

LAWRENCEBURGH.

SATURDAY, JUNE 7, 1828.

"ARISTIDES" will be attended to next week; it came too late for this paper.

Fourth of July.—This evening, at candle light, the citizens of Lawrenceburgh and its vicinity, are informed that a meeting will be held at the Hotel of Jesse Hunt to make arrangements preparatory to the celebration of the coming anniversary of American Independence. A general attendance is expected.

His Excellency, the Governor of Indiana, arrived here on Thursday morning on his way north. His reception in this place was cordial, and his stay marked by the friendly attentions of our citizens.

On the first page of to-day's paper we have inserted the circular letter of the Hon. O. H. Smith, the member of Congress from this district. It contains much interesting and useful matter, compiled in a manner well suited to present concisely to the view of the reader the most important measures acted on by congress up to its date.

The bill from the house of representatives, to abolish the office of Major General of the Army of the United States, has been rejected in the Senate, by a vote of 20 to 20. The Vice President not being present did not vote.

Nominations.—Several of the papers printed in the middle section of this state, have announced HARBIN H. MOORE, of Harrison county, as a candidate for Governor at the next election. This gentleman was put in nomination some time since, but some doubts existing whether he would consent to run, has prevented his name from appearing in our paper at an earlier period.

The name of ABEL C. PEPPER, of this county has also appeared in several papers as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor.—This we presume, has been done without Col. Pepper's knowledge; and, however much it may be the wish of a great many of his fellow-citizens that he should stand a poll for that office, it is problematical whether he will consent.

JOHN H. THOMPSON, Lieut. Governor, has been announced as a candidate for Congress in the 2d district, in opposition to Mr. Jennings, the present member from that district.

Car of Commerce.—The number of lives lost at the bursting of the boiler on board of this boat, though not so great as was at first represented, is put beyond doubt as having been most dreadful, unparalleled by any former accident of a like nature in steam boat navigation. A late Louisville paper gives a list of the names of those who were killed at the time of the explosion, and who have since died on board the boat and at Louisville. This statement, it is added, is considered as correct; and probably is so—at least so far as the means within the knowledge of those who survived, enabled them to ascertain.

LIST OF THE DEAD.—Charles Ivers, 1st. engineer; James Piatt, 2d engineer; — Collins, Carpenter; — Bradley, a fireman; Peter —, a French boy, 2d cook; Huntsman and Ferrall, Sailors; five negroes, four of whom were firemen and one a steward. Passengers.—Nicholas Green, Pilot, of Florence; — Sanders, engineer, of New Albany, Ind.; two brothers named Smith, of Indiana; two brothers from the vicinity of Corydon Indiana, named Jessup; Mr. Bartlett, of Boston, cabin passenger; a French gentleman name not known; and two persons, names not mentioned, who died at Louisville—making in all 22.

Hail.—In a number of places through the eastern states, much damage has lately been sustained from violent hail storms. Whole fields of grain near Reading, Pa. have been entirely destroyed, and other vegetation seriously injured.

