled, "and what I'm getting so fussy about is the way they pass by all the pleasures of preparing their own handiwork for their homes."

"Times have changed, Mother Machree," she began, teasingly.

"But human nature hasn't," I retorted, crossly. "The girl who does not have enough of the home-loving instinct to prepare her own linens will never be a home-making wife."

"Oh, menfolk don't care so much about all those attributes, nowadays," she contradicted. "I really think that human nature has changed a great deal, in the last few generations. Folk are too busy doing the bigger things to bother with trivialities like embroidered sheets and pillowcases. I've heard you say so, myself!" she finished triumphantly.

"Oh, I've outgrown all my earlier enthusiasm for such things," I answered, "but I'd be terribly disappointed in Doris, for instance, if she didn't swoop down on every embroidery design or crochet pattern that she sees. But the point I've been puzzling over is not that these brides will lack any dainty appointments for their homes, but that they let other folk make them for them. And I'm wondering what more important things they find to do, with the time they should be spending on such things."

"Well, I heard one of Rose's callers say the other day that she was a positive rag, and that she expected to live in Madame Blanke's shop half the time, between now and her own wedding; said that it would take weeks of massaging and manicuring and shampooing to restore her hair and hands and complexion, after this strenuous spring."

"Such things are terribly important, I suppose, especially to a bride," I conceded, "and, of course, she should want to look her best; but I can't get their point of view. Why do they want to do the things that make masseurs and beauty doctors necessary? I suppose those same girls would be terribly sorry for the bride of a few generations ago, to whom marriage meant garden making and babies and housework, but I've seen fairer roses blooming in the cheeks of those same hard-working women than any beauty expert could ever simulate."

"But they faded early," mused the Little Mother. "I can remember when a woman was middle-aged at thirty-five and old at fifty. You can't blame the woman of today for dreading that. I know what you think about the purely ornamental woman, but," she added with a smile, "I've also heard you remark that you enjoyed looking at them."

"Not any more than I enjoy the beauty of a kindly face on which time and suffering and self-sacrifice have left their seal. It must take a vast amount of conceit to carry some folks through life," I added dolefully. "I wonder what your purely ornamental creature does when her mirror announces indisputably that she is no longer ornamental and her conscience tells her that she is not the least bit useful?"

The Little Mother answered with a show of gravity: "She smothers her conscience, Mother Machree, and flies her to the nearest beauty parlor, to give the lie to her untactful mirror."

One of the cleverest women I ever knew made an unusual remark to me, not long ago, as we were wandering through the big woods in search of trilliums and that satisfying peace which weary folk can find in woodsy solitude. "My idea of a perfect day," she began, "is one in which I do a good day's work in the morning and another in the afternoon, if it has to be done, and then don my best frock and my most useless air and have a glorious time 'playing lady' in the evening." And I've noticed that if anything has to be marked off her day's program it's always one of the nonessentials. She goes to parties because people refuse to let her stay away, but she does the useful things because they're the very joy of living to her.

My poor little shoppers who annoyed me with their assumption of dignity and importance—the colorless little persons who calmly assumed that the best was not quite good enough for them, and that the world must stand still while they hesitated between handkerchief linen and Georgette for their lingerie—all these pass by, in a procession discouragingly long. And I see them, years from now, still seething with their own importance, and fuming over small disappointments, seekers after happiness, who have not learned the age-old truth that happiness, like love and success, comes only to the man or woman who is willing to pay for it with tears and toil.

Then I think of this woman, of my own daughter-to-be, and all the women like them—women who are human instead of merely feminine; who ask nothing of fate and the rest of us but the chance to do their share of the world's work, whether it be the stitches they put in their trousseaus or the other "bigger work," of which we hear so much, and the strength and courage with which to do it, and my tired old heart is comforted and my soul uplifted because of this later vision.

June is upon us—rich with its glimpses of promises fulfilled. Men and women are pledging themselves to lives that will surely be a bit richer and fuller than the years that have gone. After all—all's well with the world. MOTHER MACHREE.

ART SCHOOL AND OTHER EXHIBITS

[By Bessie Hendricks]

The exhibition of work by the pupils of the Herron Art School was opened to the public this afternoon with a serving of tea in the attractive clubroom of the school. The exhibition is a large and interesting showing in various mediums and directions by talented students from many parts of the state.

The life work in charcoal and color under William Forsyth, the work by "recommended" pupils from the three high schools, directed by Otto Stark; the pictures by Miss Olive Rush's pupils in imaginative composition; the sketches and pictures made in the classes of Miss Anna Hasselman, Miss Blanche Stillson and Miss Grace Margaret Kiess, and the many designs for industrial and commercial use done in the classes of Miss Edna Shiver and J. Earl Schrack are well worth the attention of picture lovers.

The school building, which adjoins that of the Art Institute museum, will be open Sunday afternoon, and it is expected that visitors to the museum will avail themselves of the opportunity to see what has been done in the school during the 1919-1920 school year.

Sunday Last Day of Block Prints.

Tomorrow ends the season of the block print exhibition at the Art Institute. The small east gallery has already been taken over in preparation for its part in the coming centennial celebration. When its doors are opened to museum visitors later, it will represent an old time Indiana kitchen, with furniture and utensils of the early days, the old safe-guarding gun and powder horn, and, of course, the big old open fireplace.

There will also be shown in the museum a collection of pictures representing the best of Indiana art, reaching as far back as possible into the centennial period, and an exhibition of old costumes and other objects of interest.

Among the block prints in the present interesting collection, the group by Harry Muir Kurtzworth shows two "Mood Nocturnal" prints in different colors from the same block. One suggests a bright evening with a moon somewhere outside the picture's boundaries; the other the duskiness of a moonless night. The artist shows a well rendered "characterization" in the simple tonality of block printing and other little pictures of quality.

Paul Honore, pupil of Brangwyn and Wicker, and a member of the Scarab Club and the Lofters, of New York, exhibits four prints of distinct individuality. "The Engraver" has the quaintness of an old wood engraving. His "Fruit Gatherer" is striking and forceful in its low-keyed color scheme.

Futuristic Prints.

Juliette T. Nichols's "Wind in the Boats," "Pear Tree," "Pulling in the Boats" and "Little Joe" are interesting futuristically. The artist has put action into some of them.

The group by W. S. Rice leads one from California to Italy. He has caught the moon rising beyond Monterey pines and eucalyptus groves and has put upon paper a bit of the Marina Grande at Capri. The Capri print has the richness of color of enamel.

"The House on the Hill," by Flora Schoenfeld, modernist, sets one guessing. The pointed gable of the little white house is like little white houses of Provincetown, Mass., but there is a resemblance to rabbits and chickens and eggs in the things growing that suggests an Easter motive. Miss Schoenfeld's work is interesting in all of her prints. She is a member of several Chicago artists' clubs and of the Society of Independent Artists.

The prints by Agnes Weinrich, "Along the Harbor," "Two Girls" and "The Church" are in color schemes like Bulgarian embroideries.

J. Scott Williams, whose pictures have won Salmagundi Club prizes, shows a pleasing "In September" print, and Walter J. Phillips is represented by an attractive group of block pictures.

Art Notes.

Designs for the ballet of gifts of the centennial pageant have been made by Edward Werner. The artistic designing and creating of old style bonnets for the pageant by Mrs. Fred Balz is an interesting feature of the work at the pageant costume headquarters, as is the basket of fruit made by Miss Bernice Sinclair, of St. Paul, Ind. Miss Sinclair's pears, plums, grapes, etc., are as realistic as the pictured fruit that deceived the birds of long ago. A group of members of the recently organized Handcraft Guild is dyeing costumes and curtains for centennial pageant use at the home of Mrs. Alfred Potts under the color direction of George Somnes, pageant master.

The Indiana Artists' Club spent a few hours with Theodore C. Steele and Mrs. Steele today in the Brown county home and studio.

Otto Scarab and Clifton A. Wheeler have proved the saying of Robert Louis Stevenson that "genius is the ability to be a boy again at will" in their recently completed series of panels of Mother Goose subjects for the children's department of the L. Strauss store. The rhymes are illustrated with a directness and charm that proves the artists' joy in doing them. The pictured familiar friends of everybody's childhood are as alive and real as they are in the rhymes to every real live child. Little Bo-Peep, Little Boy Blue, Simple Simon, Humpty Dumpty, Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary, Old Mother Goose herself and others show gayly around the walls, some hobnobbing informally. The paintings were made at night to insure the color effect in the artificial light of the room of their final placing.

HERRON ART INSTITUTE.

Admission—Saturday and Sunday, free; other days, 25 cents. School children and teachers, free every day.

Old-Time Melodrama.

An old-time melodrama, "The Evil Effects of the Demon Rum," produced for the first time in 1858, was revived by the Players, Friday evening, at the Odeon, under the new title, "It Can Never Happen Again." It was full of melodramatic thrills for the audience, with numerous brawls, murders and a deathbed scene and ended in a pious epilogue given by the characters of the prohibitionist and a reformed drunkard and his wife. The audience enjoyed the humor of it immensely. Dr. Charles McNaull gave a realistic interpretation of the drunkard who reformed at the deathbed of his daughter. Dr. Jewett Reed was equally good as Swichel, always ready for 'another drink,' and George Calvert as the bar keeper drew applause. Dr. Charles Myers as the villain and Stuart Dean as the youth led astray were amusing, and Romeny Willson was excellent as the "reformer." Minor parts were taken by Mrs. Walter Myers as the bar keeper's wife, and Albert Rabb as his son, Mrs. Jewett Reed, the angel daughter who died, and Mrs. F. R. Kautz, who made a hit as the weeping mother. Two incidental songs, "Father, O Father, Come Home With Me Now" and "A Wanderer's Song," were sung by Mrs. Myron Green and Montgomery Lewis. The usual dance followed the play. The committee for the evening included Mr. and Mrs. Myron Green and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Young.

JUDGE CARTER PLANS LAWYER INVESTIGATION

AGREES TO PROPOSED PLAN

Judge Solon J. Carter in superior court, Room 3, announced Friday afternoon that he would appoint a committee of members of the Indianapolis Bar Association or would take some similar step to investigate a charge made by Mrs. Faye Kasrich, of Gary, that Charles W. Rollinson, an attorney, had demanded $100 from her, telling her the money was to be used to pay Judge Carter for giving a decision in her behalf in a case in which she sought the custody of her child.

Rollinson was called into court to answer the charge. He denied that it was true.

"I know," said Judge Carter, "that there are attorneys at this bar who are making a living by just such practices, taking people who are ignorant of the law, and causing them to think that it is necessary to buy justice in the courts. I can not think of any crime worse for a lawyer than that. That sort of practice stirs up Bolshevism and radicalism. The action in this case has been started, and it must be seen through to the end.

Rollinson Agrees.

"I wish to give Mr. Rollinson every opportunity to clear himself of this charge, if he is innocent, and if he is guilty, I want to know it. There is a chance for a 'frameup,' I know, and I want to be sure if this is the case."

