

HELTER HOUSE PROJECT HALTED

City Board to Wait on New Garfield Park Building.

The proposed shelter house in Garfield park probably will not be erected this year, according to members of the city park board today.

The board met yesterday and reconsidered all action on the project following an opening of bids.

A report was made to the board by J. Clyde Hoffman, attorney for the park board, and Frank C. Lingenfelter, city engineer, who attended a conference of city planning commissions in Cincinnati this week.

Mr. Hoffman recommended that the board act slowly in the matter in order to avoid mistakes made by other cities, and said that it would be advisable to draw up a bill for the next regular session of the legislature, instead of trying to rush the matter through at a special session.

The following salary increases were approved by the board: J. Edward Perry, assistant engineer, $2,000 to $2,200; Paul B. Brown, chief draftsman, $1,500 to $2,000, and Roy Comstock, foreman, $1,200 to $1,300 per year.

Stipendians for parks in 1920 were appointed as follows:

Spades park, Thomas Bray; Camp Sullivan, Thomas Brewer; St. Clair park, William Harding; Highland park, Martin Sharkey; Fall Creek park, Jasper Tingle; Willard park, James McGinnis; Rhodius park, Thomas Hannon; McCarty park, William Newkirk; University park, Albert Budy; Ellenberger park, Edward Holt; Morris Square park, Gilbert Thompson; North Side street center, M. S. Randolph; South Side street center, Michael Shaughnessy, and Burdial parkway, James Gibson.

Lewis to Speak at Transportation Club

A dinner for members and guests of the Transportation club will be given at the Hotel Severin Thursday, April 29, according to an announcement made by H. W. Frobenburg, chairman of the publicity committee of the organization.

E. I. Lewis, chairman of the public service commission, will be the principal speaker.

Pageant Will Show City's Early Settlers

Descendants of the early settlers of Indianapolis will impersonate their ancestors in the Centennial pageant to be staged in the Coliseum at the State Fair grounds Tuesday night, June 8, celebrating the 100th anniversary of Indianapolis.

They will enact the roles in the pageant that their ancestors enacted in the history of the city, and as nearly as possible will wear costumes similar to those of their forefathers.

Descendants of the following persons are urged to send their names and addresses to W. O. Bates, 756 Middle Drive, Woodruff Place: John, James and Sam-

Basye, George Smith, John Maxwell, Rev. James Scott, Harvey Gregg, Nathaniel C. Bolton, Samuel Henderson, Morris Morris, Dr. Jonathan Cool, John Wyant, Matthias R. Howland, Nicholas McCarty, Rev. John McClung and Isaac Wilson.

Figured Georgette, taffeta, satin and crepe de meteor—these are the fabrics. But they have been used in so many new and novel ways that they hardly seem the same as in springs gone by.

The dainty ruffings and tuckings, the tunics, both long and short, the effective embroidery, the deft use of embroidery and ribbons—all are essentially new and refreshing.

Jaunty youthful frocks and sober, more matronly ones—and any number of stages in between.

PHONOGRAPH

There is the same difference as there is between a great artist playing on an ordinary instrument, and the world's finest instrument.

Through the Starr's singing throat of silver grain spruce the delicate tone waves are transmitted true to the recording of the original. The tonal beauty of the Stradivarius and rare old violins is due to this same silver grain spruce used in the Starr.

But why multiply reasons for supremacy. Your ear is the judge. Hearing is believing. Come here to hear. You'll find the supreme delight in hearing Starr records Starr played—no obligation.
