

PERSHING-WOOD FIGHT TO BARE WAR SECRETS

John J.'s Boosters Say He's Man Who Kept General Out of Conflict.

AIRING IN NEBRASKA

OMAHA, Neb., March 23.—At last the country is to see a real political fight—between fighting men.

Filling of petitions in Nebraska for a full state of Wood delegates has brought the republican fight here to a showdown between Maj. Gen. Wood and his superior officer, Gen. John J. Pershing.

Nebraska republican leaders had put forward Gen. Pershing as this state's favorite son. Although born in Missouri, Pershing is claimed by Nebraska by virtue of long residence and present citizenship.

"Wood's specialty is 'baiting in' in 'favorite son' states. At least that's how the 'favorite son' view it. The Pershing boosters in Nebraska use stronger language.

Now that Wood has invited a fight his wish is to be granted. Pershing boosters promise to treat the public to an airing of the real reasons Wood was not permitted to take the divisions he trained to France.

Pershing, it is stated, and not President Wilson, was the man who decided Wood should remain on this side of the Atlantic.

Wood's friends say Pershing hoped to capitalize his army leadership and the presidency and kept Wood at home to handicap him politically.

Pershing's friends retort that Pershing did not want Wood's leadership and was really befriending him, saving him from exposing his weakness to the world; and THIRD, that Pershing considered Wood a politician rather than a warrior and feared that by attempting to play politics in the A. E. F. he would "gum up" the whole American fighting machine.

From which preliminary exchange of courtesies it may reasonably be expected that the Pershing-Wood battle in Nebraska will be hot.

'AL' TAFTE DIES AT HOME HERE

Former Police Chief Succumbs to Lingering Illness.

George A. Taft, 74, former chief of police of Indianapolis, is dead at his home, 114 North Arsenal avenue.

Mr. Taft had been in failing health for six months but had been confined to his bed only ten days when death came at 9 o'clock last night. Funeral arrangements will not be completed until word is received from relatives in California.

Known to many friends as "Al," Mr. Taft had been active in republican politics in Marion county for years. He was born in Brightwood before that suburb became a part of the city of Indianapolis. He spent his entire life in Brightwood and Indianapolis with the exception of two years during which he attended an educational institution at Bloomington, Ill.

During the Civil war Taft was employed by the government in breaking horses for the soldiers and in branding the government horses. Following the war, Taft obtained employment as a street car man on the old mule cars. It was on Dec. 20, 1865, while driving a team of mules hitched to a car on Virginia avenue that Taft saw a little boy fall on the railroad tracks in the path of a train of flatcars.

Taft jumped from his car and ran to the rescue of the boy. He hurled the child out of the way of the train, but was himself caught under the wheels, his leg being crushed, necessitating amputation. In spite of his crippled condition, Taft was given a position as a member of the police department, serving as a turnkey.

For thirty-three years Taft was a member of the police force, completing his service as chief of police under Mayor Charles A. Bookwalter. Later he was in the bonding business.

For two years, Taft served as bailiff of the Marion county grand jury, being forced to resign that position last August because of ill health.

Taft is survived by a widow, Mrs. Minnie E. Taft; a son, Almont D. Taft; a daughter, Mrs. O. W. Guthrie, and three grandchildren, Almont John Taft, 2, and George and William Guthrie, 6 and 7.

BRINGS WIFE AND BABY FROM WAR

Son of Lieut. Horn Back With Beloved Trophies.

An explosion of a mine in the North sea during the war is the greatest event thus far in the life of James L. Horn, son of Lieut. J. H. Horn of the Indianapolis fire department.

This explosion started a romance—a romance with a happy ending.

Horn, his wife and his 6-month-old daughter, Catherine, have arrived in Indianapolis to stay.

Horn arrived in the "autumn fleet," sweeping mines from the North sea, having enlisted in the navy early in 1917. While sweeping mines his ship was badly wrecked by an explosion.

The captain and chief boatswain's mate were both injured and the crew narrowly escaped. The boat was towed into port sinking.

This left Horn without a ship, and he was detailed to duty at Inverness, Scotland. There he met Miss Mary Pratt. Like other Scotch girls, she was doing a man's work during the war. Her two brothers were in the service.

Their romance quickly developed and they were married. Then Horn was ordered to sea again to sweep mines. He served until Oct. 6, 1919, when he was discharged. He joined his wife and baby, then a wee lass of a few weeks, in Scotland.

The little family waited months before passage to America could be obtained. Arriving in New York last week with them was a Scotch girl coming to meet a Yank who had married, who owns a ranch in the west. The rancher was delayed three days in reaching New York and Horn and his wife remained until the rancher arrived.

Mrs. Horn has hardly got acquainted with Indianapolis, but she likes the city. And she is proud of what the Scotch soldiers did during the war.

Lieut. Horn and his wife are mighty glad to have their son back, and they are happy that a wife and baby came with him.

"Scotch women make the best kind of wives, I tell you," said Lieut. Horn, "and the baby—say, isn't that the cutest baby you ever saw?"

A "Picture of Health" Is This Likeness of Lady Who Praises Trutona So Highly

MRS. ELLA BREWER.