Following Judge Carter's statement, Rollinson said he agreed fully that an investigation should be made, and again insisted that there was no truth in the woman's story.

Ward's ORANGE-CRUSH and LEMON-CRUSH —cloudiness

Have you ever noticed the cloudy appearance of Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush while enjoying these rare-flavored drinks?

The reason for this cloudiness is also the reason for the unequaled deliciousness of Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush—for it is caused by the uniform distribution throughout the drinks of thousands of minute particles of the actual fruit oil pressed from freshly picked oranges and lemons.

The interesting process which has made this possible was perfected five years ago by N. C. Ward, and is exclusive with Orange-Crush Company. It marks one of the greatest steps forward ever taken in the preparation of soft drinks, for it brings to you, without preservatives, the pure, delightful flavors which have made oranges and lemons the favorite fruits in every home. The cloudiness is your guarantee of genuineness, flavor and quality.

The booklet, "The Story of Ward's Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush," gives full details regarding the making of these drinks. It shows how delicate flavors are obtained by combining the fruit oils with purest granulated sugar and citric acid—the natural acid of oranges and lemons.

Send for this free booklet today. You will better understand why Orange-Crush and Lemon-Crush enjoy the largest sale of any fruit-flavored drinks in the world.

The Sub Surrendered

"During the late great war there was a German submarine that had to come to the surface and surrender to the British simply on account of the condition of the crew; it appears that about half of them had died at sea and the remainder were in a state of collapse, with the exception of the officers, who were in good physical condition. Some of the crew were in such an exhausted condition that they were crumpled up like inert masses of flesh and had to be carried to hospitals. After receiving some milk they all recovered to a fair state of health within a few days. The good condition of the officers was due to the fact that they had had canned milk all the time, while the remainder of the crew had not had any."

Prof. P. M. Washburn
IC. Review, March, 1920.

Even as the men of the German sub were vanquished by the lack of the life-giving substances in mik—so many children are losing their chance to grow up into sturdy men and women by an insufficiency of milk in their daily diet.

Milk is the factor of safety in the diet. It is a protective food. It makes good the deficiencies in other foods one may eat. For children it is indispensable—for adults it is a necessity.

The vitamine content of milk encourages growth in the young, and gives increasing energy to those of riper years. Be on the safe side. Order a quart of milk for each one of your family. Let milk take the place of higher priced and less nutritious foods.

DR. KELLY EXPLAINS PRESBYTERIAN STAND

DRIVE IS GOING FORWARD

The Presbyterian assembly, which met at Philadelphia, did not sever its connection with the interchurch world movement, but instead indorsed the reorganization plan of the general committee of the movement, according to Dr. Robert L. Kelly, of New York, executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges, and of the council of the church boards of education, who is in Indianapolis in connection with interchurch reorganization plans in Indiana. Dr. Kelly is director of the American education survey department of the interchurch movement. He formerly was president of Earlham College, Richmond.

"In the first place," said Dr. Kelly, "let it be said that the Presbyterian general assembly did not sever connection with the interchurch world movement, as has been reported in some of the newspapers. The Presbyterians would be the last people on the planet to strike a body blow at any promising phase of church unity. At their session this year they unanimously approved a great merger between the Presbyterians of the north and south and invited many other denominations to join with them in this merger.

Program Approved.

"What the Presbyterian assembly did was to approve the program of the general committee of the interchurch world movement, which had already been adopted at New York, and which calls for a reorganization and the limiting of the scope of the movement. To this policy the Presbyterians appropriated outright $100,000, and in view of the fact that there are now thirty denominations in the movement, and others are coming in, that would seem about their proper share. Both the M. E. general conference and the Reformed church in the United States unanimously approved the movement in their sessions this week. During the week also the southern Presbyterians and the Methodist Protestants have voted their approval and full co-operation. On the whole, this week has been about the best week in the interchurch movement's history.

"As to the progress of the financial campaign, it may be stated that already there has been raised $175,000,000, which is the largest sum ever contributed at one time for religious purposes. Furthermore, these campaigns are going right on. Several of the denominations have almost completed their campaigns, while others have much work yet to do, and what is not accomplished in 1920 will be continued in 1921. The accomplishment of the financial drive to date is the most remarkable piece of work that has been carried on in this field since the united war work campaign. That campaign, it will be remembered, with the support of Catholics, Jews and Protestants, and strengthened by the war spirit, succeeded in raising $200,000,000. No campaign since that time has done anything like as well as the interchurch.

"As to the work of the survey department of the interchurch world movement, with which I have had the privilege of being connected, I may say that the action of the Presbyterians and the other denominations referred to above, was most heartening. The Presbyterians voted to conserve the work of the surveys and adopted not only the principle of co-operation but the principle of co-ordination. This is exactly what the American education department has already committed itself to. We have invited the Association of American Colleges, the Council of the Church Boards of Education, the national committee on standards and the various other educational associations to apoint commissions to assist in studying phases of the survey material and interpreting it with a view of putting on programs of education in the states.

"Our educational schedules were approved in advance by the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching and by the general education board, and Dr. Furst, secretary of the Carnegie Foundation, recently remarked to me that the educational survey had already justified itself by the rigid self-analysis it had required of all types of educational institutions in this country.

"The interchurch world movement always disclaimed any administrative functions and the whole program of educational administration will be carried on by the associations referred to above, including the boards of education of the various denominations.

"The correctness of the interchurch idea is generally admitted and undoubtedly great progress has been made in the last year in getting the idea into practical operation."

OPERA "IL TROVATORE" WILL CLOSE CITY'S MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON

FRANCESCA PERALTA.

The famous opera "Il Trovatore," to be presented by the Scotti Grand Opera Company at the Murat theater this evening, will close the most successful season of grand opera ever presented in Indianapolis.

The day's program also included a double matinee bill, opened by "L'Oracolo," the Chinese opera, with Antonio Scotti in the role of Chim-Fang, the opium den keeper. This opera was followed by the Donizetti masterpiece "Lucia di Lammermoor," with Evelyn Scotney, leading lyric soprano of the Metropolitan opera, in the title role. Orville Harrold sang the role Edgardo. The matinee performance was billed for 1:45, because of the length of the program.

In "Il Trovatore," which will close the season this evening, three Metropolitan opera house stars will sing the leading roles. Francesca Peralta will be heard as Leonora; Jeanne Gordon, controlto, as the gypsy, Azucena, and Morgan Kingston, the Welsh tenor, as Manrico.

Mr. Kingston has sung in many leading operas, including "Tosca," "Aida," "Trovatore," "Pagliacci," "Boheme" and "Butterfly." When he sang "Trovatore" with the Chicago Opera Company, Mastro Campanini proclaimed him the greatest Manrico of his day.

EASTON, CHAMLEE AND SCOTTI SHARE HONORS IN "LA TOSCA"

A second demonstration of the unusual perfection of the operatic achievements of the Scotti Grand Opera Company was given Friday evening in the presentation of "La Tosca," the second opera in the series being offered in Indianapolis by the Ona B. Talbot Fine Arts Association. Honors went to Florence Easton, Mario Chamlee and Antonio Scotti, with Miss Easton scoring a decided triumph with her lovely voice and the display of her power as an emotional actress. Miss Easton was a beautiful Tosca and proved herself in every way equal to the demands of this difficult role. Her reserve of voice and breath seemed unlimited and the clear, fresh beauty of it remained throughout the evening. Tenderly she sang her love themes and there was a heartbreak in her singing of the famous aria, "Visse D'Arte," which ends her pitiful resistance to the cruelty of Scarpia to save her lover's life. She rose to thrilling climaxes in voice and action when in the second act she seizes the opportunity of evading her tormentor by murdering him, and again at the close of the last act when, finding that her struggles have been in vain, that her lover is killed and she is about to be taken for the murder of Scarpia, she leaps over the parapet of the prison, where she has gone in the hope of saving Mario. She made this a soul-stirring moment and the admiration of the audience was voiced in "bravas" and rounds of applause.

Mario Chamlee as Mario Cavardossi, was a handsome lover and his fine tenor voice was impressive in its resonance and its luscious quality. He sang beautifully and received a generous share of the evening's applause.

Scotti showed himself a great actor in the role of Scarpia, the cruelty and cunning of whose nature he depicted with a facial expression and a violence of temperamental display which was eloquent. These three singers were recalled many times and as on the previous evening, the orchestra conductor, Carlo Peroni, joined the singers on the stage to share in the applause, which should justly be shared by this orchestra. The musical setting given by Puccini to this drama is fraught with passages of intense and seductive beauty, with a recurring of certain themes which foreshadow things to come, as, for instance, in the scene where Cavaradossi rests his head on the prison table to await his approaching doom as the fragments of the Scarpia and the "Vissi D'Arte" motifs mingle in the disturbingly beautiful orchestral music.

EXPECTS TO GIVE DYING DAUGHTER'S STATEMENT

C. P. BURGMAN TO BE CALLED IN BROCKWAY TRIAL.

DOCTORS ALSO TO TESTIFY

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

LAFAYETTE, Ind., May 29.—When the trial of Dr. Charles J. Brockway is resumed Tuesday morning in circuit court, Charles P. Burgman, father of Esther Burgman Brockway, for whose death Dr. Brockway is being tried of a charge of involuntary manslaughter, will take the witness stand and tell the jury of a dying statement made by his daughter, unless the defense blocks plans of the state.

This, the state attorneys say, will show that the young woman believed her condition that resulted in death to be due to injuries inflicted by her husband five weeks before she died. Up to this time the state has made no showing of facts to indicate that the young woman's death was caused by the alleged assault.

Doctors will be placed on the stand by the prosecution to indicate to the jury the nature of Mrs. Brockway's injuries. The defense, which probably will present its case the latter part of next week, will endeavor to show that Mrs. Brockway died of natural causes and they will produce a death certificate from the Ohio authorities, which indicates she died a natural death. No session of court was held today nor will there be any court Monday, because of Memorial day.

THREE YOUNG MEN ARE HELD

Three young men, giving their names as Harry Wagner, 407½ Virginia avenue; Harney Dorsie, 1122 English avenue, and George Alberts, 417 South Pine street, were arrested last night by Sergeant Houston and Bicycle Policemen Muse and Dillane, following their investigation of a burglary at the home of Mrs. Vern Hollingsworth, 1527 Spann avenue. All were charged with vagrancy and today were reslated on charges of burglary and larceny.

Mrs. Hollingsworth told the police that when she returned home she saw a young man run out a back door, and on investigating found that the house had been ransacked and $20 stolen. On searching the neighborhood, the police found the three young men in an alley in the vicinity of Shelby street and the Big Four shops.

When questioned by detectives today, the three young men are said to have confessed breaking into a jewelry shop, two grocery stores and other places in the southeastern part of the city recently. Some of the goods taken in the robberies have been recovered, the detectives said.

Jennings, Baumgart, 1039 West New York street, was arrested Friday night on a charge of grand larceny by Motor Policemen Brooks and Bernauer after they had been called to a bicycle store in Massachusetts avenue. The proprietor of the store told them Baumgart tried to dispose of a bicycle, said to have been stolen from Erwin Jacobs, a Western Union messenger.

