

LATEST TRIBE DEAL BRINGS VETERAN OUTFIELDER HERE

REILLEY BACK WITH INDIANS; HALL IS LOST

Duke's Evident Comeback With Bat Gets Him His Old Job.

TRIBE AT MINNEAPOLIS

The Hon. Alexander Duke Reilly is an Indian. President Smith returned to the city today and right on his heels came Reilly, sold tooth and everything. Smith found the Duke over in Oll City, Pa., and after a brief conference the veteran was resigned to an Indianapolis contract and left at noon for Minneapolis to join the team.

BATTING AVERAGE ATTRACTS HENDRICKS.

Learning of Duke's comeback with the bat Manager Hendricks rushed to President Smith east to confer with the player while arrangements were made with Salt Lake to repurchase the outfielder.

THE UPSHOT OF THE MATTER

Reilly being signed, and once more the flashy outfielder and speedy base runner will appear in the Tribe's left garden.

The only reason Duke was sold last winter was because of weak hitting, and now that he has displayed signs of being a comeback with the bat he doubtless will put some ginger in the Indian's defense and offense.

While in the east Vice President Smith conferred with Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh National League, and the latter owner is making every effort to aid the Hoosiers with pitching talent.

Reilly's deal has been promised aid are the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants. Therefore, it looks like a matter of waiting, and if the present Tribe staff will have an excellent chance of getting up in the running.

Vice President Smith will remain here, while Secretary Clauz finishes the road trip with the Indians.

Pitcher Herb Hall has decided to remain out of league baseball and now Jack Hendricks is put to further task in reorganizing the pitching staff.

In the last deal which Hall figured he was traded by the Kansas City Blues for Cal Crum and the Tribe seemed ruy for the exchange, but today something happened that has knocked the proposition into a cocked hat again.

The major of Logansport and baseball LOGANSPORT PUTS UP BIG BONDS.

Word of that deal heard of Hall's intention to join the Indianapolis club and they immediately launched a fund, it is a bonus that Hall looks upon with favor.

Herb has been pitching Sunday ball for Logansport and he has established such a grand record that the fans there don't want him to leave.

Hall is employed at the Nordyke-Marmor plant in Chicago and now it is likely that he will remain there and pitch once a week for Logansport.

The Marmon officials had agreed to give Hall a leave of absence in order to permit him to pitch for the Hoosiers this summer, but it is evident that Logansport is not going to let loose of its popular twirler.

In a previous attempt at a deal, Outfielder Zwillinger was traded for Hall, who is under contract to Kansas City. That proposition fell through, however, reopened later, cancelled, then reopened this week with Cal Crum involved.

No other latest deal seems to be off, so the Tribe pitching staff remains the same, with Owen Smith, Vice President Smith and Manager Hendricks burning up the wires trying to land new talent.

INDIANS STILL IN SCRAPPY MOOD

MINNEAPOLIS, May 20.—The Indians and Millers were ready to meet for the first time this season and at the pace Pongo Joe Cantillon's gang has been going local fans expect to see their favorites wallop the Hoosiers.

In the past, however, Indianapolis has been no easy team for the Millers to handle and due to the fact that the Indians were set back at Kansas City they are here fired with determination to start something like a winning streak.

The Tribesmen are handicapped by poor starting and a lack of hitting in the field; that much is known by all, but despite that, local fans realize the Hoosiers have a fighting spirit that is hard to smother.

Therefore, the four-game series starting today no doubt will prove popular from a local standpoint. The Millers had their winning streak cracked by the Saints yesterday and it may be that the day set back will work to the advantage of Jack Hendricks' club.

Rogge was up for a turn on the mound this afternoon. He has been "worked" slightly, but was willing to face the Millers in a nervous contest.

Petty is about ready to return to the mound, after suffering from an attack of hois and he will appear in the present series.

A. B. C's to Play the Dayton Marcos in Twin Attraction Here Sunday

Not having played any of their scheduled games with the Kansas City Monarchs since Sunday the A. B. C's and that club went to Marion today, where they will clash in games today and tomorrow.

