WASHBURN AGAIN.

Bryant Washburn is becoming more and more a favorite in comedy and farce roles and in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" he has splendid opportunities to show his comedy ability. This farce allows Washburn to play the rôle of a man who has a jealous wife — so jealous is she that she sees evil everywhere. Washburn appears innocently at a pretty blonde behind a counter.

Bryant Washburn. It is the wife's jealousy which causes all the rumpus in this movie.

At the Isis the first half of the week.

A FAVORITE RETURNS.

Elaine Hammerstein, the featured player in "The Shadow of Rosalie" the attraction at the Colonial all week, starting Sunday.

The star enacts a dual rôle and is seen in the roles of Leontine Maddern, a vaudville actress, and Leona, her sister, an artist.

Because of an alleged scandal in which Leontine Maddern never uses her almost similar name but goes under the name of Rosalie Byrnes, which was her mother's maiden name.

In the early days of the war, while sacrificing her concert work to sing at a hostess house in one of the large camps, Rosalie meets Lieut. Gerald Cromwell.

They fall in love. Cromwell is ordered overseas and before leaves they are wedded.

Later complications develop and many dramatic situations are seen.

Grace Saville Mason.

HARRY CAREY.

Harry Carey, famous western player, is featured in "Overland Red," the attraction at the Regent all week, starting Sunday.

Carey appears in the rôle of a knight of the road, who finds a dying man in the desert.

The story is founded on the novel by an eastern girl who is going west to live.

Grace Saville Mason.

A dishonest sheriff who suspects the hidden mine, arrests Red on a false charge but releases him to obtain the map.

Follows many interesting events which lead to an unusual climax.

JOHN BARRYMORE.

John Barrymore has inherited the tremendous task of playing a goodly man and a regular devil of a man in the same movie.

This opportunity is given Barrymore in Robert Louis Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

As the doctor he is a good man but as

Mr. Hyde he is a brute and a murderer.

As Dr. Jekyll, Barrymore loves in an honest way a beautiful girl, acted by Marie Manheld, formerly of "The Four Musketeers."

As Mr. Hyde, the brute, he insults the girl he loves and admires as Dr. Jekyll.