War's Wonder Healing Agent

American scientists gave the world a new key to health, such as it never before possessed. It was produced in the midst of the war in France.

Old standard antiseptics, used for centuries, failed to control germ-infection in wounds. Blood poison and lockjaw steadily increased, killing thousands.

In this crisis, the now famous chlorin antiseptic was born. It overcame infection almost instantly, causing wounds to heal in one-fourth the usual time.

This same wonderful healing antiseptic can now be furnished by any good pharmacy in tablet form, named Kloria. It is easily used by dissolving one or two tablets in ordinary water, and hence is surprisingly economical.

Kloria is over 100 times more germ-destroying than peroxide and similar common antiseptics. Yet it is pleasant, soothing, doesn't burn or irritate, and is perfectly safe and not poisonous.

It may be applied wherever germs can be reached, in the mouth, nose, throat and skin, or about the home.

Eczema Now Easily Ended Dandruff Goes in One Application

Kloria destroys the germs which cause eczema, barber's itch, dandruff and other skin diseases. It soothes and heals with amazing rapidity. A few applications will usually show a marked improvement. Nothing better for poison ivy or any skin itching or eruption.

Dandruff is easily eradicated. Simply wet the scalp with Kloria and away goes every particle of dandruff, usually in one application. It can not injure the hair. Try it tonight.

Quickly Heals Cuts, Sores, Boils and Burns

Kloria destroys germs, insures surgical cleanliness, soothes and heals as nothing else has ever done. It is fast displacing all other antiseptics and healing salves, and is in itself the "first aid" agent for home or factory. Cuts, sores, boils, burns and ulcers often heal in one-fourth the usual time.

Sore Gums—Pyorrhea Amazing Relief in one Week

Dental authorities have always sought a safe antiseptic for destroying the germs which cause tender, bleeding, shrinking gums, pyorrhea, etc. This new war antiseptic is the first successful answer. It is easily applied to the gums, night and morning. Usually within one week all gum soreness and bleeding disappear and soon the shrunken gums begin to tighten around the teeth again. One week's use will amaze and convince any pyorrhea victim.

Package gives full directions for making proper strength solution for all uses. Keep solution in a bottle.

Mouth-Wash More Vital Than Toothbrush

Tooth-decay, gum infections and many serious contagious diseases are caused by germs which breed in the mouth. Destroying these germs, before they start trouble, with a daily mouth-wash, is a wise habit. Kloria is the most positive germ-destroyer known for this purpose, and besides, costs so little that the whole family can use it freely.

Pioneers of Progress

Two important events are just ahead—the Centennial celebration of the founding of Indianapolis, and the recalling and reconsecration, in tender and grateful memories, of the valor and devotion of our heroic dead.

Sunday is Decoration day. The day is doubly sacred. Sacred to the memory of the risen Lord whose life was given for the world, sacred also to the memory of those of our own countrymen whose lives were given to help humanity.

It is more than an act of patriotism, it is an act of religion to cherish the memory of our dear departed if, in doing so, we keep in mind this essential principle of freedom and progress, for which they died.

We take the backward look that we may take a forward look and, likewise, a forward step. We do not honor the dead if we only pronounce eulogies and strew flowers. We do this that we may be inspired to live the same heroic and faithful life which we honor in them.

It is in this spirit also that we should come to the celebration of the Indianapolis centennial.

Let us not attach too much importance to bigness. Population, wealth, great and growing industries all have their value. Our boulevards, parks and playgrounds are not to be despised, but our wealth does not consist in these nor does our happiness depend on them.

The men and women of a century ago could boast none of these, but they did possess brawn and brain and courage and sturdy characters, and with these they laid the foundation for our present prosperity, and they were happy.

Much should be made in this celebration of the true sources of wealth—our schools, churches, homes, our devotion to law and order, our love of the beautiful, our care of little children. These and like values are not easily exhibited but, somehow, they should be shown.

May 30 and June 6 furnish our churches with two great opportunities to show how the vital and permanent sources of all we have or are or hope to be are spiritual. "The things seen are temporal, the things not seen are eternal."

The committee on churches, which is a part of the general centennial committee, represent Catholics, Jews and Protestants, respectfully requests that Sunday morning, June 6, be devoted to setting forth the value, past and present, of the religious interests in the progress of the city.

A great community song service, with brief addresses by representative men, will be held at 6 o'clock Sunday evening on the Circle. The committee recommends that, where possible, such meetings be held throughout the city in the afternoon where people of all faith and no faith may come together.

Bible Students.

THE ASSOCIATED BIBLE STUDENTS.

Bible students the world over, in accordance with the clear teachings of the word of God, believe that Jehovah God is progressively following a divine plan which spans the ages; that this plan was foreknown to God prior to creation and is orderly.

The Scriptures further show that the divine plan of the ages covers three great epochs or dispensations, during the first two of which sin would be permitted, but that with the close of the second dispensation, or epoch, the night of sin, suffering, sorrow and death would be ended and awakened humanity would be ushered into the glorious summertime of the kingdom of God when evil will be restrained and righteousness shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea.

Not alone are we informed in the Bible that there are three great epochs or arrangements of society, but the Scriptures subdivide each of these "worlds" or dispensations into ages, definitely outlining the work of each age and in such a clear manner that one who honestly desires to locate himself upon the stream of time can do so and can be fully assured in his own mind that the world is now standing upon the threshhold of the kingdom of the returned Christ Jesus, which shall be the desire of all nations.

All who are interested in these important Bible subjects are cordially invited to attend a lecture by Henry Wajenberg at 3 p. m., Sunday, May 30, at the Metropolitan School of Music. The seats are always free, and no collection is ever taken.

In Loving Remembrance

Jesus, while our hearts are bleeding,
O'er the spoils that death hath won,
We would, at this solemn meeting,
Calmly say "Thy will be done."

Though cast down, we're not forsaken;
Though afflicted, not alone;
Thou didst give, Thou hast taken;
Blessed Lord, Thy will be done.

Heaven retaineth now our treasure,
Earth the lonely casket keeps;
And the sunbeams love to linger
Where our darling Katie sleeps.

GAS CITY MAN SHOT BY MARSHAL, WHO IS HELD

ARGUMENT OVER ALLEGED DEBT ENDS IN KILLING.

GEORGE STUMP IS VICTIM

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

MARION, May 29.—George Stump, age fifty-seven, was shot and killed last night by John G Reece, night marshal, at Gas City. According to witnesses the shooting was the result of an attempt by Reece to collect a bill, alleged to have been due by Stump's daughter, Mrs. Glady's Campbell, for a phonograph bought from a Chicago firm.

Reece, it is said, met Stump riding on a wagon with several household articles, including the phonograph. The marshal tried to stop him, but was unsuccessful, and then went to the office of the mayor and swore out a warrant for Stump's arrest, alleging that Stump called him vile names. He went to the Campbell home to serve the warrant and was met at the door by Stump, who, according to Reece, said that he had done nothing, and if Reece wanted him he would have to come in over his dead body.

Mrs. Campbell said the marshal drew his revolver and started for the house, both men moving toward the door. Reece fired one shot, which lodged in Stump's chest. He says Stump struck him with a broomstick before he shot him.

FEWER MINES IDLE.

Number of Workers Laying Off Saturday Smaller in Indiana.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 29.—Fines imposed by operators on coal miners, with the approval of the miners' organization, who have been laying off work Saturdays, apparently have had a salutory effect as only twelve mines were reported to the Indiana Coal Trade Bureau here as idle today on that account. Last Saturday twenty were idle for this reason. It is said that some of the miners' locals have proposed to operators that if the fines are abandoned the Saturday holiday movement will be stopped, but thus far none of the operators concerned has agreed to the proposal.

VALUE OF ESTATE UNKNOWN

Jamestown Church to Investigate Man's Strange Request.

[Special to The Indianapolis News].

LEBANON, Ind., May 28.—The Christian church at Jamestown has become heir, by the will of Oliver M. Martin, to an estate, the value of which is unknown, except that a certificate of deposit for $4,000 in the bank of Hillsboro is a part of it. Mr. Martin died recently at Hillsboro. It is known that he formerly had large holdings of real estate in the state of Missouri, and an investigation is to be made to ascertain the extent of the church's heritage.

Oliver M. Martin left Jamestown more than thirty years ago, and his whereabouts was unknown to Boone county relatives until two years ago, when he suddenly appeared at the home of his nephew, Charles F. Martin, of Jamestown. He said that after his disappearance from his home in the eighties he went to Missouri, where he married a wealthy widow with one child, a daughter. His wife and the stepdaughter died and he became the sole heir to the property. Since that time he had been spending his winters in Florida and his summers in the north, he said.

After his return to Indiana two years ago, Martin again disappeared and it was not known what had become of him until his nephew was notified of his death and of a request made by him that his body be buried at Jamestown, his old home.

The will has been probated at Covington.

NO GRAVE TO BE FORGOTTEN

The grave of each American soldier in France will be decorated on Memorial day, according to a cablegram received at national headquarters of the American Legion from Francis E. Drake, commander of the Legion department of France. The telegram reads:

"Your comrades in France are endeavoring worthily to represent you and your families, and have organized important celebrations throughout France. Our promise that no grave should remain without decorations will be strictly fulfilled."

Money to assure the decoration of these graves was raised by the Legion and other co-operating organizations in the last few weeks. Mr. Drake is chairman of a committee representing these organizations.

'Ware the Bear

NEW YORK, May 29.—A captive park bear has the legal right to claw any one who comes within his range, under a ruling of the appellate division of the New York supreme court. The court refused to award Blanche Guzzi, 13, damages sought in a suit against the New York Zoological Society, which controls the Bronx Zoo. It held she took her chances in pursuing a rolling ball too close to the cage, and that the resultant clawing could not be held against the Zoo management.

STATE G. O. P. POLITICS IS SHIFTING TO CHICAGO

SEVERAL LEADERS ALREADY ON CONVENTION SCENE.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR FRISCO

Indiana Republican politics is gradually being transferred to Chicago where a number of Republican leaders have already gone and many more are to follow the coming week. A number of widely-known Republicans will leave tomorrow, and there will be a greater exodus Sunday and Monday, June 6 and 7. The convention opens June 8, but a meeting of special interest to Indiana Republicans will be held the day before at the Congress hotel, when the Indiana delegation to the convention will choose a national committeeman to succeed James A. Hemenway, of Boonville, who is in poor health. A strong pull is being made by certain interests for the choice of Joseph B. Kealing, of Indianapolis, for national committeeman. Mr. Kealing has held Mr. Hemenway's proxy on recent occasions and it is presumed he still has it.

BURT NEW.

