MASONIC MIRROR AND COLONIZATION ADVOCATE.

It is very philosophically observed by Addison, "that our greatest pride arises from doing good to each other," or in other words, being individually serviceable to society.

In offering a new enterprise to the notice of the public, the subscribers are aware of the obstacles to be surmounted; but they deem it a reflection upon the intelligence of a free people, to specify the advantages arising from the existence, in the West, of a well conducted publication on the two leading subjects of the Mirror and Advocate.

The MIRROR and ADVOCATE, will advocate the unsullied principles of Free Masonry and Colonization. Literature and the Arts shall find in it, an untiring and zealous friend. Sketches of the eloquence of the bar, of the sacred desk, and of popular assemblies, shall occasionally flash in our pages. To these, our poetical column will and another recommendation.

It is useless to be more explicit, as we presume the want the proposed journal is not only admitted, but generally relying upon their love of justice and of public virtue await their decision.

The Masonic Mirror and Colonization Advocate, is published every other Tuesday. The terms are $1 25 per annum, payable in advance; $1 50 if not paid until the expiration of six months; or $1 75 if payment be delayed until the end of the year. Agents will be allowed ten per cent on all subscribers they should obtain. Care will be taken to have the work well packed when sent by mail.

PROPOSALS

For publishing the "Ohio Farmer and Western Horticulturist," a semi-monthly newspaper, in the town of Batavia, Clermont county, Ohio, by SAMUEL MEDARY.

WHEN I presented the following proposals for publishing the "Ohio Farmer and Western Horticulturist," it was under extreme doubts, as regarded its success; knowing that such works were too commonly confined to the patronage of the select few. Determined, however, to try the experiment at all risks, and several agriculturists having pledged themselves to use their influence in giving it circulation, I commenced issuing a prospectus. I am already satisfied that the proposed publication will meet with an extensive patronage, and the decided approbation of those who are engaged in the various branches of Agriculture, and the Mechanic Arts.

I expect, and am already promised the assistance of several pens, the wielders of which possess the necessary requisites, to make any periodical interesting and useful. This work being devoted to the interests of the "Great West," and treating on subjects characteristic of the Mississippi Valley, will be either beneficial or interesting to every portion of the Union. Raising and improving stock—dissemination of animals—the vine—culture of silk—orchards—Field and Garden seeds—Improvements in mechanic Arts—Botany—Geology and Mineralogy—and sales of valuable public lands, are all topics, which will be noticed, and investigated, in a manner both amusing and instructive.

In addition, the editor is about commencing an experiment with the grape in this region, in connection with a nursery of fruit and ornamental trees, and he is anxious to obtain all the information upon these subjects, which science and experience have brought to light, and which he will convey to his readers for mutual advantage. He considers his location an advantageous one; although comparatively new, the surrounding country is densely inhabited with a thriving and industrious population, almost exclusively agricultural, sufficiently adjacent the Cincinnati market, (the best west of the Alleghany,) to give a stimulus to improvement in every variety of products; added to which is a soil, highly fertile and productive.

The Bank note list will be as extensive as possible, suited to any portion of the country, with a notice of the counterfeits on each. The review of the markets will be rather a condensed survey of the whole, and the state of trade, than confined to any particular point.

At the end of every volume, an extensive and complete index and title page will be furnished.

Ohio Farmer and Western Horticulturist.

Owing to the solicitations of several friends of Agriculture, I propose to issue a paper from this place under the above title. A work to promote the cause of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts, published in a cheap and compendious form, and taking a general view of the condition and resources of these branches of industry in the West, is considered an object of general utility, and interest, especially at this time. It is true, several works, partaking in a measure, of the same nature, already exist; but by a law of the State Legislature, passed February, 1833, for the encouragement of Agriculture—societies are shooting up in every direction. As these increase, the demand for information will increase in a corresponding ratio. Knowledge begets improvement and industry, and these, wealth; for it is a fact well known to the intelligent observer, that the wealth of the farmer increases in proportion to the improvements made in the stock and culture of his farm.

The labour saving machines, invented by the ingenious mechanic, have done much to facilitate the business of the Agriculturist where introduced; and the improved breed of animals, that fatten upon his well tilled soil, add luxuries to his table and riches to his store.

Subjects which come appropriately under the head of Horticulture, will, as the title of the paper designates, be interspersed through the work.

This paper will endeavor to excite a proper spirit of rivalry and ambition among the Western tillers of the soil; and will contain a regular record of the most interesting proceedings of the numerous Agricultural Societies that may come under the editor's notice. It will also contain, at least quarterly, a general list of solvent Banks in the Union—and a review of the markets.

Much might be said on the importance of such a work, but the limits of a prospectus do not admit of it; the foregoing will give a general outline of its object.

The OHIO FARMER AND WESTERN HORTICULTURIST, will be published semi-monthly on a medium sheet with new type, and in quarto form, suitable for binding at $1 50 per annum in advance, or on the reception of the first No. All notes on solvent Banks, received in payment.

Any person, obtaining five subscribers, shall receive the sixth copy gratis, and in the same proportion for a greater or less number.

The first No. will be issued on the first day of January, 1834.
