CREDIT MEN TO HAVE BIG DAY

Annual Picnic Scheduled for Turner Park, Aug. 7.

Various kinds of unusual entertainment, in addition to the usual dancing, games and stunts, are promised for the annual picnic of the Indianapolis Association of Credit Men, which is to be held at Turner park Saturday afternoon and evening, Aug. 7.

The general arrangements committee is headed by John C. Rugenstein, a veteran in the art of making outings a success, assisted by A. P. Stephenson, William E. Holmes, J. B. Vanduyke, William J. Mooney Jr., J. M. Caswell, O. G. Yount, Edwin Manogue, H. J. Stender, Mrs. E. M. Parry, Miss Mina Markle and Miss Gertrude Douglas.

The afternoon will be occupied in games, contests and, as a special feature for those who care for neither, there will be a band concert.

In the evening there will be vaudeville and dancing.

Arrangements are being made for at least 400 people, as all credit men are urged to bring their friends.

In order that the children who may be guests shall be entertained the association has obtained the services of Miss Pauline E. Holmes, who is arranging the play of all from 1 to 12 years old.

Miss Holmes will be aided by a corps of assistants.

Rainbow Veterans Go to Birmingham

Former Indiana members of the 159th field artillery will go to Birmingham, Ala., leaving tomorrow in two special cars, to attend the first annual convention of the Rainbow Division Veterans, to be held July 12-14.

More than 5,000 delegates are expected to be in attendance at the convention, and that a royal time will be enjoyed by the delegates is indicated by the fact that merchants of the southern city have raised $40,000 to be used as an entertainment fund.

A field day at one of Birmingham's parks, with chow, consisting of a southern barbecue and a watermelon feast, is on the entertainment program.

Several French officers are expected to attend the gathering.

The reunion is to be held on the anniversary of the defense of the Champagne sector, in July, 1918, in which the Rainbow division was the only American unit to participate.

Shortage of Labor Problem for Farmers

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., July 10.—A labor shortage confronts farmers of central Indiana that may seriously affect the taking care of the crops, including corn. The wage question is a difficult problem in the harvest fields, since in some localities laborers are demanding $5 to $7.50 a day and have even asked as much as $10 a day.

Farmers insist that they are unable to pay these wages, but while they are willing to submit to the demand during the wheat harvest, which is now in progress, they are refusing to pay such wages for harvesting the hay.

Many who are short of help have decided that rather than pay the wages demanded, they will put up such hay as they may need for themselves and permit the remainder to stay in the field until cut.

Rural Schools, One of Great Problems

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., July 10.—"The Rural Schools, One of Our Great Educational Problems: How Shall It Be Solved?" is to be the subject of the opening address, at the five-day conference on rural education in Indiana, to be held at Indiana university, beginning Monday morning at 11:20.

This subject will be discussed by Calvin N. Kendall of the state commission of education of New Jersey.

President Kenyon Butterfield of the Massachusetts Agricultural college will be another speaker of note.

The conference will be in line with the movement now in progress for the improvement of the rural schools, which is considered one of the most pressing problems of the day.

State Superintendent of School L. N. Hines will preside at the meetings.

Alexandria Man Says Bankers Struck Him

ANDERSON, Ind., July 10.—Bankers are sometimes fighters it was said in the Madison county superior court Friday John Heritage and Edward Heritage, brothers, both bankers of Alexandria, were defendants in a suit for $2,000 damages, filed by Obed Himes, real estate dealer of Alexandria, charging personal injury.

Himes alleges that during a controversy over a check at the bank of the defendants a few months ago, he was knocked down by one of them and assaulted by the other and as a result he suffered severe injuries.

Himes is 65 years old and the Heritages are under 60.

Burglar With White Hair Has White Suit

Lillian Williams, 1030 Harrison street, reported to the police today that a burglar attempted to gain entrance to her home.

Mrs. Williams' daughter, who was in the next room at the time, heard a screen being taken out of the window.

She screamed and the intruder fled and could not be located when the police arrived.

Mrs. Williams says that the man was dressed in white and had white hair.

INDIANA FIELD FOR G. O. P. FIGHT

Strategy Plans Include Four States for Battleground.

MARION, O., July 10.—A busy week faces Warren G. Harding, republican presidential candidate.

He will try to get in some work on his acceptance speech.

Gen. Leonard Wood, defeated candidate for the nomination, will arrive late today for a conference.

Will H. Hays, national chairman, will spend Sunday with Senator Harding.

Political leaders here this week have given much attention to questions of strategy in the coming campaign, and indications are that Ohio, New Jersey, New York and Indiana will be the scenes of the hardest fighting.

Information is reached here that democratic leaders plan to concentrate their fight on a few big doubtful states, hoping thereby to carry enough electoral votes in these, together with those acknowledged to be democratic to put Cox in the whitehouse.

