

GIRL, ASSAILED BY PAIR, SAYS ONE WAS SIXTY

Mrs. Lucile Richter Attacked in Home by Thugs Bent on Getting Some Money.

GAGGED WITH STOCKING

Describing the men who brutally attacked her in her mother-in-law's apartment, 420 1/2 East Washington street, Mrs. Lucile Richter, 23, today declared that one of them was at least 60 years old—the other about 25.

The old man was roughly dressed and had a stubby gray beard. "I could pick both of them from 10,000 men," Mrs. Richter said. She is in bed at her home, suffering from nervous shock. Her arms and body are bruised and both hands are sprained.

The attack occurred about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Richter was alone when she heard a knock at the door of the flat. She wasn't afraid, however, as the door was at the top of the stairway leading from Washington street and hundreds of persons were passing within thirty feet.

Two men were in the hallway. The young man asked for money. Declaring she had nothing to give, Mrs. Richter started to shut the door. The younger of the two grabbed her by the throat and kept her from screaming. The thugs dragged her into the apartment and locked the door. She fought them, but they stuffed a handkerchief into her mouth and then tied a silk stocking found in the room around her head in such a manner that the gag could not be removed. They ordered her to point to where her money was kept.

She struggled and fought. They twisted her fingers and wrists. Her clothing was almost torn from her body. Then she fainted. A half hour later Richter returned home and found his wife lying in the hallway. She had revived and dragged herself to the hall in an attempt to summon help. The silk stocking was tightly fastened around her head. Richter notified the police and Sgt. Winkler and Detective Flaherty investigated. Nothing had been stolen.

Mr. and Mrs. Richter recently returned to Indianapolis from South Bend, where they had been living.

BURGLARS FLEE WITHOUT LOOT

A woman so frightened two burglars early today that they fled from the residence at 3315 East Washington street, leaving behind loot including $500 Liberty bonds and a box containing $15.

Miss Frances Gruse, housekeeper at the residence of Father Lyons, priest of Our Lady of Lourdes church, was awakened by hearing persons walking in the upstairs hallway. A moment later the door to her room was pushed open. A man holding a revolver stood in the doorway while another, flashing a light, entered her room.

She screamed. The intruders ran from the room and down the stairway, not stopping to take valuables that had been gathered together on the first floor and left by a side door. When Lieut. Thomas, Sgt. Sandmann and a squad of police reached the scene they found the side door open. On the floor nearby was a box containing about $15 in silver, while $500 in Liberty bonds lay on the bed.

Every room of the house had been ransacked, but nothing carried away. Miss Gruse was unable to give the police a description of the burglars.

HOUSEWIFE ABSENT, BURGLAR MAKES CALL

Mrs. D. A. Sherman, 2215 Central avenue, was away from her home today, but in that time she had a caller.

The caller "jimmied" the rear door and ransacked the downstairs rooms. About $20 that was in a drawer of the buffet and escaped.

EMPLOYER BACKS PROFIT-SHARING

Link-Belt Official Favors Figuring Up Monthly.

Alfred Kauffman, vice president of the Link-Belt Company, advocated profit-sharing with workmen in an address before the Rotary club this afternoon.

"Workmen should become stockholders in a profit-sharing plan, provided they buy that interest," he said, adding that only trained, common-sense thinkers should receive the greatest compensation.

He said that profits should be figured monthly instead of annually.

"War-time bonus schemes are not popular now, for most bonus ideas have been expounded as wage-raises and not profit-sharing," Mr. Kauffman said.

He urged that measures be taken to dispel the idea of many people, which he said was erroneous, that all corporations are making immense profits.

SCHOOL WORK 'UNSPECIFIED'

ascertain whether the purchases were made in accordance with the law.

The law governing the school business forbids the advertising for bids when the material purchase exceeds $200 in value, but there are no advertisements covering materials furnished for school.

He and supply men say that they were invited to submit prices by letter.