On Saturday the two teams will meet in Muncie and then C. Taylor's team will return home to meet the strong Dayton Marcos in a double-header at Washington park Sunday.

Jim Taylor, brother of C. E. Taylor, is manager of the Dayton club, and as he knows what he'll be up against here, he will bring a powerful aggregation to the city.

Two games will be played with the Marcos Sunday, and on Monday, after which the A. B. C's will go on a road trip, not returning home until June 27.

Demetral and Miaki Send Out Wrestling Challenges

William Demetral and Jap Miaki have issued challenges through Promoter Charleston the winner of the Vassili-Managoff wrestling match at Tomlinson hall Saturday night.

Demetral has also challenged Miaki and is anxious to meet him here during the first week of June.

Charleston stated today that Demetral probably will meet the winner of the Saturday night bout and later clash with the Jap.

Managoff and Vassili are both noted in the wrestling world for their wonderful strength and their coming match should be full of action from start to finish. Past preliminaries will precede the main go.

Ladies accompanied by escorts will be free.

Phils Get Gallia

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—Bert Gallia of the St. Louis Browns has been obtained via the waiver route by the Phillies.

Although waived out of the American league, Gallia will be a welcome addition to the Phillies' exhausted pitching staff for Rixey and Smith are the only two in condition to pitch just now.

Olympic Trout Dates

NEW YORK, May 20.—Questions having important bearing on the Olympic teams at Antwerp were subject to discussion today by members of the Olympic committee.

Dates and places for preliminary and final rounds for American teams in a number of sports will be definitely fixed and plans for the sailing and quartering of teams will be considered.

Wiggins Leaves for Dayton to Tangle With Vet Battler

Chuck's Followers Will Be at Ringside to Root for Local Star.

Chuck Wiggins, accompanied by Manager Jack Druley, today departed for Dayton, O., where the Indianapolis fight heavyweight and speedy base runner will appear in the Tribe's left garden.

Smith found the Duke over in Oll City, Pa., and after a brief conference the veteran was resigned to an Indianapolis contract and left at noon for Minneapolis to join the team.

Reilly being signed, and once more the flashy outfielder and speedy base runner will appear in the Tribe's left garden.

The only reason Duke was sold last winter was because of weak hitting, and now that he has displayed signs of being a comeback with the bat he doubtless will put some ginger in the Indian's defense and offense.

While in the east Vice President Smith conferred with Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh National League, and the latter owner is making every effort to aid the Hoosiers with pitching talent.

Reilly's deal has been promised aid are the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants. Therefore, it looks like a matter of waiting, and if the present Tribe staff will have an excellent chance of getting up in the running.

Vice President Smith will remain here, while Secretary Clauz finishes the road trip with the Indians.

Pitcher Herb Hall has decided to remain out of league baseball and now Jack Hendricks is put to further task in reorganizing the pitching staff.

In the last deal which Hall figured he was traded by the Kansas City Blues for Cal Crum and the Tribe seemed ruy for the exchange, but today something happened that has knocked the proposition into a cocked hat again.

The major of Logansport and baseball LOGANSPORT PUTS UP BIG BONDS.

Word of that deal heard of Hall's intention to join the Indianapolis club and they immediately launched a fund, it is a bonus that Hall looks upon with favor.

Herb has been pitching Sunday ball for Logansport and he has established such a grand record that the fans there don't want him to leave.

Hall is employed at the Nordyke-Marmor plant in Chicago and now it is likely that he will remain there and pitch once a week for Logansport.

The Marmon officials had agreed to give Hall a leave of absence in order to permit him to pitch for the Hoosiers this summer, but it is evident that Logansport is not going to let loose of its popular twirler.

In a previous attempt at a deal, Outfielder Zwillinger was traded for Hall, who is under contract to Kansas City. That proposition fell through, however, reopened later, cancelled, then reopened this week with Cal Crum involved.