Our neighbor of the "Brookville Repository," has at length, after wading through six or seven columns "in reply," as he calls it, to the Editors of this paper, come to a halt; completely satisfied we presume, that he has beaten us most dreadfully, for our temerity in attempting to explain a matter, which he seemed anxious to know. How unfortunate! into what an interminable difficulty did our evil stars lead us, the day we penned that ill fated article! What a vast deal of labor to our well beloved brother of the Repository, did the act of a few thoughtless moments create! "Dimond!" said Sir Isaac Newton to his favorite dog, when he threw over a candle and destroyed some valuable papers, "Dimond! little dost thou know the damage thou hast done." We thought the editor of the Repository was asking for "information," and as we were in possession of certain facts, coming within the compass of his interrogatories, we felt a neighborly solicitude that he should know them; not dreaming that by this act of spontaneous kindness, we were likely to command any more than an acknowledgment of the favor done. But O! how mistaken. It is taken as an insult. Our worthy brother of the Repository plies us with plentiful potions of his favorite "quality," rich and racy, interlarded with Irish wit, turkeys, turkey-buzzards, cock fights, &c. intended, no doubt, to confound us with the multiplicity and the variety of ideas he could call to his aid, in order to show that he had been cheated & tricked out of the sweet-meats, he was wont to have in times past. But how shall we express our gratitude for the editor's humanity in the sequel? Words fail us. Reader! picture to thyself some gloomy hideous precipice, encircled with thorns, sharp, deadly poisonous, over which a powerful and victorious foe is urging thee to destruction; and then the interposition of some friendly spirit, touching his heart with the feelings of humanity to let thee live—imagine all this and you have a reflection of our feelings on closing the last number the editor's "reply." After tugging manfully for some three or four months to get the editors of the Palladium in a right position to hurl them to ruin, he stops short and says—don't "goad" me further, or I shall precipitate thee headlong down the steep. This is the situation in which he has left us, holding over our heads, in terrorem, "certain things he has in black and white." We suppose he here alludes to his printing balls, with which he intends to fit us for a voyage to Liberia. If we are wrong in this presumption, the gentleman can explain."

By a letter from the hon. O. H. Smith, we are informed that a law has passed Congress to authorize the sale of the school lands in this state.

We have been informed unofficially that the following appointments have been made by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate:

JAMES BARBOUR, to be Minister Plenipotentiary to Great Britain.

WILLIAM H. HARRISON, to be Minister Plenipotentiary to Columbia.

ALEXANDER MACOMB, to be Major-General, commanding the Army of the United States.—National Journal.

Greece, Turkey and Russia. At the latest dates, the Russian army, had not crossed the Pruth, but it is stated that the Danube has been passed, and several Turkish magazines on its borders destroyed; this report we consider doubtful, as all previous accounts would induce a belief that the Turks were willing to come to an arrangement, whereby the independence of Greece might be secured under certain stipulations; a blow once struck by Russia, could not be recalled, and the pride of the Ottomans would instantly induce them to break off all negotiations, and commence with vigor a contest which they appear well prepared to conduct. And as a further evidence that hostilities had not commenced, it is said that the courts of Austria and Prussia had resolved to accede to the treaty of the 6th of July, and to press upon the Porte the necessity of accepting the conditions proposed in it. But let this statement be true or false, it appears possible that some act of an audacious nature has taken place, for the Greeks have hoisted the national flag on board of all their ships; and it is currently reported and believed, that Ibrahim Pacha has received orders from his father to evacuate the Morea, and that transports had arrived in the Archipelago for the purpose of conveying the troops to Egypt.

According to previous notice, proposals have been received by the Governor for letting out the State Prison for three years. A Mr Keigwin of Jeffersonville received the contract. He takes the convicts without expense to the state, and pays into the treasury the sum of sixteen hundred dollars for three years. For several years past the Penitentiary has been let

The letters from the camp of general Church, again speak of the capture of Anatolico, and of the hope of the speedy surrender of Missolonghi.

A convoy of twenty sail, with ammunition and provisions, bound from Alexandria to Candia, was overtaken by a storm near Damiette, and most of the ships sunk, with their crews.

The writer of this note was present yesterday, at the birth of a female child in Penn township, where there were in the room at the time, the child, the mother, the grandmother, the great grandmother, and the great great grandmother—making five generations; all first born children but the great great grandmother. The great great grandmother dressed the child; she came several squares, and is in the habit of visiting her children, walking alone, and returning frequently at night. I hope she will live to see another generation.

The subjoined article has been circulated in most of the European journals.

