

AMERICA'S DRY FIGHT PRAISED BY LADY ASTOR

Says England Should Begin Teaching Children for Future Results.

BABY VERSUS BREWER

By FLOYD McGRUFF.
Staff Correspondent International News Service.

LONDON, March 13.—American educational methods that helped to make the United States "dry" were praised today by Viscountess Nancy Astor, M. P., who is waging a sturdy temperance fight in Great Britain.

"In America the work for temperance was started fifty years ago, in the schools," she said. "Children were taught the evil effects of alcohol. British children have not had that advantage, but they must be warned. It is a fight for the future generations. What is to be, I ask, the babies or the brewers?"

ASKS LAW FOUNDING
PICTURE PROHIBITION.
"The drink control bill of the government must go further than the mere regulation of hours of sale. It should form the foundation of future prohibition."

"When I was campaigning for election to the house of commons at Plymouth all my advisers said: 'Do not mention the liquor question. The brewers will hate you.' I told them I certainly would discuss the liquor question and I did so in my speeches. In fact, at a unionist dinner, when the men held glasses of liquor aloft, I told them that if I had my way all the booze in the United Kingdom would be at the bottom of the sea."

"The breweries and distilleries will have just as much power as we let them have."

SHOWS COURAGE OF HER CONVICTIONS.

That the American-born viscountess has the courage of her convictions has been shown by her attacks upon the liquor interests since she took her seat in commons. Although a militant in politics Viscountess Astor is the last person one would pick out of a group of women for the bold progressive she is. She has the figure of a girl, although she is the mother of six children. In height she is not more than five feet three inches, but so acutely vibrant is her personality that there is no suggestion of frailty.

The viscountess likes best to be regarded as the old-fashioned mother who is doing what she can for other people, as well as for her own family.

Society News

"Knowledge is power, give for Bryn Mawr," would make a fitting slogan for the Bryn Mawr drive that is now on. It was the sentiment expressed on one of the many clever posters at the Bryn Mawr alumnae dance last night, a huge owl illustrated it, the owl being one of the Bryn Mawr symbols.

The ballroom at the Propyleum looked like a golden fairyland last night. Hundreds of yellow balloons floated overhead, pots of daffodils gave a garden-like look to the stage, while soft lights from myriads of gold-colored lanterns added the final note to an effective setting for the gay crowd of dancers. Bryn Mawr blankets decorated either end of the stage and many interesting photographs of Bryn Mawr folk and scenes were hung on the walls. Mrs. John McDonald and Mrs. Ben Hitz were in charge of the dance.

"Aloha camp is only another name for health and democracy," says Mrs. L. L. Gulich of Brookline, Mass., head of the Aloha camps for girls, who is the guest this week of Mrs. Walter Marmon of Indianapolis.

The delightful party of Indianapolis girls who gave the luncheon at the Woodstock club yesterday were proof for Mrs. Gulich's statement, as they were all members of the camp and spent their summers at Hilo, Hawaii, at an "Aloha camp." This camp not only gives efficient athletic training, but it has a corps of competent instructors in weaving, sawing, pottery work, basketry, hand carving in jewelry, and various other lines, all taught in the open.

"One Day at Camp" was the general subject for the toast given at the luncheon, responded to by the girls, starting with "revelry" and closed by Mrs. Gulich with "traps." Especially clever responses were given by Miss Elizabeth Moore and Miss Mary Evans.

Mrs. Gulich was entertained at luncheon today at the University club by Mrs. Edgar Evans and Mrs. Arthur Browne, and later Mrs. B. A. Richardson received informally for Mrs. Gulich.

Butler pledges of Kappa Alpha Theta will give a dance for the active chapter next Monday night at the Woman's Department clubhouse.

The "Round the World club," composed both of people who have made the trip around the world and those who are planning to make the trip in the future, was organized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Oakes, 3345 North Pennsylvania last evening. The club meets once a month, and plans to discuss one country after another until each country has been covered on the trip entirely around the world. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lewis, at which meeting Mr. George Hume will give a talk on China and Mr. Lewis will exhibit lantern slides showing the customs of the country. At a later meeting Frank Jones will give a similar talk on Japan.

