PORTUGUESE AIR.

Zephyrs of Eve! who are creeping
The trellised vine above,
Haste where my Clara is sleeping—
Haste to the couch of love.
Whilst the young moon gazes brightly,
And stars through the lattice beam,
Glide to her pillow then lightly,
And list to the maiden's dream.
In her sleep thou shouldst number
The joys by my love possest,
Waken her not from her slumber,
Break not her gentle rest.
But if she dream that the morrow
All clouded with grief will be,
Steal from her heart every sorrow,
And bear it in sighs to me.

BEAUTY.

What is beauty? Alas! 'tis a jewel—a glass—
A bubble—a plaything—a rose—
Tis the sun, dew, or air; 'tis so many things rare,
That 'tis nothing one well may suppose.
Tis a jewel, love's token; glass easily broken;
A bubble that vanisheth soon;
A plaything that boys cast away when it cloyes;
A rose quickly faded and strewn.
Like the air it is felt; like snow it will melt;
It refresheth the heart like the dew:
And as nothing can vie with a brilliant blue eye,
'Tis like nothing, sweet lady, but you.

MISCELLANY.

BACHELOR'S ELYSIUM.

We are informed that there is in the other world, a place prepared for maids and bachelors called Fiddler's Green, where they are condemned, for the lack of good fellowship in this world, to dance together to all eternity.—One of a party, who had been conversing on this subject, after returning home, had his brain so occupied with it, that in a dream he imagined himself dead, and translated to this scene of incessant fiddling and dancing. After describing his journey to these merry abodes of hopping shades, he says, that on passing the confines, he perceived a female figure advancing with a rambling, rapid motion, resembling a hop, skip, and jump. He now cast his eyes upon his own person, as a genteel spirit would naturally do, at the approach of a female, and for the first time saw, that although he had left his substance in the other world, he was possessed of an airy form, precisely similar to the one he had left behind him, and he was clad in the ghost of a suit of clothes made of the newest fashion, which he had purchased a few days before his death. As the figure came near she slackened her pace, and struck into a graceful chassée forward, at the same time motioning to him to cross a rivulet, which he no sooner did, than he fell a dancing with incredible agility.

He was then conducted, or rather whirled away, by his fair companion, to the manager of the green, where he had an opportunity of beholding the congregated celibacy of the place. The grotesque appearance of the various groups particularly amused him. "The Grecian robe and the Roman toga, the monkish cowl, the monastic veil, and the blanket and feathers of the Indian, were mixed in ludicrous contrast." The allotment of partners were equally diverting.

"A gentleman in an embroidered suit led off a beggar girl; while a broad-shouldered Mynheer flaunted with an Italian countess. Queen Elizabeth was dancing a jig with a jolly cobbler, a person of great bonhomie, but who failed not to apply the strap when his stately partner moved with less agility than comported with his notions." His attention was then arrested by the appearance of a spare looking gentleman, advancing to the genius of the place in high glee. Poor man! he had no sooner come up to the group of ladies, than a tall, swarthy, lantern-jawed, antiquated virgin raised her foot, as a challenge for him to dance, whereupon they both fell to, and had danced six months when he left them, without any prospect of cessation.

Missouri cure for Intemperance.

The subject whose symptoms indicate a confirmed habit of intoxication, and who retains a spark of human understanding, should be placed in an apartment somewhat dilapidated, by time and neglect, and partially divested of its furniture; two broken chairs and a deal table may remain, and the latter should stand under a western window, the shutters of which should be so decayed and unhinged as to admit, under all circumstances, through a broken pane, the mellow rays of a declining sun. Upon the table there should be placed a big bellied balloon-like white glass bottle, containing a quantity of pale blue still-burnt whiskey, at the bottom of which some half-dozen of assorted flies, turning their saucer-eyes "Heaven-ward," should have have taken up their last abode. Near it should be placed a tin pitcher (of water) japanned with iron rust, and between them one of those gosling-green transversely fluted tumblers stained with milk. A cadaverous child should likewise be at hand, stretching its half famished visage over the edge of the table—and while the patient drinks from the above prescribed apparatus, the child must utter "bread! bread! bread!"

Conformity to the World.—I have observed (says Newton) that the world will often leave professors in quiet possession of their notions and sentiments, and places of worship, provided they will not be so stiff in the matter of conformity with their more general customs and amusements. But I fear many of them have had their prejudices strengthened against our holy religion by such compliances, and have thought that if there were such joy and comfort to be found in the ways of God as they hear from the pulpits, professors would not in such numbers, and so often, run amongst them, to beg a relief from the burden of time hanging upon their hands.

In our way of little life in the country, serious people often complain of the snares they meet with from worldly people, and yet they must mix with them to get a livelihood. I advise them, if they can, to do their business with the world as they do it in the rain. If their business calls them abroad, they will not leave it undone for fear of being a little wet; but then, when it is done, they presently seek shelter, and will not stand in the rain for pleasure; so providential and necessary calls of duty, that lead us into the world, will not hurt us if we find the spirit of the world unpleasant and are glad to retire from it, and keep out of it as much as our relative duties will permit.

