

MISCELLANY.

WASHINGTON DAY.

BY MRS. BARBAULD.

The Muses are turned gossips; they have lost The buskied step, and clear high sounding phrase, Language of gods. Come then, domestic Muse,
In shipshod measure loosely prattling on,
Of farm or orchard, pleasant curds and cream, Of drowning flies, or shoe lost in the mire By little whimpering boy, with rueful face; Come, Muse, and sing the dreaded Washing Day.

Ye who beneath the yoke of wedlock bend,
With bowed soul full well ye ken the day, Which week, smooth sliding after week brings on Too soon;—for to that day, nor peace belongs, Nor comfort;—ere the first gray streak of dawn, The red armed washers come, and chase repose.

No pleasant smile, or quaint device of mirth E'er visited that day: the very cat, From the wet kitchen, seared and reeking hearth,

Visits the parlor, an unwanted guest.
The silent breakfast meal is soon despatched Uninterrupted, save by anxious looks Cast at the lowering sky, if sky should lower.
From that last evil, oh preserve us heavens!
For should the skies pour down, adieu to all Remains of quiet; then expect to hear Of sad disasters,—dirt and gravel stains Hard to efface, and loaded lines at once Snapt short,—and linen horse by dog thrown down,

And all the petty miseries of life, Saints have been calm while stretched upon the rack,

And Gautemazin smiled on burning coals;
But never yet did housewife notable, Greet with a smile a rainy washing day.
But grant the welkin fair, require not thou Who call'st thyself perchance the master there, Or study sweep, or nicely dusted coat, Or usual tendance: ask not indiscreet, Thy stockings mended, though the yawning rents

Gape wide as Erebus; nor hope to find Some snug recess impervious; shouldst thou try
The "customed garden walks, thine eye shall rue

The budding fragrance of thy tender shrubs Myrtle or rose, all crushed beneath the weight Of coarse checked apron,—with impatient hand

Twiched off when showers impend; or crossing lines
Shall mar thy musings, as the cold wet sheet Flaps in thy face abrupt. Woe to the friend Whose evil stars have urged him forth to claim

On such a day the hospitable rites!
Looks, blank at best, and stunted courtesy, Shall he receive. Vainly he feeds his hopes With dinner of roast chicken, savory pie, Or tart or pudding: pudding he nor tart That day shall eat; nor though the husband try

Mending what can't be helped, to kindle mirth From cheer deficient, shall his consort's brow Clear up propitiously;—the unlucky guest In silence dines and early slinks away.
I will remember, when a child, the awe This day struck into me; for then the maids, I scarce knew why, looked cross and drove me from them,

Nor soft caress could I obtain, nor hope Usual indulgences, jelly or creams, Relic of costly suppers, and set by For me their petted one; or buttered toast, When butter was forbid; or thrilling tale Of ghost, or witch, or murder—so I went And sheltered me beside the parlor fire; There my dear grandmother, eldest of forms, Tended the little ones, and watched from harm, Anxiously fond, though oft her spectacles With elfin cunning hid, and oft the pins Drawn from her ravelled stocking, might have soured

One less indulgent.—
At intervals my mother's voice was heard, Urging despatch; briskly the work went on,
All hands employed to wash, to rinse, to wring, To fold, to starch, and clap, and iron, and plat.
Then would I set me down and ponder much Why washings were. Sometimes through hollow bowl

Of pipe, amused, we blew and sent aloft The floating bubbles; little dreaming then To see, Mongolian, thy silken bale Ride buoyant through the clouds—so near approach

The sports of children and the toils of men.
Earth, air and ocean bathed in bubbles,
And verse is one of them—this most of all.

