

MEDICAL BILLS BEFORE SALONS HELD A MENACE

Passage Means Individual
Would Be Helpless, Says
New York Speaker.

ASKS FOR SQUARE DEAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—"Do you know that there are bills now before congress, the passage of which will render the individual all but impotent in health matters? That if such measures pass the individual, in the hour of illness, will be compelled to accept, without question, such preventive and therapeutic measures as omniscient and all but omnipotent medicine sees fit to prescribe, and that his protests will be of no avail?" These questions were asked by Charles Salomon in the course of an address on "The Failure of Medicine in the War," delivered under auspices of the New York Anti-Vivisection society here. Mr. Salomon said, in part:

"Our reorganized army will number at least 500,000 men, and with the navy and marine corps and national guard we will have about 750,000 men in our defensive forces. Each is a potential victim of present-day medical practices. It is not for him to decide a privilege possessed by his British brother-in-arms—whether he shall be inoculated with leetle disease products. The decision rests with his medical superiors, and he must submit to any medical practice, no matter how insane or revolting or injurious he may consider it, or suffer certain punishment."

THESE RESERVE SQUARE DEAL

"These men deserve a square deal in this and their friends outside the service should see that they get it. Their medical and religious prejudices alike are sacred, the former even more so than the latter, and the enlisted men should be more compelled to submit to a medical rife which is abhorrent to him, than by bitter experience he has learned to dread, than he should have forced on him obnoxious religious rites, the inestimable privilege of medical liberty is possessed in some measure by the enlisted men of the British empire, and there is no good reason why it should be denied the American sailor, soldier and marine. The particular evil of which we complain is not entirely confined to the military and naval spheres. Regular medicine is intruded in power as well in the civil sphere. It is not satisfied with such power as has been filched from the people, but ever seeks more power; seeks to make itself as supreme in peace time as in war, in the civil state as in the defensive forces of the nation."

MEDICAL OCTOPUS NEVER SLEEPS

"The medical octopus never sleeps. What its tentacles have grasped can only be pried loose with difficulty. Its proclaimed aim is to make itself supreme in every department of the government. If you would know the power of the shameless bid for absolute power embraced in the bill for a department of health, submitted by Senator Owen a few years ago. Those sponsors for perdition and un-American measures have drawn in their horns a trifle and would have us believe that their views in a measure have changed. But it may be proclaimed without the possibility of successful contradiction that the aims of these atrocious ones have not changed a particle, that the only change is in the procedure. Before they wanted all power over the public at once. Now they are content with a little power at a time. Let but the insatiable desire of increased medicine be partially satisfied and the individual surely will be deprived of liberty, the right to pursue happiness and in some few instances, of life itself. The issue is drawn. The individual will be compelled to side with one party or the other. On one side is the public, that is to be suffered over its health, that would decide what treatment is to be had either to prevent or to cure disease. On the other is ranged selfish medical and bacteriological interests, medical men of the old school, that would meet the competition of progressive medicine by ruthlessly crushing it out by the strong and unyielding tactics which have been secured from complacent legislators and which the great bacteriological laboratories, capitalized at millions of dollars, whose chemical products they and their medical tools, stockholders in many instances, would force upon the people whether it will or no."

SEEK QUARTERS FOR VETERANS

Directors Aim to Bring National Offices Here.

Establishment of the national headquarters of the World War Veterans of America is the aim of the directors of the campaign for new members now being conducted in Indiana. It was announced today. The officers in charge declare that they believe that there is an excellent chance of having the national offices brought here from Aurora, Ill., when the campaign is completed.

A meeting of veterans, whether members of the organization or not, is to be held on the fourth floor of the court-house at 8 o'clock tonight. It will be for the purpose of sounding sentiment on the question of a bonus for veterans.

Officials in charge of the campaign declared the drive is proving a great success throughout the state. Letters have not been received from some places as yet.

Headquarters for the campaign is in street car at the corner of Pennsylvania and Market streets.

The World War Veterans were organized at Blois, Loire-et-Cher, France, on November 20, 1915, just nine days after the signing of the armistice.

Silk Hat Returns to Favor in London

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The silk hat, which in days gone by was the conventional and inevitable headgear of the business man of any standing at all, is creeping back. But London reveals its new war conventions in another direction.

Dinner jackets actually have been seen, a hair dozen or more of them, at social functions in such exclusive places as Londonderry house. A few years ago men might well have been turned back from any society door as improperly dressed if they came attired in anything but dress suits.

MEXICANS HIT BY SCARCITY IN SMALL CHANGE

Mints Unable to Meet Demands for Silver Money Due to Unrest.

