

MUSIC REIGNS ON STAGE HERE COMING WEEK

Angel Face' at English's and Keith's Headliner Is Composer Friedland.

LYRIC HAS JAZZ BAND

MUSIC will be king of the stage next week.

The songbirds of the stage will warble beautifully, while nimble dancers whirl behind the footlights.

The musical and dancing contribution at English's all next week will be George W. Lederer's production of "Angel Face."

Anatol Friedland, composer of hundreds of songs, including "Dream Girl," "Sweet Adair," and "Shades of Night," will be the headliner next week at B. F. Keith's.

Keith's also will have another musical contribution next week in Mlle. Diane, the French chanteuse, and Jan Rubini, Sweden's young violin virtuoso.

The Murat will be songless as well as danceless next week. McIntyre and Heath coming in "Hello Alexander," on April 5, for a week.

The Lyric, Broadway, the Rialto and the Park will also be well represented musically as well as with the dance next week.

"ANGEL FACE." There will be six pairs of young lovers on the stage at one time in "Angel Face."

When these young love birds are not busy, there will be time for a grand mother and a professor to love a little bit.

These seven pairs of lovers in "Angel Face," the new Victor Herbert piece, which opens a week's engagement at English's Monday night.

The production marks the return to this city of George W. Lederer as a producing manager.

Although this show possesses a definite girl character, there is not a chorus girl nor male auxiliaries in the show.

Every member of the cast will be a principal and is there because of the ability of the performer to sing or dance.

The cast includes John E. Young, Tyler Brooks, Richard Fyle, John Reinhard, Earl K. Leslie, George Schiller, Bernard Thornton, Mary Milburn, Justine Gray and many others.

Here is a thing to note—we are getting the original New York cast.

On this Saturday night at the Murat Butler Dramatic club will present "The Witching Hour."

On Monday night, March 29, the Dramatic club will present "The Misleading Lady."

McINTYRE AND HEATH.

Tom Heath and Jim McIntyre will impersonate the romantic livery stable roustabouts in "Hello Alexander," coming to the Murat for a week beginning April 5.

McIntyre and Heath recently celebrated their forty-fifth anniversary of their co-partnership in making people laugh.

They will bring a very large company with them, including Pearl Regay, Dan Quinlan, Mabel Elaine, Jack Casarin, Vivian Holt, Lillian Rosedale, Earl Richard, Chic Barrymore and Rosie Quinn.

THE LYRIC.

Jazz music will be the brand offered the Lyric all next week.

Dot Marsel, boys, specialists in syncopation, will present an act chock full of jazz music.

An act of particular interest to women, will be that of Myrtle Vernon and company who appear in a sketch entitled "A Perfect 36," and is described as a costume play.

The bill will include: "The Lady from Delft," will present difficult juggling.

Frankie Wilson, former studio model, offers a series of artistic poses billed as "A Modern Mirage."

DRESSES OF PAPER.

The girls in "The Doll Revue" have solved the high cost of clothes.

They wear 'em made of paper at the Broadway next week.

Even their hats, dresses, the scenery in this revue is made of paper.

A bunch of girls will wear these paper costumes while singing and dancing.

Other acts on the bill include Clifford and Clayton in a novelty offering; Fletcher and Terry, singers; Chase and Janis in bits of musical comedy; Roberts and Roberts, comedy playlet, and Jack Lewis in "Running for Office."

Another episode of the Jack Dempsey serial, "Dare Devil Jack," will be on the new bill.