The ladies' auxiliary to the Thirty-eighty division will have an auction sale and tea at the home of Mrs. E. L. Moore, head, 2131 Central avenue, Wednesday, from 2 until 4. Inexpensive articles will be on sale for hospital and other benefit work. Members may bring guests.

A St. Patrick's day dance will be given by the Hayward-Burcus post of the American Legion Wednesday night at Oriental lodge hall, Central avenue and Twenty-second street. Music will be furnished by the post jazz band. Arthur Lacey is chairman of arrangements committee.

The Little Theater association will give a card party at the Propyleum Tuesday afternoon, March 23.

A leapyear party and dance will be given tomorrow by the Progress club at the Communal building. Decorations will be in purple and gold, the club colors. A feature will be a mock wedding in which Misses Mabel Rubin, Ruth Mayer and Helen Schwartz will be the leading characters.

The Alliance Francaise will meet Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at 20 North Meridian street. The program, which is in charge of Lawrence G. Holmes, will include a one-act play entitled "Que Experiences of an American in France," written and presented by members of the club.

Mrs. Joseph Brimberg will leave tomorrow for Buffalo, where she and Dr. Brimberg will reside permanently.

Robbed of $375 and Doesn't Know Where

George M. Risk, 4001 East Twenty-eighth street, told the police today that he had been robbed of $375 in cash and Liberty bonds valued at $300. Risk said he carried the valuables in a purse, but was unable to say just when or where the theft occurred.

City Has 'Mother' of Legion Auxiliaries

MRS. CLAIRE P. THURSTON.

Indianapolis is the home of the "mother" of American legion women's auxiliaries, which are now being formed but which have not been given an official status. She is Mrs. Claire P. Thurston, 564 West drive, Woodruff place.

Immediately after the American legion came into existence formally at St. Louis, Mrs. Thurston, an ardent Washington, D. C., war worker, war mother and war wife, felt the impulsive need of promoting the work her mother and her father's comrades' wives did when the Civil war closed, and so she began organizing women's auxiliaries to the Indianapolis posts long before other organization work in the country was begun.

Massachusetts, Texas and New York, learning of her success, have appealed to her for information concerning her methods and she has responded willingly.

Oct. 20, 1919, Mrs. Thurston organized the Robert E. Kennington woman's auxiliary post 34, the first formally organized auxiliary in the country. Two days later she organized the Thomas F. Ryan auxiliary. Then two days later came into being the Marie River auxiliary. Nov. 7 the Ben Davis auxiliary was organized under her guidance. Other auxiliaries she has fostered are the St. Michael, the Raymond Templeton of the First Baptist church, Shelbyville, Ind., Victory auxiliary, Cass county auxiliary at Lo-

Tommy, 6, Topples 6 Stories—Bruised

NEW YORK, March 13.—Lemme be, I'm late and ma'll be sore," said Tommy Durke, 6, picking himself up after a six-story fall. A clothes line and a snow bank saved his life. He was bruised.

Does Sick Wife Need 72 Quarts of Booze?

Judge James Collins of the criminal court today had under advisement the case of William M. Poe, charged with operating a blind tiger. Poe, who was arrested Oct. 10, last, is said to have had seventy-two quarts of whisky in his automobile when arrested.

He told the court yesterday he bought the whisky in Terre Haute on a banana peddler for $400 and was bringing it to Indianapolis because doctors had prescribed whisky for his sick wife.

Aerial Police Here? Not Yet, Says Mayor

Indianapolis can not afford an aviation police force, according to Mayor Jewett. William M. Fagley, secretary of the Curtiss-Indiana Company of Kokomo, builders and distributors of air machines, offered to sell the city police airplanes ranging in price from $2,000 to $10,000 and patterned after those used in six other cities.

The mayor informed Mr. Fagley that, due to the present straitened finances of the city it would be impossible to establish an aerial police branch, but expected that the matter would be taken up for action within the next six months.