A special train, arranged for by the Indiana Democratic Club for Indiana Democrats who desire to go to the national convention at San Francisco, will leave Indianapolis Saturday, June 19, at 2 p. m., and will go west by way of Chicago, Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City and Los Angeles, arriving at San Francisco June 26. The Democratic Club committee, which is making arrangements for the train, is as follows: John E. Spiegel, Bowman Elder, John E. Hollett, Dick Miller, Fred Hoke and Frank F. Woolling.

Burt New, who has charge of Democratic state headquarters in the absence of Benjamin Bosse, state chairman, who is mayor of Evansville, has taken up active prosecution of his work. Mr. New has not received an official title, but he is next to Mr. Bosse in authority in connection with the state organization work. The Democratic county committee, of which Reginald Sullivan is chairman, has established temporary offices in the state headquarters rooms, but later will have offices of its own in the Denison hotel.

RACE ENTHUSIASM THROWN INTO HIGH

Those that qualified last Thursday, the first day of the elimination trials, will be in the front rows. Ralph DePalma, who made the fastest time, a fraction under 100 miles an hour, will get the pole position in front and the other Thursday qualifiers will be placed in the order of their time trials. The Friday qualifiers will fall in behind the last of the Thursday group and those qualifying today will come next. The arrangement is a new one and prevented many drivers from waiting until the last minute to see what the other fellow did.

Barney Oldfield, a veteran in the racing game for twenty years, will act as pace maker for the field doing a lap of the track in order to give the racers a flying start. The paced lap does not count in the 200 laps necessary to complete the 500 miles. The cars, after being put through the brake and other tests, will be lined up in race order following a parade of several bands along the home stretch. Aerial bombs will be exploded at intervals of five minutes before the start.

Start at 10 o'Clock.

The bomb at 10 o'clock will mark the start of the paced lap and Oldfield expects to drive about eighty miles an hour around the course before he pulls to the side just north of the judges' stand to enable the racers to brush by. This will be a signal to "step on it" and the racers, with their alignment becoming deranged, will dash by the stands toward fortune or glory or injury or even death.

The racers in the first two or three rows will have a slight advantage at the start by reason of getting across the starting wire first. One of the greatest inducements for high speed is the lap fund prize of $20,000 subscribed by enterprising Indianapolis business men, which will be awarded to the winners of each lap. This means there will be 200 prizes of $100 each and it is barely possible, but not probable, that one driver will win all of them. The slight advantage mentioned is with those in the front rows who may be able to remain in front of the field and be the first to cross the wire at the finish of the first lap.

In any event the citizens' lap prizes are sure to stimulate the racing as nothing else has ever done and there are not a few who believe that it will lead to even more recklessness on the part of the drivers. In addition to the lap fund there is the general prize of $50,000 offered by the speedway company to be awarded to the ten drivers that first complete the 500 miles. This prize of $50,000 is to be divided $20,000, $10,000, $5,000, $3,500, $3,000, $2,200, $1,800, $1,600, $1,500 and $1,400. Another prize aggregating about $15,000 in cash is to be awarded by manufacturers of automobile accessories to the winners using their product.

Dope Is Conflicting.

To date there has been little betting on the result of the races, largely because of the conflicting "dope" regarding the race cars. Because of the switchmen's strike and slow movement of freight and express, many of the cars en route to Indianapolis were held up at various points for weeks. Several of the cars entered in Monday's event did not reach the speedway until this week and there was little time remaining for the drivers and mechanicians to tune up their mounts. For the most part these were American made cars. The only exceptions to these American made cars are the Indianapolis-made Monroes and their sisters, the Frontenacs, all designed by Louis Chevrolet. For three weeks Chevrolet has had the cars at the track and they have been showing speed in the trial spins almost if not equal to the best foreign made racers.

Several of the French-made cars have been ready for the race for two weeks, among them being the Ballots in charge of Ralph DePalma and Jean Chassagne, who have been made favorites in the little betting to date because they have their mounts ready for the big grind. There is more or less speculation over the chances of the French-made Peugeots, one of which will be driven by Howdy Wilcox, the Indianapolis driver, who was first in the 500-mile race last year.

Something Up Sleeve.

Few of the railbirds in the early practice work have seen Wilcox in trial sprints, but it is known that he is working day and night tuning up the car to his own satisfaction. But Wilcox may have something up his sleeve. It will be remembered that last season this Hoosier pilot tuned up early in the morning or late in the evening and the result was he entered the 1919 event more or less a dark horse.

The cars entered in this year's event are small when compared to the racers of former years, but they have earmarks of showing speed that is expected to break all records at the speedway. The piston displacement this year is 183 as compared to 300 a year ago and compared to 600 and 450 in the early years of the race. The 300's went faster than the 450's and the knowing ones say the 183's will show the best speed.

The record for the track for 500 miles is a fraction under ninety miles an hour, made by Depalma in 1915. The little cars of this year have shown in practice that ninety miles is easy and it remains to be seen whether they are durable enough to stand the strain. The cars are much lighter and it is expected there will be fewer stops for oil, gasoline and tires than was the case with heavier cars. The smaller cars have an advantage in taking the turns at full speed.

Big Sale of Tickets.

The ticket sale for this year's race has been greater than ever before, a few days before the race. In 1914 there were over 100,000 people in the speedway and this record seems about to be broken, much depending on the quality of weather handed out by the weather man. The speedway will seat 60,000 spectators and there is room for 140,000 more people and parking space for 10,000 cars.

Four nations will be represented by the cars in the race, the United States, England, Italy and France. The world loves a winner but the crowd would rather see an American car win.

To Receive Complaints.

The Better Business Bureau will be open Monday to receive and act on any complaints that might be made of unfair treatment to visitors. The board of governors decided on this action because it was the bureau's desire to maintain the reputation of Indianapolis for fair dealing by its business men.

Student in Politics

ELMER (DOC) SHERWOOD.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 29.—Elmer (Doc) Sherwood, Republican candidate for state representative from Greene county, is a student at Indiana University. Sherwood was born in Linton and was graduated from the Linton High School seven years ago. He entered Indiana University immediately after completing his high school course, but withdrew at the end of his sophomore year to enlist in the famous Rainbow division, and, as first sergeant, served twenty-two months in France. He was in the battles of Lorraine, Champaign, Chateau-Thierry, and the Argonne, and later went to Germany with the army of occupation.

Returning to this country, Sherwood re-entered Indiana where he now is a junior. He recently published a book "Our Rainbow Hoosier," illustrated by Russell Cottingham, who served in his division in France. He is state historian for the Rainbow division and also is serving on the historical commission of Greene county.

Sherwood intends to complete his college career next year. He is taking a great interest in the journalism department, being on the staff of the Indiana Daily Student, the university paper. If he is elected he will obtain a sixty day leave of absence next year to serve in the state legislature.

Pogues Quit Pageant

Upholding the claim of the House of Pogue that their ancestor, George Pogue, and not John McCormick, was the first settler on the site of Indianapolis, and protesting that the Indianapolis centennial pageant does not bring this out, as it should, three members of the Pogue family have withdrawn from the cast of the pageant.

When it came to writing the pageant "scenario," W. O. Bates investigated the claims of the two families exhaustively. After consulting Jacob P. Dunn's "Greater Indianapolis," as a leading authority for the McCormick claim, and Brown's "History of Indianapolis," an equally good authority for the Pogues, Mr. Bates decided to be neutral. Therefore, in the pageant he wrote a line for Miss Indianapolis that:

Long shall rage the mighty conflict
As to which of ye came foremost;
Hear me now declare my verdict;
Each arrived before the other.

Thus far the McCormicks have expressed no dissatisfaction with this solution, but the three members of the Pogue family objected. This does not establish the "fact," they say, that George Pogue arrived first.

So the three members of the family—Raleigh and Chauncey Pogue, great-grandsons of George Pogue, and John Pogue, great-great-grandson, have withdrawn from the pageant.

At another part of the pageant Mr. Bates has George Pogue leaving the stage singing loudly, "When I Can Read My Title Clear to Mansions in the Skies." That song, say the Pogues, is a reflection on their claims. Miss Jennie B. Thompson, another descendant of George Pogue, who is cast for a part in the pageant, will retain her part.

SCOTT REMAINS IN LEAD.

Hard Pressed for Typographical Union Presidency by McParland.

Unofficial tabulation of incomplete returns from the election of officers of the International Typographical Union, as compiled today at the international headquarters, showed that Marsden G. Scott, incumbent, and John McParland, of New York, are running very close for the presidency of the organization, according to John H. Hays, secretary-treasurer. Other officers on the administration ticket as opposed to those on McParland's progressive ticket seemed assured of election, Mr. Hays said, and he also believed Mr. Scott would keep his slight lead.

The official canvass of returns from the elections, which were held by the local unions Wednesday, will not begin for several days. Mr. Hays will leave tomorrow for Montreal, Canada, to attend a convention of allied printing trades affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and also the Label Trades Council, of which he is president. Following these conventions he will be one of the delegates to the A. F. of L. convention.

ICE HELD FOR SUMMER IS IN DANGER OF MELTING

MANUFACTURERS FEEL PINCH OF COAL SHORTAGE.

CAR SYSTEM ALSO AFFECTED

A reserve of 30,000 tons of ice, held in storage for the hot days of the summer, is in danger of melting because of the coal shortage, according to Stanley Wyckoff, fair price commissioner for Indiana. Some of the ice companies have appealed to him to obtain coal so they can keep their refrigerating machinery operating and prevent this ice from melting. He has made arrangements with railroads to make as prompt deliveries of coal as possible.

Mr. Wyckoff pointed out that Indianapolis uses from 1,500 to 1,900 tons of ice on unusually warm days, and that the ice manufacturers in Indianapolis have a maximum daily output of only 900 tons. During March, April and May they manufacture large quantities for storage, to be used during the hot months.

Facing the possibility of a shutdown of the street car system due to a shortage of coal, the Indianapolis Street Railway Company is making every effort to get coal, Dr. Henry Jameson, of the company, said today. The West Washington street power house has a three days' supply on hand and the West Tenth street power house is little better off, he said.

The company has bought twenty-five carloads of coal, for which it paid $5.10 a ton at the mines, and it is hoping to get this coal in before the supply on hand s exhausted.

SLIGHT PROGRESS MADE.

Coal Industry Handicapped by Critical Car Situation.

The Black Diamond in its weekly review of the coal market says:

"In spite of the efforts of the interstate commerce commission toward relieving the critical car situation, the coal industry made only slight progress during the last week toward recovering production. While in one or two fields slight gains were made, these were more than offset by poor conditions in other producing areas.

"As the supply of coal on hand is daily growing smaller, it is only natural that the high price level which came with the continued curtailed production was generally maintained throughout the week. In some centers prices even went higher than they had during the previous week, notably in Pittsburg, where soft coal sold as high as $8 a ton.

"Throughout the country the curtailed production is feeling the effect of the coal shortage and many plants are operating with only a day or two's supply of coal on hand and a limited supply in view, while others have been forced to close for want of fuel. The fact that other freight shipments have been interfered with for want of transportation facilities has made it possible for operators to do as well by their steam users as they have."

ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Elizabeth Foutz, Charged with Violation of Mann Act, in Court.