The Jackson Supply Company, which furnished approximately $2,000 worth of material for this building, contracts which were not advertised, insists that the sale was made because the prices quoted were the lowest.

Others who furnished supplies on this job and other jobs say that for many years it has been customary to pay no attention to the law governing advertising for bids. They say they have sold thousands of dollars of supplies to the school board without any reference to whether the purchases had been authorized by the board or not and some of them were surprised that there was any regulation either in the statutes or the rules of school board governing such purchases.

Material men generally agree that the methods used by the business department of the schools are exceedingly lax under the circumstances and admit the possibilities of much abuse under the present system.

If that isn't clear to you, here's an example. Bore—bore. Working along that line with words instead of figures, here's a set of puzzles which gives the names of some of the principal cities in the United States, with the words you must add and subtract to find out the name, represented in pictures.

Here are a few facts about the city, to help you out a little.

WILSON GIVES BASIS FOR NEW MINING SCALE

Tells Operators and Workers Majority Report of Commission Is Guide.

ASKS QUICK AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, March 23.—President Wilson today made public a letter he has written to the coal miners and operators in which he declares the majority report of the bituminous coal commission is the one upon which the new wage agreement between the miners and operators must be based.

The president urges that the miners and the operators meet in conference at the earliest possible moment and draw a new wage agreement based on the majority report in order that the public may no longer be worried over the question of a coal shortage.

The president in his letter declared that on and after April 1 all the government-fixed prices on coal will be suspended and that no further efforts will be made to regulate prices.

He gives warning, however, to the operators against profiteering.

Because the report of the commission was unanimous it had no power to fix prices, the president stated.

The majority report which President Wilson supports recommends an increase of 24 cents a ton to tonnage operators. The 14 per cent increase granted by the fuel administration is to be eliminated March 31 and the new wage to be effective until March 31, 1922.

The majority report concurs in this position.

For day labor the majority report makes an award of an increase of $1 a day for men and 53 cents a day for boys.

The minority report asks for an increase of $1.35 a day for men and 75 cents a day for boys.

Both reports agree to an increase of 20 per cent for yardage workers.

MAJORITY FOR EIGHT-HOUR DAY.

The majority report continues the eight-hour day.

The minority report agrees to continue the eight-hour day for one year, at the end of which time it is to be reduced.

Both reports provide for a tribunal to settle further disputes between the miners and operators.

The majority report calls for a joint commission to which shall be submitted questions of differentials.

The reports recommend that steps be taken to provide for a three months' supply of coal for government departments and public utilities to be in storage July 1 of each year.

The majority report recommends that the interstate commerce commission make freight rates lower in the spring than in the fall, in order that coal may be moved during the spring and summer months and a car shortage avoided.

The minority report declares that the interstate commerce commission should be the officers of every coal mine.

POLITICAL SIDELIGHTS

A real test of the strength of the various candidates for the republican nomination for the presidency is taking place today in South Dakota, where a presidential preferential primary is being held. Indiana managers of republican candidates are looking to that state with some concern. The result in South Dakota is considered especially important because three of the presidential candidates have made intensive campaigns in that state. The issue is the league of nations, and it has been clearly defined there. Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California has stumped the state in bitter opposition to the covenant. Gen. Leonard Wood and Gov. Frank O. Lowden have made a campaign in the state for the league with reservations. Senator Miles Folger of Ohio is entered in the race, but he has not made an active campaign. Local managers of each of the candidates express confidence in the outcome of the election.

Senator Warren G. Harding is in a peculiar position in the coming primary in Ohio. He is a candidate for re-nomination for the senate and also a candidate for the presidency. Inasmuch as he cannot make both races in the same state it is said to be probable he will withdraw from the presidential campaign so far as Ohio is concerned.

Some time ago the G. O. P. in Indiana sent out an S. O. S. call for suggestions for planks in its platform. They were short of principles on which to stand and were compelled to ask the public for help. Now they have started a campaign song contest.
