

COTTON MARKET OPENS HIGHER

Profit Taking Hits Old Crop, but New Holds Strong.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Late months led in an advance of 5 to 32 points at the opening of the cotton market today. Profit taking later pressed the market about 10 points from the top on old crop months, but failed to affect the new deliveries which remained strong during the first twenty minutes at a net advance of about 28 points.

LIVERPOOL, March 11.—Spot cotton quiet; prices steady. 500 bales; American medium, fall, 23.10d.; good middling, 30.10d.; full middling, 29.10d.; middling, 28.10d.; low middling, 24.50d.; good ordinary, 21.60d.; ordinary, 20.60d. Futures were quiet.

Boasts in Court of Coroner's Cocktail

A "coroner's cocktail" has no terrors for Clarence Morton, negro.

Clarence bought a half-pint of wood alcohol at an Alabama street garage under the pretense to put into the engine of his automobile.

When Lieut. Shubert met him at Park avenue and Seventeenth street he was occupying most of the sidewalk in a strenuous effort to walk an imaginary tight-wire with his eyes closed. His arms were outstretched and waving wildly.

"It didn't matter if it was poison, judge," he told Judge Pritchard in city court today. "Tee all right. I was about three-fourths of it, I guess, and it wasn't so bad."

"Dollar and costs—it's a wonder you're not dead," said the judge.

Soldier-Prisoner Escapes at Fort

Eugene Mahoney, a soldier-prisoner at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, escaped today and the police were asked to watch for him. Mahoney was working with several other prisoners about the grounds under surveillance of a guard when he escaped.

Observations taken at 7 a. m. March 11, 1920, by United States Weather Bureau.

Since Wednesday morning rains have been extensive in the eastern states of the central valleys, and also in the middle and southern Rocky mountain section, while snow flurries have occurred in the far northwest. Temperatures are higher from the Mississippi River state westward, but lower again from the Dakotas and Wyoming northward. Readings, however, are generally near or above the seasonal norm, except in northern Manitoba, where a field of high barometric pressure with temperatures below zero has appeared.

FLU CURED BY SUN. TOLEDO, March 11.—Bill Rantschaw works for a commission company. He receives many bottles of unfermented grape juice samples. "I set 'em along the window sill in the sun," confides Bill, "and when I drink I cure my flu."

SUCH IS LIFE

Alf is a ranch for the cooties. The ones that he raises are beauties.

He can not find uses for all he produces. They bite him and fight him.

And draw out his juices. They're constantly feeding.

They're constantly leading Poor Alf to a step that he dreads and he fears.

Hot water! Hot water and suds in his ears!

Topmost, tallest giraffe in America, got his feet wet.

Quincy followed. Took six rolls of absorbent cotton, ten yards of flannel, and an hour's time bandage Topmost's throat.

In the Spring a Man's Fancy Turneth.

Antonio Di Lanna, Philadelphia, 82 years old, embarked upon his fourth matrimonial cruise the other day.

Carl Witt, Denver, Colo., sues for divorce because his wife hadn't caressed him in fourteen years.

Mrs. Alice Munro, Kansas City, Mo., wants a divorce because her husband "can't shun him worth a cent."

George H. Harris, Kearney, Neb., had the Hi Costa Living backed off the boards for four weeks; it cost that long.

WILL LIFT VEIL ON SPIRITS HERE

Do spirits of the dead take an interest in affairs of the world and communicate with the living?

"Yes," says Sir Oliver Lodge, English scientist and lecturer, who will appear at the Caleb Mill hall, Shortridge High school, on the evening of March 23, when he will explain why and how it is possible, in his judgment, to communicate with spirits of those departed.

Sir Oliver will speak here under the auspices of the psychical research section of the Women's Department club, of which Mrs. Ord Butler Jameson is chairman. He is scheduled to deliver his lecture on "Evidence of Survival," which is said to be the most famous address on spiritual communication.

The eminent British scientist is known as one of the world's foremost physicist leaders, has had a brilliant career and made many important discoveries, especially in electrical phenomena. Sir Oliver is credited with having made the first model for detecting and creating electric waves and investigating their properties.

One of his most famous discoveries was the "coherer" for detecting radio-magnetic waves, which he devised the first practical wireless telegraph on which messages could be sent several hundred yards. It was upon this discovery that Marconi is said to have based his invention and development of wireless communication.

Sir Oliver came to America Jan. 16 and delivered fourteen lectures in New York. He was first scheduled to deliver only four, but met with such hearty personal response that speaking courses was expanded before he started his western tour. His interest in spiritual phenomena was said to have started during his work on electrical research. Sir Oliver is the author of the famous book "Raymond," which is reputed to have added a great impetus to the spiritualistic movement throughout the world.

JUDGE WINDS UP WILD RITUAL.

In a city court Judge Walter Pritchard announced in writing the last chapter of the young men's ritual. Many students of Butler College were on hand.

The court was stern as Jones and Porter lined up in front of his bench.

"This initiation isn't over yet, is it?" Pritchard asked.

No one was willing to say that it was over wasn't.

"Well, if you two will go downstairs and take those chickens back where you got them, I'll suspend sentence."

When Jones and Porter were seen last they were boarding an Irvington street car each with a chicken tucked under his arm.

The chickens came from the home of John C. Gates, 5838 Dewey avenue.