No other latest deal seems to be off, so the Tribe pitching staff remains the same, with Owen Smith, Vice President Smith and Manager Hendricks burning up the wires trying to land new talent.

INDIANS STILL IN SCRAPPY MOOD

MINNEAPOLIS, May 20.—The Indians and Millers were ready to meet for the first time this season and at the pace Pongo Joe Cantillon's gang has been going local fans expect to see their favorites wallop the Hoosiers.

In the past, however, Indianapolis has been no easy team for the Millers to handle and due to the fact that the Indians were set back at Kansas City they are here fired with determination to start something like a winning streak.

The Tribesmen are handicapped by poor starting and a lack of hitting in the field; that much is known by all, but despite that, local fans realize the Hoosiers have a fighting spirit that is hard to smother.

Therefore, the four-game series starting today no doubt will prove popular from a local standpoint. The Millers had their winning streak cracked by the Saints yesterday and it may be that the day set back will work to the advantage of Jack Hendricks' club.

Rogge was up for a turn on the mound this afternoon. He has been "worked" slightly, but was willing to face the Millers in a nervous contest.

Petty is about ready to return to the mound, after suffering from an attack of hois and he will appear in the present series.

A. B. C's to Play the Dayton Marcos in Twin Attraction Here Sunday

Not having played any of their scheduled games with the Kansas City Monarchs since Sunday the A. B. C's and that club went to Marion today, where they will clash in games today and tomorrow.

On Saturday the two teams will meet in Muncie and then C. Taylor's team will return home to meet the strong Dayton Marcos in a double-header at Washington park Sunday.

Jim Taylor, brother of C. E. Taylor, is manager of the Dayton club, and as he knows what he'll be up against here, he will bring a powerful aggregation to the city.

Two games will be played with the Marcos Sunday, and on Monday, after which the A. B. C's will go on a road trip, not returning home until June 27.

Demetral and Miaki Send Out Wrestling Challenges

William Demetral and Jap Miaki have issued challenges through Promoter Charleston the winner of the Vassili-Managoff wrestling match at Tomlinson hall Saturday night.

Demetral has also challenged Miaki and is anxious to meet him here during the first week of June.

Charleston stated today that Demetral probably will meet the winner of the Saturday night bout and later clash with the Jap.

Managoff and Vassili are both noted in the wrestling world for their wonderful strength and their coming match should be full of action from start to finish. Past preliminaries will precede the main go.

Ladies accompanied by escorts will be free.

Phils Get Gallia

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—Bert Gallia of the St. Louis Browns has been obtained via the waiver route by the Phillies.

Although waived out of the American league, Gallia will be a welcome addition to the Phillies' exhausted pitching staff for Rixey and Smith are the only two in condition to pitch just now.

Olympic Trout Dates

NEW YORK, May 20.—Questions having important bearing on the Olympic teams at Antwerp were subject to discussion today by members of the Olympic committee.

Dates and places for preliminary and final rounds for American teams in a number of sports will be definitely fixed and plans for the sailing and quartering of teams will be considered.

Eighth Race for Howdy and Ralph

Howdy Wilcox and "Smiling Ralph" Mulford—the only two drivers who have driven in every Indianapolis race—will be doing business at the same old stand at 10 o'clock Monday morning, May 31, when Barney Oldfield will lead a crack team of drivers, the stars of the eighth International 500-mile race.

Howdy has the best record of the two for he has finished six times out of seven starts, while Mulford has but five to his credit. Then, too, Wilcox has won a race—last year in a Peugeot—while Mulford's best effort netted him second.

Two years Wilcox finished just ahead of Smiling Ralph, in 1912, when he was ninth, and the year following, when he placed sixth.

In 1911 Wilcox drove a National, but did not place, while Mulford was second in a Loder. Howdy was ninth in a National the following race and Mulford followed him to the tape in a Knox.

Driving into sixth money in 1913 Wilcox, in a Gray Fox, was just ahead of Mulford, in a Mercedes, in 1914.

Howdy's Gray Fox broke down after traveling 167½ miles; Mulford's Mercedes made the test run 300 miles, but he was outside the dough.