John Gunn.—The Highlanders, with the inconsistency of most nations in the same state, (says Sir Walter Scott.) were alternately capable of great exertion of generosity, and of cruel revenge and perfidy. The following story I can only quote from tradition, but with such an assurance from those by whom it was communicated, as permits me little doubt of its authenticity. Early in the last century, John Gunn, a noted Cateran, or Highland robber, infested Inverness shire, and levied black-mail up to the walls of the provincial capital. A garrison was then maintained in the castle of that town, and their pay (country banks being unknown) was usually transmitted in specie, under the guard of a small escort. It chanced that the officer who commanded this little party was unexpectedly obliged to halt, about thirty miles from Inverness, at a miserable inn.
About night-fall, a stranger in the Highland dress, and of very prepossessing appearance, entered the same house. Separate accommodation being impossible, the Englishman offered the newly arrived guest a part of his supper, which was accepted with reluctance.
By the conversation he found that his new acquaintance knew well all the passes of the country, which induced him eagerly to request his company on the ensuing morning. He neither disguised his business and charge, nor his apprehensions of that celebrated freebooter, John Gunn. The Highlander hesitated a moment, and then frankly consented to be his guide. Forth they set in the morning; and in travelling through a solitary and dreary glen, the discourse again turned on John Gunn.

"Would you like to see him?" said the guide, and, without waiting an answer, he whistled, and the English officer, with his small party, were surrounded by a body of Highlanders, whose number put resistance out of the question, and who were all well armed. "Stranger," resumed the guide, "I am that John Gunn by whom you feared to be intercepted, and not without cause: for I came to the inn last night with the express purpose of learning your route, that I and my followers might ease you of your charge by the road. But I am incapable of betraying the trust you reposed in me, and having convinced you that you were in my power, I can only dismiss you unplundered and uninjured." He then gave the officer directions for his journey, and disappeared with his party, as suddenly as they had presented themselves.

From the German.—An emperor's daughter, who was delighted with the profound learning, the lively wit, and the strict adherence to the precepts of morality and religion, which characterized her tutor, one day, inadvertently, made this remark to him—"With a pity that so fine a soul as yours is not in a more agreeable body!" He made, in reply, the following inquiry. "In what sort of vessels, madam, is your father's wine preserved?" "In earthen vessels," was the answer. "Can that be possible?" replied he: "Why every citizen preserves his wine in earthen vessels; I should have thought that gold or silver ones would have been more suitable to the dignity of an emperor." "You are right!" exclaimed the princess, "and henceforth this mark of respect shall not be omitted." In a few days, however, she again accosted her tutor on this subject, saying, "In the gaudy vessels you recommended, my father's wine was spoiled; the spirit evaporated; while that wine which was placed in earthen ones, improved in quality." "Very possible!" rejoined the philosopher. "So also with virtue and knowledge, the more humble the exterior of that in which they are contained, the more luxuriantly will they flourish, and the more forcible excite our admiration."

"Jo Strickland" outdone.—The following is an order verbatim et literatim from a lieutenant of a militia company in this state, to his Serj. dated April 21st, 1826.
It may be considered as paramount to Jo Strickland's letter to his "glorious uncle Ben."—Woodstock Observer.

Legal Dexterity.—Sergeant Davy having abused a witness, as—ergants will abuse witnesses, was, on the following morning whilst in bed informed that a gentleman wished to speak to him; the Sergeant concluded that it was a client, desired that he may be shown up; the visitor stating his name, reminded the Sergeant of the abuse he had heaped on him on the preceding day, protesting that he could not put up with the imputations and must have immediate satisfaction or he should resort to personal chastisement. On this the Sergeant, raising himself up said "But you want attack me while I'm in bed, will you?" "Certainly not," said the aggrieved party; "I should never think of attacking a man in bed." "Then I'll be d-d," said the Sergeant as he laid himself down wrapping the clothes round him "if I get out of bed while you are in this town," —London Magazine.

A young lady looking into the family Bible, and observing the date of her birth, took her pencil and wrote—"Above the age of 21, and not yet given in marriage." This induced her father to write beneath, "He that giveth in marriage doeth well, but he that giveth not in marriage doeth better." To which she made the following reply, "Dear father, I love to do well, let those do better who can."

AN ORDINANCE!

