

CLARK CHOICE
OF LENOX CLUBElected President at Second Organization Meeting.Officers were elected and organization perfected at the second meeting of the Lenox Improvement club held last night at the Omer J. Wisheart store, 2602 North LaSalle street.H. W. Clark was elected president and Lewis Fisher chosen vice president.
F. L. H. Clark had been selected secretary of the club at the first meeting held a week ago.Fifty residents of the district between Twenty-fifth and Thirty-fourth streets, and between Olney and Oxford streets were present at the meeting.Of this number eleven were new members.The object of the club is to obtain much-needed improvements in that part of the city, including street repairing and the laying of water mains.The district is without fire protection because of the lack of city water and owing to the fact that the streets are impassable for fire trucks.In an effort to bring the membership of the Lenox Improvement club up to 300, a permanent membership committee was named last night.A visit will be made to every home in the district covered by the club and an invitation will be extended to all residents to attend the next meeting to be held at the Merchant store, 2602 North LaSalle street.Members of the membership committee are E. E. Nishart, F. Roland, L. A.
Shaner, O. E. Patterson, Mrs. C. J. Winnings, Charles Reed, J. S. Jones, H. W.
Clark, M. Darby, and Lewis Fisher, chairman.Busch Heir Works as Bank MessengerST. LOUIS, March 24.—August A.
Busch, heir to millions, is "learning the banking business" here today as bank messenger.Busch, an employee in his father's house before prohibition, declared today he wanted to "learn all about banks and will stick to the business" so far as he knows now.J. Harry Rheme, cashier, said Busch applied for the job a few days ago and gets to work every morning at 8 o'clock.THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME

Outgrown Etiquette

There are certain little acts of courtesy that men a generation ago used to perform that the man of today discards. In fact, to cling to the etiquette of the past shows a lack of knowledge of the ways of the world. There are old-school gentlemen who feel that the young man of today is lacking in chivalry because he does not take the arm of a woman when they come to a street crossing. In reality, unless the woman is aged or so frail as to need his assistance, he would be decidedly out of place, according to present-day ideas of good form, to do so.

Among old-fashioned southern men especially the notion persists that a man should always hold the street side of the sidewalk when walking with a woman.
This is another outgrown rule. To be sure, when walking along a country highway this is sometimes expedient because of the dust or mud in the road.
In the city, though, it is more considerate to take the side that will protect the woman most from rubbing pedestrian traffic, coming from the opposite direction.

It is to be expected to pay women men's fares oftener than good usage would permit them to do today. The present feeling is that a man has no right to offer to pay a woman's fare when he happens to meet a woman friend or her mother to take the initiative in this matter.
However, a young girl would not ask a young man to call unless she had good reason to know that he would appreciate the honor of so doing.—Copyright, 1920.

Freight Rate Board
to Open Office Here

Offices will be established and a permanent secretary appointed by the Central Barge Canal Association's special rate committee, which was formed at a meeting of representatives of the various railroads here.

Adolph F. Meyer, Big Four district freight agent, is chairman of the committee, the other members of which are:
E. P. Vernia of Chicago, general freight agent of the Monon; R. B. Kincaid, assistant general freight agent of the C. I.
W.; L. L. Hyatt, general agent of the Lake Erie; H. C. Shepard, district freight agent of the P. C. C. & St. L., all of Indianapolis.

All freight rate matters in this district will be passed up by the committee, except those relating to coal, coke and iron ore.

Benny Will Hold
Land While Longer

CHICAGO, March 24.—"I kinder think that land may amount to something someday," Benny Rosenfeld, 18, said when offered $10,000 for oil land leases in Texas for which he paid $400.

for the shortage of milk bottles?

WHEN a crisis is reached some men call for water and wash their hands. Their are many Pilates in the world.

People of Indianapolis, you are facing a crisis in the milk production field. There is a shortage of milk bottles. An innocent looking fact, yet fraught with great peril to you and your children.

The Facts are plain:

It takes a certain number of bottles to insure the delivery of milk each day.

Either these bottles must be promptly returned or the milk company must obtain more from the bottle manufacturers.

If no bottles are obtainable from either of the above sources—Milk can not be delivered.

The bottle manufacturers are unable to supply the demand for milk bottles.

In the open market recently the Polk Company was able to buy just four gross of bottles. Compare this amount of bottles with the actual needs of Indianapolis, as shown by figures for last year.

The Polk Company last year used 45 car loads of bottles, at an expenditure of $34,000, to replace milk bottles broken, lost or retained for other purposes.

Unless some speedy solution of this problem is reached a state of famine will exist in the midst of plenty. For the lack of bottles, many children will miss their daily milk, and for children of a tender age this is a calamity. Milk is the sole food of many little ones.

You can aid them by promptly returning every milk bottle after it is emptied of its original contents; by looking through your cellar and unearthing any bottles that in past time have been carelessly thrown there.

32 Years on This Corner

IT was in March, 1888, thirty-two years ago, that THE STAR STORE opened its doors in a small frame storeroom on the very spot where this large four-story building now stands. From the very beginning giving the very best for the money, we are known for miles and miles in this territory for reliable, trustworthy merchandise at the lowest possible prices. We thank you for these 32 years of honest dealing and we shall continue the same honest policy in the future.
