PRIMARY RACE CLOSES TODAY

against another and one race against another.

"The excess profits tax is paralyzing the country."

"We must remedy that and adopt a strong foreign trade policy."

"It is time to dispose of the treaty and the league of nations."

"I sometimes refer to it as a child of American parentage, born while its parents were abroad."

"Now the child has returned to its own land and is learning the language of the Declaration of Independence and soon we may take it from our doorstep."

"I am in favor of a rational tariff, both defensive and offensive, but that need not give us great concern immediately."

General Wood denied being of a millitant bent and pointed to his recommendation to congress for a standing army of 200,000 to 275,000 men, as against the administration's recommendation for 500,000.

LOWDEN MANAGER CHARGES UNFAIRNESS

Charging an attempt on the part of other candidates to attract votes from Gov. Frank O. Lowden unfairly, James S. Baldwin, Lowden's Indiana manager, made the following statement today:

"In the closing stages of the campaign it is apparent to all that strenuous efforts are being made by the managers of one candidate to gather votes on the theory that a certain other candidate is a menace, etc., etc. This is a direct attempt to attract votes from Gov. Lowden."

"It is conceded by all who are familiar with the situation here that no candidate will obtain a majority in the primary and therefore, under the law, the delegates from this state will go uninstructed to the national convention and there vote as the best interests of the party seem to demand."

"There are no other primaries in the country that can be influenced by the result in Indiana. Then why this effort?"

"Gov. Lowden's friends are not alarmed by any such tactics."

"His campaign in this state has been conducted along dignified lines consistent with the high office to which he aspires."

"We did not come here to disturb local conditions, but to get a genuine, honest expression of preference on the merits of our candidate, as the law implies, and with this we will be content."

MAYOR BARS CITY
AUTOS IN ELECTION

Mayor Jewett ordered today that no city automobiles should be used in primary election work tomorrow.

The board of works, after receiving the statement from Mayor Jewett, directed Herbert Wasson, superintendent of the municipal garage, to permit no one to take any city automobile from the garage tomorrow except such as should be used in city business.

The city hall will be closed all day.

NOT HUNTING HAUGH AND TOTS

The whereabouts of J. Guy Haugh, who disappeared from the Indianapolis Orphans' home Friday with his two children, Roland and J. Guy Jr., remained a mystery today.

Officials of the Orphans' home said they had heard nothing more of the children who were last seen when they left the home for an automobile ride with their father.

Haugh had not returned to the Orphans' home, where he lives.

So far as can be determined no official attempt is being made to locate the children.

The police have refused to handle the case unless an affidavit is filed, and the Orphans' home has taken no steps to bring about official action.