ISAAC FAC TOTUM

An ignorant preacher being one day about starting on a journey, ordered a negro servant to bring his horse to the door, and sent him up stairs for some corn to feed him.—The negro being rather careless, scattered the corn along down stairs and out of doors, where an old sow was feeding, who getting the track of the corn, by degrees followed the train up stairs. After a while the preacher sent the negro up stairs for the saddle—By this time the old sow had found her way under the bed. The negro hearing the swinish grunt, and not knowing the cause of it, ran down in a terrible fright, crying out 'massa! massa! de debil be up stairs massa!' The master in an angry tone sent him up again. The negro hearing the grunt of the sow repeated ran down more scared than ever saying 'massa! de debil be up stairssartin! for I hear him go eh, eh, tree four times.' The master being somewhat superstitious, concluded to venture up himself, but gave the negro orders to pray for him while he was gone. No sooner had the knight of the black coat reached the top of the stairs, when the old sow rushing from her covert, ran between his legs and carried him down backwards—all the prayer the negro could make was Amen, which he pronounced very devoutly. The preacher no less terrified than his servant, cried out 'the devil has got me Cuff, why don't you pray?'—Amen, says the negro.

Valuable Medicine.

THE subscriber respectfully informs the public, that he is in possession of a medicine, which, if there are any such, justly claims the title of specific in curing Schirrous and Cancerous affections—so far as he has had an opportunity of witnessing its effects, it has never failed when the disease was not very far advanced, or situated on some part difficult of application.

Notwithstanding the great improvement made in the healing art, within the last few years, this proteus disease, when excision and extirpation are neglected in the incipient stage, for the most part, baffles the skill of the ablest and most experienced of the medical faculty, when treated in the usual manner with arsenical preparations.

Respecting the composition of this invaluable medicine, it might be proper to state it is prepared from a vegetable in a very condensed form; yet so mild when found in its native situation, as to be eaten by graminivorous animals, with impunity, as an article of food. From its action being confined almost entirely to the diseased surface, it is incapable of producing those disagreeable effects on the constitution consequent to the use of arsenical applications; which from the action of this mineral on the sound as well as diseased part—together with its general operation on the whole system, through the medium of the absorbents, must not unfrequently produce serious objections to its use, admitting it to be a certain cure.

Persons laboring under this disease, can have an opportunity of testing the benefits of this medicine, by putting themselves under the care of the proprietor, J. L. Watkins,—who has imparted a knowledge of this preparation to Dr. W. LINDSEY; whose advice and attention can likewise be had when necessary. Their place of residence is Lawrenceburgh, Indiana.

JOHN L. WATKINS,

Late from Princeton College.

Lawrenceburgh, July 15, 1825. 28—
N. B. Many certificates could be obtained from persons who have experienced the salutary effects of the above medicine, but I shall only cite the public to the following recommendation from a physician who has had considerable practice in it.

Hamilton, Butler county, (Ohio,) July 7, 1825.

Having been for several years acquainted with, and in the habit of using the same remedy for Schirrous Tumors and Cancers, which is prepared and used by Mr. John L. Watkins; I have no hesitation in pronouncing it the most certain in its effects in removing those affections, of any remedy which has heretofore been discovered; provided the disease be in a part of the body to which this medicine can be conveniently applied.

La Mott's Cough Drops.

IMPORTANT MEDICINE FOR COUGHS AND CONSUMPTIONS.

THIS Elixir is not offered to the public as infallible, and a rival to all others, but as possessing virtues peculiarly adapted to the present prevailing disorders of the breast and lungs, leading to consumption. A timely use of these Drops may be considered a certain cure in most cases of Common Colds, Coughs, Influenza, Whooping-Cough, Pain in the Side, Difficulty of Breathing, Want of Sleep arising from debility; and in Spasmodic Asthma it is singularly efficacious. A particular attention to the directions accompanying each bottle is necessary.

The following certificates from respectable gentlemen, physicians and surgeons, are subjoined, to show that this composition is one which enlightened men are disposed to regard as efficacious and worthy of public patronage.

Having examined the composition of Mr. Crosby's improvement upon La Mott's Cough Drops, we have no hesitation in recommending them to the public, as being well adapted to those cases of disease for which he recommends it.

Doct's JONATHAN DORR, dated Albany, December 4th, 1824; JAMES POST, of White-creek, February 14th, 1825; WATSON SUMMER and JOHN WEBB, M. D. of Cambridge, Feb. 20th, 1825; SOLOMON DEAN, of Jackson, January 10th, 1825.

Mr. A. Crosby—I am pleased with this opportunity of relating a few facts, which may serve in commendation of your excellent Cough-Drops. For ten years I was afflicted with a pulmonary complaint; my cough was severe, my appetite weak, and my strength failing I used many popular medicines, but only found temporary relief, until by a continued use of your valuable drops, I have been blessed with such perfect health as to render further means unnecessary. Rev. EBENEZER HARRIS. Salem, (N. Y.) January 12th, 1825.

Prepared by A. CROSBY, sole proprietor, Cambridge, (N. Y.) whose signature will be affixed in his own hand writing to each bill of directions. Be particular that each bottle is enveloped in a stereo or check label, which is struck on the same bill with the directions.