CHANGERS MAKE PROFIT

By DR. J. A. WATTS,
Newspaper Enterprise Association Correspondent.

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 31.—Money, fashions, flowers, fruits, dirt and trade cargoes—these are certain to attract the attention of the soldiers from the United States in Mexico.

Mexico is now on a wholly metallic basis, so far as money is concerned. This condition has been forced through a long series of worthless issues of paper money by various revolutionary factions prior to the inauguration of Carranza as president.

There is an abundance of native gold and silver out of which to coin money. All coins above ten-centavo pieces are of silver or gold. Inability of mints to meet the demand has created a shortage of change. This shortage has been taken advantage of by money changers all over the republic.

It is almost impossible to buy merchandise in large or small quantities, unless you are able to make your own change. From 2 to 5 per cent is commonly charged by money changers for converting 10 or 20 peso pieces into silver or small denominations.

WITHDRAWAL OF PESO LARGELY TO BLAME

This shortage was made more acute about two years ago through the withdrawal from circulation of the old Mexican silver peso. This was caused by the advance in the price of silver, which made the peso worth approximately 30 per cent more than its face value as a billion. The new Mexican silver coins do not contain as high a percentage of silver as these old peso pieces.

It is hard to conceive of a store refusing to sell one cigar because one has not the exact change, but that is the case all over Mexico. One also encounters difficulty in buying food while traveling, for the reason that food merchants at the stations are unable to make change readily. Often a meal may cost $2 because of this scarcity of change.

We in the states might learn something from the well-regulated taxicab system of Mexico City, arrived in the capital at 3 a. m. My baggage was carried to a taxicab by a licensed and numbered cangaroo. These cangaroos insist upon showing travelers their numbers, in compliance with the law, and it is wise for any stranger traveling in Mexico to note the number carefully. Most of the cangaroos, however, can be relied upon to handle your baggage with care and perfect safety.

POLICEMAN KEEPS TAB ON TAXI TRIP

Once your baggage is deposited in a taxicab a policeman is on hand to note the license number, the names of passengers and destination. The policeman gives the passenger a slip with these facts recorded, which should be retained in case the vehicle is stopped for any reason. Taxicab rates are plainly posted in the cars.

Along the route to Mexico City I found the towns dirty, but the grocer and fruit stands were surprisingly stocked. Prices for fruit and flowers are so ridiculously low in comparison with prices in the states that one is tempted to buy in a ridiculously overpriced. One can buy a bouquet of roses as big around as a bushel basket for 50 cents, American money.

Much more detailed reports of taxable property will be required hereafter than have previously been required in Indiana, according to the state board of tax commissioners. These reports will require householders to list their property in detail. Thirty-nine classes of household goods being specified. This also will be true of farm implements. The lists will be explained to assessors at their first meeting, which opens next Friday.

The district deputies of the Elk lodges of Indiana will meet in Indianapolis in a few weeks to make plans for the Indiana delegation to attend the 1920 sessions of the grand lodge to be held in Chicago during the week of July 5 next.

Indianapolis lodge has already engaged quarters for more than 300 members at a Chicago hotel for the convention. The annual meeting of the Indiana Elks' association will be held at Bedford, Ind., on June 2 and 3.

The Marion county grand jury will investigate the holdup of Edward M. Hall, 2314 Union street, and the stealing of his automobile. Following a preliminary hearing, City Judge Walter Pritchard bound Clarence Thomas, 1265 West Thirty-fifth street, and Raymond Carpenter, 1145 West Thirty-second street, to await the action of the grand jury. Bonds were fixed at $2,000 each. It is alleged that they stole Hall's auto and drove it to Santa, Ind., and burglarized a general store there.

Plans are being formed by the committee on mental defects, which met with Amos W. Butler, secretary of the board of state charities, yesterday afternoon, to continue an investigation of the problem of mental defects. The members of the committee are Rev. Francis H. Bask, Indianapolis, chairman; Dr. George P. Edenharter, Indianapolis; Dr. Samuel E. Smith, Richmond; Dr. Charles P. Emerson, Indianapolis; Dr. W. V. VanNoy, Newcastle; Dr. George S. Ellis, Ft. Wayne; Robert Bracken, Frankfort; Charles A. McGonagle, Plainfield; James L. Kingsbury, Indianapolis; and Mr. Butler, secretary.

Perjury charges brought against Mrs. Reuby Carter because of alleged conflicting statements she made before the coroner's court following the death of W. L. Taylor, who was stricken ill in a local hotel, were continued indefinitely in city court today. Her attorneys attacked the case on the ground that no one in the coroner's court was empowered to administer oaths. Coroner Robinson said today that he has since obtained a notary's certificate for his clerk, Miss Ruth Curtis.