Say Wrong 'Tip' Put Skid Under Marcuse

CHICAGO, March 13.—That the troubles of the New York-Chicago brokerage house of Marcuse & Co. were brought about through an erroneous tip that the supreme court would decide that stock dividends of corporations must pay an income tax was one report circulated about LaSalle street today.

Liabilities of the firm are said to exceed its assets by $400,000. Emil Engstrom, Chicago office manager, prophesied that creditors would not receive over 50 cents on the dollar.

PARENTS TO HEAR WELFARE EXPERT

Mrs. Paulsen Talks Before Mass Meeting Friday Night.

Under auspices of the Indianapolis Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations Mrs. Helen B. Paulsen, child welfare expert of New York, will address a mass meeting in Caleb Mills hall, Shortridge High school, next Friday night at 8 o'clock. Tickets for the meeting may be obtained from the presidents of the Parent-Teacher associations, or the People's State bank.

Mrs. Paulsen will continue her lectures during the coming week, which will be the fourth week of her series. Newsies Give First Community Concert

The Indianapolis Newsboys' band and the Indianapolis News Glee club gave the first of a series of community concerts sponsored by Indianapolis newspapers at Tomlinson hall last night.

The program included solos by John Wright, cornet; Austin Nutt, saxophone, and Charles Sargent, baritone horn. Vocal solos were offered by Ed A. Snyder and Raymond Ball. The glee club quartet, composed of Raymond W. White, Raymond Ball, Marion Hunt and Claude C. Lloyd, sang several numbers. There was an attendance of 1,400. The next concert will be held March 21, at Caleb Mills hall, with Arthur Middleton of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York the feature attraction.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Two interesting gallery talks make up the program for Y. W. C. A. night at the John Hebron Art Institute next Friday night. Harold Haven Brown, director of the institute, will discuss the pictures in the special exhibit of Indiana artists which is being displayed here. The articles comprising the crafts exhibit will be the subject of the second talk which will be given by Miss Rhoda E. Selleck, instructor in the art department at Shortridge High school. These programs are open to the public.

Keen competition is the keynote of the St. Patrick's day banquet which will be given by the physical education department of the Young Women's Christian Association, Wednesday evening at 6:30. There will be separate tables for the swimming classes and each gymnasium class. Each class will decorate its own table, a prize being awarded to the group having the most attractive table. The favors are to be clay pipes which will be used later in a soap bubble contest.

The program, which will immediately follow the dinner, consists of a talk by Mrs. Helen Paulsen and several musical numbers by Miss Mabel McHugh and Mrs. Frank Alfred. After the program the children's class will dance the Irish waltz, followed by a volley ball game, which the beginners class has challenged the advanced class.

The Carry-On club urges all members to be present at the meeting Wednesday, March 17, at 7:30, when several important questions will come up for discussion.

The first edition of "The Magnet," a paper full of live, interesting news, came out this week. This paper, which, beginning with the March number, will be issued monthly, is put out by the Federation of Industrial Clubs as a means of getting the girls and the clubs better acquainted with each other's activities.

At a meeting of the publicity committee, Wednesday noon, arrangements were completed for the "Come and See" week, which is to be held at the association March 30 to April 2. As planned, this will be one of the biggest events in the history of the association.

The speaker for the vesper service at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon will be Miss Louise Vaughn, who is conducting the victorious life conference at the Downey Avenue church in Irvington. Her subject will be "The Victorious Life." A social hour, during which Miss Corinne Wilson will give several vocal numbers, will follow.

A course specializing in summer sewing will be offered during the spring term, which opens April 5.

The pottery, basketry and design classes will have an exhibit of the winter terms work in several weeks. Pottery and basketry will continue through the spring term.

Operation Reveals Junk in Stomach

SAGINAW, Mich., March 13.—When Mrs. John Klause was operated on for stomach trouble that organ disclosed forty nails, the ring from the handle of an alarm clock, a piece of fruit jar wire, a button hook, a small monkey wrench, two spoon handles, several strings and a piece of cloth, all weighing ten ounces. She is recovering.