Harding forces will meet this plan of action, if it develops, by concentrated fire.

They are in no respect conceding Ohio to Cox and as for New York they estimate a republican majority.

Harding advisers are counting on states west of the Mississippi.

Optimists to Play Game With Rotary

Announcement has been made of a baseball game to be held between teams from the Optimists' club and the Rotary club, next Thursday at Washington park, and there is every assurance that the game will be vigorously contested from start to finish.

The baseballs for the practices will be provided by Charles Emmannell, of the Em-Rox Sporting Goods Company, and the uniforms for the Optimists will be provided by the Citizens' Gas Company.

At the second industrial tour of the Optimists' club, yesterday, the body plant of the Milwaukee & Irish Company was inspected and the members of the club were guests of the company at an exceedingly good luncheon, including fried chicken, George F. Standke, of the Brunswick shop, was leader of the orchestra.

About fifty automobiles were used by the members of the club in making the trip.

O. D. Haskett, president of the club, announced that the weekly programs for the remainder of the club year would be in the charge of Ralph Elvin.

Hartford City Glass Factory Starts Fires

HARTFORD CITY, Ind., July 10.—Fires were started at the Johnson window glass factory here today, preparatory to glass blowing which will begin Aug. 11.

The plant has been closed for a year, during which time it has been completely remodeled.

Blackford School Term May Be Shorter

HARTFORD CITY, Ind., July 10.—School authorities here are in a quandary to know how they will be able to conduct terms of required length next year, owing to the reduction of the assessed valuation in Blackford county, following the decision of the state tax commission that horizontal increases are illegal.

Fuller Funeral Is Set for Monday

BECOMES HEAD OF CIRCLE THEATER

Ralph Lieber Succeeds S. B. McCormick, Effective July 18.

S. Barret McCormick, for the last four years manager of the Circle theater, has resigned to accept the managing directorship of the Rivoli theater, being built at Toledo, O., by Charles M. Olson and Edward Sourbier of this city. He will leave July 18.

Following Mr. McCormick's resignation, the board of directors of the Circle Theater Company announced the appointment of Ralph Lieber, son of Richard Lieber, head of the state conservation commission, as business manager of the Circle.

Announcement also was made that the executive and technical staff organized by Mr. McCormick will remain intact and no change in policy or character of the theater's entertainment will be made.

The Circle ranks among the leading motion picture theaters of the country. Artistic presentation of feature pictures, especially in the matter of elaborate prologues, stage embellishments and music have reached a higher stage of development at the Circle than in any other theater in the middle west.

The motion picture trade press frequently has referred to the Circle as the pioneer in its style of motion picture presentation.

Mr. McCormick surrounded himself with an efficient staff of artists, including Frank Zimmerer, art director, and Ernest Schmidt, director of the Circle orchestra, both of whom have won much recognition in their respective lines.

The overtures and the musical settings for the spectacles and pictures have been arranged by Mr. Schmidt.

Prohibition Folk Like Neither Man

"Failure of the republican and democratic parties to declare for the enforcement of the Volstead act has given the prohibition party a new lease of life," declared J. Raymond Schmidt, acting Indiana prohibition chairman, today.

Commenting on the old party nominees, Mr. Schmidt called attention to the fact that Harding and Cox are generally considered weak, therefore very unsatisfactory to the prohibitionists, who had hoped one or both of the big parties would endorse the prohibition position now that the eighteenth amendment has been held valid.

"Prohibitionists are frankly admitting there is no choice between the old parties, for which reason they are generally more interested each day in the outcome of the prohibition national convention at Lincoln on July 21," said Mr. Schmidt.

The prohibition state executive committee held a recent meeting and placed Mr. Schmidt, formerly state chairman, in charge of the Hoosier delegation which is now being organized to attend the national convention.

Indiana is entitled to eighty-six delegates.

State headquarters have been opened at 119 West Maryland street, with Acting Chairman Schmidt and State Secretary Edward W. Clark in charge.

State Farm Sentence in Gambling Case

Declaring that the police should be backed up in their enforcement of the gambling laws, Special City Judge Charles J. Orblson sentenced James Ballinger, colored, proprietor of a soft drink saloon and poolroom, to thirty days on the state farm and $50 fine.

Ballinger was arrested July 3 by Sergt. Russell and Patrolmen Mangus, Rominger and Casey.

Eight colored men, arrested in the raid on Ballinger's place, were given a fine of $10 each and sentenced to ten days in jail.

Wall, Undermined by High Water, Topples

HARTFORD CITY, Ind., July 10.—Damage totaling several thousand dollars was done Friday when a retaining wall on one of the twin bridges on the Jay-Blackford county line road toppled over into the Salamonie river.

The wall was undermined by high water.

Three other bridges are out in the county.

Great damage also has been done Blackford county roads by washouts.