ERE is a picture which speaks for itself! One needs only to glance at the above likeness of Mrs. Ella Brewer, to realize that she is blessed with that greatest of all treasures—good health.

But, according to her story, such was not always the case. For three years she had suffered from various troubles. How these long standing ailments were quickly conquered and the health of youth restored to her is told by Mrs. Brewer in the following grateful tribute to the merits of Trutona, the Perfect Tonic.

"I know Trutona is all and more than is claimed for it," Mrs. Brewer declared to the Trutona representative a few days ago.

"My system had been in a run-down condition for the past three years. My kidneys and liver were out of shape, my liver being very sluggish. I suffered almost constantly from headaches. My appetite was poor and if I ever ate half as much as I do now, it would cause gas formations in my stomach which affected my heart. My tongue was always coated. As a result of all this suffering I found I was becoming a nervous wreck. I could sleep but a few hours and often awakened with pains striking me in the small of my back.

"I weighed about 104 pounds when I began taking Trutona, but today I tip the scales at 118, and I'm gaining like a pig. But that's not all. I haven't any more of the headaches and my kidneys are in as good a shape as they were back in my school days. I sleep like a child and I can eat anything nowadays.

"When I look back and see how much Trutona has done for me I know it will keep me in good health for the rest of my life. I'm looking better than ever before and I tell them I certainly am feeling equally as good as I look. I feel it's my duty to recommend Trutona."

Mrs. Brewer is a well-known and highly respected resident of Terre Haute. She lives at 2412 South Third street, Terre Haute.—Advertisement.

LOCAL SAWMILL FOREMAN HELPED; ADVISES OTHERS

Wife Says Mate Was Surprised When Trutona's Benefits Became Noticeable.

Ernest Stearns, 39 years old, an Indianapolis sawmill foreman in the employ of the Moxg Lumber Co., who lives at 502 South West street, is sleeping like a boy now and has regained his old-time "pep" and vigor, since he began the use of Trutona, according to the following interesting statement made by his wife a few days ago.

"Mr. Stearns' system was in a generally run-down condition," Mrs. Stearns said. "When he managed to get out of bed after an attack of influenza, his appetite was very poor, he seldom cared for anything to eat. He had been annoyed by a catarrhal affection of the stomach and head for years. His nose would become stopped up at night, making it necessary for him to breathe through his mouth. He would become so constipated at times that he'd have to take a very large laxative to produce bowel action.

"Mr. Stearns was surprised when he began to improve, shortly after starting the use of Trutona. He had not been feeling fit for his work before but he's regained his old-time 'pep' now. His nose doesn't become stopped up any more and he says he's able to sleep as soundly as he did when a boy. His bowels are as regular as clockwork now."

"Mr. Stearns' advice to others, suffering as he did, is to try the medicine, no matter if all others have failed, and you'll surely get relief.—Advertisement.

EMPLOYEE OF VAN CAMP CO. MAKES LUCKY PURCHASE

Ettinger Feels Like Man Made Over Again, Since Taking Trutona.

OTHER REMEDIES FAILED

"My husband had tried so many kinds of medicine without getting relief that he was discouraged when Trutona was recommended to him, but after ten days' treatment with this medicine he said he felt like a man made over again," Mrs. Harry Ettinger, 429 West 42nd street, Indianapolis, told the Trutona representative recently.

Mr. Ettinger, for the past two years has been connected with the shipping department at the Van Camp plant here and both he and his wife are well known and respected residents of the Abbott street neighborhood.

"Mr. Ettinger had suffered from kidney and liver trouble for many years," Mrs. Ettinger continued. "It seemed that his bowels would not act without the aid of a laxative. He was never hungry. My husband would have to get up at times during the night on account of his kidneys. He experienced severe pains in his back, too.

"Instead of Mr. Ettinger struggling, as he used to, in getting up, he can get up from his chair as quickly as anyone now and he says he feels like a man made over again. He doesn't have the severe pains in his back any more and declares his bowels are more regular than they've been for years.

"My husband has told all of his fellow workmen at Van Camp's about Trutona and a great many of them, seeing what it had done for him, have taken his advice and are using Trutona."—Advertisement.

Made Final Effort for Sake of His Little Girl; Prince Happy Man Now

F. T. Prince and Daughter.

"I had tried so many medicines without success that I had about given up hopes of going back to work again, but the thought that I have a little girl to look after led me to decide to try just one more preparation—Trutona. I was back to work four days after I started using this medicine and I feel better now than I have for years."

Frank T. Prince, 56 years old, 113 Main street, Peoria, Ill., a resident of that city for the past 40 years, made the foregoing convincing remarks to the Trutona representative a few days ago.

"I had suffered from indigestion for the past ten years," he continued. "I was weak and 'trembly' and my stomach became terribly bloated at times. I had been off work for three weeks when I began using Trutona."

"Trutona's benefits were almost immediate and certainly so wonderful that they surprised me. I'm better and stronger in every way now, and I'll tell you it's a pleasure to be able to go to work every morning nowadays. My stomach is in better shape than it's been for months. Trutona helped me after other medicines failed and I wouldn't take $100 for my relief. I can't help but say a good word for Trutona."—Advertisement.