Elizabeth Foutz, of Lynchburg, Va., charged with violating the Mann act by inducing Lucile Ranje, of Indianapolis, to accompany her to Lynchburg, pleaded not guilty this forenoon before Judge A. B. Anderson. She has been held in the Marion County Jail for three weeks, in default of $5,000 bond. It is said her purpose in taking the Ranje girl to Lynchburg was to have her remain in a house operated by Louise Wallace, who is held under bond at Lynchburg. The Ranje girl returned home when she learned the alleged purpose of her trip with the Foutz woman.

Floyd W. Koenig, age twenty-two, of Bremen, who recently pleaded guilty to cashing a sailor's pay check, sent to William Koenig, was released on his own recognizance to report at the November term of court. His defense was that he thought the check he cashed was intended for him. He said today he had repaid the money, with interest.

Amendments by Senators Thomas (Dem., Colo.) and King (Dem., Utah), to cut down the amounts specified in the bill were rejected overwhelmingly. Misplaced Applause

GENEVA, May 29.—Applause from a large audience resounded in the little theater at Serbruck, near here, Thursday, when a gigantic python slowly crushed its trainer to death. The trainer, a Hungarian girl, whose name was Ciro, realized her peril and shrieked for help as the coils of the serpent closed about her, but the audience believed her cries were part of the entertainment and cheered loudly.

Fraulein Ciro's manager rushed on the stage and shot the snake, but not until the young woman was beyond help. It was not until after the performance was over that the people were apprised of the fact they had witnessed a grewsome tragedy.

DUNKARDS TO OBSERVE CENTENNIAL OF CHURCH

NETTLE CREEK BRANCH WAS ORGANIZED IN 1820.

HISTORY OF CONGREGATION

HAGERSTOWN, Ind., May 29.—The 100th anniversary of the organization of the Nettle Creek branch of the Church of the Brethren, commonly known as Dunkards, will be celebrated June 22, by a centennial home-coming at the church, one mile west of Hagerstown. The present membership of the Nettle Creek congregation is about 320, and is one of the largest Protestant rural church congregations in this part of the country. Most of the members live on farms.

The Nettle Creek congregation was organized in 1820, with David Miller as its first elder. Lewis W. Teeter, the present elder, has been in charge of the church since October 15, 1885. When Elder Miller took charge of the congregation, no church house had been built, and meetings were held in homes, barns and in groves. Dinner was served to all who attended and feed was provided for the horses.

Pioneers Attend Communion.

Communion meetings were held in the warmer seasons on the thrashing floors in barns. When the roads became impassable for teams the church members would go on horseback or walk from eight to ten miles over blazed paths through forests. Public services were held up and down Nettle creek and West river valleys, from a point a few miles north of Cambridge City to about five miles north of Hagerstown, and extending a few miles into Henry county.

In 1844 and 1845 a brick church structure 50x90 feet was built about 150 yards south of the present building. About 1859 it was thought expedient to build chapels about equally distant from the large center house. The chapels were built, one three miles southwest and the other four and one-half miles northwest. A permanent arrangement was made for services at both chapels on the first and third Sundays of each month, while services were held at the center house on the second and fourth Sundays of each month.

New Church Erected.

The center house was torn down in 1874, and a new brick house was built the same year. This building still stands and is in good condition.

In 1894 another house, known as Olive Branch, four miles northeast of the center house was bought and dedicated as a chapel, where services are held the first and third Sundays of each month. Communion meetings are held twice each year at the center house, one in the spring and one in the fall. Harvest thanksgiving meetings are held the last Sunday of August. At this meeting a collection is taken for some charitable cause.

INDUSTRIAL AND FINANCIAL

WINCHESTER—The Farmers Grain Company, of Carlos City, has started work on the new concrete elevator to be built there. The building will cost about $33,500.

HARTFORD CITY—Beginning next Saturday all employes of the American Window Glass Company here will receive increases in wages ranging from 10 to 15 per cent. The increase was given voluntarily by the company.

RICHMOND—Announcement of the purchase of 120 acres of land here for the erection of a manufacturing plant for airplanes and automobiles by the Multi-X Company, has been made. Construction will begin at once, it is stated.

COLUMBIA CITY—Benton E. Gates, of this city, is now president of three banks. He recently bought the stock of several stockholders in the Farmers Bank at South Whitley, of which he was president. He is president of the Larwill Bank at Larwill and the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, of this city.

PETERSBURG—The Dongola Coal and Mining Company has been reorganized with R. L. Pitch, of Indianapolis, president, and H. T. Lobbey, of Vincennes, secretary-treasured. The new concern has bought all the interest of the old Dongola Mining Company, and will build a switch from the Evansville & Indianapolis railroad to the Dongola mine....The Simplex Lock Rim Company has obtained a building site on the Evansville & Indianapolis, just south of the Petersburg canning factory in this city, and will erect a factory building as soon as material can be obtained. The company will manufacture a lock rim for automobile wheels and will employ about forty men.

NEWCASTLE—The petition of the Indiana Bell Telephone Company for a temporary increase in rates, filed Friday with the public service commission, will be opposed here when the petition is heard. A new rate was established March 1. The last petition asks for a rate of $2.50 a month for resident telephones. The present rate is $1.75 a month. In the first petition the company seeks a rate of $2.25 a month. In determining the present rate, the commission fixed a valuation and depreciation which would yield the company about $6,000 a year. The company declares the rates are not supplying sufficient revenue to meet the company's requirements. The company points out that an emergency exists for the temporary alteration and amendment of rates now in effect in order to prevent injury to its business and to the service it is required to give the public.

TERRE HAUTE—Fred B. Smith, formerly president of the Merchants Distilling Company of this city, will begin the erection of a two-story business block on the Ohio street property, between Sixth and Seventh streets, next week. The contract has been let to Ainsworth & Son, of this city, for $65,000....Under the new telephone system here Terre Haute will have four exchanges. The larger one will be in the present Citizens Telephone building. The other three will be in West Terre Haute, North Terre Haute and Seelyville....A number of brick contractors of this city have incorporated the Masons' Contractors Association for the purpose of promoting and encouraging efficiency in the art of brick construction, of improving conditions in the brick construction business and of developing a friendly spirit among the members. The directors for the first year are William Irwin, who is a Democratic candidate for the legislature; Walter E. Conover, Ernest V. Miller, Harry Minter and James W. Pratt.

MINISTERS ARE TO AID SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

WILL TELL OF CAMPAIGN FROM PULPITS.

LEGION POST OFFERS HELP

The Marion county Salvation Army campaign to enroll friends of the work received added impetus today with the receipts of a letter from the Rev. Charles H. Winders, executive secretary of the Church Federation of Indianapolis, giving assurances that the ministers of the city will join in giving publicity to the drive from their pulpits tomorrow.

In the letter received by Robert L. Moorhead, chairman of the committee to raise $70,000 in Marion county, the Church Federation went on record as giving indorsement and support to the movement.

The Marion County American Legion Post has volunteered to take over ten sectors, it was reported by W. R. Shirley, chairman of the American Legion committee assisting in the drive. Indianapolis Post No. 4 will have two teams working in Sectors 31 and 32 under the direction of Neal Grider and Myron C. Cosler. Herbert F. Eickoff has been appointed chairman of the team from McIlvaine Kothe Post, which is assigned to Sector 33; Harry Stevenson Post, Sector 34, A. D. T. Keene, chairman; Templeton Post, Sector 38; R. J. PROTEST IN NEWSPAPERS.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 29.—The Teachers' Federation of Terre Haute is taking advertising space in local newspapers to protest against the attitude of the school trustees and superintendent of schools in fixing the salary scale for next year. The federation says that the school authorities have paid no heed to its demand for a $200 bonus for the present year, and says that twenty-five cities in Indiana have increased the salaries of teachers for this year. "The same is due us," the advertisement says, 'in order that we may get through the summer and to pay grocery and doctor bills now due."

The teachers say that the new contracts were to be ready for their consideration by May 10, but that they have been notified that the contracts will not be ready until June 11, which, they say, is too late for negotiating salaries and contracts, since many teachers leave that day, which is the close of the school year, to teach or study in summer schools. The teachers do not threaten to strike, but close their advertisement with this paragraph:

"It is generally conceded that it is dishonorable for teachers to strike; we have shown by our actions that we agree with this sentiment; therefore, the schools, whose most essential equipment is the teachers, must be safeguarded by the citizens whom they serve."

OPPOSES SERVICE BONUS.

Senator Myers Says It Is "Scheme of Both Political Parties."

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Declaring a cash soldier bonus would put the dollar mark on patriotism, Senator Myers (Dem., Mont.) told the senate today that, in his opinion, the agitation for such a bonus simply was "a scheme of both political parties to buy the soldier vote."

"I am in favor," said Senator Myers, "of doing everything within the bounds of reason for our former service men who are disabled from wounds or other results of their service. Furthermore, I favor liberal legislation and appropriations to reclaim lands for such former service men as may desire to acquire land and follow farm life.

"But I am not willing to lend government money to former service men to buy homes in cities and towns. I am also opposed to the payment of any cash bonus to former service men. I think the plan would be unjust, unpatriotic, unwise and un-American."

GLASS JUSTICE OF PEACE.

Succeeds Maholm as Mueller Resigns—More Complications Expected.

Charles H. Mueller, a justice of the peace, whose tenure of office was in controversy since his elective term had expired several weeks ago, today tendered his resignation from the position to the board of county commissioners. At the same time Frank L. Glass, who has held a position as de-facto justice of the peace, during his efforts to be legally appointed as the successor to T. Ernest Maholm, another justice of the peace, resigned from this de facto position. The commissioners then appointed Glass as Mueller's successor.

This step is expected to bring further legal complications as W. E. Henderson, a colored attorney, is seeking to be appointed as the successor to Mueller and he had caused mandamus proceedings to be filed in superior court in an effort to oust Mueller from his office.

GAS AND OIL SURVEY.

Geologists Report on Favorable Territory in Indiana Counties.

Field work to determine the accumulation of oil and gas in several Indiana counties, recently conducted by the division of geology of the department of conservation, has disclosed that structures favorable to such accumulation are found in Washington, Jackson and Warrick counties, according to announcement by W. N. Logan, geologist for the state conservation department. The research has been extended into Vanderburg, Lawrence and Orange counties.

The summer field work of the division of geology probably will consist of a detailed survey of the Clay City quadrangle, situated largely in Clay county, and extending into parts of Putnam and Owen counties, Mr. Logan said. The physiography and nature of the rocks, economic products and mineral resources will be studied both in the field and laboratory. Mr. Logan will head the survey party which will include ten scientists.

Seeks Oil Shale Information.

Inquiries about oil shales in Indiana with a view of settling here have been received from a Pennsylvania corporation by W. N. Logan, state geologist, state department of conservation, who recently issued a preliminary report on Indiana oil shales. Oil is being extracted from Clark, Scott and Jennings shale beds at the rate of eighteen to twenty gallons of oil to the ton of shale and it is in those localities that such a plant would do best in Indiana, Mr. Logan has informed the company.

