

LAWRENCEBURGH.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1825.

The Circuit Court, sitting for this county, adjourned on Saturday last, after a session of one week, the greater part of which was taken up in trying criminal cases. The Grand Jury found upwards of thirty bills of indictment.

The expenses of the city of New-Orleans, as appears by a report of the city council, amount to something like 55 or $60,000 per annum, nearly a third more than the revenue or expenditure of this state.

On the 27th ult. all the sections on the canal line between Middletown and Cincinnati, not previously disposed of, were let out to contractors. The whole line will soon present a scene of lively operation, giving the strongest proof of its speedy completion. It is said the sections were taken at rates considerably below the estimates made by the commissioners.

A Philadelphia paper relates a case of speedy justice, where a prisoner was examined before the mayor—committed for trial—brought to trial—found guilty—and sent to the penitentiary, all in one day. We contend that we have beat the above in one particular. The sheriff of this county left here on Saturday last, having in tow a subject for the penitentiary—arrived at Jeffersonville on Sunday morning—deposited his charge, and returned to this place on Monday; performing, in a little over forty hours, a journey of something like two hundred and fifty miles! Some say that the sheriff stopt at the prison to see his prisoner washed, shaved, dressed in the usual costume, and make a pair of breeches. We do not hold ourselves responsible for the accuracy of this part of the story.

From the Constitution of July 17.

On Saturday four individuals of the Commune of Saint Laurent-du-Cerdans came on business to Ceret the principal town of the neighborhood. They entered a tavern to dine and ordered mutton chops. This tavern is situated on the public square; they were perceived eating meat by persons who took offence at it. On complaint to the mayor, he slightly reprimanded them, and they thought no more of their dinner a Ceret, until they were, on the information of the public prosecutor, cited to appear before the police court of Ceret, charged with the crime of outraging religious morals, and the public prosecutor required that they should be fined 300 francs, and imprisoned 1 year. The court did not impose this penalty, but ordered them to pay the costs of prosecution. Both the accused and the public prosecutor appealed from this sentence.

This case of a nature so novel, was bro't on the 9th of July, before the Court of Appeal which is held at Perpignan. The accused were defended by M. Saisset, who contended with much talent, for this principle, that the neglect to obey the commands of the church was not an offence punishable at law.

The court being of opinion that the facts charged against the accused did not constitute an offence under the 1st and 5th sections of the law of the 17th May, 1819, or of the first section of the law of the 25th March, 1822, acquitted them of the charge, and released them from the costs imposed upon them by the inferior court.

On Sunday, the 12th of June, 1825, M. B. Curate of the Commune of Blois department of Loir-et-Cher, after having merely read the pastoral letter of the Bishop, which prescribed prayers of thanksgiving on the account of the coronation of his Majesty Charles X. addressed his parishioners as follows:

My very dear brethren, as Charles the 10th is not a Christian; as he wishes to support the charter which is a law contrary to religion, we ought not to pray for him any more than Louis 16th, who was the author of this charter.

They are both damned—let those who are of my opinion rise—Immediately two thirds of the congregation, amounting to two or three hundred, rose to signify their approbation.

The celebrated optician Sfayel, of Basle, has just finished an improved telescope, sixty-four feet long. It is said that with the aid of this enormous instrument, several learned persons have been enabled to discover animated beings, roads, and mountains in the moon!

Amer. Sent.

Peter Tuchan, a Russian, who died on the 18th of June last, is represented to have been of far greater stature than Patrick Magee, the Irish giant, at present exhibited in Philadelphia.—The latter is but 7 feet two inches high, but Tuchan is said to have measured 8 feet 7 inches, so that the head of the tallest man hardly reached his breast. It is remarkable that he had no beard, that his voice was soft, and his feet weak; he was a very moderate eater, and it is said he was seven years old before he began to grow in such an extraordinary manner. His stature continued to increase, and it appears that he continued growing to his death. Ib.

Natchez, Sept. 7.

Natchez continues healthy, for the season. Since our last publication, there have been some deaths of yellow fever, persons who sickened "under the Hill." Those who reside in that part of the city, with a few exceptions, have closed their doors and moved out. Not a case has yet originated "on the Hill." We have ascertained from practicing physicians, that eight new cases of fever have occurred since the 2d inst., six of which are mild intermittent, and two remittent.

One of the methodist missionaries, just returned from the South Sea Islands, testified at a late public meeting in England, that he had seen cannibalism in its worst form, in New Zealand. On one occasion thirty prisoners were roasted, and feasted upon before the missionaries could withdraw.

A violent earthquake at Jerusalem, has recently destroyed two monuments, equally the pride of Musselmen and Christians. The first, the Mosque of the Caliph, Omer; the other, the Sepulchre built over Calvary.

GIANT'S BOOTS.—We have seen a beautiful pair of half boots, made for the Irish Giant by Mr. Nagle. They measure in the foot 15 3-4 inches, and are 18 inches at the top, which reaches the bottom of the calf of the leg. They are a curiosity in themselves. Nat. Chron.

A Religious Spaniel.—A few evenings, since, says the Carlisle Journal, while the singers belonging to Westmoreland were practising psalmody, a little spaniel dog who usually accompanies the singing master, observed, as is supposed, one of the party, a female, without a book in her hand all the rest having each one; the little animal, after ranging to and fro in the church for a considerable time, was seen coming up the middle aisle with a prayer book in her mouth, which she dropped at the feet of the above mentioned female, at the same time looking up at her, as much as to say "now you can join chorus," then wagging her tail, went and laid down—The above may be relied on as authentic.

A Clergyman for Sale.—In an auction advertisement in the Yorkshire Gazette, the following are offered to the highest bidder, at the Tiger Inn, Beverley.—"A most excellent Freehold and Tithe-free Farm; also the perpetual nomination to the Church of North Dalton, worth upwards of 70*l.* a year; and the present incumbent aged 36 years."

It is said that Constantius, the father of Constantine, finding, when he came to the throne, a considerable number of christians in office, and at court, issued an edict, requiring them to renounce Christianity, or quit their places. The far greater part of them readily and resolutely gave up their employments and prospects in order to preserve a good conscience; but a few cringed, and renounced Christianity. When the Emperor had thus made full proof of their disposition, he turned out every one who had complied, and took all the others in again, giving this reason for his conduct, that "those who would not be true to Christ would not be true to him."

In the ship Wm. Penn, a gentleman of Philadelphia, brought from Peru, a young Condor. This bird is supposed to be the largest of the feathered tribe; when full grown, its wings extend twenty-two feet from tip to tip.

It is a voracious bird, and subsists entirely on prey, and has been known to fly off with sheep and young children.—It is found among the Andes only.

A journeyman baker in London, has just gained, by lottery, the barony of Forkleschen, in the principality of Anspach, and is now in possession of 120,000 francs. The first use he made of his riches, was to buy 70,000 loaves of rye bread, which he distributed to the poor, with a pot of beer each.