The court based his opinion on the grounds that the oath, which is required by law to be administered to the judge advocate and other members of the court-martial, was not given.

"Even assuming that the Indiana State Militia was and is a lawful organization and that the petitioner, Richard V. Sipe, was duly enlisted as a member of it," the court said, "and that a proper order was made convening the court-martial referred to in the return to this writ, without undertaking to decide that any of them were or are in any way unlawful, it is still true that the members of the court-martial and the judge advocate wholly failed and omitted to take the oath prescribed by the statute, the taking of which is absolutely essential to the lawful organization of a court-martial under the laws of Indiana, but that they respectively took oaths which were wholly different in substance from the prescribed oaths."

Judge Ewbank held that the failure to take the required oath "could not and did not" give the court-martial "criminal jurisdiction."

The court held that the writ of the state does not constitute a sufficient cause for arrest and the detention of Sipe.

Attorney White, representing the attorney general's office, said that the state would "protect its rights" and indicated that an appeal would be taken.

SIPE FREED IN MILITIA CASE

Richard V. Sipe, county clerk of Marion county, will not have to serve five days at hard labor on the penitentiary on orders of an Indiana state militia court-martial, because the court-martial failed to take the required oath before trying Sipe.

This was decided yesterday by Judge Louis B. Ewbank of circuit court, in Sipe's writ of habeas corpus case against Adjt. Gen. Harry B. Smith and other officers of the state militia.

Judge Ewbank did not rule on the legality of the state militia, which was attacked by counsel for Mr. Sipe, who alleged that no law existed under which it could be suppressed.

The court based his opinion on the grounds that the oath, which is required by law to be administered to the judge advocate and other members of the court-martial, was not given.

"Even assuming that the Indiana State Militia was and is a lawful organization and that the petitioner, Richard V. Sipe, was duly enlisted as a member of it," the court said, "and that a proper order was made convening the court-martial referred to in the return to this writ, without undertaking to decide that any of them were or are in any way unlawful, it is still true that the members of the court-martial and the judge advocate wholly failed and omitted to take the oath prescribed by the statute, the taking of which is absolutely essential to the lawful organization of a court-martial under the laws of Indiana, but that they respectively took oaths which were wholly different in substance from the prescribed oaths."

Judge Ewbank held that the failure to take the required oath "could not and did not" give the court-martial "criminal jurisdiction."

The court held that the writ of the state does not constitute a sufficient cause for arrest and the detention of Sipe.

Attorney White, representing the attorney general's office, said that the state would "protect its rights" and indicated that an appeal would be taken.

WOMEN INSIST ON RECOGNITION IN WORLD PACT

British Suffrage Leader Says
Shackles Must Be Taken
From All Females.

EAST BIGGEST PROBLEM

LONDON, Jan. 31.—"The league of nations has got to fully recognize the woman suffrage movement in every way, for the women of the world will have to take drastic and telling action."

This was the declaration made by Miss Chrystal Macmillan, first recording secretary of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, on her return from Spain, where she has been for the purpose of arranging for the international convention of the organization next May. This will be the first international convention held in a year before the world war, and in the meantime many changes have occurred, several countries having granted full or partial suffrage to both sexes.

WOMEN DENIED IN SOME COUNTRIES.

"In spite of the fact that many of the countries of the world have granted equal rights to women," continued Miss Macmillan, "it is a fact that there are many so-called intelligent nations which deny equal rights to us. Spain, Italy and France in this hemisphere and all the South American nations in the western world refuse to recognize the right of women to have an equal decision with the men in vital matters of social or political interest. This is going to be altered and all the energies of the Women Suffrage Alliance are going to be devoted to seeing that these nations, together with China and Japan, give us what we should have."

"After seven years the International Alliance is going to hold its full convention in Madrid, from May 2 to May 8, inclusive. This meeting, held at so critical a period of the women's movement, and during the time has come a time of separation, is of supreme importance. Since our last convention, held at Budapest in 1913, thirteen new countries have given the suffrage to women, but many still remain in darkness."

WOMEN OF EAST STILL "PRISONERS."

"There are also the women of the east, for whom the work of emancipation has hardly begun. Even in the countries which have the suffrage for women there is much to be done, for in many of them there exist an equal standard, full economic opportunities or equality in marriage relations. This must be altered and we must—will—insist on our rights in these matters."

"The league of nations must incorporate in its rules such amendments or orders required by the free women of the world, so that they can be equal when we demand our rights and full recognition, and only by concerted action can we obtain what we desire."