Mr. Sink will take a position with the Schleman Morton real estate agency of this city, taking charge of a new department with the functions of building up the lands of persons who have bought farms of the company.

the Indianapolis Association of Retail Druggists will close their stores from 12:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. The general delivery and stamp windows of the postoffice will be closed all day, as will also the offices of the internal revenue department. One delivery of mail will be made to all parts of the city, and collections will be made according to the usual holiday schedule.

Parade at 2 o'Clock.

The principal observance of the ten planned at local cemeteries by the memorial association will be at Crown Hill cemetery at 3 p. m. Sunday. This program will be preceded by a parade, which will form at Meridian and St. Clair streets before 2 o'clock. The parade will move promptly at 2 o'clock under the direction of Frank M. Hay, grand marshal. Veterans of the civil war, in the first division, will march south to the Monument where they will take position on the steps of the Monument to review the remainder of the parade, which will move around the Circle to Market street, east to Pennsylvania street and south to Georgia street. Street cars will be waiting there to take the marchers to Crown Hill. The civil war veterans will be taken in automobiles, which will be parked on the south and east sides of the federal building during the parade.

Misunderstanding Cleared Up.

A misunderstanding, which caused some members of the United Spanish War Veterans to announce that they would not march in the parade has been cleared up. The Spanish war veterans objected to members of the Sons of Veterans, composed of sons of G. A. R. members, marching behind the civil war veterans and ahead of them. The arrangement originally, Mr. Hay explained, was for the Sons of Veterans to march as an escort for the G. A. R. veterans, as has been done in parades in the past. This explanation was made to George Schull, commander of the McGrew Camp, U. S. W. V., and he said the members of his organization would march in the parade.

Following the Spanish war veterans, who will be in the second division of the parade, will come the veterans of the world war, members of the R. O. T. C. in local high schools, and semi-military organizations and civilians.

At Crown Hill a short address will be made by Solon J. Carter, of the American Legion. The graves will be decorated and a musical program given. Members of the R. O. T. C. will fire a salute.

At Confederate Monument.

Exercises will be held at the Confederate monument for the Blue and the Gray at Greenlawn cemetery at 4 p. m., under the auspices of the Southern Club of Indianapolis. H. L. Trueblood will be master of ceremonies, and the following program given:

Address for the Blue—H. L. Trueblood.
Address for the Gray—Harry M. Settle.
Reading—"Our Flag," George S. Wainright.
Song—"Tenting On the Old Camp Ground," double quartet.
Decorating the Monument with flowers.

Services will be held at Floral park, Anderson, New Crown and Memorial cemeteries at 10 a. m., and at Holy Cross and Jewish cemeteries at 3 p. m.

Program at Monument.

A program will be given at the Monument at 9 a. m., at which Homer Dale, of Lebanon, commander of the U. S. W. V. of Indiana, will be the speaker. A musical program will also be given.

The Memorial day committee of the Carolina Scott Harrison chapter of the D. A. R., of which Miss Caroline Thompson is chairman, will meet on the northwest segment of the Monument to decorate the George Rogers Clark segment in memory of the revolutionary soldiers. The Memorial day committee of the Hamilton Berry chapter of the Service Star Legion, of which Mrs. Thomas Eldred Stuckey is the chairman, will meet at the southwest segment of the Monument to assist the American Legion in decorating the segment in memory of the world war heroes.

Graves of soldiers buried at Ft. Harrison will be decorated Sunday. Colonel E. E. Hatch, post commandant, will have charge, assisted by Captain W. S. King, post quartermaster. Members of the Regular Army Ladies, under the direction of Mrs. Anna C. Stinebaugh, have arranged the ceremonies. The soldiers of the fort will parade at 10:30 o'clock and the graves will be decorated after the parade. Interurban cars leaving Indianapolis at 8, 10 and 12 o'clock Sunday will stop at Spring Valley. Members of the Regular Army Ladies are asked to leave on the 8 o'clock car. Veterans' organizations will take part in the exercises.

Memorial day will be observed in many of the Indianapolis churches Sunday. Pastors will deliver Memorial day sermons, and members of veterans' organizations and their auxiliaries will attend many of the services. The George H. Thomas chapter of the W. R. C. will meet at 8 a. m. to take part in the services at the Monument.

The Oliver Perry Morton chapter of the Daughters of the Union will observe Memorial day by decorating the statues of Governor Morton at the Statehouse and at the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument, and his grave at Crown Hill. The committee in charge is Mrs. L. L. Fellows, Mrs. J. J. Browne and Mrs. Albert R. Parker.

Children Collect Flowers.

Flowers began arriving at the Statehouse today to be placed on the graves of soldiers under the direction of the general memorial association's flower committee, Mrs. Edna E. Pauley, chairman. School children collected the flowers and took them to school. Six wagons operating under the direction of the committee, then collected the flowers.

Many women of the patriotic organizations represented on the committee worked in the Statehouse today preparing the flowers for distribution to Monument Circle, to graves of soldiers in each of the cemeteries and a few other places where special memorial exercises are to be held. The flowers will be distributed tomorrow by wagons of the American Railway Express Company free of charge, following a custom established a number of years ago by the Adams Express Company. Boy Scouts assisted in collecting the flowers.

STOCK PRICES KEEP IN NARROW BOUNDS

RAILS IN MODERATE DEMAND

Average Stock Prices

The average price of twenty industrial stocks Friday was 91.88, up .89. The average price of twenty active rails was 72.89, up 1.17.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Prices rose and fell within narrow bounds during today's uneventful session of the stock market. Most of the light trading represented week-end settlement of outstanding contracts. There was a moderate demand for rails, especially those traversing western and southwestern agricultural sections. In other quarters dealings became stagnant after the first hour. Movements among steels, equipments and oils were trifling, but motor accessories and specialties tended upward. The closing was firm. Sales approximated 225,000 shares.

DOWN ON THE FARM

WINCHESTER, Ind., May 29.—The United States department of agriculture has selected Darke county, Ohio, as one of the counties in which to investigate the damage done by wheat rust and the relation of this damage to the berry bushes. The work will not begin before July 1, as the funds appropriated for that purpose do not become available until that time.

PETERSBURG, Ind., May 29.—Strawberries are still selling at 35 cents a quart, while gooseberries bring 45 cents a gallon. May cherries are ripening, but the frost greatly damaged the crop, and few will be placed on the market. Blackberry and raspberry bushes are blooming, and there will be a big crop of berries. The late frost killed all the apricots and mulberries.

—May 29—

A big decrease in the receipts of hogs was offset by a slump in the demand and with apparently more hogs than the trade required prices fell off 15c. At first practically all the good hogs, regardless of weight, sold at $14.85, but when the early demand had been supplied the market weakened and a few sales were made at $14.75, 10c lower than the opening and 25c lower than for the day before. Most of the hogs that suffered the greatest decline were heavyweights or stock that came from the truck division. Later in the trading some of the local packers increased their order and with a demand for about 1,500 hogs for outside account the supply of 5,000 fresh hogs and 3,000 layovers was cleared and the final sales were at $14.85, the same as at the opening. The average of the general market was affected by the sales of throwouts that were 25c to 50c lower. Pigs were not plentiful, but the demand was small and sales were usually from $13.00 down. A few odd sows sold at $12.35 to $12.50, but most of the business was at $12.25 down.

The loss in receipts of hogs was 6,000 from last week, but there were 14,000 more than for the same week a year ago, when there was a Friday and Saturday holiday. It will require only about 7,000 more hogs for the receipts this month to equal those for the same months a year ago, the largest on record for the month of May. In the receipts of 632,000 hogs at eleven markets this week, there were 3,000 less than last week, but 96,000 more than the same week a year ago and 205,000 more than two years ago.

Thus it appears that current supplies have been abnormally large and an adverse change in values would have been natural, but there was no material change and this reflects confidence among packers that hogs at the present price basis are a safe investment. A week ago sales of hogs according to average weight ranged from $14.10 to $14.85, with the predominating price $14.75. General sales now at $14.85 are probably a fraction higher than the average cost a week ago. On Thursday and Friday of this week most of the good hogs sold at $15.00.

Receipts of only 300 cattle was an element that ordinarily would cause a lack of interest among buyers. In addition there is a holiday at the packing houses on Monday. The only cattle sold to a local killer will be held in the yards over Sunday. Necessarily the trading was principally with speculators. Apparently all kinds sold steady at prices prevailing on the day beforre. There was also a steady market for calves at $16.00 down, rarely higher than $15.50, and the feeder trade was nominally steady.

The movement in prices of cattle this week was not in keeping with a decrease of 1,300 in the receipts compared with last week nor with the developments in this line of trade in other markets. At one time in the week there was a decided loss in prices of nearly all cattle that are used in the manufacture of the various kinds of dressed beef. Female butcher cattle prices did not recover all of the loss but present prices for steers are practically the same as a week ago. Some of the plain heavy steers also may not have made a full recovery, but light steers of all kinds, especially those on the choice yearling order, are steady at last week's final prices.

Heifers at $12 up and good beef cows are still 25 cents to 50 cents lower than a short time ago. Most of the steers here this week sold at $12.65 down, heifers at $12.50 down and beef cows at $8.50 to $10.

Calf prices are now as high as they were just previous to the bad break a week ago and $1.00 to $1.50 higher than on Wednesday this week. There was little fluctuation in prices of stockers and feeding cattle and the demand was again chiefly for the light kinds to put on pasture.

In proportion to preceding days this week there was a good Saturday run of sheep and lambs but not enough to create competition or to interest the principal killers. The offerings included spring lambs at $14.00, yearlings at $11.00 and sheep from $9.00 down, which was steady, quality being considered.

There was a continued poor demand for spring lambs this week and the top price now is apparently $15, against $18, the highest last week. Some of the buyers say they prefer good clipped lambs at about the same price as springers, and there seems to be about $2 difference between the prices of the clipped lambs, yearlings and sheep, with the top prices $14.00, $12.00 and $10.00, respectively.

NO BIDS FOR POOLED WOOL

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

COLUMBUS, Ind., May 29.—Wool buyers who gathered to submit bids on the Bartholomew county wool pool left the city without making any. They gave various reasons, one buyer saying his company had all the wool it could handle, and another saying the freight situation was such that his company could not get the wool shipped, adding that all the wool it was receiving at present was in small quantities packed above egg cases in cars coming into the city. It was said that at various other places in the state buyers either were submitting no bids or such low ones that farmers would not sell. Wool sold here last year when pooled at 50½ cents a pound.

This year the pool is much larger with more than 1,200 fleeces. Those attending the sale said that pools are in operation in Franklin, Muncie and in Spencer county, and that though bids had been received, none is yet sold. Muncie is said to have the largest pool in Indiana, the fleeces numbering 150,000. A large proportion of the wool in Indiana is said to be held in pools, unsold, because the holders refuse to release their wool at a lower price than last year, when practically everything connected with the wool industry was selling for less than at present. One prospective buyer, from Boston expressed the belief that there would be a sharp advance in the price of wool this summer.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., May 29.—No bids were offered on a pool of 1,200 wool fleeces, made by farmers of Shelby county. Buyers were present from Shelby county, Louisville and Boston, but they said that because of the low market they believed the farmers would not accept any bids they might make. The farmers are now considering the proposition of either turning the wool over to a commercial firm to be sold, or storing it here until the market is higher.

