

MOVIE MENUS IN LIGHTER VEIN

famous Sultana diamond, which was stolen during the war from a woman. Of course there is a love story woven in the search for the missing diamond. Naomi Childers is the one who is loved by Moore in this movie.

The cast includes Christine Mayo, Edwin Stevens, Lionel Belmore, Florence Deshon, and Jack Richardson.

The bill will include another little movie story produced by the stage women's war relief committee.

The News Weekly and the regular musical program will complete the bill next week at the Circle.

IMPROVEMENTS AT SMITH'S.

Mr. Smith's theater has been transformed into the Rajah's Jewel Box.

This has been done by changing the interior decorations of the theater.

Transparent Oriental scenes line the wall and little balconies have been established on each side of the screen for the musicians.

As daily performances will begin at 10 o'clock in the mornings and ending at 11 p. m., two orchestras have been engaged to furnish continuous music.

As an added attraction for next week, a trio of Spanish xylophone players and singers has been engaged.

There will also be a DeLuxe Male Quartet of singers and soloists.

"Partners of the Night," a crook movie, will be the feature next week, and tells a story of a clever "con" woman, who hits only the high places and the bright lights.

The story discloses the wicked night life of a big city and shows how the "game" is protected.

In the cast are Pinna Nesbit as Mary Regan, the "con" woman; Emmet Corrigan as the detective; William B. Davidson, William Ingersoll and others are seen.

ALHAMBRA.

"Excuse my dust!"

Motorists, of course, are familiar with the remark and hence the announcement that Wallace Reid's newest comedy drama bears "Excuse My Dust" as its title, they need not be told that it is a story about automobiles.

It is a sequel to "The Roaring Road."

In "Excuse My Dust" Wallace is once more "Toodles" Walden, manager of the Darco auto agency and now happily married to Dorothy, daughter of old J. D. Ward, president of the company and better known in automobile circles as "The Bear."

Old J. D. has drawn the line upon his son-in-law engaging in the racing game, but before "Excuse My Dust" has been run through "Toodles" not only gets into it, but so does "The Bear" himself, the latter even winning a hot contest in which "Toodles" was fouled by his rivals, employees of a concern anxious to steal the secret of the new Darco motor, which is hailed as a marvel of speed and power.

At the Alhambra all next week.

SOME ALARM CLOCK.

It takes a mighty loud alarm clock to awaken some people, and in a great many instances it takes considerable more than a "Big Ben."

This held true in the case of Andy Gray, the hero of Charles Ray's latest comedy, "Alarm Clock Andy," which will be shown at the Isis the first half of next week.

Andy wasn't a sleepy-head by any means. He was just hashful. And added to that he stuttered something fearful.

So when he came in from the country he failed to make headway at his job of an auto truck salesman, despite the fact that he tried his best and even patterned after Binker, the firm's star salesman.

Then one day he chanced to fall in love with his boss's pretty daughter. She proved to be Andy's alarm clock. Miss Millicent Fisher plays the role of the sweetheart.

COLONIAL.

Owen Moore plays the part of a young lawyer who is considered a "good catch" by the girls in a small town.

The movie is called "Sooner or Later" and will be at the Colonial all next week.

Moore will be remembered as the chap who was ditched in the divorce courts by Mary Pickford recently.

In the movie, Seena Owen plays opposite Moore.

Moore's role is that of Patrick Murphy, a young attorney, who avoids women.

But when he meets a girl, unknown to him, he falls suddenly and desperately in love.

Soon after his friend, Bob Ellis, enlists his aid to save the honor of the Ellis family. Mrs. Ellis has left home in Fairhaven, Conn., to meet a Mr. Ver-that she is a party to some secret affair. Ellis commissions Patrick to find his wife and in describing her convinces Pat that she is the beautiful girl with whom he (Pat) has fallen in love.

Walker, whose lover is a member of the northwest mounted police.

THE REGENT.

Action, drama, bloodshed, revenge and love all are in "One Way Trail," the feature attraction at the Regent the first four days of the week starting Sunday.

Edythe Sterling, famous as a horse-woman, is the star.

Miss Sterling is well known to Regent patrons for her recent work in "The Arizona Cat Claw."

The locale of the feature is in northwestern Canada.

Miss Sterling is seen in the role of Wanda Walker, whose lover is a member of the northwest mounted police.

He has pined against him a desperate outlaw chief, known throughout the country as "Thundering Ames."

Ames gets the officer in many tight places, but each time Miss Sterling comes dashing to his assistance.

As the schedule now stands, the Ohio will house a three-hour show next week.

TRIPLE BILL AT OHIO.

A big program with three feature films and special music will be the feature at the Ohio all next week.

Mae Murray, in "A. B. C. of Love," will be the feature film attraction, which concerns an orphan girl who marries a playwright only to see an actress attempt to snatch away the love of the playwright.

So the little wife of the writer of plays has to learn her A. B. C's of love and in the end shows the actress a few tricks in her trade.

The comedy end of the bill will be represented by Charles Chaplin in a reproduction of "The Champion," and the Literary Digest.

As a new musical feature, the Ohio All-

Star quartet will make its initial appearance next week.

As the schedule now stands, the Ohio will house a three-hour show next week.

Mrs. Dewey Heads Economics Club

Mrs. A. B. Dewey has been elected president of Home Economics club for the coming year, with Mrs. Herman Rogge, vice president.

The other officers are Mrs. E. E. Thompson, recording secretary; Mrs. H. A. Crossland, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Frank Anding, treasurer.

'COME AND SEE,' Y. W. C. A. SLOGAN

Public Invited to Association Building Next Week.

"Come and See" week at the Young Women's Christian association, beginning Tuesday includes some interesting specialty features as well as the regular class work and recreation programs.

The pool will be one of the particular points of interest, with exhibition swimming and diving each night.

Some of the chief participants will be Mrs. Cecile Denbig, senior champion; Miss Lucile Row, junior champion, and Miss Thelma Darby and Miss Regina Reese.

Eight girls, all under twelve years of age, who go by the name of the "Little Seals," because of their exceptional swimming will also be at the pool each evening.

From 7:30 to 10 Tuesday and Wednesday night moving pictures will be shown in the auditorium.

Friday night the dramatic art class will give a one-act comedy and pantomime.

The industrial class will have an interesting recreational program Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Guides will be on hand to show guests through the building at any time between the hours of 10 a. m. and 10 p. m.

EXCUSE MY DUST

He's in again! And in ahead!

Same old Toodles Walden of "The Roaring Road," with the same old scorn of miles and motor-cops.

Risking his neck for love, his son and a "dare" in the wildest race of speed devils ever shown on the screen.

And that glorious fight when a crooked rival wrecks Toodles' car and sends him sprawling! Wow!

Watch Out for the Explosion!

—A "Dud" is something that explodes just when you think it's safest!

Tom Moore

In Henry C. Rowland's Famous Saturday Evening Post Story

"DUDS"

A strange yellow-eyed woman with the instincts of a tigress. A daring young amateur detective. A marvelous diamond. A gang of pitiless French crooks. Lashed into hair-raising action.

In "DUDS," Tom Moore has a new sort of role—a young American just out of uniform keen for anything that promises a fight or fortune. He gets them both in a picture that piles thrill upon thrill.
