

MYSTERY VEILS REDISTRICTING

cases precincts in which more than 400 voters were cast at the last election were not changed.

It is equally evident that the precincts were not changed because of the 600-vote limit, because in only one precinct, the Eleventh of the Ninth ward, were more than 600 votes cast.

Possibly the political complexion of some of the precincts had something to do with the changes.

Even a cursory examination of the figures will reveal the fact that number had nothing to do with them.

The boundaries of the second precinct of the first ward, in which 236 votes were cast in 1918, were changed, while the boundaries of the Third precinct of the same ward, in which 325 votes were cast in 1918, were not changed.

The boundaries of fifty precincts were changed at eleven new ones created.

No changes were made in the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth wards and in Center, Pike, Lawrence, Warren, Franklin and Decatur townships.

"George bought for me this Electric Washer at the 'National'."

"Like many other women, I had been finding it hard, in fact impossible, to make both ends meet with the household allowance George was giving me.

"One evening a few weeks ago, we talked it over. We found that one of the big items of expense was the weekly laundry. You know yourself how that has increased in cost lately.

"Having a woman in once a week to do the delicate things I didn't like to send out, and a big hole in my allowance, too.

"Well, we tried to think a way out of it, but we were both stumped, until George suddenly said: 'I've got it! Remember that Western Electric advertisement you showed me the other day about Mrs. Tied-to-her-work, or something like that?'

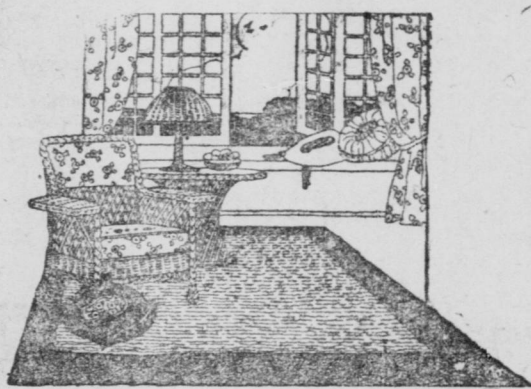

"To make a long story short, George went to the National Furniture Company and ordered a Western Electric Washer and Wringer. A lady demonstrator came to the house and did my first washing and gave me many good labor-saving ideas. Talk about economy! The machine saves money, work and clothes. That's enough economy for any one."

Profit by the experience of George's wife and let us demonstrate one of the machines to you in your own home. Pay for it a little at a time.