"Delegates to the convention will be present from all over the world. India will send a strong and representative delegation, and there will also be representatives from China and Japan. We believe that the convention will have a marked effect on the progress of the world, and that the results of our deliberations will be studied by the various governments in the countries interested."

HUNTER TAKES OVER 400 LIONS

Ben Lily Champion American
Hunter of Big Game.

America's champion lion hunter didn't win his laurels in the jungle of Africa. He won his title right here in the old S. A. state to which he has returned with some 400 lion scalps to his credit.

This lion hunter's name is Ben Lily. His home is wherever vicious big game—American lions, grizzlies, wolves, coyotes or bobcats—are preying upon the herds of American ranchmen. Just now he is assisting live stock associations of New Mexico to rid that territory of predatory animals. Next month he may be farther west, on the trail of wild and lawless timber wolves. For he is a real policeman of the wilds, and his best is the whole wild west.

Ben of Louisiana family, 14 years away from home at an age when most youngsters are struggling with the intricacies of the three R's. Henceforward his schooling consisted of gaining a first-hand knowledge of the habits and habits of such beasts as mountain lions and grizzly bears and of packing a sixty-pound kit-bag and a heavy rifle over practically impassable trails through the rough and rugged canyons of the Texas, New Mexico and Arizona mountains.

At voting age young Lily was as good as a lion hunter. He was a predator and a hunter of lions, grizzlies and coyotes, who spend their lives in delving through text books dealing with life in the jungle.

To Lily, a complete knowledge of the habits of such predators as the grizzly and lion meant not only livelihood but also life—as he has been cornered times innumerable when only his ability to out-trick the lions, bears and wolves enabled him to get away with a whole skin.

On one occasion an enraged lioness cornered Lily with one of his dogs a considerable distance from his camp. Lily was unarmed, except for a rather frail-looking pocket-knife, which he carried. The dog engaged the maddened lioness, but soon was severely wounded. Then Lily entered the fray and despite his lack of fighting equipment his knowledge of how a lion fights enabled him to conquer.

A particularly obnoxious grizzly caused a lioness to attack and maul a man in the prominent live stock region of Arizona several years ago. Alarmed by the ravages of brute and unable to track the marauder to his lair, the local ranchmen finally hired Lily to trail down the beast.

This bear led Lily a chase through four states before he was finally able to get within range of bullets and drop him. During the last seven years "Lily" has killed 167 mountain lions and sixty-five dangerous bears, a large number of which were grizzlies. During the decade and a half which preceded, he was employed by the federal government to collect wild animal exhibits for use in museums and parks.

It is giving him that during his lifetime he has saved western ranchers aggregate losses in live stock of $1,000,000. This is based on the fact that the average cost of a lion is $100 and of a grizzly bear, the grizzly bear and mountain lion, respectively, $500; and the bobcat or coyote, each $50.

TRUST FEARED IN SHIP SALES

Government Watches Bids on Hundreds of Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Government officials are carefully investigating all bids made on the hundreds of ships it has for sale, taking every precaution to prevent the vessels falling into the hands of a gigantic shipping trust.

Government officials believe this trust has already been formed, with the object of buying in the best of the shipping board vessels at low rates.

It was learned yesterday the International Mercantile Marine, a New York corporation, has offered to purchase in a single block all of the thirty former German passenger vessels, recently put on the market by the shipping board.

The price offered was not disclosed. But although the International Mercantile Marine is not suspected of being involved in the workings of the alleged trust, and so far as officials know it is acting entirely for its own interests, the government's precautions are so thorough that it is believed the offer of this corporation will be turned down. The shipping board is opposed to control over a fleet of too many ships by a single concern.

AGED SALVATION ARMY MEN FIGHT

Police Arrest John McIntosh,
70, and Henry Watson, 76.

Henry Watson, 76, and John McIntosh, 70, both employed at the Salvation Army hotel, on South Capitol avenue, were arrested yesterday on charges of assault and battery. They had been fighting one another for several minutes when police arrived.

Each expressed chagrin and sorrow over the incident. Watson said he was a member of the three R's. Henceforward his schooling consisted of gaining a first-hand knowledge of the habits and habits of such beasts as mountain lions and grizzly bears and of packing a sixty-pound kit-bag and a heavy rifle over practically impassable trails through the rough and rugged canyons of the Texas, New Mexico and Arizona mountains.

BRITISH FREIGHT RATE INCREASES MAY CUT COSTS

100 Per Cent Boost on Some Articles Expected to Reduce Congestion.

PORTS OF ENTRY CHOKED

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The ministry of transport has just unobtrusively announced by means of a modest advertisement in the newspapers the long deferred increase of railway freight rates. This attention to the railway rates is a complex problem of transport congestion which has been so injurious to the welfare of