Piloting a Stutz in 1915, Wilcox was seventh; Mulford's Duesenberg failed at 300 miles. The 300-mile race in 1916 found Mulford in third place in a Peugeot with Wilcox finishing a Premier.

Wilcox rang the bell last year, finishing first in a Peugeot, while Mulford was forced out after riding 190 miles, nine miles and one-half miles.

Driving in competition over the Indianapolis sencer Wilcox has traveled 3,67½ miles while Mulford's total is just 27½ less.

An appeal will be seen at the wheel on a Peugeot in the race this year. Mulford will drive a Mulford Special and the two will be at the Indianapolis race will welcome the veterans of the Hoosier classic.

Howdy Wilcox and "Smiling Ralph" Mulford—the only two drivers who have driven in every Indianapolis race—will be doing business at the same old stand at 10 o'clock Monday morning, May 31, when Barney Oldfield will lead a crack team of drivers, the stars of the eighth International 500-mile race.

Howdy has the best record of the two for he has finished six times out of seven starts, while Mulford has but five to his credit. Then, too, Wilcox has won a race—last year in a Peugeot—while Mulford's best effort netted him second.

Two years Wilcox finished just ahead of Smiling Ralph, in 1912, when he was ninth, and the year following, when he placed sixth.

In 1911 Wilcox drove a National, but did not place, while Mulford was second in a Loder. Howdy was ninth in a National the following race and Mulford followed him to the tape in a Knox.

Driving into sixth money in 1913 Wilcox, in a Gray Fox, was just ahead of Mulford, in a Mercedes, in 1914.

Howdy's Gray Fox broke down after traveling 167½ miles; Mulford's Mercedes made the test run 300 miles, but he was outside the dough.

Piloting a Stutz in 1915, Wilcox was seventh; Mulford's Duesenberg failed at 300 miles. The 300-mile race in 1916 found Mulford in third place in a Peugeot with Wilcox finishing a Premier.

Wilcox rang the bell last year, finishing first in a Peugeot, while Mulford was forced out after riding 190 miles, nine miles and one-half miles.

Driving in competition over the Indianapolis sencer Wilcox has traveled 3,67½ miles while Mulford's total is just 27½ less.

An appeal will be seen at the wheel on a Peugeot in the race this year. Mulford will drive a Mulford Special and the two will be at the Indianapolis race will welcome the veterans of the Hoosier classic.

Howdy Wilcox and "Smiling Ralph" Mulford—the only two drivers who have driven in every Indianapolis race—will be doing business at the same old stand at 10 o'clock Monday morning, May 31, when Barney Oldfield will lead a crack team of drivers, the stars of the eighth International 500-mile race.

Howdy has the best record of the two for he has finished six times out of seven starts, while Mulford has but five to his credit. Then, too, Wilcox has won a race—last year in a Peugeot—while Mulford's best effort netted him second.

Two years Wilcox finished just ahead of Smiling Ralph, in 1912, when he was ninth, and the year following, when he placed sixth.

In 1911 Wilcox drove a National, but did not place, while Mulford was second in a Loder. Howdy was ninth in a National the following race and Mulford followed him to the tape in a Knox.

Driving into sixth money in 1913 Wilcox, in a Gray Fox, was just ahead of Mulford, in a Mercedes, in 1914.

Howdy's Gray Fox broke down after traveling 167½ miles; Mulford's Mercedes made the test run 300 miles, but he was outside the dough.

Piloting a Stutz in 1915, Wilcox was seventh; Mulford's Duesenberg failed at 300 miles. The 300-mile race in 1916 found Mulford in third place in a Peugeot with Wilcox finishing a Premier.

Wilcox rang the bell last year, finishing first in a Peugeot, while Mulford was forced out after riding 190 miles, nine miles and one-half miles.

Driving in competition over the Indianapolis sencer Wilcox has traveled 3,67½ miles while Mulford's total is just 27½ less.