To provide for assessing and collecting a Corporation Tax.

Sec. 1. Be it ordained by the President and Select Council of the Town of Lawrenceburgh, That it shall be the duty of the marshal, on or before the 1st Monday of August next, and on or before the 1st Monday of May annually thereafter, to take to his assistance two citizens of the town, whom he shall deem qualified for that purpose, (each of whom shall take an oath faithfully and impartially to discharge that duty,) and proceed to take a list of all the in and out lots within the bounds of the corporation with the valuation of each lot annexed to it, (without going into consideration the improvement,) also a list of each white male inhabitant twenty-one years old and upwards; which list shall be made in the same form prescribed by the Laws of the State of Indiana for listing the same objects for the purpose of taxing them for state and county purposes, and after being certified by the two assistants and attested by himself, he shall deposit it with the President.

Sec. 2. At the next meeting after such list is deposited, the President and Select Council shall proceed to lay such tax on the valuation of the property aforesaid, as they shall think necessary, not exceeding one per cent., and on each poll not exceeding one dollar, whereupon it shall be the duty of the Recorder forthwith to make out duplicate copies of such list, with the amount of each individual's tax annexed, in a separate column, one of which he shall deposit with the President and the other with the Treasurer.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the President as soon as practicable, after the duplicate is lodged with him, to deliver it to the Marshal, taking his receipt therefor, and also to issue his warrant, commanding him (the Marshal) to proceed and collect the amount in the same manner that the Sheriff is directed by the Laws of this State to collect the county revenue; and if necessary to proceed to distrain and sell as the Sheriff is directed by Law to do; Provided, if property will not sell at the first offer, for want of bidders, he may adjourn the sale from time to time until sold.

Sec. 4. In all sales of lots or other real estate made by virtue of this ordinance, the Marshal shall give the same notice the Sheriff is required by Law to do before he sells property for the payment of county taxes; and shall in all respects in selling, giving certificate of sale to the purchaser, and in all other proceedings, be governed by the provisions of the Laws of this State, pointing out the duty of Sheriffs in likewise for taxes, and the Marshal's certificate to purchasers shall have the same effect as the Sheriff's could or would have.

Sec. 5. All property sold for taxes by virtue of this ordinance, shall be subject to be redeemed in the same manner, in every respect, that property sold by the Sheriff for the payment of taxes may be redeemed.

Sec. 6. The Marshal shall on all occasions pay over money collected by him to the Treasurer in a reasonable time, and annually before the 1st Monday in February make a final settlement with the Treasurer; he shall be entitled to the same allowance for delinquencies, and the same per centum for collecting, and subject to the same damages for failure to collect and pay over, that the Sheriff in like cases is allowed or subject to pay for collecting or failing to collect the county revenue.

This ordinance shall be in force from and after its publication in the Indiana Palladium.

JESSE HUNT, President.

EZRA FERRIS, Sec. Pro tem.

the command of the aforesaid precept and the law for collecting the revenue, so make preparations and govern yourselves accordingly. To those that delay in the payment of their taxes paise for a moment and Refrct, and ask yourselves the question, what is the use of the legislature of any state to enact and pass laws for to assess and collect annually Revenue on certain property when you defer and neglect to discharge the same when due, or can it be possible that there is one of you that would wish me as collector to pay your taxes, only because I am bound under the penalty of an oath and in surety for the faithful discharge of my several duties as such in the sum of $5,000. Whatmore must I remind you of? I am necessary for me to inform you that I am bound to pay your taxes over at the proper departments as above stated under the penalties of 21 per cent in damages is it farther necessary to remark that the money does not belong to the collector and that he is only the instrument to bring it into the vaults of the treasury.

I therefore hope that those who are due and owing taxes for the years 1822, 1823, 1824, and 1825, will make immediate payment or I will be under the necessity of advertising their property for sale for the same: do not flatter yourselves with the hope of getting longer time for I am resolved to make settlements of all my business as Sheriff and Collector of said county. Notice is