Extract of a private letter of March 4th, from Constantinople:—"Several years ago, the United States of America endeavored to conclude a treaty of commerce with the Porte, upon the principle of reciprocal advantages.—This was opposed by England; and the Sultan, yielding to the influence of its ally, rejected the proposition. Now, however, that a difference has arisen between England and the Porte, the latter being desirous of forming an alliance with a great maritime power, has made overtures to the American Agent, Richards, who is at this moment, in Constantinople; but the powers with which that gentleman is invested do not authorize him to treat upon the subject, notwithstanding the Porte offers to America great commercial advantages, upon condition that, in the event of war with the European powers, the United States will afford efficient succor, or at least supply some armed vessels, for which the Porte promises to pay subsidies. Mr. Richards, however, is availing himself of these overtures to further the object of his mission, namely, to obtain commercial privileges for his nation. He has made a communication of the Porte's disposition to the American Consul, and also to the government of the United States."

Detroit, May 8.—We have received some information, which induces the belief that the Winnebagos have determined on commencing hostilities, during the ensuing Summer, upon the settlements and posts in the vicinity of their country. We are obliged to omit the particulars of our information to day.

St. Petersburg, (Russia) Feb. 25.

In order to avoid unpleasant occurrences and losses to commerce, the Department, at the desire of the Minister of Finance, hereby gives notice, that black cloth, with small white spots is henceforth prohibited; and, likewise, every species of dark clothes approaching in the least to green is prohibited, and will infallibly be confiscated.

Tea.—The N. York Journal of Commerce recommends the introduction of Tea Plants in the Southern States. It says about 6000 Tea Trees are growing luxuriantly in Brazil, where they have been introduced from China, with Chinese to attend them.

In England, a woman aged 21, has been capitally convicted of having set fire to the house of her husband. A question is reserved for the opinion of the Twelve Judges, whether or not it was a felony in a wife to set fire to her husband's house.

So confident were the British of success in their attack on New Orleans, and that they should obtain possession of that place, with all the "beauty and booty" thereof, it is said that after signing the treaty of peace, Lord Gambier, one of the English negotiators observed to the American Ambassadors, "Gentlemen you have made a good bargain for we shall have to restore to you New Orleans," and offered a sum of 7000 guineas, that it was then in possession of the British. Mr. Clay, who was one of the American negotiators, immediately took up the bet, and the money was staked. It is unnecessary to add, that by the unexampled skill of Gen. Jackson, and the valor of his troops, Mr. Clay, won the bet.

According to previous notice, proposals have been received by the Governor for letting out the State Prison for three years. A Mr Keigwin of Jeffersonville received the contract. He takes the convicts without expense to the state, and pays into the treasury the sum of sixteen hundred dollars for three years. For several years past the Penitentiary has been let out without any benefit to the state. This beneficial result, in the affairs of the state prison, has grown out of measures recommended by our present chief magistrate, and may be cited as one instance at least of capability to administer the government.

Five tons of Maple of Sugar have been made the present season in the town of London, Vermont, beyond what is sufficient for the consumption of the inhabitants of the town.

Indigo.—New-Orleans Indigo is generally of an excellent quality; but the more northern Indigo has not been very highly appreciated. The cultivation and manufacture of Indigo is said to be unhealthy, and we have heard that in India the laborers are often changed.

OBITUARY.

COMMUNICATED.

Messrs. Editors.—Through the medium of your paper, we would wish to mingle our sympathies with our bereaved christian friends, in Cincinnati, and pay a tribute of respect to departed worth, in the recent removal of our esteemed and long to be lamented SISTER WEST; who left this vale of tears for mansions of rest, on Monday last. The circumstances attendant on her dissolution we have not learned, further than that her sickness was long and distressing.—That her soul took its flight, "rejoicing in the hope of a blessed immortality." Though ten years have elapsed since her residence in this place, that devoted life—that humble walk—that holy zeal and pious example (joined with conciliating manners and cultivated mind) remains unsullied by the lapse of time. Her memory will ever live in the hearts of her numerous acquaintances and friends, it will be cherished by those on whose young and tender minds she impressed the precepts of religion, and revered by christians as one of their brightest ornaments.

A husband mourns, two little cherubs sigh, While angels waft her spirit through the sky; The poor will o'er her tomb fresh laurels spread, And Orphans' tears will deck her narrow bed.