An appeal will be seen at the wheel on a Peugeot in the race this year. Mulford will drive a Mulford Special and the two will be at the Indianapolis race will welcome the veterans of the Hoosier classic.

Howdy Wilcox and "Smiling Ralph" Mulford—the only two drivers who have driven in every Indianapolis race—will be doing business at the same old stand at 10 o'clock Monday morning, May 31, when Barney Oldfield will lead a crack team of drivers, the stars of the eighth International 500-mile race.

Howdy has the best record of the two for he has finished six times out of seven starts, while Mulford has but five to his credit. Then, too, Wilcox has won a race—last year in a Peugeot—while Mulford's best effort netted him second.

Two years Wilcox finished just ahead of Smiling Ralph, in 1912, when he was ninth, and the year following, when he placed sixth.

In 1911 Wilcox drove a National, but did not place, while Mulford was second in a Loder. Howdy was ninth in a National the following race and Mulford followed him to the tape in a Knox.

Driving into sixth money in 1913 Wilcox, in a Gray Fox, was just ahead of Mulford, in a Mercedes, in 1914.

Howdy's Gray Fox broke down after traveling 167½ miles; Mulford's Mercedes made the test run 300 miles, but he was outside the dough.

Piloting a Stutz in 1915, Wilcox was seventh; Mulford's Duesenberg failed at 300 miles. The 300-mile race in 1916 found Mulford in third place in a Peugeot with Wilcox finishing a Premier.

Wilcox rang the bell last year, finishing first in a Peugeot, while Mulford was forced out after riding 190 miles, nine miles and one-half miles.

Driving in competition over the Indianapolis sencer Wilcox has traveled 3,67½ miles while Mulford's total is just 27½ less.

An appeal will be seen at the wheel on a Peugeot in the race this year. Mulford will drive a Mulford Special and the two will be at the Indianapolis race will welcome the veterans of the Hoosier classic.

Howdy Wilcox and "Smiling Ralph" Mulford—the only two drivers who have driven in every Indianapolis race—will be doing business at the same old stand at 10 o'clock Monday morning, May 31, when Barney Oldfield will lead a crack team of drivers, the stars of the eighth International 500-mile race.

Howdy has the best record of the two for he has finished six times out of seven starts, while Mulford has but five to his credit. Then, too, Wilcox has won a race—last year in a Peugeot—while Mulford's best effort netted him second.

Two years Wilcox finished just ahead of Smiling Ralph, in 1912, when he was ninth, and the year following, when he placed sixth.

In 1911 Wilcox drove a National, but did not place, while Mulford was second in a Loder. Howdy was ninth in a National the following race and Mulford followed him to the tape in a Knox.

Driving into sixth money in 1913 Wilcox, in a Gray Fox, was just ahead of Mulford, in a Mercedes, in 1914.

Howdy's Gray Fox broke down after traveling 167½ miles; Mulford's Mercedes made the test run 300 miles, but he was outside the dough.

Piloting a Stutz in 1915, Wilcox was seventh; Mulford's Duesenberg failed at 300 miles. The 300-mile race in 1916 found Mulford in third place in a Peugeot with Wilcox finishing a Premier.

Wilcox rang the bell last year, finishing first in a Peugeot, while Mulford was forced out after riding 190 miles, nine miles and one-half miles.

Driving in competition over the Indianapolis sencer Wilcox has traveled 3,67½ miles while Mulford's total is just 27½ less.

An appeal will be seen at the wheel on a Peugeot in the race this year. Mulford will drive a Mulford Special and the two will be at the Indianapolis race will welcome the veterans of the Hoosier classic.

Howdy Wilcox and "Smiling Ralph" Mulford—the only two drivers who have driven in every Indianapolis race—will be doing business at the same old stand at 10 o'clock Monday morning, May 31, when Barney Oldfield will lead a crack team of drivers, the stars of the eighth International 500-mile race.

Howdy has the best record of the two for he has finished six times out of seven starts, while Mulford has but five to his credit. Then, too, Wilcox has won a race—last year in a Peugeot—while Mulford's best effort netted him second.

