

'LAUGH KING' INVADES INDIANAPOLIS MOVIES

Mary Thurman at Alhambra—Guinan at Regent—'Smarter Set' at Murat

BILLY ARMSTRONG

Introduced one of Mack Sennett's comedy leaders. His name is Billy Armstrong. Looks rather English, but he is really a fortune hunter in "The Gingham Girl," now at the Circle.

appears in an entirely different role in "The Heart of a Child," the current feature at the Colonial, from any he ever has appeared in.

He is seen in the role of Sally Snape, an English girl from the slum district of London.

In addition to this feature the Colonial's program includes Snub Pollard in "Trotting Through Turkey."

TEXAS GUINAN. "Not Guilty" is the title of Texas Guinan's latest story, which has to do with the west.

Another feature of the current bill at the Regent is Roy Stewart in "The Sagebrusher."

Alice Howell in "Her Bargain Day" and "The False Road" with Enid Bennett makes up the new bill at the Isis.

Norma Talmadge in "The Woman Gives," in which a dope fiend is depicted, is at Mister Smith's.

English's continues with Mae Murray.

In "On With the Dance," which will close its engagement Saturday night. Eight features make up the current bill at the Broadway.

A Fox movie, "The Dead Line," is now on view at the Rialto.

"The Monte Carlo Girls" are holding out at the Park this week.

THE MURAT. "The Smarter Set," composed of colored people, opens tonight at the Murat in a two-act comedy, "The Children of the Sun."

Salem Tutt Whitney and J. Homer Tutt are prominent in the cast. The story was written by George Wells Parker.

MERSEMAN. Interpretative dancing sounds rather "highbrow" for popular vaudeville, but not so with "Reincarnation," one of the features at the Lyric this week.

Miss Verna Merseman and company, including George McCormack, presents