J. H. ARMINGTON.

Thomson & McKinnon Market Letter.
—May 29—

Corn—Imposition of heavy export tax on Argentine wheat, or possibility of prohibition of export, together with an advance of 5 to 6 cents in foreign bids for wheat here, were the early motives in corn. Prices fluctuated rapidly between the conflicting influences of a decline of 3 to 5 cents in cash prices and a growing belief that Monday's receipts will be disappointing. Closing tone is firm and a few of the more influential traders are modifying bearish views. Considerable of the corn loaded at country points recently has gone to outside markets. It is reported some of the roads are withdrawing empty cars from the corn belt for the purpose of bringing in wheat to terminal markets. Not only is there a possibility of another disappointment in volume of receipts but there is some reason for believing that larger receipts will stimulate a demand. A condition of this nature has invariably developed after market has been depressed in expectation of an increased movement. July delivery day only thirty days in future, contract grades are 23 cents premium.

Oats—It is understood a few defaults were made on May deliveries. The amount involved is not large enough to be of any moment. Today's market has been erratic in sympathy with corn. Outside interest is small, transactions mainly by local traders. We view oats market in the same way as corn, namely, the July delivery is at a little too great a discount under cash.

Provisions—There was a little liquidation of July holdings in provisions, but the dullness was the chief thing. There is at no time any important pressure on this market.

Stocks—Ordinarily fluctuations in a pre-holiday session would be without significance, but when you consider existing conditions and the pessimistic sentiment that has prevailed, the stability displayed today means something. It means that liquidation has run its course, that traders are now more anxious to buy than to sell. Looking forward, we can see clearly a better day for the railroads. For many years railroad opponents had a great weapon in the cry of watered stock. The recent valuation removes the foundation for such a claim. We might as well object to Wall street or LaSalle street rentals because not in line with the valuation of property twenty years ago. Then we have less confidence about price reductions. It is not so certain, but a very useful purpose has been served in forcing liquidation of commodities and liquidating indebtedness.

The effect is already visible in our money market. It is unthinkable that the bonus bill in its present form will become a law, though it will no doubt be adopted by the house, and this will give us an unsettled market for a few days, and offer intending buyers an opportunity to acquire some stocks at concessions.

COMPETITIVE BUYING SENDS CORN HIGHER

RECEIPTS LIGHT—ARGENTINE WHEAT LOADING STOPPED.

PROVISIONS FOLLOW HOGS

CHICAGO, May 29.—Stoppage of wheat loadings in Argentina, together with active export demand for wheat at gulf ports in the United States, had a decided bullish influence today on the corn market. Furthermore, receipts of corn today were much smaller than expected, and country offerings to arrive were light. With commission houses and shorts competing as buyers, the market rapidly advanced. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 3c higher, with July at $1.65@1.66, and September, $1.52½@1.53, were followed by gains all around and then something of a reaction.

Toward the last, May delivery was easy, but July and September showed continued strength. The close was unsettled, 1¼c net lower to 3½c advance, with July $1.66¼ to $1.66½ and September $1.53⅝ to $1.54.

Oats strengthened with corn. After opening unchanged to 1⅞c higher, including July at 88⅝@89½c, the market steadied at a moderate general advance.

Weakness in hog values had a bearish effect on provisions, despite the upturn of grain.

Week's Trading in Stocks Smaller, But Tone Steady

NEW YORK, May 29.—Corrective measures again were enforced in the financial markets this week, as indicated by the smaller operations on the stock exchange. The tone was steadier, however, and greater confidence prevailed.

The process of price reduction extended to the point where it encompassed provisions and other foods, albeit in moderate degree, while such commodities as textiles and leathers experienced further depreciation.

On every hand it was conceded that substantial benefits already have resulted from additional curtailment of credits, except in instances where this policy has temporarily affected productive enterprises, and legitimate business expansion.

The turn into June brought no apparent change to the local money market, call loans lending throughout the week at 6 per cent., subject to slight hardening. Time loans running into the midyear were comparatively negligible, however, at 8½ to 8¾ per cent. bid.

Sensational advices in exchange on Germany and Austria, with marked betterment in the Italian rate, featured the active dealings in foreign exchange. France also improved, and bills on London rose almost 10 cents to the pound over the previous week's lowest quotation.

Arrival of gold from the orient, in payment of a loan made to the Omsk government more than a year ago, reversal of exchange on Argentina to the level where gold was released for that account at this center and more acute financial disturbances in Japan comprised the significant international developments of the week.

St. Louis Fur Auction Closes.

ST. LOUIS, May 29.—The spring auction of the International Fur Exchange ended Friday, with sales for the seventeen-day period approximating $23,000,000. This was the second largest volume ever attained in any raw fur market, according to officials of the exchange, being eclipsed only in the February auction, and brought the total fur sales for the fiscal year to more than $80,000,000. The pelts on the present market represented about one-half of the world's available supply, it was said. Sales for the closing day amounted to $1,500,000.

Chicago Potatoes Steady.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Potatoes—Steady; receipts, 32 cars; Northern White, sacked and bulk, $7.75@8.00. New, steady; Alabama Bliss Triumphs, $9.00@9.25; Louisiana Burbanks, $7.00@7.25 a hudredweight; Florida, No. 1, barrels, $14.25@14.75; No. 2, $12.25@13.00.

Week's Cotton Prices Vary With Trade Conditions

NEW YORK, May 29.—The course of the market for cotton futures during the last week has again reflected the force of conflicting influences. During the earlier part of the period prices broke sharply, owing to unfavorable reports from the goods trade, nervousness over general economic conditions, the sharp break in the Egyptian market, declines in the southwestern spot markets, and the appearance of more favorable weather for growing conditions in the belt.

October contracts sold off to 34.15c, making a decline of 260 points from the high level of the previous week, and of more than 3 cents a pound from the high record of last month. Liquidation then became less active, and there was a recovery of 150 to 160 points from the low levels, owing to even more bullish private crop conditions reports than expected, rallies in the Texas spot markets, and covering by shorts. This improvement was not fully maintained, with prices showing reactions today under realizing for over the holidays, and the government report, which is scheduled for publication on Wednesday.

Reports that orders for cotton goods, as well as silk and woolens, were being canceled, accounted in part for the weakness during the earlier part of the week, when there were also reports that some of the New England textile mills were going on short time. The views of prominent western goods distributers, regarding a comparative scarcity of supplies, made a more favorable impression on sentiment in this respect, which contributed to the later week rallies, but the main factor of the advance was the low private condition figures. No less than eight of these reports were published up to the close of business last night, the most favorable indicating a condition of 68.9 with the figures ranging down from that to 62.8c. The average of the eight reports was 65.2, and a canvas of members of the New York Exchange indicated an average expectation of 65.9. The government report on Wednesday will compare with a condition of 75.6 last year, and a ten-year average of 78.7.

Short Production Is Factor in Week's Grain

CHICAGO, May 29.—Confidence regarding high prices of grain has shown remarkable vitality this week in view of the semi-panic which preceded. Failure of receipts to enlarge, together with planting delays, decreased production, and Australian drought gave renewed courage to bulls. Compared with a week ago, corn quotations this morning were ⅞ to 9c higher, oats up 1⅛ to 3¼c and provisions at gains of 5 to 75c.

It quickly became evident that many influential trades believed the drastic declines which had been witnessed were more than sufficient to discount all depressing features of the corn market. Upward swings began with general notice of planting tardiness due to wet soil conditions. Later the persistent dearth of receipts was given more and more heed. Next came a statement by Herbert Hoover referring to possible dependence of this country on overseas food supplies. Word of disastrous drought affecting the Australian wheat crop followed, and wheat prices jumped 7c a bushel over night. Subsequently, however, bulls received a hard jolt from untrue reports that the switchmen's strike had been settled and from prospects of a decided increase of corn receipts next week.

Most of the time notable absence of demand for provisions was apparent.

Business Orders During Week Show Restrictions

NEW YORK, May 29.—Dun's says the liquidating process that began some time ago in certain branches of business, but which has only lately occasioned general comment, has continued, and is widening in its influence.

If not yet everywhere apparent, the movement toward readjustment is plainly discernible in various quarters, as in textiles and hides and leather and footwear, and is manifested both in current price tendencies and in the conditions affecting future operations.

With an unusually backward season and a congestion in transportation that has seriously disorganized commerce, some shrinkage of transactions was to be expected, but these restrictive elements do not fully explain the prevailing disposition of most dealers to confine commitments within the closest possible limits and the increasing cancellations and revisions of orders. GOOD OIL WELL STRUCK.

Drillers in Pike County Find One of 250 Barrels Production a Day.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

PETERSBURG, Ind., May 29.—Nicholson, Noble & Co., of Indianapolis, have drilled in the best oil well in the Oatsville field, nine miles west of here, at a depth of 978 feet. The oil sand was penetrated two feet when drilling was stopped overnight. The force of the oil pressure started the well flowing naturally more than seventy-five barrels a day. When placed on pump the well will produce 275 barrels a day. The Young Oil Company, on the McRoberts lease, at a depth of 950 feet, drilled in a thirty-barrel well. The Ohio Oil Company drilled in a fifty-barrel well on the Snyder lease, five miles west of Petersburg, at a depth of 1,270 feet.

The Bement Oil Company, drilling on the Selby lease, five miles south of Petersburg, have drilled in a big gas well that is making 4,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day. The well is in wildcat territory, and will be driled deeper, in hope of striking oil below the gas sand. If oil is not found, the well will be plugged and the gas saved.

Webber & Underwood, who hold leases on oil land near Francisco, Gibson county, have contracted with an oil operator of this city to drill a test well on the Hollon lease, about one mile from Francisco. Van Hook & Nicholson, of Indianapolis, are drilling in a well on the Nicholson lease in the Oatsville field, and will shoot the well in the 960-foot sand. The Murphy Oil Company, Davis & Co., is experiencing considerable trouble drilling the well in on the Johnson lease, with the drill fastened on top of the sand at a depth of 1,360 feet.

There are now seven rigs operating in the oil field just west of Petersburg, fourteen at Oatsville, and as many more in the Union field. The Ohio Oil Company has completed a rig on the Proctor lease in Knox county, five miles north of this city, and will drill down 1,700 feet to find a new oil field in Indiana. No deep tests have been made in Knox county across White river from this city, though oil has been found in Daviess county to the east, Pike county to the south, Sullivan county to the north, and in Illinois to the west.

The striking of the 275-barrel oil well on the Hightower lease at a depth of 978 feet has caused another oil boom, and leasing west of Petersburg includes much of the territory abandoned two years ago. The Bement Oil Company has leased 1,000 acres just west of Bowman and will drill three wells. A new location has been made on the Charles Hightower lease, and a drilling rig has been moved on the lease.