Two years Wilcox finished just ahead of Smiling Ralph, in 1912, when he was ninth, and the year following, when he placed sixth.

In 1911 Wilcox drove a National, but did not place, while Mulford was second in a Loder. Howdy was ninth in a National the following race and Mulford followed him to the tape in a Knox.

Driving into sixth money in 1913 Wilcox, in a Gray Fox, was just ahead of Mulford, in a Mercedes, in 1914.

Howdy's Gray Fox broke down after traveling 167½ miles; Mulford's Mercedes made the test run 300 miles, but he was outside the dough.

Piloting a Stutz in 1915, Wilcox was seventh; Mulford's Duesenberg failed at 300 miles. The 300-mile race in 1916 found Mulford in third place in a Peugeot with Wilcox finishing a Premier.

Wilcox rang the bell last year, finishing first in a Peugeot, while Mulford was forced out after riding 190 miles, nine miles and one-half miles.

Driving in competition over the Indianapolis sencer Wilcox has traveled 3,67½ miles while Mulford's total is just 27½ less.

An appeal will be seen at the wheel on a Peugeot in the race this year. Mulford will drive a Mulford Special and the two will be at the Indianapolis race will welcome the veterans of the Hoosier classic.

Howdy Wilcox and "Smiling Ralph" Mulford—the only two drivers who have driven in every Indianapolis race—will be doing business at the same old stand at 10 o'clock Monday morning, May 31, when Barney Oldfield will lead a crack team of drivers, the stars of the eighth International 500-mile race.

Howdy has the best record of the two for he has finished six times out of seven starts, while Mulford has but five to his credit. Then, too, Wilcox has won a race—last year in a Peugeot—while Mulford's best effort netted him second.

Two years Wilcox finished just ahead of Smiling Ralph, in 1912, when he was ninth, and the year following, when he placed sixth.

In 1911 Wilcox drove a National, but did not place, while Mulford was second in a Loder. Howdy was ninth in a National the following race and Mulford followed him to the tape in a Knox.

Driving into sixth money in 1913 Wilcox, in a Gray Fox, was just ahead of Mulford, in a Mercedes, in 1914.

Howdy's Gray Fox broke down after traveling 167½ miles; Mulford's Mercedes made the test run 300 miles, but he was outside the dough.

Piloting a Stutz in 1915, Wilcox was seventh; Mulford's Duesenberg failed at 300 miles. The 300-mile race in 1916 found Mulford in third place in a Peugeot with Wilcox finishing a Premier.

Wilcox rang the bell last year, finishing first in a Peugeot, while Mulford was forced out after riding 190 miles, nine miles and one-half miles.

Driving in competition over the Indianapolis sencer Wilcox has traveled 3,67½ miles while Mulford's total is just 27½ less.

An appeal will be seen at the wheel on a Peugeot in the race this year. Mulford will drive a Mulford Special and the two will be at the Indianapolis race will welcome the veterans of the Hoosier classic.

Howdy Wilcox and "Smiling Ralph" Mulford—the only two drivers who have driven in every Indianapolis race—will be doing business at the same old stand at 10 o'clock Monday morning, May 31, when Barney Oldfield will lead a crack team of drivers, the stars of the eighth International 500-mile race.

Howdy has the best record of the two for he has finished six times out of seven starts, while Mulford has but five to his credit. Then, too, Wilcox has won a race—last year in a Peugeot—while Mulford's best effort netted him second.

Two years Wilcox finished just ahead of Smiling Ralph, in 1912, when he was ninth, and the year following, when he placed sixth.

In 1911 Wilcox drove a National, but did not place, while Mulford was second in a Loder. Howdy was ninth in a National the following race and Mulford followed him to the tape in a Knox.

Driving into sixth money in 1913 Wilcox, in a Gray Fox, was just ahead of Mulford, in a Mercedes, in 1914.

Howdy's Gray Fox broke down after traveling 167½ miles; Mulford's Mercedes made the test run 300 miles, but he was outside the dough.

Pil