Oil Work at English.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

ENGLISH, Ind., May 29.—The first well of the English-Princeton Oil Company, in Gibson county, near Hazleton, is expected to come in soon. In addition to their lease of 105 acres this company, made up principally of English and Crawford county people, owns leases on 2,000 acres of land in Crawford county.

In these leases are some old wells on which the company hopes to begin development soon. The company, operating under a declaration of trust, is managed by the following trustees: Henry W. Mock, ex-clerk of Crawford county; A. H. Flanigan, ex-treasurer and now editor of the Crawford County Democrat; H. W. Toney, county superintendent of schools; James E. Turley, hardware merchant; Alson Roberts, monument dealer, all of English. While stockholders are principally citizens of this county, some stock is held by persons in other parts of the state and adjoining states.

Seeks Oil Under Lake.

SANDUSKY, May 29.—That the long contemplated and much discussed idea of hunting for oil under Lake Erie is about to be put to a test was disclosed today by people of Middle Bass island.

According to the islanders, Hugh Maxwell has practically the entire island under lease and is making arrangements to drill. Operations will be started on the Henry Rehburg farm.

Death of David W. Buskirk.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

GOSPORT, Ind., May 29.—David W. Buskirk, age seventy-six, a civil war veteran, died at his home here yesterday. Funeral services will be held at the home tomorrow afternoon.

PLASTERERS' STRIKE ENDS; SCALE SIGNED

PAY IS $1.12 1-2 AN HOUR—CONCESSIONS BY UNION.

PLUMBERS STILL ON STRIKE

Working conditions and a wage scale for the Plasterers' Local Union No. 46, members of which have been on strike since April 1, were adjusted today, leaving only the Plumbers' Union No. 73 and Steamfitters' Union No. 440, of the sixteen unions affiliated with the Marion County Building Trades Council that have not signed agreements with the Building Contractors' Association of Indianapolis. The original demand of the plasterers was for $1 an hour, but no agreement was reached before April 1, when the old contract expired and the plasterers then presented a $1.10 an hour demand. The contractors agreed, in the contract signed, to give them $1.12½ an hour.

Concessions Granted.

In giving this increase over the strike demand, however, the contractors obtained important concessions from the union. One of these was that the union must supply a sufficient number of men to the contractors and if it is unable to do so the contractors have the right to employ such additional men as they see fit. The only exceptions to the employment rule are men who have been fined or expelled from the union. Thus in case the union is unable to provide enough men for any given job, the contractors may employ nonunion men to work.

Another new clause provided that the abandonment of work by the union men, either separately or collectively, will be regarded as a breach of contract unless the union provides for an equal number of men within twenty-four hours.

Plumbers Still Out.

Negotiations between the contractors and the plumbers and steamfitters are off, according to C. C. Pierson, secretary of the contractors' association. Open shop has been declared against these two unions, and several nonunion men have been employed, Mr. Pierson said. The unions, by a strike vote, when no agreement was reached before April 1, demanded $1.25 a hour. Their former wage for $1 an hour, and Charles Kern, president of the Building Trades Council, said that the contractors made no attempt to reach a compromise, making only one offer, and that to the council, instead of the unions, saying that $1.10 an hour would be paid if the men returned to work by a certain date.

RESEARCH OFFICE WILL COME TO INDIANAPOLIS

HEADQUARTERS FOR U. S. FOOD LABORATORIES.

IN PHILADELPHIA 14 YEARS

Headquarters for the food research laboratories of the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture, which for fourteen years have been in Philadelphia, will, after July 1, be established in Indianapolis at 22 Jackson place, the present field station, according to a statement today by H. C. McAleer, chief of the food research laboratories.

With the closing of the headquarters in Philadelphia, Mr. McAleer said, the work will be directed from the Indianapolis laboratories and the department will establish a new field station at Pensacola, Fla., and probably one at San Diego, Cal. Arrangements are being made for three additional rooms at the quarters in Jackson place, to be utilized as additional laboratories. Other laboratories probably will be established by the bureau of chemistry in Philadelphia, Mr. McAleer said.

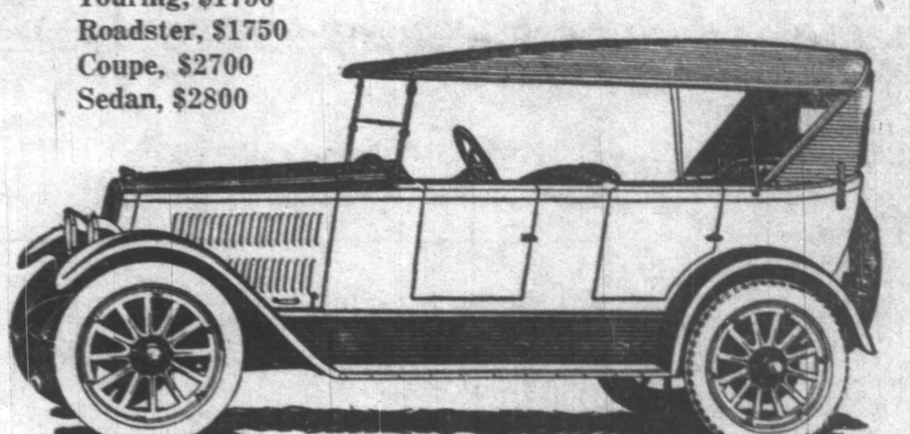
Mitchell

Touring, $1750
Roadster, $1750
Coupe, $2700
Sedan, $2800



This new style idea creates a sensation

THE first thing a person notes when he sees the new Mitchell is its graceful harmony of lines. Then he analyzes.

He sees that the radiator, instead of its old-time bluntness, is now at a slight angle, corresponding with the windshield, doors, louvers. All this gives a suggestion of action, of motion, of fleetness.

Then one notes the finish of this car, at a distance and up close. Scrutiny shows all the details that one usually associates with the most expensive cars. The Mitchell is able to add these costly extras because it builds its own bodies, and puts the profits in the car instead of paying them to an outside builder.

Then lift the hood of this Mitchell Six. Note the accessibility of the engine and all parts. Let us point out all the improvements in the chassis.

Then if you wish, let us drive out on pavements and country roads. You'll again be surprised, for there is roadability in this car—a smooth, responsive power, a well-balanced body, comfortable seats, unusual room.

In every particular this new Mitchell represents values not found elsewhere. We urge comparison. We know you'll save money when you invest in this new Mitchell. Come in today.

The JUNE SALE of S-I-L-K-S

It is the Ayres habit, as you know, to usher in the month of June with a clearing sale of silks. Always there have been good bargains, and a lot of them.

This year such a sale is more than welcome, for silk fabrics of all sorts have been unprecedentedly high in price.

Fortunately for you, conditions today warrant sharper price reductions than ever before. These conditions we have met unflinchingly.

The trouble started in Japan—source of the world's greatest raw silk supply—started with a financial disturbance which naturally involved the silk merchants. The wave of disturbance rolled around the world and, according to report, New York speculators "sought cover." Raw silk dropped sharply and the manufactured product slipped back in response.

But you know the story, it has been widely published. Now you profit by the fact. For in repricing silks for this annual June event cost has not been considered; we've gone the limit.

Monday will be observed by the store as Memorial Day holiday

Little Stories of Daily Life

Checking Finances.

A busy stenographer, who is trying to get out several thousand circular letters, is not responsible for anything she does. At least that is the belief of a stenographer for an Indianapolis engineering company.

When opening the morning mail she came across a letter saying "You wrote us some time ago, stating that you were inclosing the billing for work done by your firm. The bills were not inclosed. However you did inclose two shipping tags, which we are returning."

All this time the company head has been wondering why a certain firm, somewhere in Indiana, has not paid for work done for it some time ago.

A Poor Excuse.

The man-from-next-door had no children of his own and being fond of children naturally made much over seven-year-old Alice and Ruth, her ten-year-old sister. But for some reason or another neither cared much for him. Alice, however, after discovering the fact that he was very generous after a show of affection often showered him with kisses. And for this Ruth took her to task. "You mustn't kiss him if you don't like him," she said.

Little Alice looked at her and smiled sweetiny, "Why not?" she asked. "It doesn't take very long."

SUES F. HAROLD VAN ORMAN

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 29.—Mrs. Susie B. Van Orman has entered suit in the Vanderburg county probate court against her husband, F. Harold Van Orman, asking for alimony and separate maintenance for herself and two small sons. She alleged in her complaint that they were married in September, 1914, and that since that time there has been continual strife between them, and that their "relations are intolerable."

Van Orman is the son of Fred Van Orman, a widely known hotel man, who was on the staff of Winfield T. Durbin when the latter was Governor, of Indiana. Van Orman is manager of the Hotel McCurdy and is the Republican nominee for state senator from Vanderburg county. He also is one of the most active members of the Evansville Rotary Club, and a year ago was a candidate for district governor of the Indiana Rotary Clubs.

Van Orman is prominent in the social, business and club life of the city. Mrs. Van Orman is a daughter of Dr. Jerome B. Beeler, of Evansville, and for a number of years was society editor of the Evansville Journal-News.

SHIPPERS WARNED TO HELP ROADS IN FREIGHT PLANS

2,700 Cars of Grain at Galveston, Texas, Must Be Unloaded at Once, Commission Says.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Shippers have been warned by the interstate commerce commission that they must co-operate with the railroads and the government in breaking the freight jam. The notice was served in the form of an order directing five railroads entering Galveston, Tex., to unload at once 2,700 cars of grain held in the yards there, and to restore the cars to service.

Although there was no official announcement by the commission that it would proceed along the same course in other cities, such suggestions have been made by railroad officials in objections to the use of freight equipment for what they describe as "public warehouses."

The railroads affected by the order were instructed to remove the grain, said to be nearly all wheat, to railroad or public warehouses wherever accommodation could be found. The unloading and the storage will be at the expense of the owners of the shipments.

The commission's action also gave indication that shippers who order cars will be required to load them promptly, and that no delay will be tolerated on the part of the shipper after the cars once are made available to him.

The standing committee of the Association of Railway Executives met here last night to discuss the general traffic situation and put in final shape the program they were to lay before the commission at the hearing to determine disposition of the revolving fund provided in the transportation act.

Since the government turned the roads back to private control, three months ago, the stronger companies have placed orders for $150,000,000 new equipment. The total equipment needs of the roads are estimated by the Association of Railway Executives at $610,000,000 for 1920, and conditions and betterments are estimated to require expenditures of approximately $400,000,000 additional.

House Insists On Free Seeds.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—For the third time in the last few weeks the house yesterday stood firm in its demand for government distribution of free seeds. The senate compromise, which would have permitted the distribution on request of individuals, was rejected by the house, which directed its conferees on the agriculture appropriation bill to insist on the house appropriation of $229,000 for the customary general distribution. With this instruction, the agriculture bill again was sent back to conference.
